Napoleon I

French emperor and general, 1769–1821

- 1 [Of the English Channel.] It is a mere ditch, and will be crossed as soon as someone has the courage to attempt it.
Letter to Consul Cambacérès, 16 Nov. 1803
- 2 I want the whole of Europe to have one currency; it will make trading much easier.
Letter to Louis Bonaparte, 6 May 1807
- 3 Ce n'est pas possible . . . cela n'est pas français.

It is not possible . . . that is not French.

Letter to Lemarois (commandant of Magdebourg), 9 July 1813. Usually quoted as "Impossible? The word is not French."

- 4 [Remark to the Polish ambassador, De Pradt, after the retreat from Moscow, 1812.] Du sublime au ridicule il n'y a qu'un pas.

There is only one step from the sublime to the ridiculous.

Quoted in D. G. De Pradt, Histoire de l'Ambassade dans le Grand-Duché de Varsovie en 1812 (1815)
See Thomas Paine 30

- 5 L'Angleterre est une nation de boutiquiers.
England is a nation of shopkeepers.

Quoted in Barry E. O'Meara, Napoleon in Exile (1822). The Pennsylvania Gazette, 20 Aug. 1794, prints "Barrere's Report of the Naval Action of the 1st of June" to the National Convention of France, 16 June. Included in this report is the sentence: "Let Pitt then boast of this victory of his nation of shop-keepers (national boutiquiere.)" The author was revolutionary and legislator Bertrand Barrère.

- 6 La carrière ouverte aux talents.

The career open to the talents.

Quoted in Barry E. O'Meara, Napoleon in Exile (1822)

- 7 I love a brave soldier who has undergone, le baptême du fer [baptism of fire], whatever nation he may belong to.

Quoted in Barry E. O'Meara, Napoleon in Exile (1822)

- 8 [Speech to army before Battle of the Pyramids, 21 July 1798:] Soldats, songez que, du haut de ces pyramides, quarante siècles vous contemplent. Soldiers, think of it, from the summit of these pyramids, forty centuries look down upon you.
Quoted in Gaspard Gourgaud, Mémoires (1823)
- 9 I have very rarely met with two o'clock in the morning courage: I mean instantaneous courage.
Quoted in E. A. de Las Cases, Mémorial de Ste-Hélène (1823) (entry for 4–5 Dec. 1815)
- 10 [Remark at Battle of Montereau, 18 Feb. 1814:] The bullet which is to kill me is not yet cast.
Quoted in J. T. Headley, The Imperial Guard of Napoleon (1851)
- 11 War is hell.
Quoted in John Livingston, Portraits of Eminent Americans Now Living (1854). Livingston cited an unspecified 1835 publication by Charles Brooks that stated, “Bonaparte said,—‘War is hell.’” This preceded by many years the use of the expression by William Tecumseh Sherman, who has long been accepted as the originator.
See William Tecumseh Sherman 1; William Tecumseh Sherman 4
- 12 Society cannot exist without inequality of fortunes, and inequality of fortunes cannot exist without religion. When a man is dying of hunger beside another who has engorged himself, it is impossible for him to accept that difference unless there is an authority that tells him to.
Quoted in Pierre Louis Roederer, Autour de Bonaparte (1909)
- 13 Politics is fate.
Quoted in J. Christopher Herold, The Mind of Napoleon (1955). Napoleon said this in conversation with Goethe in 1808; the latter wrote that Napoleon had said “Die Politik ist das Schicksal.” politician William Marcy “Boss” Tweed, and they are usually attributed to Tweed, but Nast almost certainly originated them.

I will make all hell howl!
Quoted in Carleton Beals, Cyclone Carry (1962)

Henri-Eugène Navarre

French general, 1898–1983

- 1 [On the French war in Indochina, which ended in defeat in 1954:] A year ago none of us could see victory. There wasn't a prayer. Now we can see it clearly—like light at the end of a tunnel.

Quoted in Time, 28 Sept. 1953. Although this quotation is associated with Navarre, the Time article attributes it to an unnamed acquaintance of Navarre's.

Quoted in Lee Green, Sportswit (1984)

Holly Near

U.S. singer and songwriter, 1949–

- 1 Why do we kill people who are killing people
To show that killing people is wrong.

“Foolish Notion” (song) (1981). Although this quotation is associated with Near, the Los Angeles Times, 10 Mar. 1969, quoted a junior high school student who wrote, “Why do we kill people to show people killing people is wrong?”

Jawaharlal Nehru

Indian statesman, 1889–1964

- 1 [On India's achieving independence from Great Britain:] Long years ago we made a tryst with destiny . . . At the stroke of the midnight hour, while the world sleeps, India will awake to life and freedom.

Speech to Indian Constituent Assembly, 14 Aug. 1947

- 2 The light has gone out of our lives and there is darkness everywhere.

Broadcast after the assassination of Gandhi, 30 Jan. 1948

- 3 I am the last Englishman to rule in India.

Quoted in John Kenneth Galbraith, A Life in Our Times (1981)

Gaylord Nelson

U.S. politician and environmentalist, 1916–2005

- 1 The economy is a wholly owned subsidiary of the environment. All economic activity is dependent upon that environment and its underlying resource base of forests, water, air, soil, and minerals. When the environment is finally forced to file for bankruptcy because its resource base has been polluted, degraded, dissipated, and irretrievably compromised, the economy goes into bankruptcy with it.

Horatio, Viscount Nelson

English admiral, 1758–1805

- 1 When I came to explain to them the “Nelson touch,” it was like an electric shock.

Letter to Emma Hamilton, 1 Oct. 1805

- 2 I leave Emma Lady Hamilton [Nelson's mistress], therefore, a Legacy to my King and Country, that they will give her an ample provision to maintain her rank in life.

Codicil to Nelson's will, 21 Oct. 1805. The British government did not comply with Nelson's request, made immediately before the Battle of Trafalgar.

- 3 [Remark before the Battle of the Nile, 1798:]
Before this time to-morrow I shall have gained a peerage, or Westminster Abbey.

Quoted in Robert Southey, Life of Nelson (1813). Nigel Rees, Cassell Companion to Quotations, notes: “Earlier, at the Battle of Cape St Vincent (1797), he is reported to have said: ‘Westminster Abbey or victory!’ Both of these echo Shakespeare, Henry VI, Part 3 (II.ii.174): ‘And either victory, or else a grave.’”

- 4 [Remark at the Battle of Copenhagen, 2 Apr. 1801:]
I have only one eye,—I have a right to be blind sometimes. . . . I really do not see the signal!

Quoted in Robert Southey, Life of Nelson (1813). These words, uttered while placing his long glass to his blind eye, were attributed to Nelson by then-Colonel William Stewart. They are often said to be the source of the expression “turn a blind eye,” but the Oxford English Dictionary documents that phrase as far back as 1698.

- 5 [Of his mistress Lady Emma Hamilton:] Brave Emma! Good Emma! If there were more Emmas there would be more Nelsons.

Quoted in Robert Southey, Life of Nelson (1813). According to Captain Henry Blackwood, Nelson uttered these words in Sept. 1805, when Nelson was on leave shortly before the Battle of Trafalgar.

6 [Memorandum to captains before Battle of Trafalgar, Oct. 1805]: In case signals cannot be seen or clearly understood, no captain can do wrong if he places his ship alongside that of an enemy.

Quoted in Robert Southey, Life of Nelson (1813)

7 [Signal to the fleet at the Battle of Trafalgar, 21 Oct. 1805]: England expects that every man will do his duty.

Quoted in Robert Southey, Life of Nelson (1813). Burton E. Stevenson, in Home Dictionary of Quotations, states: "In the London Times, 26 Dec., 1805, it was given: 'England expects every officer and man to do his duty this day.' . . . Captain Pasco, Nelson's flag-lieutenant, stated that Nelson's order was: 'Say to the fleet, England confides that every man will do his duty,' and that he suggested the substitution of 'expects' for 'confides.'"

8 [Dying remark at Battle of Trafalgar, 21 Oct. 1805]: Kiss me, Hardy.

Quoted in Robert Southey, Life of Nelson (1813)

9 [At the Battle of Trafalgar, 21 Oct. 1805]: Thank God, I have done my duty.

Quoted in Robert Southey, Life of Nelson (1813). These words, attributed by Dr. William Beatty, the surgeon aboard H.M.S. Victory, were Nelson's last.

10 To that quarter of an hour [of being habitually early to appointments] I owe every thing in life.

Quoted in Chester [England] Chronicle, 1 Jan. 1819

Gérard de Nerval (Gérard Labrunie)

French poet, 1808–1855

1 Je suis le ténébreux,—le veuf,—l'inconsolé, Le prince d'Aquitaine à la tour abolie.

I am the darkly shaded, the bereaved, the inconsolate, the prince of Aquitaine, with the blasted tower.

Les Chimères "El Desdichado" (1854)

- 2 Dieu est mort!
God is dead!

Les Chimères “Le Christ aux Oliviers” (1854). The Oxford Dictionary of Quotations notes that this epigraph is “summarizing a passage in Jean Paul’s Blumen-Frucht-und Dornstücke (1796–1797) in which God’s children are referred to as ‘orphans.’”
See Nietzsche 7; Nietzsche 12

- 3 [Explaining why he walked a lobster on a leash in the gardens of the Palais Royal:] I have a liking for lobsters. They are peaceful, serious creatures. They know the secrets of the sea, they don’t bark, and they don’t gnaw upon one’s monadic privacy like dogs do.

Quoted in Théophile Gautier, Portraits et Souvenirs Littéraires (1875) (translation by Richard Holmes)

Allan Nevins

U.S. historian, 1890–1971

- 1 The former allies have blundered in the past by offering Germany too little, and offering even that too late, until finally Nazi Germany had become a menace to all mankind.
Current History, May 1935

Simon Newcomb

Canadian-born U.S. astronomer, 1835–1909

- 1 May not our mechanicians . . . be ultimately forced to admit that aerial flight is one of that great class of problems with which man can never cope, and give up all attempts to grapple with it?
The Independent: A Weekly Magazine, Oct. 22, 1903

New England Primer

- 1 In Adam’s Fall
we sinned all.
The New-England Primer, Enlarged (1727)
- 2 Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray the Lord my Soul to keep.
If I should die before I ’wake,
I pray the Lord my Soul to take.
The New-England Primer (1735). The Oxford Dictionary of Nursery Rhymes states that the wording was “Now I lay me down to take my sleep” in the 1737 edition of the Primer. The Oxford Dictionary of Quotations says that this rhyme did not appear until the 1781 edition, and Bartlett’s Familiar Quotations has the wording above as first being printed in the 1784 edition. Inspection of the actual books, however, shows that the words above appeared in all early editions beginning in 1735, and there is no trace in the early editions of “lay me down to take my sleep.”

John Henry Newman

English religious leader, 1801–1890

- 1 Lead, kindly Light, amid the encircling gloom, Lead thou me on.
“Lead, Kindly Light” l. 1 (1834)
- 2 We can believe what we choose. We are answerable for what we choose to believe.
Letter to Mrs. William Froude, 27 June 1848

Paul Newman

U.S. actor, 1925–2008

- 1 [Of his marriage to Joanne Woodward:] I have steak at home. Why should I go out for hamburger?
Quoted in Good Housekeeping, Feb. 1971

Isaac Newton

English mathematician and physicist, 1642–1727

- 1 If I have seen further it is by standing on the shoulders of giants.
Letter to Robert Hooke, 5 Feb. 1676
See Bernard of Chartres 1; Robert Burton 1; Coleridge 30
- 2 I frame no hypotheses; for whatever is not deduced from the phenomena is to be called an hypothesis; and hypotheses, whether metaphysical or physical, whether of occult qualities or mechanical, have no place in experimental philosophy.
Letter to Robert Hooke, 5 Feb. 1676
- 3 Errors are not in the art but in the artificers.
Principia Mathematica preface (1687) (translation by Andrew Motte)
- 4 Every body continues in its state of rest, or of uniform motion in a right line, unless it is compelled to change that state by forces impressed upon it.
Principia Mathematica “Laws of Motion” 1 (1687) (translation by Andrew Motte)
- 5 The alteration of motion is ever proportional to the motive force impressed; and is made in the direction of the right line in which that force is impressed.
Principia Mathematica “Laws of Motion” 2 (1687) (translation by Andrew Motte)

6 To every action there is always opposed an equal reaction: or, the mutual actions of two bodies upon each other are always equal, and directed to contrary parts.

Principia Mathematica “Laws of Motion” 3 (1687)
(translation by Andrew Motte)

7 I do not know what I may appear to the world; but to myself I seem to have been only a boy playing on the shore, diverting myself in now and then finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary, whilst the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me.

Quoted in Christian Monitor, and Religious Intelligencer, 4 July 1812. An almost identical quotation by Newton, said to have been uttered “a little before he died,” appears in Joseph Spence, Anecdotes, Observations, and Characters of Books and Men, published in 1820 but extant in manuscript form from around 1730. A paraphrase of Newton’s words was printed in a note in a 1797 edition of The Works of Alexander Pope.

8 O Diamond! Diamond! thou little knowest the mischief done!

Attributed in Thomas Maude, Wensleydale: or Rural Contemplations (1771). This remark, allegedly said to a pet dog who knocked over a candle and set fire to papers representing several years of Newton’s work, is probably apocryphal.

John Newton

English clergyman, 1725–1807

1 Amazing grace! how sweet the sound
That saved a wretch like me!
I once was lost, but now am found,
Was blind, but now I see.
Olney Hymns “Amazing Grace” (1779)

St. Niceta

Serbian saint, fl. 400

1 Te Deum laudamus: Te Dominum confitemur.
We praise thee, God: we own thee Lord.
“Te Deum” (hymn) (ca. 390)

Nicholas I

Russian tsar, 1796–1855

1 [Referring to Turkey:] I am not so eager about what shall be done when the sick man dies, as I am to determine with England what shall not be done upon that event taking place.
Quoted in Annual Register (1853). Gave rise to the expression “sick man of Europe” in reference to

Turkey. The Oxford English Dictionary states that this is from “a conversation between the Tsar Nicholas I and Sir G. Seymour at St. Petersburg on the 21 Feb. 1853.”

2 Russia has two generals in whom she can confide—Generals Janvier [January] and Février [February].
Attributed in Punch, 10 Mar. 1855

Nicholas II

Russian tsar, 1868–1918

1 There are senseless dreams of the participation of local government representatives in the affairs of internal administration. I shall maintain the principle of autocracy just as firmly and unflinchingly as it was upheld by my own, ever to be remembered dead father.
Declaration, 17 Jan. 1896

Stevie Nicks (Stephanie Lynn Nicks)

U.S. singer and songwriter, 1948–

1 Well, I’ve been afraid of changing
’Cause I’ve built my life around you
But time makes you bolder
Even children get older
And I’m getting older too.
“Landslide” (song) (1975)

Harold Nicolson

English politician and writer, 1886–1968

1 We are too prone to judge ourselves by our ideals and other people by their acts.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 17 May 1930. Garson O’Toole has traced similar statements as far back as Edward Wigglesworth, Reflections (1885), said to be reprinting something first published in 1850 or 1851: “We judge others by their doings, but ourselves by our intentions.”

Reinhold Niebuhr

U.S. theologian, 1892–1971

1 Man’s capacity for justice makes democracy possible; but man’s inclination to injustice makes democracy necessary.
The Children of Light and the Children of Darkness foreword (1944)

Martin Niemöller

German theologian, 1892–1984

- 1 When Hitler attacked the Jews I was not a Jew, therefore, I was not concerned. And when Hitler attacked the Catholics, I was not a Catholic, and therefore, I was not concerned. And when Hitler attacked the unions and the industrialists, I was not a member of the unions and I was not concerned. Then, Hitler attacked me and the Protestant church—there was nobody left to be concerned.

Attributed in Congressional Record, 14 Oct. 1968. This is usually quoted in a form such as “In Germany, they came first for the Communists and I didn’t speak up because I was not a Communist,” etc. Different versions have different lists of groups who were attacked. The quotation has never actually been found in Niemöller’s speeches or sermons, although the general idea is found in remarks of his from 1946, in which he referred to Communists, disabled people, Jews, and Jehovah’s Witnesses; he does not appear to have mentioned Catholics. Harold Marcuse, who has studied the quotation intensively, concludes, “Yes, I think MN did say something to this effect, or he would certainly have denied it during his lifetime.”

Friedrich Nietzsche

German philosopher, 1844–1900

- 1 In dreams we all resemble this savage.
Human, All Too Human vol. 1, sec. 12 (1878)
(translation by R. J. Hollingdale)
- 2 Every tradition now continually grows more venerable the farther away its origin lies and the more this origin is forgotten; the respect paid to it increases from generation to generation, the tradition at last becomes holy and evokes awe and reverence; and thus the morality of piety is in any event a much older morality than that which demands unegoistic actions.
Human, All Too Human vol. 1, sec. 96 (1878)
(translation by R. J. Hollingdale)
- 3 Convictions are more dangerous enemies of truth than lies.
Human, All Too Human vol. 1, sec. 483 (1878)

- 5 A witticism is an epigram on the death of a feeling.
Human, All Too Human vol. 2, pt. 1, sec. 202 (1878)
(translation by R. J. Hollingdale)
- 6 An excellent quotation can annihilate entire pages, indeed an entire book, in that it warns the reader and seems to cry out to him:
“Beware, I am the jewel and around me there is lead, pallid, ignominious lead!”
Human, All Too Human vol. 2, sec. 111 (1878)
(translation by R. J. Hollingdale)
- 7 Gott ist tot: aber so wie die Art der Menschen ist, wird es vielleicht noch Jahrtausende lang Höhlen geben, in denen man seinen Schatten zeigt.—Und wir—wir müssen auch noch seinen Schatten besiegen!
God is dead, but given the way of men, there may still be caves for thousands of years in which his shadow will be shown.—And we—we still have to vanquish his shadow, too.

Beyond Good and Evil pt. 9, sec. 260 (1886) (translation by Judith Norman)
- 19 At the center of all these noble races we cannot fail to see the blond beast of prey, the magnificent blond beast avidly prowling round for spoil and victory.
Genealogy of Morals essay 1, aphorism 11 (1887) (translation by Carol Diethe)
- 20 What can largely be achieved by punishment, in man or beast, is the increase of fear, the intensification of intelligence, the mastering of desires: punishment tames man in this way but does not make him “better”—we would be more justified in asserting the opposite.
Genealogy of Morals essay 2, aphorism 15 (1887) (translation by Carol Diethe)
- 21 There was only one Christian, and he died on the cross.
The Antichrist aphorism 39 (1888) (translation by Walter Kaufmann)
- 22 God created woman. And indeed, that was the end of boredom—but of other things too! Woman was God’s second mistake.

See Hannah Cowley 1
- 23 As far as Germany extends, she corrupts culture.
Ecce Homo “Why I Am So Clever” (1888) (translation by Walter Kaufmann)
- 24 I believe only in French culture and consider everything else in Europe today that calls itself “culture” a misunderstanding—not to speak of German culture.
Ecce Homo “Why I Am So Clever” (1888) (translation by Walter Kaufmann)
- 25 What does not destroy me, makes me stronger.
The Twilight of the Idols “Maxims and Arrows” sec. 8 (1888) (translation by Walter Kaufmann). Popularly rendered as “Whatever does not kill me makes me stronger.”
- 26 I mistrust all systematizers and I avoid them. The will to a system is a lack of integrity.
The Twilight of the Idols “Maxims and Arrows” sec. 26 (1888) (translation by Walter Kaufmann)
- 27 Liberal institutions straightway cease to be liberal, as soon as they are attained: later on, there are no worse and no more thorough injurers of freedom than liberal institutions.

Florence Nightingale

English nurse, 1820–1910

- 1 No man, not even a doctor, ever gives any other definition of what a nurse should be than this—“devoted and obedient.” This definition would do just as well for a porter. It might even do for a horse. It would not do for a policeman.
Notes on Nursing (1860)

Chester W. Nimitz

U.S. admiral, 1885–1966

- 1 [Of the battle of Iwo Jima:] Uncommon valor was a common virtue.
CINCPAC Communiqué No. 300, 16 Mar. 1945

Anais Nin

French-born U.S. writer, 1903–1977

- 1 Woman does not forget she needs the fecundator, she does not forget that every thing that is born of her is planted in her.
Diary, Aug. 1937
- 2 Electric flesh-arrows . . . traversing the body. A rainbow of color strikes the eye-lids. A foam of music falls over the ears. It is the gong of the orgasm.
Diary, Oct. 1937
- 3 Anxiety is love's greatest killer. It creates the failures. It makes others feel as you might when a drowning man holds on to you. You want to save him, but you know he will strangle you with his panic.
Diary, Feb. 1947

David Niven

English actor, 1910–1983

- 1 [Remark, as host of the Academy Awards ceremony, 2 Apr. 1974, about a "streaker" who had run naked across the stage:] The only laugh that man will ever get in his life is by stripping off his clothes and showing his shortcomings.
Quoted in Philadelphia Inquirer, 3 Apr. 1974

Richard M. Nixon

U.S. president, 1913–1994

- 1 The kids, like all kids, loved the dog [Checkers], and I just want to say this, right now, that regardless of what they say about it, we are going to keep it.
Broadcast speech responding to allegations of a political "slush fund," 23 Sept. 1952
- 2 Pat [his wife] doesn't have a mink coat. But she does have a respectable Republican cloth coat.
Broadcast speech responding to allegations of a political "slush fund," 23 Sept. 1952

- 3 [After being defeated for governor of California:] You don't have Nixon to kick around anymore because, gentlemen, this is my last press conference.
Press conference, Los Angeles, Calif., 7 Nov. 1962
- 4 What America needs most today is what it once had, but has lost: the lift of a driving dream.
Campaign speech, Concord, N.H., 3 Feb. 1968
- 5 [Quoting a sign held up by a young girl on the campaign trail:] Bring us together again.
Speech, New York, N.Y., 31 Oct. 1968
- 6 The greatest honor history can bestow is the title of peacemaker.
First Inaugural Address, 20 Jan. 1969
- 7 [Welcoming back the crew of Apollo 11 from the first moon landing:] This is the greatest week in the history of the world since the Creation.
Remarks aboard U.S.S. Hornet, 24 July 1969
- 8 After a third of a century of power flowing from the people and the States to Washington it is time for a New Federalism in which power, funds, and responsibility will flow from Washington to the States and to the people.
Address to the Nation on Domestic Programs, 8 Aug. 1969
- 9 North Vietnam cannot defeat or humiliate the United States. Only Americans can do that.
Address to the Nation on the War in Vietnam, 3 Nov. 1969
- 10 Let historians not record that when America was the most powerful nation in the world we passed on the other side of the road and allowed the last hopes for peace and freedom of millions of people to be suffocated by the forces of totalitarianism. And so tonight—to you, the great silent majority of my fellow Americans—I ask for your support.

Address to the Nation on Vietnam War, 3 Nov. 1969. The term silent majority is found as early as 1870, when the Economist (19 Nov.) referred to “the silent majority which so seldom appears at the polls.” See Petronius 2; Edward Young 1

- 11 If when the chips are down, the world’s most powerful nation . . . acts like a pitiful, helpless giant, the forces of totalitarianism and anarchy will threaten free nations and free institutions throughout the world.
Televised speech announcing offensive into Cambodia, 30 Apr. 1970
- 12 [Requesting aides to resist exposure of Watergate scandal:] I want you all to stonewall it, let them plead the Fifth Amendment, cover-up or anything else, if it’ll save it—save the plan.
Presidential transcript, 22 Mar. 1973
- 13 [On the Watergate scandal:] There can be no whitewash at the White House.
Televised speech, 30 Apr. 1973
- 14 People have got to know whether or not their President is a crook. Well, I am not a crook.
Speech, Orlando, Fla., 17 Nov. 1973
- 15 In the past few days . . . it has become evident to me that I no longer have a strong enough political base in the Congress to justify continuing that effort [to remain in office as president despite the Watergate scandal]. . . . But with the disappearance of that base, I now believe that the constitutional purpose has been served, and there is no longer a need for the process to be prolonged.
Address to the Nation Announcing Decision to Resign the Office of President, 8 Aug. 1974
- 16 I have never been a quitter. To leave office before my term is completed is abhorrent to every instinct in my body. But as President I must put the interests of America first. . . . Therefore, I shall resign the presidency, effective at noon tomorrow.
Address to the Nation Announcing Decision to Resign the Office of President, 8 Aug. 1974
- 17 Always give your best, never get discouraged, never be petty; always remember, others may hate you. Those who hate you don’t win unless you hate them. And then you destroy yourself.
Address to members of administration on leaving office as president, 9 Aug. 1974
- 18 When the President does it, that means that it is not illegal.
Television interview by David Frost, 19 May 1977
- 19 I brought myself down. I gave them a sword. And they stuck it in and they twisted it with relish.
Television interview by David Frost, 19 May 1977
- 20 I hope that . . . television, radio, and the press first recognize the great responsibility they have to report all the news and, second, recognize that they have a right and a responsibility, if they are against a candidate—give him the shaft. But also recognize, if they give him the shaft—put one lonely reporter on the campaign who will report what the candidate says, now and then.
Quoted in L. A. Times, 8 Nov. 1962
- 21 [Of John Dean:] A loose cannon.
Quoted in Wash. Post, 3 May 1974
- 22 [Remark to General Alexander Haig, 7 Aug. 1974:] You fellows, in your business, have a way of handling problems like this. Somebody leaves a pistol in the drawer. I don’t have a pistol.
Quoted in Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein, The Final Days (1976)

Thelma Catherine “Pat” Nixon

U.S. First Lady, 1912–1993

- 1 [Remark, 1960:] I have sacrificed everything in my life that I consider precious in order to advance the political career of my husband.
Quoted in Betty Medsger, Women at Work (1975)

Louis Nizer

English-born U.S. lawyer, 1902–1994

- 1 When a man points a finger at someone else, he should remember that four of his fingers are pointing to himself.
My Life in Court ch. 1 (1961)

- 2 Yes, there's such a thing as luck in trial law but it only comes at 3 o'clock in the morning. . . . You'll still find me in the library looking for luck at 3 o'clock in the morning.
Quoted in Reader's Digest, Oct. 1984

Kwame Nkrumah

Ghanaian statesman, 1909–1972

- 1 We prefer self government with danger to servitude in tranquillity.
Motto of Accra Evening News (1948)
- 2 The best way of learning to be an independent sovereign state is to be an independent sovereign state.
Speech to legislative assembly, Accra, Ghana, 18 May 1956
- 3 Revolutions are brought about by men, by men who think as men of action and act as men of thought.
Consciencism ch. 2 (1964)

Alfred Bernhard Nobel

Swedish chemist and industrialist, 1833–1896

- 1 The whole of my remaining realizable estate shall be dealt with the following way: the capital, invested in safe securities by my executors, shall constitute a fund, the interest on which shall be annually distributed in the form of prizes to those who, during the preceding year, shall have conferred the greatest benefit on mankind.
Will (1895)
- 2 [The Nobel Peace Prize shall be awarded to] the person who shall have done the most or the best work for fraternity between nations, for the abolition or reduction of standing armies and for the holding and promotion of peace congresses.
Will (1895)

Albert Jay Nock

U.S. author and editor, 1870–1945

- 1 As sheer casual reading matter, I still find the English dictionary the most interesting book in our language.
Memoirs of a Superfluous Man ch. 1 (1943)

Peggy Noonan

U.S. speechwriter, 1950–

- 1 The battle for the mind of Ronald Reagan was like the trench warfare of World War I: never have so many fought so hard for such barren terrain.
What I Saw at the Revolution ch. 14 (1990)
- 2 Beware the politically obsessed. They are often bright and interesting, but they have something missing in their natures; there is a hole, an empty place, and they use politics to fill it up. It leaves them somehow misshapen.
What I Saw at the Revolution "Another Epilogue" (1990)

Grover Norquist

U.S. political activist, 1956–

- 1 I don't want to abolish government. I simply want to reduce it to the size where I can drag it into the bathroom and drown it in the bathtub.
Quoted in Indiana (Pa.) Gazette, 7 Oct. 1985
- 2 Bipartisanship is another name for date rape.
Quoted in Denver Post, 26 May 2003

Frank Norris (Benjamin Franklin

Norris, Jr.)

U.S. novelist and journalist, 1870–1902

- 1 [I] don't like to write, but like having written.
Quoted in The Bellman, 4 Dec. 1915

Christopher North (John Wilson)

Scottish literary critic, 1785–1854

- 1 His Majesty's dominions, on which the sun never sets.
Blackwood's Magazine, Apr. 1829. North was preceded by George Macartney, who wrote about "this vast [British] empire on which the sun never sets" (An Account of Ireland in 1773 by a Late Chief Secretary of that Kingdom [1773]). A similar older saying related to the Spanish empire, the earliest known example being, "as one saith in a brave kind of expression, the sun never sets in the Spanish dominions" (Francis Bacon, "An Advertisement Touching an Holy War" [1629]).
See Lincoln 68
- 2 Laws were made to be broken.
Blackwood's Magazine, May 1830

Caroline Sheridan Norton

English poet and songwriter, 1808–1877

- 1 A soldier of the Legion lay dying in Algiers,
There was a lack of woman's nursing, there was dearth of woman's tears;
But a comrade stood beside him, while his lifeblood ebbed away.
"Bingen on the Rhine" l. 1 (1850)
- 2 For death and life, in ceaseless strife,
Beat wild on this world's shore,
And all our calm is in that balm—
Not lost but gone before.
"Not Lost but Gone Before" (ca. 1850). Burton E. Stevenson, Home Book of Quotations, and the Oxford Dictionary of Quotations trace "Not lost, but gone before" and similar expressions to Seneca, St. Cyprian, and Matthew Henry.

Jack Norworth

U.S. songwriter, 1879–1959

- 1 Oh! shine on, shine on, harvest moon
Up in the sky.
"Shine On, Harvest Moon" (song) (1908)
- 2 Take me out to the ball game,
Take me out with the crowd.
Buy me some peanuts and cracker-jack—
I don't care if I never get back.
"Take Me Out to the Ball Game" (song) (1908)
- 3 Let me root, root, root for the home team,
If they don't win it's a shame.
For it's one, two, three strikes, "You're out!"
At the old ball game.
"Take Me Out to the Ball Game" (song) (1908)
See Modern Proverbs 88

Notorious B.I.G. (Christopher Wallace)

U.S. rap musician, 1972–1997

- 1 Birthdays was the worst days
Now we sip champagne when we thirsty.
"Juicy" (song) (1994)

Novalis (Friedrich von Hardenberg)

German poet and novelist, 1772–1801

- 1 Spinotza ist ein gotttrunkener Mensch.
Spinoza is a God-intoxicated man.
Fragment 562 (1800)

- 2 I often feel, and ever more deeply I realize, that Fate and character are the same conception.
Heinrich von Ofterdingen bk. 2 (1802). Often quoted as "character is destiny" or "character is fate."
See George Eliot 6; Heraclitus 2

Alfred Noyes

English poet, 1880–1958

- 1 The moon was a ghostly galleon tossed upon cloudy seas,
The road was a ribbon of moonlight over the purple moor,
And the highwayman came riding—
Riding—riding—
The highwayman came riding, up to the old inn-door.
"The Highwayman" l. 3 (1907)
- 2 Then look for me by moonlight,
Watch for me by moonlight,
I'll come to thee by moonlight, though hell should bar the way!
"The Highwayman" l. 29 (1907)

Robert Nozick

U.S. philosopher, 1938–2002

- 1 Individuals have rights, and there are things no person or group may do to them (without violating their rights).
Anarchy, State, and Utopia preface (1974)
- 2 A minimal state, limited to the narrow functions of protection against force, theft, fraud, enforcement of contracts, and so on,
is justified; that any more extensive state will violate persons' rights not to be forced to do certain things, and is unjustified; and that the minimal state is inspiring as well as right.
Anarchy, State, and Utopia preface (1974)
- 3 Is there really someone who, searching for a group of wise and sensitive persons to regulate him for his own good, would choose that group of people who constitute the membership of both houses of Congress?
Anarchy, State, and Utopia ch. 2 (1974)
- 4 The socialist society would have to forbid capitalist acts between consenting adults.
Anarchy, State, and Utopia ch. 7 (1974)

- 5 No state more extensive than the minimal state can be justified.

Nursery Rhymes

Arranged alphabetically on the basis of the most prominent word in the quotation. Wording and citation, the latter representing the earliest known documented usage, are taken in the great majority of instances from the Oxford Dictionary of Nursery Rhymes, 2nd ed., ed. Iona and Peter Opie.

- 1 Hush-a-bye, baby, on the tree top,
When the wind blows the cradle will rock;
When the bough breaks the cradle will fall,
Down will come baby, cradle, and all.
Mother Goose's Melody (ca. 1765)
- 2 Ride a cock-horse to Banbury Cross,
To see a fine lady upon a white horse;
Rings on her fingers and bells on her toes,
And she shall have music wherever she goes.
Gammer Gurton's Garland (1784)
- 3 Where have you been all the day,
My boy Billy?
I have been all the day
Courting of a lady gay;
Although she is a young thing,
And just come from her mammy.
David Herd, Scots Songs and Ballads (manuscript) (1776)
- 4 Once I saw a little bird
Come hop, hop, hop,
And I cried, Little bird,
Will you stop, stop, stop?
Little Rhymes for Little Folks (1823)
- 5 Baa, baa, black sheep,
Have you any wool?
Yes, sir, yes, sir,
Three bags full;
One for the master,
And one for the dame,
And one for the little boy
Who lives down the lane.
Tommy Thumb's Pretty Song Book (ca. 1744)
- 6 Little Bo-peep has lost her sheep,
And can't tell where to find them;
Leave them alone, and they'll come home,
And bring their tails behind them.
Francis Douce Manuscript (ca. 1805)
- 7 Little Boy Blue,
Come blow your horn,
The sheep's in the meadow,
The cow's in the corn;
But where is the boy
Who looks after the sheep?
He's under a haystack,
Fast asleep.
The Famous Tommy Thumb's Little Story Book (ca. 1760)
- 8 Hot cross buns!
Hot cross buns!
One a penny, two a penny,
Hot cross buns!
Christmas Box (1797)
- 9 Can you make me a cambric shirt,
Parsley, sage, rosemary, and thyme,
Without any seam or needlework?
And you shall be a true lover of mine.
Gammer Gurton's Garland (1784)
- 10 The first day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
A partridge in a pear tree.
Mirth Without Mischief (ca. 1780). Verses about subsequent days of Christmas include as gifts "two turtle doves," "three French hens," etc.
- 11 Here is the church, and here is the steeple;
Open the door and here are the people.
William Wells Newell, Games and Songs of American Children (1883)
- 12 Who killed Cock Robin?
I, said the Sparrow,
With my bow and arrow,
I killed Cock Robin.
Tommy Thumb's Pretty Song Book (ca. 1744)
- 13 Old King Cole
Was a merry old soul,
And a merry old soul was he;
He called for his bottle and he called for his pipe,
And he called for his music masters three.
Vocal Harmony (ca. 1806). The most common variant has "called for his fiddlers three."
- 14 Ding, dong, bell,
Pussy's in the well.
Mother Goose's Melody (ca. 1765)

- 15 Bow, wow, wow,
Whose dog art thou?
Little Tom Tinker's dog,
Bow, wow, wow.
Mother Goose's Melody (ca. 1765)
See Pope 36
- 16 Eena, meena, mina, mo,
Catch a nigger by his toe;
If he squeals, let him go,
Eena, meena, mina, mo.
William W. Newell, Games and Songs of American Children (1883). Henry C. Bolton, The Counting-Out Rhymes of Children (1888), has the following variant: "Eeny, meeny, miny, mo, / Catch a nigger by the toe! / If he hollers let him go! / Eeny, meeny, miny, mo."
- 17 The farmer in the dell,
The farmer in the dell,
Heigh ho! for Rowley O!
The farmer in the dell.
William W. Newell, Games and Songs of American Children (1883)
- 18 Georgie Porgie, pudding and pie,
Kissed the girls and made them cry;
When the boys came out to play,
Georgie Porgie ran away.
J. O. Halliwell, Nursery Rhymes (1844)
- 19 Goosey, goosey gander,
Whither shall I wander?
Upstairs and downstairs
And in my lady's chamber.
Gammer Gurton's Garland (1784)
- 20 Hark, hark,
The dogs do bark,
The beggars are coming to town;
Some in rags,
And some in jags,
And some in velvet gowns.
Gammer Gurton's Garland (1784)
- 21 Hickety, pickety, my black hen,
She lays eggs for gentlemen.
James O. Halliwell, The Nursery Rhymes of England (1853)
See Dorothy Parker 37
- 22 Hey diddle diddle,
The cat and the fiddle,
The cow jumped over the moon;
The little dog laughed
To see such sport,
And the dish ran away with the spoon.
Mother Goose's Melody (ca. 1765)
- 23 Hickory, dickory, dock,
The mouse ran up the clock.
The clock struck one,
The mouse ran down,
Hickory, dickory, dock.
Tommy Thumb's Pretty Song Book (ca. 1744)
- 24 Humpty Dumpty sat on a wall,
Humpty Dumpty had a great fall;
All the king's horses,
And all the king's men,
Couldn't put Humpty together again.
Mother Goose's Melody (manuscript addition to Bussell copy) (ca. 1803). The ca. 1803 manuscript has the last line as "Could not set Humpty Dumpty up again."
- 25 Is gote eate yvy.
Mare eate ootys.
William Wyrcestre, Medical manuscript (ca. 1450). According to the Oxford Dictionary of Nursery Rhymes, this was "a catch which, when said quickly, appears to be in Latin." In 1943 Milton Drake, Al Hoffman, and Jerry Livingston's song "Mairzy Doats" employed similar words.
- 26 Jack and Jill went up the hill
To fetch a pail of water;
Jack fell down and broke his crown,
And Jill came tumbling after.
Mother Goose's Melody (ca. 1765)
- 27 Jack be nimble,
Jack be quick,
Jack jump over
The candle stick.
Douce Manuscript (ca. 1815)
- 28 This is the house that Jack built.
Nurse Truelove's New-Year's-Gift (ca. 1750)
- 29 Little Jack Horner
Sat in the corner,
Eating a Christmas pie;
He put in his thumb,
And pulled out a plum,
And said, what a good boy am I!
Henry Carey, Namby Pamby (1725)
- 30 Jack Sprat could eat no fat,
His wife could eat no lean,
And so between them both, you see,
They licked the platter clean.
John Clarke, Paroemiologia Anglo-Latina (1639)

- 31 Diddle, diddle, dumpling, my son John,
Went to bed with his trousers on;
One shoe off, and one shoe on,
Diddle, diddle, dumpling, my son John.
Newest Christmas Box (ca. 1797)
- 32 Three little kittens they lost their mittens,
And they began to cry.
Eliza Follen, New Nursery Songs (1853)
- 33 Ladybird, ladybird,
Fly away home,
Your house is on fire
And your children are gone.
Nancy Cock's Pretty Song Book (ca. 1780)
- 34 London Bridge is broken down,
Broken down, broken down,
London Bridge is broken down,
My fair lady.
Henry Carey, Namby Pamby (1725). "London Bridge is falling down" is a popular variant.
- 35 See-saw, sacradown,
Which is the way to London town?
One foot up and the other foot down,
That is the way to London town.
Henry Carey, Namby Pamby (1725)
- 36 Where are you going,
My pretty maiden fair,
With your red rosy cheeks,
And your coal-black hair?
I'm going a-milking,
Kind sir, says she.
James Orchard Halliwell, The Nursery Rhymes of England (1846). Modern versions of this also include the well-known lines: "What is your fortune, my pretty maid? My face is my fortune, sir, she said."
- 37 There was a crooked man, and he walked a crooked mile,
He found a crooked sixpence against a crooked stile;
He bought a crooked cat, which caught a crooked mouse,
And they all lived together in a little crooked
house.
James O. Halliwell, The Nursery Rhymes of England
(1842)
- 38 This old man he played one,
He played nick nack on my drum,
Nick, nack, paddy whack, give a dog a bone,
This old man came rolling home.
Living Age, 23 Nov. 1918
- 39 See-saw, Margery Daw,
Jacky shall have a new master;
Jacky shall have but a penny a day,
Because he can't work any faster.
Mother Goose's Melody (ca. 1765)
- 40 To market, to market,
To buy a plum bun:
Home again, home again,
Market is done.
John Florio, World of Wordes (1611)
- 41 Mary, Mary, quite contrary,
How does your garden grow?
With silver bells and cockle shells,
And pretty maids all in a row.
Tommy Thumb's Pretty Song Book (ca. 1744). The exact wording in the ca. 1744 source is as follows: "Mistress Mary, Quite contrary, / How does your Garden grow? / With Silver Bells, And Cockle Shells, / And so my Garden grows."
- 42 Three blind mice, see how they run!
They all ran after the farmer's wife,
Who cut off their tails with a carving knife,
Did you ever see such a thing in your life,
As three blind mice?
Thomas Ravenscroft, Deuteromelia (1609). Ravenscroft's original wording was actually, "Three blinde Mice, three blinde Mice, Dame Iulian, Dame Iulian, the Miller and his merry olde Wife, shee scrapte her tripe licke thou the knife."
- 43 Monday's child is fair in face,
Tuesday's child is full of grace,
Wednesday's child is full of woe,
Thursday's child has far to go,
Friday's child is loving and giving,
Saturday's child works hard for its living;
And a child that's born on a Christmas day,
Is fair and wise, good and gay.
A. E. Bray, A Description of . . . Part of Devonshire (1836)
- 44 I see the moon,
And the moon sees me;
God bless the moon,
And God bless me.
Gammer Gurton's Garland (1784)
- 45 Old Mother Hubbard
Went to the cupboard,
To fetch her poor dog a bone;

- But when she came there
The cupboard was bare
And so the poor dog had none.
Sarah Catherine Martin, The Comic Adventures of Old Mother Hubbard and Her Dog (1805)
- 46 Mother may I go out to swim?
Yes, my darling daughter,
But hang your clothes on a hickory limb
And don't go near the water.
Ray Wood, The American Mother Goose (1940)
- 47 Little Miss Muffet
Sat on a tuffet,
Eating her curds and whey;
There came a big spider,
Who sat down beside her
And frightened Miss Muffet away.
Songs for the Nursery (1805)
- 48 One to make ready,
And two to prepare;
Good luck to the rider,
And away goes the mare.
James O. Halliwell, The Nursery Rhymes of England (1853)
- 49 One, two,
Buckle my shoe;
Three, four,
Knock at the door;
Five, six,
Pick up sticks;
Seven, eight,
Lay them straight;
Nine, ten,
A big, fat hen.
Songs for the Nursery (1805)
- 50 Oranges and lemons,
Say the bells of St. Clement's.
You owe me five farthings,
Say the bells of St. Martin's.
When will you pay me?
Say the bells of Old Bailey.
When I grow rich,
Say the bells of Shoreditch.
Tommy Thumb's Pretty Song Book (ca. 1744)
- 51 Here comes a candle to light you to bed,
Here comes a chopper to chop off your head.
James Orchard Halliwell, The Nursery Rhymes of England (1844)
- 52 Pat-a-cake, pat-a-cake, baker's man,
Bake me a cake as fast as you can;
Pat it and prick it, and mark it with B,
Put it in the oven for baby and me.
Tom D'Urfey, The Campaigners (1698)
- 53 Pease porridge hot,
Pease porridge cold,
Pease porridge in the pot
Nine days old.
Some like it hot,
Some like it cold,
Some like it in the pot
Nine days old.
Newest Christmas Box (ca. 1797)
- 54 Peter, Peter, pumpkin eater,
Had a wife and couldn't keep her;
He put her in a pumpkin shell
And there he kept her very well.

- 56 This little pig went to market,
This little pig stayed at home,
This little pig had roast beef,
This little pig had none,
And this little pig cried, Wee-wee-wee-wee-wee,
I can't find my way home.
The Famous Tommy Thumb's Little Story Book (ca. 1760)
- 57 Polly put the kettle on,
We'll all have tea.
Charles Dickens, Barnaby Rudge (1841)
- 58 I love little pussy,
Her coat is so warm,
And if I don't hurt her
She'll do me no harm.
So I'll not pull her tail,
Nor drive her away,
But pussy and I
Very gently will play.
Hints for the Formation of Infant Schools (1829)
- 59 Pussy cat, pussy cat, where have you been?
I've been to London to look at the queen.
Pussy cat, pussy cat, what did you there?
I frightened a little mouse under her chair.
Songs for the Nursery (1805)

- 60 The Queen of Hearts
 She made some tarts,
 All on a summer's day;
 The Knave of Hearts
 He stole the tarts,
 And took them clean away.
European Magazine, Apr. 1782
- 61 Rain, rain, go away,
 Come again another day.
 James Howell, Proverbs (1659)
- 62 Ring-a-ring o' roses,
 A pocket full of posies,
 A-tishoo! A-tishoo!
 We all fall down.
 Kate Greenaway, Mother Goose (1881)
- 63 The rose is red, the violet's blue,
 The honey's sweet, and so are you.
Gammer Gurton's Garland (1784)
- 64 Rub-a-dub-dub,
 Three men in a tub,
 And how do you think they got there?
 The butcher, the baker,
 The candlestick-maker.
Mother Goose's Quarto (ca. 1825)
- 65 As I was going to St. Ives,
 I met a man with seven wives,
 Each wife had seven sacks,
 Each sack had seven cats,
 Each cat had seven kits:
 Kits, cats, sacks, and wives,
 How many were there going to St. Ives?
Harley Manuscript (ca. 1730). The original wording in the manuscript begins "As I went to St. Ives / I met Nine Wives / And every Wife had nine Sacs / And every Sac had nine Cats / And every Cat had Nine Kittens."
- 66 A diller, a dollar,
 A ten o'clock scholar,
 What makes you come so soon?
 You used to come at ten o'clock,
 But now you come at noon.
Gammer Gurton's Garland (1784)
- 67 Thirty days hath September,
 April, June, and November;
 All the rest have thirty-one,
 Excepting February alone,
 And that has twenty-eight days clear
 And twenty-nine in each leap year.
Stevins Manuscript (ca. 1555)
- 68 Simple Simon met a pieman,
 Going to the fair;
 Says Simple Simon to the pieman,
 Let me taste your ware.
Simple Simon (chapbook advertisement) (1764)
- 69 Sing a song of sixpence,
 A pocket full of rye;
 Four and twenty blackbirds,
 Baked in a pie.
 When the pie was opened,
 The birds began to sing;
 Was not that a dainty dish,
 To set before the king?
Nancy Cock's Pretty Song Book (ca. 1780)
- 70 Star light, star bright,
 First star I've seen tonight,
 I wish you may, I wish you might,
 Give me the wish, I wish tonight.
Folk-Lore from Maryland, ed. Annie Weston Whitney and Caroline Canfield Bullock (1925)
- 71 Tinker,
 Tailor, Soldier, Sailor,
 Rich man,
 Poor man,
 Beggarman,
 Thief.
 Edward Moor, Suffolk Words (1823). In Suffolk Words, the exact sequence is "tinker, tailor, sowja, sailor, richman, poorman, plow-boy, poticarry, thief."
- 72 There was a sick man of Tobago
 Liv'd long on rice-gruel and sago;
 But at last, to his bliss,
 The physician said this—
 "To a roast leg of mutton you may go."
Anecdotes and Adventures of Fifteen Gentlemen (ca. 1822). This may be said to be the original limerick, in that it directly inspired Edward Lear to use this verse form in his Book of Nonsense.
- 73 Tom, Tom, the piper's son,
 Stole a pig and away he run;
 The pig was eat
 And Tom was beat,
 And Tom went howling down the street.

What shall we give him?
White bread and butter.
Tommy Thumb's Pretty Song Book (ca. 1744)
- 75 Wee Willie Winkie runs through the town,
Upstairs and downstairs in his night-gown,
Rapping at the window, crying through the lock,
Are the children all in bed, for now it's eight o'clock?
J. G. Rusher, Cries of Banbury and London (ca. 1840)
- 76 There was an old woman tossed up in a basket,
Seventeen times as high as the moon;
Where she was going I couldn't but ask it,
For in her hand she carried a broom.
Old woman, old woman, old woman, quoth I,
Where are you going to up so high?
To brush the cobwebs off the sky!
May I go with you?
Aye, by-and-by.
Mother Goose's Melody (ca. 1765)
- 77 There was an old woman who lived in a shoe,
She had so many children she didn't know
what to do;

She gave them some broth without any bread;
She whipped them all soundly and put them to bed.

Gammer Gurton's Garland (1784)

Bill Nye

U.S. humorist, 1850–1896

- I Wagner's music, I have been informed, is really much better than it sounds.

Quoted in Indianapolis News, 22 Nov. 1889. Nye was quoted saying virtually the same thing about "classical music" in the Wichita Daily Beacon, 4 Aug.
1887.

Laura Nyro

U.S. singer and songwriter, 1948–1997

- I And when I die, and when I'm gone, There'll be one child born in this world to carry on.

"And When I Die" (song) (1966). Cowritten with Jerry Sears.

Michael Oakeshott

English philosopher, 1901–1990

- 1 To be conservative, then, is to prefer the familiar to the unknown, to prefer the tried to the untried, fact to mystery, the actual to the possible, the limited to the unbounded, the near to the distant, the sufficient to the superabundant, the convenient to the perfect, present laughter to utopian bliss.
“On Being Conservative” (1956)

Joyce Carol Oates

U.S. writer, 1938–

- 1 The worst cynicism: a belief in luck.
Do with Me What You Will ch. 15 (1973)
- 2 For what links us are elemental experiences—emotions—forces that have no intrinsic language and must be imagined as art if they are to be contemplated at all.
Where Are You Going, Where Have You Been? afterword (1993)

Lawrence Oates

English explorer, 1880–1912

- 1 [Last words, before walking to his death in extreme weather conditions during the ill-fated 1912 Scott Antarctic expedition.] I am just going outside and may be some time.
Quoted in Robert Falcon Scott, Diary, 16–17 Mar. 1912

Johnson Oatman, Jr.

U.S. songwriter, 1856–1922

- 1 Count your blessings.
“When upon Life’s Billows” (hymn) (1897)

Barack Obama

U.S. president, 1961–

- 1 The pundits like to slice and dice our country into red states and blue states. Red states for Republicans, blue states for Democrats. But I’ve got news for them, too. We worship an awesome God in the blue states, and we don’t like federal agents poking around in our libraries in the red states. We coach Little League in the blue states and, yes, we’ve got some gay friends in the red states.
Keynote address at Democratic National Convention, Boston, Mass., 27 July 2004
- 2 The hope of a skinny kid with a funny name who believes that America has a place for him, too. Hope in the face of difficulty, hope in the face of uncertainty, the audacity of hope.
Keynote address at Democratic National Convention, Boston, Mass., 27 July 2004. “The Audacity to Hope” was the title of a sermon by Jeremiah Wright, Jr., in 1990.
- 3 You go into some of these small towns in Pennsylvania, a lot like a lot of small towns in the Midwest, the jobs have been gone now for 25 years and nothing’s replaced them. And they fell through the Clinton administration, and the Bush administration, and each successive administration has said that somehow these communities are gonna regenerate and they have not. So it’s not surprising then that they get bitter, they cling to guns or religion or antipathy towards people who aren't like them or anti-immigrant sentiment or anti-trade sentiment as a way to explain their frustrations.

Speech at fundraiser, San Francisco, Calif., 6 Apr. 2008

- 4 If there is anyone out there who still doubts that America is a place where all things are possible, who still wonders if the dream of our founders is alive in our time, who still questions the power of our democracy, tonight is your answer.

Victory speech in presidential election, Chicago, Ill., 4 Nov. 2008

- 5 As for our common defense, we reject as false the choice between our safety and our ideals.

First Inaugural Address, 20 Jan. 2009

- 6 We are a nation of Christians and Muslims, Jews and Hindus, and non-believers.

First Inaugural Address, 20 Jan. 2009

- 7 To those who cling to power through corruption and deceit and the silencing of dissent, know that you are on the wrong side of history, but that we will extend a hand if you are willing to unclench your fist.

First Inaugural Address, 20 Jan. 2009

- 8 A man whose father less than sixty years ago might not have been served at a local restaurant can now stand before you to take a most sacred oath.

First Inaugural Address, 20 Jan. 2009

- 9 If you were successful, somebody along the line gave you some help. There was a great teacher somewhere in your life. Somebody helped to create this unbelievable American system that we have that allowed you to thrive. Somebody invested in roads and bridges. If you've got a business—you didn't build that.

Remarks at campaign appearance, Roanoke, Va., 13 July 2012

- 10 You mentioned the Navy, for example, and that we have fewer ships than we did in 1916. Well, Governor, we also have fewer horses and bayonets because the nature of our military has changed. We have these things called aircraft carriers where planes land on them. We have these ships that go underwater, nuclear submarines.

Remarks at presidential debate, Boca Raton, Fla., 22 Oct. 2012

- 11 When they go low we go high.

Quoted in Michelle Obama, Commencement speech at Jackson State University, Jackson, Miss., 23 Apr. 2016. A tweet from the Steve Harvey Show after an interview with Michelle Obama, 11 Dec. 2012, quoted Barack Obama: "When someone hits low . . . You Go high" (ellipsis in original).

Michelle Obama

U.S. First Lady and lawyer, 1964–

- 1 For the first time in my adult lifetime, I'm really proud of my country, and not just because Barack has done well but because I think people are hungry for change.

Remarks at campaign rally, Madison, Wis., 18 Feb. 2008

Edna O'Brien

Irish writer, 1930–

- 1 The vote, I thought, means nothing to women, we should be armed.

Girls in Their Married Bliss ch. 7 (1964)

Tim O'Brien

U.S. novelist, 1946–

- 1 They carried the soldier's greatest fear, which was the fear of blushing. Men killed, and died, because they were embarrassed not to.

The Things They Carried (1990)

- 2 A true war story is never moral. It does not instruct, nor encourage virtue, nor suggest models of proper human behavior, nor restrain men from doing the things men have always done. If a story seems moral, do not believe it. If at the end of a war story you feel uplifted, or if you feel that some small bit of rectitude has been salvaged from the larger waste, then you have been made the victim of a very old and terrible lie.

The Things They Carried (1990)

- 3 In many ways he was like America itself, big and strong, full of good intentions, a roll of fat jiggling at his belly, slow of foot but always plodding along, always there when you needed him, a believer in the virtues of simplicity and directness and hard labor.

The Things They Carried (1990)

Sean O'Casey

Irish playwright, 1884–1964

- 1 The whole worl's in a state o' chassis!
Juno and the Paycock act 1 (1925)
- 2 [Of P. G. Wodehouse:] English literature's performing flea.
Quoted in P. G. Wodehouse, Performing Flea (1953)

William of Occam

English philosopher, ca. 1285–1349

- 1 Plurality should not be assumed unnecessarily.
Quodlibeta no. 5, question 1, art. 2 (ca. 1324). This is the closest Occam came to the paraphrase now known as “Occam’s Razor”: “No more things should be presumed to exist than are absolutely necessary.” The Oxford Dictionary of Quotations describes “Occam’s Razor” as “an ancient philosophical principle often attributed to Occam but earlier in origin” and states that it is “not found in this form in his writings, although he frequently used similar expressions” such as the one set forth above. The Oxford Dictionary of Scientific Quotations cites “It is vain to do with more what can be done with less” from “Summa logicae (The Sum of All Logic) [before 1324], Part I, chapter 12. William of Ockham borrowing from Petrus Aureolus, The Eloquent Doctor, 2 Sent. distinction 12, question 1.”

Adolph Ochs

U.S. newspaper owner, 1858–1935

- 1 All the news that's fit to print.
N.Y. Times, 25 Oct. 1896. Nigel Rees notes in Brewer's Quotations: “This slogan was devised by Ochs when he bought the New York Times, it has been used in every edition since—at first on the editorial page, on 25 October 1896, and from the following February on the front page near the masthead.” Actually, the motto appeared on the masthead directly below the title on 25 Oct. The words had appeared slightly earlier in the newspaper: “The New-York Times has obtained possession of the wall for this season and has displayed in colored lights the following announcement: NEW-YORK TIMES. ALL THE NEWS THAT'S FIT TO PRINT.” (4 Oct. 1896).

Phil Ochs

U.S. folksinger, 1940–1976

- 1 Oh I marched to the battle of New Orleans
At the end of the early British war
The young land started growing

The young blood started flowing
But I ain't marchin' anymore.

“I Ain't Marchin' Anymore” (song) (1965)

- 2 It's always the old to lead us to the war
It's always the young to fall
Now look at all we've won with the sabre and the gun
Tell me is it worth it all.
“I Ain't Marchin' Anymore” (song) (1965)

Daniel O'Connell

Irish politician, 1775–1847

- 1 England's difficulty is Ireland's opportunity.
Quoted in Tribune, 19 Jan. 1856

Edwin O'Connor

U.S. novelist, 1918–1968

- 1 The Last Hurrah.
Title of book (1956)

Flannery O'Connor

U.S. writer, 1925–1964

- 1 In case of an accident, anyone seeing her dead on the highway would know at once she was a lady.
“A Good Man Is Hard to Find” (1955)
- 2 I have found that anything that comes out of the South is going to be called grotesque by the Northern reader, unless it is grotesque, in which case it is going to be called realistic.
“Some Aspects of the Grotesque in Southern Fiction” (1960)
- 3 While the South is hardly Christ-centered, it is most certainly Christ-haunted.
“Some Aspects of the Grotesque in Southern Fiction” (1960)
- 4 Everywhere I go I'm asked if I think the universities stifle writers. My opinion is that they don't stifle enough of them. There's many a best-seller that could have been prevented by a good teacher. The idea of being a writer attracts a good many shiftless people, those who are merely burdened with poetic feelings or afflicted with sensibility.
Mystery and Manners: Occasional Prose “The Nature and Aims of Fiction” (1969). The first two sentences appeared, with slightly different wording, in an interview with O'Connor in the Atlanta Constitution, 20 May 1960.

Sandra Day O'Connor

U.S. judge, 1930–

- 1 Liberty finds no refuge in a jurisprudence of doubt.
Planned Parenthood v. Casey (joint opinion) (1992).
Coauthored with Anthony M. Kennedy and David H. Souter.
- 2 We expect that 25 years from now, the use of racial preferences will no longer be necessary to further the interest approved today.
Grutter v. Bollinger (2003)
- 3 A state of war is not a blank check for the President when it comes to the rights of the Nation's citizens.
Hamdi v. Rumsfeld (2004)

William D. O'Connor

U.S. author, 1832–1889

- 1 [Referring to Walt Whitman:] The Good Gray Poet.
Title of pamphlet (1866)

Clifford Odets

U.S. playwright, 1906–1963

- 1 He walks down the street respected—the golden boy!
The Golden Boy act 1, sc. 3 (1937)

Christine O'Donnell

U.S. politician, 1969–

- 1 I'm not a witch.
Television advertisement as Republican candidate for senator from Delaware, Oct. 2010

Kirk O'Donnell

U.S. lawyer and political adviser, 1946–1998

- 1 [Social security is the] third rail of American politics.
Quoted in Newsweek, 24 May 1982. The Newsweek article credits this line “in the words of one Democrat,” but it is generally agreed that O'Donnell was the originator, in 1981.

Charlton Ogburn, Jr.

U.S. author, 1911–1998

- 1 We trained hard, but it seemed that every time we were beginning to form up into teams we would be reorganized. Presumably the plans for our employment were being changed. I was to learn later in life that, perhaps because we are so good at organizing, we tend as a nation to meet any new situation by reorganizing; and a wonderful method it can be for creating the illusion of progress while producing confusion, inefficiency and demoralization.

Harper's Magazine, Jan. 1957. This is often misattributed to the ancient Roman writer Petronius.

David Ogilvy

English-born U.S. advertising executive, 1911–1999

- 1 It is the professional duty of the advertising agent to conceal his artifice. When Aeschines spoke, they said, “How well he speaks.” But when Demosthenes spoke, they said, “Let us march against Philip.”
Confessions of an Advertising Man ch. 5 (1963)
- 2 The consumer isn't a moron; she is your wife. You insult her intelligence if you assume that a mere slogan and a few vapid adjectives will persuade her to buy anything.

U.S. writer, 1905–1970

- 1 George [Gershwin] died on July 11, 1937, but I don't have to believe that if I don't want to.
Quoted in Newsweek, 15 July 1940

Georgia O'Keeffe

U.S. artist, 1887–1986

- 1 When you take a flower in your hand and really look at it, it's your world for the moment. I want to give that world to someone else. Most people in the city rush around so, they have no time to look at a flower. I want them to see it whether they want to or not.

Quoted in N.Y. Post, 16 May 1946

- 2 I hate flowers—I paint them because they're cheaper than models and they don't move.

Quoted in N.Y. Herald Tribune, 18 Apr. 1954Daniel Okrent

U.S. writer and editor, 1948–

3 Gimme a whiskey—ginger ale on the side. And don't be stingy, baby.
Anna Christie act 1 (1922). In the motion picture version of the play, these were Greta Garbo's first spoken words on screen.

4 Strange interlude! Yes, our lives are merely strange dark interludes in the electrical display of God the Father!
Strange Interlude pt. 2, act 9 (1928)

5 ["Last words," Nov. 1953:] Born in a hotel room—and God damn it—died in a hotel room!
Quoted in Arthur and Barbara Gelb, O'Neill (1962)

James H. O'Neill

U.S. military chaplain, 1892–1972

- 1 Almighty and most merciful Father, we humbly beseech Thee, of Thy great goodness, to restrain these immoderate rains with which we have had to contend. Grant us fair weather for the battle. Graciously hearken to us as soldiers who call upon Thee that, armed with Thy power, we may advance from victory to victory, and crush the oppression and wickedness of our enemies, and establish Thy justice among men and nations.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 18 Jan. 1945. This "Weather Prayer" was composed by O'Neill for the use of General George S. Patton.

Paul H. O'Neill

U.S. government official and businessman, 1935–2020

- 1 [Of George W. Bush leading Cabinet meetings:] Like a blind man in a roomful of deaf people.

Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, Jr.

U.S. politician, 1912–1994

- 1 All politics is local.
Quoted in Wall Street Journal, 6 Dec. 1976. Although this line is associated with O'Neill, it appeared much earlier, such as in the Frederick (Md.) News, 1 July 1932.

Yoko Ono

Japanese-born U.S. artist and writer, 1933–

- 1 Woman is the nigger of the world.

Quoted in Nova (London), Mar. 1969

J. Robert Oppenheimer

U.S. physicist, 1904–1967

- 1 In some sort of crude sense which no vulgarity, no humor, no over-statement can quite extinguish, the physicists have known sin, and this is a knowledge which they cannot lose.

Physics in the Contemporary World (1947)

- 2 When you see something that is technically sweet, you go ahead and do it and you argue about what to do about it only after you have had your technical success. That is the way it was with the atomic bomb.

Quoted in In the Matter of J. Robert Oppenheimer: USAEC Transcript of Hearing Before Personnel Security Board (1954)

- 3 [On the first atomic bomb explosion, Alamogordo, N.M., 16 July 1945:] I remembered the line from the Hindu scripture, the Bhagavad Gita. . . . “I am become death, the destroyer of worlds.”

Quoted in Len Giovannitti and Fred Freed, The Decision to Drop the Bomb (1965). An article in Time, 8 Nov. 1948, referred to Oppenheimer as recalling “I am become death, the shatterer of worlds.” According to Robert Jungk, Brighter Than a Thousand Suns: A Personal History of the Atomic Scientists (1958), Oppenheimer also remembered another line from the same scripture: “If the radiance of a thousand suns . . .”

Hungarian-born English playwright and novelist, 1865–1947

- 1 We seek him here, we seek him there,
Those Frenchies seek him everywhere.
Is he in heaven?—Is he in hell?
That demmed, elusive Pimpernel?

The Scarlet Pimpernel ch. 12 (1905)

Dolores Mary O’Riordan

Irish singer and songwriter, 1971–2018

- 1 It’s the same old theme since 1916
In your head, in your head they’re still fightin’
With their tanks and their bombs
And their bombs, and their guns
In your head, in your head they are dyin’
In your head, in your head, Zombie, Zombie
In your head, what’s in your head Zombie.
“Zombie” (song) (1994)

P. J. O’Rourke

U.S. humorist, 1947–

- 1 Marijuana is . . . self-punishing. It makes you acutely sensitive and in this world, what worse punishment could there be?

Rolling Stone, Nov. 1989

- 2 Every government is a parliament of whores.
The trouble is, in a democracy the whores are us.

Parliament of Whores (1991)

Spanish writer and philosopher, 1883–1955

- 1 I am I plus my surroundings, and if I do not preserve the latter I do not preserve myself.

Meditaciones del Quijote “Lector” (1914)

- 2 The characteristic of the hour is that the commonplace mind, knowing itself to be commonplace, has the assurance to proclaim the rights of the commonplace and to impose them wherever it will.

La Rebelión de las Masas ch. 1 (1930)

- 3 Civilization is nothing else than the attempt to reduce force to being the last resort.
La Rebelión de las Masas ch. 8 (1930)

Joe Orton

English playwright, 1933–1967

- 1 I'd the upbringing a nun would envy and that's the truth. Until I was fifteen I was more familiar with Africa than my own body.
Entertaining Mr. Sloane act 1 (1964)

George Orwell (Eric Blair)

English novelist and journalist, 1903–1950

- 1 He was an embittered atheist (the sort of atheist who does not so much disbelieve in God as personally dislike Him).
Down and Out in Paris and London ch. 30 (1933)
- 2 I shall never again think that all tramps are drunken scoundrels, nor expect a beggar to be grateful when I give him a penny, nor be surprised if men out of work lack energy, nor subscribe to the Salvation Army, nor pawn my clothes, nor refuse a handbill, nor enjoy a meal at a smart restaurant.
Down and Out in Paris and London ch. 37 (1933)
- 3 However delicately it is disguised, charity is still horrible; there is a malaise, almost a secret hatred, between the giver and the receiver.
Keep the Aspidistra Flying ch. 9 (1936)
- 4 For my own part I don't object to old jokes—indeed, I reverence them. When sea-sickness and adultery have ceased to be funny, western civilization will have ceased to exist.
New English Weekly, 23 Jan. 1936

- 5 In Moulmein, in Lower Burma, I was hated by large numbers of people—the only time in my life that I have been important enough for this to happen to me.
“Shooting an Elephant” (1936)
- 6 Afterwards I was very glad that the coolie had been killed; it put me legally in the right and it gave me a sufficient pretext for shooting the elephant. I often wondered whether any of the others grasped that I had done it solely to avoid looking a fool.
“Shooting an Elephant” (1936)
- 7 As with the Christian religion, the worst advertisement for Socialism is its adherents.
The Road to Wigan Pier ch. 11 (1937)
- 8 The Communist and the Catholic are not saying the same thing, in a sense they are even saying opposite things, and each would gladly boil the other in oil if circumstances permitted; but from the point of view of an outsider they are very much alike.
The Road to Wigan Pier ch. 11 (1937)
- 9 The high-water mark, so to speak, of Socialist literature is W. H. Auden, a sort of gutless Kipling.
The Road to Wigan Pier ch. 11 (1937)
- 10 Has it ever struck you that there's a thin man inside every fat man, just as they say there's a statue inside every block of stone?

- 12 The only “ism” that has justified itself is pessimism.
“The Limit to Pessimism” (1940)
- 13 Whatever is funny is subversive, every joke is ultimately a custard pie. . . . A dirty joke is not, of course, a serious attack upon morality, but it is a sort of mental rebellion, a momentary wish that things were otherwise.
“The Art of Donald McGill” (1941)
- 14 The clatter of clogs in the Lancashire mill towns, the to-and-fro of the lorries on the Great North Road, the queues outside the Labour Exchanges, the rattle of pin-tables in the Soho pubs, the old maids biking to Holy Communion through the mists of the autumn mornings—all these are not only fragments, but characteristic fragments, of the English scene.

The Lion and the Unicorn pt. 1, sec. 1 (1941)

- 15 Probably the battle of Waterloo was won on the playing-fields of Eton, but the opening battles of all subsequent wars have been lost there.

- 16 War is the greatest of all agents of change. It speeds up all processes, wipes out minor distinctions, brings realities to the surface. Above all, war brings it home to the individual that he is not altogether an individual. It is only because they are aware of this that men will die on the field of battle.

The Lion and the Unicorn pt. 3, sec. 2 (1941)

- 17 If there is a wrong thing to do, it will be done, infallibly. One has come to believe in that as if it were a law of nature.

War-time Diary, 18 May 1941. Essentially states what would later be called “Murphy’s Law.”

- 18 I know it is the fashion to say that most of recorded history is lies anyway. I am willing to believe that history is for the most part inaccurate and biased, but what is peculiar to our own age is the abandonment of the idea that history could be truthfully written.

“Looking Back on the Spanish War” sec. 4 (1942)

- 19 Nazi theory indeed specifically denies that such a thing as “the truth” exists. . . . The implied objective of this line of thought is a nightmare world in which the Leader, or some ruling clique, controls not only the future but the past. If the Leader says of such and such an event, “It never happened”—well, it never happened. If he says that two and two are five—well, two and two are five. This prospect frightens me much more than bombs.

“Looking Back on the Spanish War” sec. 4 (1942)
See Orwell 37; Orwell 41

- 20 He [Kipling] sees clearly that men can only be highly civilized while other men, inevitably less civilized, are there to guard and feed them.

“Rudyard Kipling” (1942). This is the closest passage in Orwell’s writings that has been found to the following quotation popularly attributed to him:

“People sleep peaceably in their beds at night only because rough men stand ready to do violence on their behalf” (or sometimes, “We sleep safely at night because rough men stand ready to visit violence on those who would harm us”).

- 27 A State which was . . . in a permanent state of “cold war” with its neighbors.

Tribune (London), 19 Oct. 1945. Orwell’s usage of cold war here is the first known that refers to tension between a state like the Soviet Union and other nations. In 1938 the Nation had a headline, “Hitler’s Cold War” (26 Mar.). According to Luis García Arias, El Concepto de Guerra y la Denominada “Guerra Fria” (1956), a thirteenth-century Spanish writer, Don Juan Manuel, used “guerra fria” to refer to the coexistence of Islam and Christendom in medieval Spain.

See Baruch 2

- 28 In our time, political speech and writing are largely the defence of the indefensible.
“Politics and the English Language” (1946)
- 29 The great enemy of clear language is insincerity. When there is a gap between one’s real and one’s declared aims, one turns as it were instinctively to long words and exhausted idioms, like a cuttlefish squirting out ink. . . . But if thought corrupts language, language can also corrupt thought.
“Politics and the English Language” (1946)
- 30 One can cure oneself of the not un- formation by memorizing this sentence: A not unblack dog was chasing a not unsmall rabbit across a not ungreen field.
“Politics and the English Language” (1946)
- 31 Political language . . . is designed to make lies sound truthful and murder respectable, and to give an appearance of solidity to pure wind.
“Politics and the English Language” (1946)
- 32 The Catholic and the Communist are alike in assuming that an opponent cannot be both honest and intelligent.

51 At 50, everyone has the face he deserves.

Notebook, 17 Apr. 1949. These were Orwell's last words in his notebook. He died on 21 Jan. 1950, at the age of forty-six.

52 In a time of deceit, telling the truth is a revolutionary act.

Attributed in Venturino Venturini, Partners in Ecocide (1982). The attribution to Orwell is undoubtedly apocryphal. Usually quoted as "In a time of universal deceit . . ."

2 Take the sum of human achievement in action, in science, in art, in literature—subtract the work of the men above forty, and while we should miss great treasures, even priceless treasures, we would practically be where we are today. . . . The effective, moving, vitalizing work of the world is done between the ages of twenty-five and forty.

- 1 Your Honors will find in the old book, concerning the office of a justice of peace, precedents of general warrants to search suspected houses. But in more modern books you will find only special warrants to search such and such houses specially named, in which the complainant has before sworn he suspects his goods are concealed; and you will find it adjudged that special warrants only are legal. In the same manner I rely on it, that the writ prayed for in this petition being general is illegal. It is a power that places the liberty of every man in the hands of every petty officer.
Argument against the writs of assistance, Boston, Mass., Feb. 1761
- 2 Now one of the most essential branches of English liberty, is the freedom of one's house. A man's house is his castle; and while he is quiet, he is as well guarded as a prince in his castle. This writ [of assistance], if it should be declared legal, would totally annihilate this privilege.
Argument against the writs of assistance, Boston, Mass., Feb. 1761. Burton Stevenson, Home Book of Proverbs, Maxims and Familiar Phrases (1948), traces the proverb "A man's house is his castle" back to 1567 and notes legal usages of it by Sir Edward Coke in the seventeenth century.
See Coke 1; Coke 8; William Pitt, Earl of Chatham 2
- 3 An act against the Constitution is void.

- 4 [Motto:] Ubi libertas, ibi patria.
Where liberty is, there is my country.
Quoted in Mercy Otis Warren, The Rise, Progress and Termination of the American Revolution (1805). Although this motto is often associated with Otis, the earliest evidence for it found in research for this book is in Charles Jones, Great Britain's Nosegay (1768), where it is attributed to the Earl of Essex.
- 5 [Of Faneuil Hall in Boston, Mass.]: Cradle of American liberty.
Quoted in Justin Winsor, Memorial History of Boston (1880–1881)
- 6 Taxation without representation is tyranny.
Attributed in John Adams, Letter to William Tudor, 29 Mar. 1818. This maxim, which is often quoted as the rallying cry for the American Revolution, has been attributed to Otis's argument against the writs of assistance before the Superior Court of Massachusetts in February 1761. However, there is no contemporary record of Otis using these words. John Adams, in describing the event fifty-seven years later, referred in his letter to Tudor to "Mr Otis's maxim, that 'taxation without representation was tyranny.'"

Ouida (Maria Louise Ramé)

English novelist, 1839–1908

- 1 In a few generations more, there will probably be no room at all allowed for animals on the earth: no need of them, no toleration of them. An immense agony will have then ceased, but with it there will also have passed away the last smile of the world's youth.

English anatomist and paleontologist, 1804–1892

- 1 The combination of such characters, some, as the sacral ones, altogether peculiar among Reptiles, others borrowed, as it were, from groups now distinct from each other, and all manifested by creatures far surpassing in size the largest of existing reptiles, will, it is presumed, be deemed sufficient ground for establishing a distinct tribe or sub-order of Saurian Reptiles, for which I would propose the name of Dinosauria.

Polish pianist, composer, and statesman, 1860–1941

- 1 If I don't practice for one day, I know it; if I don't practice for two days, the critics know it; if I don't practice for three days, the audience knows it.
Quoted in Nat Shapiro, An Encyclopedia of Quotations About Music (1978)

U.S. congressional clerk, 1868–1942

- 1 I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people, whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect Union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its Constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies.
“American's Creed” (1918)

Camille Paglia

U.S. author and critic, 1947–

- 5 Avoid running at all times.
"How to Keep Young," Collier's, 13 June 1953
- 6 Don't look back. Something might be gaining on you.
"How to Keep Young," Collier's, 13 June 1953
- 7 There ain't no man can avoid being born average. But there ain't no man got to be common.
Quoted in Reader's Digest, Oct. 1958
- 8 [Response when asked his age:] How old would you be if you didn't know how old you are?
Quoted in Garson Kanin, It Takes a Long Time to Become Young (1978)
- 9 Age is a question of mind over matter. If you don't mind, it doesn't matter.
Quoted in Bert Sugar, Book of Sports Quotes (1979)
- 10 I never threw an illegal pitch. The trouble is, once in a while I toss one that ain't never been seen by this generation.
Quoted in Wash. Post, 10 June 1982
- 11 [On his induction into the Hall of Fame, 9 Aug. 1971:] The one change is that baseball has turned Paige from a second-class citizen into a second-class immortal.

Robert Treat Paine

U.S. politician, 1731–1814

- I If therefore in the examination of this Cause the Evidence is not sufficient to Convince you beyond reasonable doubt of the Guilt of all or of any of the Prisoners by the Benignity and Reason of the Law you will acquit them.
Closing argument in Boston Massacre Trial, Boston, Mass. (1770). Paine, counsel for the British Crown in this trial, here makes the earliest known reference to the "reasonable doubt" standard of guilt in criminal cases.

Thomas Paine

English-born U.S. political philosopher, 1737–1809

- I I scarcely ever quote; the reason is, I always think.
"The Forester's Letters," 22 Apr. 1776
- 2 The cause of America is in a great measure the cause of all mankind.
Common Sense introduction (1776)
- 3 Government, even in its best state, is but a necessary evil; in its worst state, an intolerable one. . . . Government, like dress, is the badge of lost innocence; the palaces of kings are built upon the ruins of the bowers of paradise.
Common Sense (1776)
- 4 But where, say some, is the king of America? . . . in America the law is king.
Common Sense (1776)
- 5 [Addressing America:] Freedom hath been hunted round the globe. Asia and Africa have long expelled her. Europe regards her like a stranger, and England hath given her warning to depart. O! receive the fugitive, and prepare in time an asylum for mankind.
Common Sense (1776)
- 6 As to religion, I hold it to be the indispensable duty of government to protect all conscientious

- professors thereof, and I know of no other business which government hath to do therewith.
Common Sense (1776)
- 7 We have it in our power to begin the world over again.
Common Sense appendix (1776)
- 8 These are the times that try men's souls: The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of his country; but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman.
The American Crisis, 19 Dec. 1776
- 9 What we obtain too cheap, we esteem too lightly:—'Tis dearness only that gives every thing its value. Heaven knows how to set a proper price upon its goods; and it would be strange indeed, if so celestial an article as FREEDOM should not be highly rated.
The American Crisis, 19 Dec. 1776
- 10 A bad cause will ever be supported by bad means and bad men.
The American Crisis, 13 Jan. 1777
- 11 Those who expect to reap the blessings of Freedom, must, like men, undergo the fatigue of supporting it.
The American Crisis, 12 Sept. 1777
- 12 We fight, not to enslave, but to set a country free, and to make room upon the earth for honest men to live in.
The American Crisis, 12 Sept. 1777
- 13 It is the object only of war that makes it honorable. And if there was ever a just war since the world began, it is this which America is now engaged in.
The American Crisis, 21 Mar. 1778
- 14 War involves in its progress such a train of unforeseen and un-supposed circumstances . . . that no human wisdom can calculate the end. It has but one thing certain, and that is to increase taxes.
Prospects on the Rubicon (1787)
- 15 A share in two revolutions is living to some purpose.
Letter to George Washington, 16 Oct. 1789
- 16 [Edmund Burke] is not affected by the reality of distress touching his heart, but by the showy resemblance of it striking his imagination. He pities the plumage, but forgets the dying bird.
The Rights of Man pt. 1 (1791)
- 17 The idea of hereditary legislators is as inconsistent as that of hereditary judges, or hereditary juries; and as absurd as an hereditary mathematician, or an hereditary wise man; and as ridiculous as an hereditary poet laureate.
The Rights of Man pt. 1 (1791)
- 18 Persecution is not an original feature in any religion; but it is always the strongly marked feature of all law-religions, or religions established by law.
The Rights of Man pt. 1 (1791)
- 19 The American constitutions were to liberty, what a grammar is to language: they define its parts of speech, and practically construct them into syntax.
The Rights of Man pt. 1 (1791)
- 20 [Of Edmund Burke's House of Commons debate with Charles James Fox concerning the French Revolution.] As he rose like a rocket, he fell like the stick.
Letter to the Addressers on the Late Proclamation (1792)
- 21 [Of monarchy.] I compare it to something behind a curtain, about which there is a great deal of bustle and fuss, and a wonderful air of seeming solemnity; but when, by any accident, the curtain happens to be open, and the company see what it is, they burst into laughter.
The Rights of Man pt. 2, ch. 3 (1792)
- 22 When, in countries that are called civilized, we see age going to the workhouse and youth to the gallows, something must be wrong in the system of government.
The Rights of Man pt. 2, ch. 5 (1792)
- 23 My country is the world, and my religion is to do good.
The Rights of Man pt. 2, ch. 5 (1792)
- 24 A thing moderately good is not so good as it ought to be. Moderation in temper is always a virtue; but moderation in principle is always a vice.
The Rights of Man pt. 2, ch. 5 (1792)
See Goldwater 3

- 25 The Age of Reason.
Title of book (1794)
- 26 I believe in one God and no more, and I hope for happiness beyond this life. I believe in the equality of man; and I believe that religious duties consist in doing justice, loving mercy, and endeavoring to make our fellow creatures happy.
The Age of Reason pt. 1 (1794)
- 27 It is necessary to the happiness of man that he be mentally faithful to himself. Infidelity does not consist in believing, or in disbelieving, it consists in professing to believe what one does not believe.
The Age of Reason pt. 1 (1794)
- 28 The church has set up a system of religion very contradictory to the character of the person whose name it bears. It has set up a religion of pomp and of revenue in pretended imitation of a person whose life was humility and poverty.
The Age of Reason pt. 1 (1794)
- 29 Any system of religion that has any thing in it that shocks the mind of a child cannot be a true system.
The Age of Reason pt. 1 (1794)
- 30 The sublime and the ridiculous are often so nearly related, that it is difficult to class them separately. One step above the sublime, makes the ridiculous; and one step above the ridiculous, makes the sublime again.
The Age of Reason pt. 2 (1795)

- 1 Who can refute a sneer?
Principles of Moral and Political Philosophy bk. 5, ch. 9 (1785)
- 2 The infidelity of the gentile world, and that more especially of men of rank and learning in it, is resolved into a principle, which, in my judgment, will account for the inefficacy of any argument, or any evidence whatever, viz. contempt prior to examination.
A View of the Evidences of Christianity pt. 3, ch. 2 (1794)
- 3 Suppose I had found a watch upon the ground, and it should be enquired how the watch happened to be in that place . . . the inference, we think, is inevitable; that the watch must have had a maker, that there must have existed, at some time and at some place or other, an artificer or artificers, who formed it for the purpose which we find it actually to answer; who comprehended its construction, and designed its use.

Pali Tripitaka

Buddhist collection of sacred texts, ca. Second cent. B.C.

- 1 For hate is not conquered by hate: hate is conquered by love. This is a law eternal.
Dhammapada v. 5
- 2 [First Sermon of the Buddha.:] Avoiding both these extremes [sensual pleasure and self-mortification] the Tathagata has realized the Middle Path: it gives vision, it gives knowledge, and it leads to calm, to insight, to enlightenment, to Nirvana.

Samyutta-nikāya pt. 56

- 3 [First Sermon of the Buddha:] The Noble Truth of Suffering is this: Birth is suffering, ageing is suffering; sickness is suffering; death is suffering; sorrow and lamentation, pain, grief, and despair are suffering; association with the unpleasant is suffering; dissociation from the pleasant is suffering; not to get what one wants is suffering.

Samyutta-nikāya pt. 56

- 4 [First Sermon of the Buddha:] The Noble Truth of the Path leading to the Cessation of suffering is this: It is simply the Noble Eightfold Path, namely right view; right thought; right speech; right action; right livelihood; right effort; right mindfulness; right concentration.

Samyutta-nikāya pt. 56

- 5 [“The Five Precepts”:] 1) Refraining from taking life. 2) Refraining from taking what is not given. 3) Refraining from incontinence. 4) Refraining from falsehood. 5) Refraining from strong drink, intoxicants, and liquor, which are occasions of carelessness.

Sarah Palin

U.S. politician, 1964–

- 1 What’s the difference between a hockey mom and a pitbull? Lipstick.
Speech to Republican National Convention, St. Paul, Minn., 3 Sept. 2008
- 2 They’re [the Russians] our next-door neighbors and you can actually see Russia from land here in Alaska, from an island in Alaska.
Interview on ABC Nightline (television program), 11 Sept. 2008. This statement, which Palin presented as a kind of foreign-policy credential, was parodied by comedian Tina Fey on the Saturday Night Live television broadcast, 13 Sept. 2008. Fey’s satirical version was “I can see Russia from my house!”
- 3 [Response to Katie Couric’s asking her to specifically name newspapers or magazines she read:] All of them, any of them that have been in front of me over all these years.
Interview on CBS News television broadcast, 1 Oct. 2008

- 4 The America I know and love is not one in which my parents or my baby with Down Syndrome will have to stand in front of Obama’s “death panel” so his bureaucrats can decide, based on a subjective judgment of their “level of productivity in society,” whether they are worthy of health care. Such a system is downright evil.

U.S. songwriter, fl. 1895

- 1 His brain was so loaded, it nearly exploded,
The poor girl would shake with alarm.
He’d ne’er leave the girl with the strawberry curls,
And the band played on.
“The Band Played On” (song) (1895)

Henry John Temple, Viscount Palmerston

British prime minister, 1784–1865

- 1 We have no eternal allies and we have no perpetual enemies. Our interests are eternal and perpetual, and those interests it is our duty to follow.
Speech in House of Commons, 1 Mar. 1848
- 2 Lord Palmerston, with characteristic levity had once said that only three men in Europe had ever understood [the Schleswig-Holstein question], and of these the Prince Consort was dead, a Danish statesman (unnamed) was in an asylum, and he himself had forgotten it.
Reported in Robert W. Seton-Watson, Britain in Europe 1789–1914 (1937). Garson O’Toole has found a very similar anecdote in an Italian book, namely Alfonso La Marmora, Un Po’ Più di Luce Sugli Eventi Politici e Militari dell’ Anno 1866, 2nd ed. (1873).
- Orhan Pamuk
Turkish novelist, 1952–
- 1 Mankind’s greatest error, the biggest deception of the past thousand years is this: to confuse poverty with stupidity.
Snow ch. 31 (2002) (translation by Maureen Freely)

Christabel Pankhurst

English women's rights activist, 1880–1958

- 1 [Childhood remark, ca. 1890:] How long you women have been trying for the vote. For my part, I mean to get it.

Quoted in Emmeline Pankhurst, My Own Story (1914)

Emmeline Pankhurst

English feminist, 1858–1928

- 1 There is something that Governments care for far more than human life, and that is the security of property. So it is through property that we shall strike the enemy. . . . Be militant each in your own way. . . . I incite this meeting to rebellion.

Speech at Royal Albert Hall, London, 17 Oct. 1912

- 2 Women had always fought for men, and for their children. Now they were ready to fight for their own human rights.

My Own Story ch. 3 (1914)

- 3 The argument of the broken window pane is the most valuable argument in modern politics.

Quoted in George Dangerfield, The Strange Death of Liberal England (1936)

Charlie “Bird” Parker

U.S. saxophonist, bandleader, and composer, 1920–1955

- 1 If you don't live it, it won't come out of your horn.

Quoted in Nat Shapiro and Nat Hentoff, Hear Me Talkin' to Ya (1955)

- 2 They teach you there's a boundary line to music. But, man, there's no boundary line to art.

Quoted in Nat Shapiro and Nat Hentoff, Hear Me Talkin' to Ya (1955)

New Yorker, 20 Oct. 1928
- 19 [Of Ernest Hemingway:] He has a capacity for enjoyment so vast that he gives away great chunks to those about him, and never even misses them. . . . He can take you to a bicycle race and make it raise your hair.
New Yorker, 30 Nov. 1929
- 20 Drink and dance and laugh and lie,
Love, the reeling midnight through,
For tomorrow we shall die!
(But, alas, we never do.)
"The Flaw in Paganism" l. 1 (1931)
- 21 [Reviewing Channing Pollock's The House Beautiful:] "The House Beautiful" is, for me, the play lousy.
New Yorker, 21 Mar. 1931
- 22 Come on down to my apartment—I want to show you some remarkably fine etchings I just bought.
New Yorker, 25 July 1931
See Centlivre 1
- 23 How do people go to sleep? I'm afraid I've lost the knack. . . . I might repeat to myself, slowly and soothingly, a list of quotations beautiful from minds profound; if I can remember any of the damn things.
Here Lies "The Little Hours" (1939)
- 24 Sorrow is tranquility remembered in emotion.
Here Lies "Sentiment" (1939)
See William Wordsworth 6
- 25 [Her suggested epitaph for herself:] Excuse My Dust.
Quoted in Vanity Fair, June 1925
- 26 [When asked about the most beautiful words in the English language:] The ones I like . . . are "cheque" and "inclosed."
Quoted in N.Y. Herald Tribune, 12 Dec. 1932
- 27 That woman speaks eighteen languages, and can't say No in any of them.
Quoted in Hearst's International Cosmopolitan,
Aug. 1933
- 28 [Telegram to Mary Sherwood, who finally had her baby after a much-ballyhooed pregnancy, 1915:]

- Good work, Mary. We all knew you had it in you.
Quoted in Hearst's International Cosmopolitan, Aug. 1933
- 29 [Of a performance by Katharine Hepburn:] Let's all go to see Miss Hepburn and hear her run the gamut of emotions from A to B!
Quoted in N.Y. Sun, 6 Jan. 1934
- 30 [When told of the death of Calvin Coolidge:] How can they tell?
Quoted in Max Eastman, The Enjoyment of Laughter (1936)
- 31 [Of a cocktail party she had attended:] One more drink and I'd have been under the host!
Quoted in Bennett Cerf, Try and Stop Me (1944)
- 32 [Of an actress who was said to be kind to her inferiors:] Where does she find them?
Quoted in Milwaukee Sentinel, 23 June 1937. A similar joke appeared as early as James Boswell, Life of Samuel Johnson (1791).
See Samuel Johnson 65
- 33 [Responding to a hostess being described as "outspoken":] Outspoken by whom?
Quoted in Bennett Cerf, Try and Stop Me (1944). This quip is associated with Parker, but Garson O'Toole has traced the "outspoken . . . by whom?" formulation back as far as the New York Times, 7 Oct. 1901.
- 34 There's a hell of a distance between wise-cracking and wit. Wit has truth in it; wise-cracking is simply calisthenics with words.
Quoted in Paris Review, Summer 1956
- 35 [On women writers:] As artists they're rot, but as providers they're oil wells; they gush. Norris said she never wrote a story unless it was fun to do. I understand Ferber whistles at her typewriter. And there was that poor sucker Flaubert rolling around on his floor for three days looking for the right word.
Quoted in Paris Review, Summer 1956
- 36 [Advice to a friend whose ailing cat had to be "put away":] Have you tried curiosity?
Quoted in New Orleans Times-Picayune, 6 Aug. 1966
- 37 [Completing the nursery rhyme "Higgledy piggledy, my white hen; / She lays eggs for gentlemen":] You cannot persuade her with gun or lariat To come across for the proletariat.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 8 June 1967
See Nursery Rhymes 21
- 38 [On being informed that editor Harold Ross had called her on her honeymoon demanding a belated article:] Tell Ross I'm too fucking busy and vice versa.
Quoted in Ramparts, Sept. 1967
- 39 [Upon being challenged to use the word horticulture in a sentence:] You can lead a whore to culture, but you can't make her think.
Quoted in The Algonquin Wits, ed. Robert E. Drennan (1968). In Horizon magazine, July 1962, Parker was quoted as saying, "You may lead a whore to culture but you can't make her think." Walter Winchell, in the Richmond Times-Dispatch, 1 Mar. 1935, referred to Parker's having made up a sentence containing the word horticulture but did not provide any details.
See Proverbs 148
- 40 [In book review:] This is not a novel to be tossed aside lightly. It should be thrown with great force.
Quoted in The Algonquin Wits, ed. Robert E. Drennan (1968). A very similar line appeared, attributed to Sid Ziff, in Reader's Digest, Feb. 1960.
- 41 [On being told at a party that people were ducking for apples:] There, but for a typographical error, is the story of my life.
Quoted in The Algonquin Wits, ed. Robert E. Drennan (1968). A very similar anecdote about Parker was told in Ben Hecht, Charlie (1957).
- 42 I was the toast of two continents: Greenland and Australia.
Quoted in John Keats, You Might As Well Live: The Life and Times of Dorothy Parker (1970)
- 43 [On her abortion:] It serves me right for putting all my eggs in one bastard.
Quoted in John Keats, You Might as Well Live: The Life and Times of Dorothy Parker (1970)
See Proverbs 84
- 44 [Habitual response upon hearing the doorbell or telephone ring:] What fresh hell is this?
Quoted in John D. Tumpance, Scotch and Holy Water (1981). In the form "What fresh hell can this be?," this was quoted in John Keats, You Might as Well Live: The Life and Times of Dorothy Parker (1970).
- 45 [On being warned by her doctor that if she didn't stop drinking she would be dead within a month:] Promises, promises!

46 People ought to be one of two things, young or old. No; what's the use of fooling? People ought to be one of two things, young or dead.

47 And there was that wholesale libel on a Yale prom. If all the girls attending it were laid end to end, Mrs. Parker said, she wouldn't be at all surprised.

Reported in Alexander Woollcott, While Rome Burns (1934)

48 Then I remember her comment on one friend who had lamed herself while in London. It was Mrs. Parker who voiced the suspicion that this poor lady had injured herself while sliding down a barrister.

Reported in Alexander Woollcott, While Rome Burns (1934)

49 The two ladies [Dorothy Parker and Clare Boothe Luce] were trying to get out of a doorway at the same time. Clare drew back and cracked, "Age before beauty, Miss Parker." As Dotty swept out, she turned to the other guests and said, "Pearls before swine."

Reported in Hartford Courant, 14 Oct. 1938. Luce denied that this exchange ever happened, and Dorothy Parker's biographer John Keats treated it as inauthentic.

John Parker

U.S. army officer, 1729–1775

1 Don't fire unless fired upon. But if they want to have a war, let it begin here.

Quoted in The Historical Magazine, and Notes and Queries Concerning the Antiquities, History, and Biography of America, July 1860. Captain Parker, a commander of the Minutemen, is said to have uttered these words to his troops at Lexington, Mass., before the beginning of the 19 Apr. 1775 battle with the British.

Ray Parker, Jr.

U.S. musician, 1954–

1 If there's something strange in your neighborhood,
Who you gonna call? Ghostbusters.
"Ghostbusters" (song) (1984)

Ross Parker

English songwriter, 1914–1974

1 There'll always be an England
While there's a country lane,
Wherever there's a cottage small
Beside a field of grain.
"There'll Always Be an England" (song) (1939).
Cowritten with Hughie Charles.

2 We'll meet again, don't know where,
Don't know when,
But I know we'll meet again some sunny day.
"We'll Meet Again" (song) (1939). Cowritten with Hughie Charles.

Theodore Parker

U.S. clergyman and abolitionist, 1810–1860

1 A democracy,—that is, a government of all the people, by all the people, for all the people.
Speech at Anti-Slavery Convention, Boston, Mass., 29 May 1850
See Lincoln 42; Theodore Parker 3; Daniel Webster 5

2 I do not pretend to understand the moral universe; the arc is a long one, my eye reaches but little ways; I cannot calculate the curve and complete the figure by the experience of sight; I can divine it by conscience. And from what I see I am sure it bends toward justice.

Ten Sermons on Religion "Justice and the Conscience" (1853). This was later paraphrased by Martin Luther King, Jr., in a sermon on 31 March 1968, and by Barack Obama in a speech on 2 Feb. 2007.

3 Democracy is direct self-government, over all the people, for all the people, by all the people.
Sermon at Music Hall, Boston, Mass., 4 July 1858
See Lincoln 42; Theodore Parker 1; Daniel Webster 5

Camilla Parker Bowles

British duchess, 1947–

1 [Reputed remark to Prince Charles upon their first meeting.] My great-grandmother was your great-great-grandfather's mistress. How about it?
Attributed in Mail on Sunday, 15 Nov. 1992

C. Northcote Parkinson

English writer, 1909–1993

1 Work expands so as to fill the time available for its completion.
"Parkinson's Law," Economist, 19 Nov. 1955

- 2 Time spent on any item of the agenda will be in inverse proportion to the sum involved.
Parkinson's Law ch. 3 (1957)
- 3 Perfection of planned layout is achieved only by institutions on the point of collapse.
Parkinson's Law ch. 6 (1957)
- 4 The man who is denied the opportunity of taking decisions of importance begins to regard as important the decisions he is allowed to take.
Parkinson's Law ch. 10 (1957)
- 5 Men enter local politics solely as a result of being unhappily married.
Parkinson's Law ch. 10 (1957)
- 6 Expenditure rises to meet income.
The Law and the Profits ch. 1 (1960)
- 7 Expansion means complexity and complexity, decay; or to put it even more plainly—the more complex, the sooner dead.
In-Laws and Outlaws (1962)
- 8 Successful research attracts the bigger grant which makes further research impossible.
“Parkinson's Laws in Medical Research,” Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, Nov. 1962
- 9 It is the essence of grantsmanship to persuade the Foundation executives that it was they who suggested the research project and that you were a belated convert, agreeing reluctantly to all they had proposed.
“Parkinson's Laws in Medical Research,” Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, Nov. 1962
- 10 The printed word expands to fill the space available for it.
“Parkinson's New Law,” Reader's Digest, Feb. 1963
- 11 The effectiveness of a telephone conversation is in inverse proportion to the time spent on it.
“Now Parkinson's Telephone Law,” N.Y. Times Magazine, 12 Apr. 1964
- 12 Heat produced by pressure expands to fill the mind available from which it can pass only to a cooler mind.
Mrs. Parkinson's Law ch. 7 (1968)
- 13 Delay is the deadliest form of denial.
The Law of Delay ch. 13 (1971)
- 14 An enterprise employing more than 1000 people becomes a self-perpetuating empire, creating so much internal work that it no longer needs any contact with the outside world.

Quoted in Management Science Journal, Oct. 1960

Gordon Parks

U.S. photographer and film director, 1912–2006

- 1 The Learning Tree.
Title of book (1964)

Rosa Parks

U.S. civil rights activist, 1913–2005

- 1 [On her refusal to relinquish her seat to a white man, triggering the Montgomery, Ala., bus boycott, 1955:] All I was doing was trying to get home from work.
Quoted in Time, 15 Dec. 1975
- 2 I had felt for a long time, that if I was ever told to get up so a white person could sit, that I would refuse to do so.
Quoted in David J. Garrow, Bearing the Cross (1986)

Charles Stewart Parnell

Irish politician, 1846–1891

- 1 No man has a right to fix the boundary of the march of a nation; no man has a right to say to his country—thus far shalt thou go and no further.
Speech, Cork, Ireland, 21 Jan. 1885

Elsie Clews Parsons

U.S. anthropologist and feminist critic, 1874–1941

- 1 Some day there may be a “masculism” movement to allow men to act “like women.”
The Journal of a Feminist, Apr. 1914

Talcott Parsons

U.S. sociologist, 1902–1979

- 1 If, however, the culture of the deviant group, like that of the delinquent gang, remains a “counter-culture” it is difficult to find the bridges by which it can acquire influence over wider circles.
The Social System ch. 11 (1951). Earliest known occurrence of the word counterculture, preceding by nineteen years the earliest use given by historical dictionaries. Parson's usage was unearthed through a search on the JSTOR electronic journal archive.

Eric Partridge

New Zealand-born English lexicographer,
1894–1979

- 1 That old lady who, on borrowing a dictionary from her municipal library, returned it with the comment, “A very unusual book indeed—but the stories are extremely short, aren’t they?”
The Gentle Art of Lexicography ch. 1 (1963)

Blaise Pascal

French mathematician and philosopher,
1623–1662

- 1 Je n’ai fait celle-ci plus longue que parce que je n’ai pas eu le loisir de la faire plus courte.
I have made this [letter] longer than usual, only because I have not had the time to make it shorter.
Lettres Provinciales no. 16 (1657)
See Thoreau 34; Woodrow Wilson 25
- 2 Le nez de Cléopâtre s’il eût été plus court toute la face de la terre aurait changé.
Cleopatra’s nose, had it been shorter, the whole face of the world would have been changed.
Pensées no. 32 (1658)
- 3 How vain painting is, exciting admiration by its resemblance to things of which we do not admire the originals.
Pensées no. 74 (1658)

- 4 C’est là ma place au soleil.
That’s my place in the sun.
Pensées no. 98 (1658)
See Bülow 1; Wilhelm II 1

- 5 What is it, then, that this desire and this inability proclaim to us, but that there was once in man a true happiness of which there now remain to him only the mark and empty trace, which he in vain tries to fill from all his surroundings, seeking from things absent the help he does not obtain in things present? But these are all inadequate, because the infinite abyss can only be filled by an infinite and immutable object, that is to say, only by God Himself.

Pensées no. 181 (1658). Popularly paraphrased as “There is a God-shaped vacuum in every heart.”

- 6 We shall die alone.

Pensées no. 184 (1658)

- 7 What is man in nature? A nothing in relation to the infinite, an all in relation to nothing, a middle between nothing and all.

Pensées no. 230 (1658)

- 8 L’homme n’est qu’un roseau, le plus faible de la nature, mais c’est un roseau pensant.

Man is only a reed, the weakest in nature, but he is a thinking reed.

Pensées no. 231 (1658)

- 9 [On the heavens:] The eternal silence of these infinite spaces terrifies me.

Pensées no. 233 (1658)

- 10 When we see a natural style, we are quite surprised and delighted, for we expected to see an author and we find a man.

Pensées no. 554 (1658)

- 11 I lay it down as a fact that if all men knew what others say of them, there would not be four friends in the world.

Pensées no. 646 (1658)

- 12 Dieu est, ou il n’est pas. Mais de quel côté pencherons-nous? La raison n’y peut rien déterminer. Il y’a un chaos infini qui nous sépare. Il se joue un jeu, à l’extrémité de cette distance infinie, où il arrivera croix ou pile: que gagerez-vous?

God is, or He is not. But to which side shall we incline? Reason can decide nothing here.

There is an infinite chaos which separates us. A game is being played at the extremity of this infinite distance, where heads or tails will turn up: what will you wager?

Pensées no. 680 (1658). Popularly known as “Pascal’s wager.”

- 13 Pesons le gain et la perte, en prenant croix que Dieu est. Estimons ces deux cas: Si vous gagnez, vous gagnez tout; si vous perdez, vous ne perdez rien. Gagez donc qu’il est, sans hésiter!

Let us weigh the gain and the loss in wagering that God is. Let us estimate the two chances. If you win, you win everything; if you lose, you lose nothing. Wager then without hesitation that He is!

Pensées no. 680 (1658). Popularly known as “Pascal’s wager.”

- 14 Le coeur a ses raisons, que la raison ne connaît point.
The heart has its reasons which reason knows nothing of.
Pensées no. 680 (1658)
- 15 Men never do evil so completely and cheerfully as when they do it from religious conviction.
Pensées no. 894 (1670 ed.)

Boris Pasternak

Russian novelist and poet, 1890–1960

- 1 Man is born to live, not to prepare for life.
Doctor Zhivago ch. 9 (1958) (translation by Max Hayward and Manya Harari)
- 2 I don’t like people who have never fallen or stumbled. Their virtue is lifeless and it isn’t of much value. Life hasn’t revealed its beauty to them.
Doctor Zhivago ch. 13 (1958) (translation by Max Hayward and Manya Harari)
- 3 All customs and traditions, all our way of life, everything to do with home and order, has crumbled into dust in the general upheaval and reorganization of society. The whole human way of life has been destroyed and ruined. All that’s left is the naked human soul stripped to the last shred, for which nothing has changed because it was always cold and shivering and reaching out to its nearest neighbor, as cold and lonely as itself.

Doctor Zhivago ch. 13 (1958) (translation by Max Hayward and Manya Harari)

- 4 One day Lara went out and did not come back. . . . She died or vanished somewhere, forgotten as a nameless number on a list which was afterwards mislaid.

Doctor Zhivago ch. 15 (1958) (translation by Max Hayward and Manya Harari)

- 5 Yet the order of the acts is planned
And the end of the way inescapable.
I am alone; all drowns in the Pharisees’ hypocrisy.
To live your life is not as simple as to cross a field.

Doctor Zhivago “Zhivago’s Poems: Hamlet” (1958) (translation by Max Hayward and Manya Harari)

Louis Pasteur

French chemist and bacteriologist, 1822–1895

- 1 Where observation is concerned, chance favors only the prepared mind.
Address at inauguration of Faculty of Science,
University of Lille, Lille, France, 7 Dec. 1854

Walter Pater

English critic and essayist, 1839–1894

- 1 [Of the Mona Lisa.:] She is older than the rocks among which she sits; like the vampire, she has been dead many times, and learned the secrets of the grave; and has been a diver in deep seas, and keeps their fallen day about her; and trafficked for strange webs with Eastern merchants; and as Leda, was the mother of Helen of Troy, and as Saint Anne, the mother of Mary; and all this has been to her but as the sound of lyres and flutes, and lives only in the delicacy with which it has moulded the changing lineaments, and tinged the eyelids and the hands.
Studies in the History of the Renaissance “Leonardo da Vinci” (1873)
- 2 All art constantly aspires towards the condition of music.
Studies in the History of the Renaissance “The School of Giorgione” (1873)
- 3 To burn always with this hard, gemlike flame, to maintain this ecstasy, is success in life.
Studies in the History of the Renaissance “Conclusion” (1873)

Andrew Barton “Banjo” Paterson

Australian poet, 1864–1941

- 1 There was movement at the station, for the word had passed around
That the colt from old Regret had got away,
And had joined the wild bush horses—he was worth a thousand pound,
So all the cracks had gathered to the fray.
“The Man from Snowy River” l. 1 (1895)
- 2 Once a jolly swagman camped by a billabong,
Under the shade of a coolibah tree;
And he sang as he watched and waited till his “Billy” boiled:
“You’ll come a-waltzing, Matilda, with me.”
“Waltzing Matilda” (song) (1903)

Alan Paton

South African writer, 1903–1988

- 1 I see only one hope for our country, and that is when white men and black men . . . desiring only the good of their country, come together to work for it. . . . I have one great fear in my heart, that one day when they are turned to loving, they will find we are turned to hating.
Cry, the Beloved Country ch. 7 (1948)
- 2 Cry, the beloved country, for the unborn child that is the inheritor of our fear.
Cry, the Beloved Country ch. 12 (1948)
- 3 No second Johannesburg is needed upon the earth. One is enough.
Cry, the Beloved Country ch. 23 (1948)

George S. Patton, Jr.

U.S. military leader, 1885–1945

- 1 War will be won by Blood and Guts alone.
Address to officers, Fort Benning, Ga., 1940
- 2 [Remark at press conference, Bad-Toelz, Germany:]
The Nazi thing is just like a Democrat and Republican election fight.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 30 Sept. 1945
- 3 No dumb bastard ever won a war by going out and dying for his country. He won it by making some other dumb bastard die for his country.
Attributed in James M. Gavin, War and Peace in the Space Age (1958). This is said to have been uttered in various speeches by Patton in 1943 and 1944, but definitive documentation is lacking. “Don’t die for your dear country’s sake, / But let the other chap die for his” appeared in War Poems by Thomas W. H. Crosland (1917).

Elliot Paul

U.S. writer and editor, 1891–1958

- 1 The last time I see Paris will be on the day I die. The city was inexhaustible, and so is its memory.
The Last Time I Saw Paris pt. 2 (1942)

Herbert Paul

English author and politician, 1853–1935

- 1 After all, what is originality? It is merely undetected plagiarism.
The Nineteenth Century, Apr. 1896

Jean Paul (Johann Paul Friedrich Richter)

German writer, 1763–1825

- 1 Weltschmerz.
World-pain.
Selina (1827)

Leslie Paul

Irish writer, 1905–1985

- 1 Angry Young Man.
Title of book (1951)
See John Osborne 1

Wolfgang Pauli

Austrian-born Swiss physicist, 1900–1958

- 1 [Comment about an inadequate paper by a young physicist:] It is not even wrong.
Quoted in Rudolf Peierls, “Wolfgang Ernst Pauli, 1900–1958,” Biographical Memoirs of Fellows of the Royal Society (1960)

Luciano Pavarotti

Italian opera singer, 1935–2007

- 1 The wife of one famous tenor says her husband does not make love for two days before a performance and for two days after it. And he gives a performance every four days.
Quoted in People Weekly, 17 Nov. 1980

Ivan Petrovich Pavlov

Russian physiologist and psychologist, 1849–1936

- 1 Mankind will possess incalculable advantages and extraordinary control over human behavior when the scientific investigator will be able to subject his fellow men to the same external analysis he would employ for any natural object, and when the human mind will contemplate itself not from within but from without.
“Scientific Study of the So-Called Psychological Processes in the Higher Animals” (1906)

J. H. Payne

U.S. actor, playwright, and songwriter, 1791–1852

- 1 Home, Sweet Home.
Title of song (1823). Appeared in the opera, Clari, or, The Maid of Milan. The phrase “Home, sweet Home” appeared in a poem titled “Home” by Joseph Beaumont (1615–1699).
- 2 Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there’s no place like home.
“Home, Sweet Home” (song) (1823). “No place like home” appeared even earlier in Piomingo, The Savage (1810).
See L. Frank Baum 3; Hesiod 3

Octavio Paz

Mexican writer and diplomat, 1914–1998

- 1 The North American wants to use reality rather than to know it.
The Labyrinth of Solitude ch. 1 (1950) (translation by Lysander Kemp)
- 2 No doubt the nearness of death and the brotherhood of men-at-arms, at whatever time and in whatever country, always produces an atmosphere favorable to the extraordinary, to all that rises above the human condition and breaks the circle of solitude that surrounds each one of us.
The Labyrinth of Solitude ch. 1 (1950) (translation by Lysander Kemp)
- 3 Solitude is the profoundest fact of the human condition. Man is the only being who knows he is alone, and the only one who seeks out another.

The Labyrinth of Solitude ch. 9 (1950) (translation by Lysander Kemp)

- 4 We are condemned to kill time:
Thus we die bit by bit.
“Cuento de los Jardines” (1968)
- 5 Wit invents; inspiration reveals.
Sor Juana ch. 4 (1982)

Thomas Love Peacock

English novelist and poet, 1785–1866

- 1 A book that furnishes no quotations is, me judice, no book—it is a plaything.
Crochet Castle ch. 9 (1831)

Norman Vincent Peale

U.S. religious broadcaster and writer, 1898–1993

- 1 The Power of Positive Thinking.
Title of book (1952)

Patrick Pearse

Irish nationalist, 1879–1916

- 1 Ireland unfree shall never be at peace.
Speech at grave of Jeremiah O’Donovan Rossa, 1 Aug. 1915

Drew Pearson

U.S. journalist, 1897–1969

- 1 [Referring to U.S. Supreme Court:] The Nine Old Men.
Title of book (1936). Coauthored with Robert S. Allen.
See Berle 1

Hesketh Pearson

English actor and biographer, 1887–1964

- 1 Misquotation is, in fact, the pride and privilege of the learned. A widely-read man never quotes accurately, for the rather obvious reason that he has read too widely.
Common Misquotations introduction (1934)

Lester Pearson

Canadian prime minister, 1897–1972

- I The grim fact is that we prepare for war like precocious giants and for peace like retarded pygmies.
Speech, Toronto, Canada, 14 Mar. 1955

Margaret B. Peeke

U.S. novelist and traveler, 1838–1908

- I And God bless America,
When other lands are falling,
Because to Him, in every tongue
Her children will be calling.
“Totus in Uno” l. 21 (1882)
See Irving Berlin 8

George Peele

English playwright and poet, 1556–1596

- I A Farewell to Arms.
Title of poem (1590)

Westbrook Pegler

U.S. journalist, 1894–1969

- I [Of the post–World War I decade:] The Era of Wonderful Nonsense.
“T Aint Right” (1936)

Benjamin Peirce

U.S. mathematician, 1809–1880

- I Mathematics is the science which draws necessary conclusions.
“Linear Associative Algebra” (1870)

Charles Sanders Peirce

U.S. philosopher and physicist, 1839–1914

- I Consider what effects, that might conceivably have practical bearings, we conceive the object of our conception to have. Then, our conception of these effects is the whole of our conception of the object.
“How to Make Our Ideas Clear” (1878). This has become known as “the pragmatic maxim.”
- 2 My word “pragmatism” has gained general recognition. . . . The writer, finding his bantling “pragmatism” so promoted, feels that it is time to kiss his child good-by and relinquish it to its higher destiny; while to serve the precise purpose of expressing the original definition, he begs to announce the birth of the word “pragmaticism,” which is ugly enough to be safe from kidnappers.

“What Pragmatism Is” (1905)

- 3 I define a Sign as anything which is so determined by something else, called its Object, and so determines an effect upon a person, which effect I call its Interpretant, that the latter is thereby mediately determined by the former.

Letter to Victoria Welby, 23 Dec. 1908

Pelé (Edson Arantes do Nascimento)

Brazilian soccer player, 1940–

- I I dedicate this book to all the people who have made this great game the Beautiful Game.
My Life and the Beautiful Game dedication (1977)

Nancy Pelosi

U.S. politician, 1940–

- I [Of the Affordable Care Act:] We have to pass the bill so that you can find out what is in it.
Speech to National Association of Counties, Washington, D.C., 9 Mar. 2010. “I admit this new bill is too complicated to understand . . . we’ll just have to pass it to find out how it works!” (ellipsis in original) was the caption of George Lichty’s newspaper cartoon “Grin and Bear It,” 12 Mar. 1947.
- 2 [Comment on Donald Trump’s desire to build a border wall, 11 Dec. 2018:] It’s like a manhood thing with him—as if manhood can be associated with him.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 12 Dec. 2018

Sean Penn

U.S. actor, 1960–

- I The difference between being a director and being an actor is the difference between being the carpenter banging the nails into the wood, and being the piece of wood the nails are being banged into.
Quoted in Guardian, 28 Nov. 1991

William Penn

English colonizer and reformer, 1644–1718

- 1 No pain, no palm; no thorns, no throne; no gall, no glory; no cross, no crown.

No Cross, No Crown (1669)

See Proverbs 212

Samuel Pepys

English diarist, 1633–1703

- 1 And so to bed.
Diary, 4 Jan. 1660
- 2 A strange slavery that I stand in to beauty, that I value nothing near it.
Diary, 6 Sept. 1664
- 3 Up, and all day at the office, but a little at dinner, and there late till past 12. So home to bed, pleased as I always am after I have rid a great deal of work, it being very satisfactory to me.

Diary, 6 May 1665

- 4 God forgive me! I do still see that my nature is not to be quite conquered, but will esteem pleasure above all things, though yet in the middle of it, it has reluctances after my business, which is neglected by my following my pleasure. However music and women I cannot but give way to, whatever my business is.

Diary, 9 Mar. 1666

- 5 [Final entry of Diary:] And so I betake myself to that course, which is almost as much as to see myself go into my grave—for which, and all the discomforts that will accompany my being blind, the good God prepare me!

Diary, 31 May 1669

Walker Percy

U.S. writer, 1916–1990

- 1 The fact is I am quite happy in a movie, even a bad movie. Other people, so I have read, treasure memorable moments in their lives.

S. J. Perelman

U.S. humorist, 1904–1979

- 1 I've got Bright's Disease. And he's got mine.
Caption of cartoon, Judge, 16 Nov. 1929

Dom Perignon

French monk and winemaker, 1640–1715

- 1 [Alleged remark upon inventing champagne:]

Come quickly, I am tasting stars!

Attributed in Robert Byrne, The Other 637 Best Things Anybody Ever Said (1984). This remark, as well as Perignon's invention of champagne, appear to be apocryphal.

Carl Perkins

U.S. singer and songwriter, 1932–1998

- 1 Well it's one for the money,
Two for the show,
Three to get ready,
Now go, cat, go.
But don't you
Step on my blue suede shoes.
"Blue Suede Shoes" (song) (1956)

Thomas Perkins

U.S. businessman, 1932–2016

- 1 I would call attention to the parallels of fascist Nazi [Germany's] war on its "one percent," namely its Jews, to the progressive war on the American one percent, namely the "rich." . . . I perceive a rising tide of hatred of the successful one percent.

Letter to the editor, Wall Street Journal, 24 Jan. 2014

Frederick S. Perls

German-born U.S. psychiatrist, 1893–1970

- 1 I do my thing, and you do your thing.
I am not in this world to live up to your expectations
And you are not in this world to live up to mine.
You are you and I am I,
And if by chance we find each other, it's beautiful;
If not, it can't be helped.

"Gestalt Therapy Verbatim" (1969)

H. Ross Perot

U.S. businessman and politician, 1930–2019

- 1 [Of U.S. trade agreements with other nations:] If you're paying $12, $13, $14 an hour for a factory worker, and you can move your factory south of the border, pay $1 an hour for labor . . .

Have no environmental controls, no pollution controls, and no retirement. And you don't care about anything but making money. There will be a giant sucking sound going south.

Presidential debate, 15 Oct. 1992

- 2 [Contrasting the corporate cultures of his former company, EDS, and General Motors, which had acquired EDS:] The first EDSer to see a snake kills it. At GM, first thing you do is organize a committee on snakes. Then you bring in a consultant who knows a lot about snakes. Third thing you do is talk about it for a year.
Quoted in Business Week, 6 Oct. 1986

- 3 [Responding to George H. W. Bush's emphasis on the value of experience to presidential candidates:] I don't have any experience in running up a $4 trillion debt.
Quoted in Newsweek, 19 Oct. 1992

Charles Perrault

French poet and critic, 1628–1703

Freddie Perren

U.S. songwriter and record producer, 1943–2004

- 1 As long as I know how to love, I know I'll stay alive
I've got all my life to live
And I've got all my love to give I'll survive
I will survive.
“I Will Survive” (song) (1979). Cowritten with Dino Fekaris.

James Richard “Rick” Perry

U.S. politician, 1950–

- 1 [Remark after unsuccessfully attempting to remember the third federal agency he would eliminate:] Oops.
Republican presidential campaign debate, 9 Nov. 2011

Oliver Hazard Perry

U.S. naval officer, 1785–1819

- 1 Don't give up the ship.
Inscription on battle flag, 10 Sept. 1813. According to Respectfully Quoted, ed. Suzy Platt: “Although this quotation has been attributed to several historical figures, the only documented source is the blue battle-flag inscribed with these words ordered and used by Oliver Hazard Perry as a signal during the battle of Lake Erie, September 10, 1813. Although popularly attributed to Captain James Lawrence as his dying words during a battle with a British frigate off the coast of Boston on June 1, 1813, there remains the possibility these words were not his, but those of someone reporting the battle.”
- 2 We have met the enemy and they are ours—two ships, two brigs, one schooner, and a sloop.
Message to William Henry Harrison, 10 Sept. 1813. The source is Perry's dispatch from the U.S. brig Niagara to General Harrison, announcing that victory at the Battle of Lake Erie was secure. The dispatch was written in pencil on the back of an old letter; it is quoted in Robert B. McAfee, History of the Late War in the Western Country (1816).

Ted Perry

U.S. screenwriter, 1937–

- 1 How can you buy or sell the sky, the warmth of the land?
Home (television movie) (1972). Part of a speech Perry wrote for a film on ecology produced by the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission. Perry put the speech in the mouth of nineteenth-century Suquamish Indian Chief Seattle; as a result, the televised speech has been widely but incorrectly credited to Seattle.
- 2 We are part of the earth, and it is part of us.
Home (television movie) (1972). See the comment above for Perry 1.
- 3 I have seen a thousand rotting buffalos on the prairie, left by the white man who shot them from a passing train. I am a savage and I do not understand how the smoking iron horse can be more important than the buffalo that we kill only to stay alive.
Home (television movie) (1972). See the comment above for Perry 1.
- 4 The earth does not belong to man; man belongs to the earth.
Home (television movie) (1972). See the comment above for Perry 1.

- 5 All things are connected. Whatever befalls the earth befalls the sons of the earth. Man did not weave the web of life; he is merely a strand in it. Whatever he does to the web, he does to himself.

Home (television movie) (1972). See the comment above for Perry 1.

Fernando Pessoa

Portuguese writer, 1888–1935

- 1 The poet is a pretender.
He pretends so completely
That he even pretends that it is pain
The pain he really feels.
“Autopsicografia” (1932)
- 2 Was it worthy? Everything is worthy.
If the soul is not small.
“Mar Português” (1934)

Henri Philippe Pétain

French soldier and statesman, 1856–1951

- 1 They shall not pass.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 28 Apr. 1916. This exhortation at the Battle of Verdun is often said to first be recorded in General Nivelle’s Order of the Day, 23 June 1916, but the citation above predates that order.

Laurence J. Peter

Canadian author, 1919–1990

- 1 In a hierarchy, each employee tends to rise to his level of incompetence.
Phi Delta Kappan, Mar. 1967. Peter later called this “the Peter principle.”
See Scott Adams 1
- 2 Every post tends to be occupied by an employee incompetent to execute its duties.
Phi Delta Kappan, Mar. 1967
- 3 The work is done by people who have not yet attained final placement at their level of incompetence.
Quoted in Wall Street Journal, 8 June 1967

Thomas Peters

U.S. business author, 1942–

- 1 When’s the last time you washed a rental car?
Speech at Second National Labor-Management Conference, Washington, D.C., June 1984. Peters was quoting an anonymous Air Force officer.

Petrarch (Francesco Petrarca)

Italian poet and scholar, 1304–1374

- 1 We are continually dying; I while I am writing these words, you while you are reading them. I shall be dying when you read this, you die while I write, we both are dying, we all are dying, we are dying forever.
Letter to Philippe de Cabassoles, ca. 1360 (translation by Morris Bishop)

Pheidippides

Greek messenger, ca. 530 B.C.–ca. 490 B.C.

- 1 [Dying words, announcing victory over the Persians in the Battle of Marathon after running from Marathon to Athens:] Joy, we win!
Quoted in Lucian, “Pro Lapsu Inter Salutandum” (translation by F. G. Fowler and H. W. Fowler)

Kim Philby (Harold Adrian Russell Philby)

Indian-born English spy, 1912–1988

- 1 To betray, you must first belong. I never belonged.
Quoted in Sunday Times (London), 17 Dec. 1967

John Woodward Philip

U.S. naval officer, 1840–1900

- 1 [At the Battle of Santiago, 4 July 1898:] Don’t cheer boys. Those poor devils are dying.
Quoted in Wash. Post, 6 July 1898

Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh

Greek-born British prince consort, 1921–2021

- 1 I have very little experience of self-government. In fact, I am one of the most governed people in the world.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 30 Dec. 1959

A. A. Phillips

Australian literary critic, 1900–1985

- 1 We cannot shelter from invidious comparisons behind the barrier of a separate language; we have no long-established or interestingly different cultural tradition to give security and distinction to its interpreters; and the centrifugal pull of the great cultural metropolises works against us. Above our writers—and other artists—looms the intimidating mass of Anglo-Saxon achievement. Such a situation almost inevitably produces the characteristic Australian Cultural Cringe.

Meanjin vol. 9, no. 4 (1950)

Wendell Phillips

U.S. reformer, 1811–1884

- 1 There stands the bloody [fugitive slave] clause—you cannot fret the seal off the bond. The fault is in allowing such a constitution to live an hour. When I look upon these crowded thousands and see them trample on their consciences and the rights of their fellow-men, at the bidding of a piece of parchment, I say, my CURSE be on the Constitution of these United States.
Speech at Faneuil Hall, Boston, Mass., 30 Oct. 1842
- 2 The greatest praise government can win is, that its citizens know their rights, and dare to maintain them. The best use of good laws is to teach men to trample bad laws under their feet.
Speech, Boston, Mass., 12 Apr. 1852
- 3 One on God's side is a majority.
Speech on John Brown, Brooklyn, N.Y., 1 Nov. 1859
See Coolidge 2; Douglass 7; Andrew Jackson 7; John Knox 1; Thoreau 9
- 4 How prudently most men creep into nameless graves while now and then one or two forget themselves into immortality.
National Anti-Slavery Standard, 27 Apr. 1867

Jean Piaget

Swiss psychologist, 1896–1980

- 1 The child's first year of life is unfortunately still an abyss of mysteries for the psychologist. If only we could know what was going on in a baby's mind while observing him in action, we could certainly understand everything there is to psychology.

"La Première Année de l'Enfant" (1927)

Francesco Maria Piave

Italian librettist, 1810–1876

- 1 La donna è mobile.
Woman is fickle.

See Virgil 6

Pablo Picasso

Spanish painter, 1881–1973

- 1 We all know that Art is not truth. Art is a lie that makes us realize truth.
The Arts, May 1923
- 2 [Comment to Herbert Read while viewing an exhibition of children's drawings:] When I was the age of these children I could draw like Raphael: it took me many years to learn how to draw like these children.
Quoted in Times (London), 27 Oct. 1956
- 3 God is really only another artist. He invented the giraffe, the elephant, and the cat. He has no real style. He just goes on trying other things.
Quoted in Françoise Gilot and Carlton Lake, Life with Picasso (1964)
- 4 [Of computers:] They are useless. They can only give you answers.
Quoted in Paris Review, Summer–Fall 1964
- 5 When I was a child my mother said to me, "If you are a soldier, you will become a general. If you are a monk, you will become the Pope." Instead, I was a painter, and became Picasso.
Quoted in Françoise Gilot and Carlton Lake, Life with Picasso (1964)
- 6 [I am] only a public entertainer, who has understood his time.
Attributed in Wash. Post, 30 Nov. 1952. The Post article is quoting an article in Quick Magazine from the summer of 1951. According to a letter by William S. Rubin in the New York Times, 5 Jan. 1969, this is "a trumpety originated in Il Libro Nero published by Giovanni Papini in 1951."
- 7 Every child is an artist. The problem is how to remain an artist once he grows up.
Attributed in Time, 4 Oct. 1976

Marge Piercy

U.S. writer, 1936–

- 1 The pitcher cries for water to carry and a person for work that is real.
“To Be of Use” l. 26 (1973)
- 2 You called me bad and I posed like a gutter queen in a dress sewn of knives.
All I feared was being stuck in a box with a lid. A good woman appeared to me indistinguishable from a dead one except that she worked all the time.
“My Mother’s Body” l. 119 (1985)

James L. Pierpont

U.S. composer, 1822–1893

- 1 Dashing through the snow
On a one-horse open sleigh,
Over the fields we go,
Laughing all the way;
Bells on bob-tail ring,
Making spirits bright,
What fun it is to ride and sing
A sleighing song tonight.
“Jingle Bells” (song) (1857)
- 2 Jingle Bells, Jingle Bells,
Jingle all the way!
Oh what fun it is to ride
In a one-horse open sleigh.
“Jingle Bells” (song) (1857)

Steven Pinker

Canadian-born U.S. psychologist and linguist, 1954–

- 1 Believe it or not—and I know that most people do not—violence has declined over long stretches of time, and today we may be living in the most peaceable era in our species’ existence.
The Better Angels of Our Nature preface (2011)

Harold Pinter

English playwright, 1930–2008

- 1 [Response when asked what his plays were about:]
The weasel under the cocktail cabinet.
Quoted in J. Russell Taylor, Anger and After (1962)

Watty Piper (Arnold Munk)

Hungarian-born U.S. publisher, ca. 1888–1957

- 1 The Little Engine That Could.
Title of book (1930). A similar story with the same title had appeared in Olive B. Miller, My Book House (1920).
- 2 I think I can. I think I can. I think I can.
The Little Engine That Could (1930). Very similar phraseology occurs in many pre-1930 versions of the same story, beginning with a 1902 article by Gustaf
Cederschiöld in a Swedish academic journal, Nordisk Tidskrift För Vetenskap Konst Och Industri, using these English words: “I think I can. I think—I can.”

Luigi Pirandello

Italian playwright and novelist, 1867–1936

- 1 Six Characters in Search of an Author.
Title of play (1921)
- 2 Yes, but haven’t you perceived that it isn’t possible to live in front of a mirror which not only freezes us with the image of ourselves, but throws our likeness back at us with a horrible grimace?
Six Characters in Search of an Author act 3 (1921)

Robert M. Pirsig

U.S. writer and philosopher, 1928–2017

- 1 Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance.
Title of book (1974)
- 2 The Buddha, the Godhead, resides quite as comfortably in the circuits of a digital computer or the gears of a cycle transmission as he does at the top of a mountain or in the petals of a flower.
Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance pt. 1, ch. 1
(1974)
- 3 You are never dedicated to something you have complete confidence in. (No one is fanatically shouting that the sun is going to rise tomorrow.
They know it’s going to rise tomorrow.) When people are fanatically devoted to political or religious faiths or any other kinds of dogmas or goals, it’s always because these dogmas or goals are in doubt.
Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance pt. 2, ch. 13
(1974)

- 4 Other people can talk about how to expand the destiny of mankind. I just want to talk about how to fix a motorcycle. I think that what I have to say has more lasting value.

Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance pt. 3, ch. 25 (1974)

Walter B. Pitkin

U.S. writer and teacher, 1878–1953

- 1 Life Begins at Forty.
Title of book (1932)

William Pitt

British prime minister, 1759–1806

- 1 [Remark after Napoleon's victory at the Battle of Austerlitz, Dec. 1805]: Roll up that map [of Europe]; it will not be wanted these ten years.
Quoted in Earl Stanhope, Life of the Rt. Hon. William Pitt (1862)

William Pitt, Earl of Chatham

British prime minister, 1708–1778

- 1 The atrocious crime of being a young man . . . I shall neither attempt to palliate or deny.
Speech in House of Commons, 2 Mar. 1741
- 2 The poorest man may in his cottage bid defiance to all the forces of the Crown. It may be frail—its roof may shake—the wind may blow through it—the storm may enter—the rain may enter—but the King of England cannot enter!—all his force dares not cross the threshold of the ruined tenement!
Speech in House of Commons, ca. March 1763
See Coke 1; Coke 8; Otis 2
- 3 Unlimited power is apt to corrupt the minds of those who possess it.
Speech in House of Lords, 9 Jan. 1770
See Acton 3
- 4 There is something behind the throne greater than the King himself.
Speech in House of Lords, 2 Mar. 1770. Source of the phrase “power behind the throne.”

Pius IX (Giovanni Maria Mastai-Ferretti)

Italian pope, 1792–1878

- 1 We declare, pronounce, and define that the doctrine which holds that the most Blessed Virgin Mary, in the first instance of her conception, by a singular grace and privilege granted by Almighty God, in view of the merits of Jesus Christ, the Savior of the human race, was preserved free from all stain of original sin, is a doctrine revealed by God and therefore to be believed firmly and constantly by all the faithful.

“Dogma of the Immaculate Conception” (papal bull), 8 Dec. 1854

Francisco Pizarro

Spanish conquistador, ca. 1475–1541

- 1 Friends and comrades! On that side [the south] are toil, hunger, nakedness, the drenching storm, desertion, and death; on this side ease and pleasure. There lies Peru with its riches; here, Panama and its poverty. Choose, each man, what best becomes a brave Castilian. For my part, I go to the south.
Quoted in William H. Prescott, History of the Conquest of Peru (1848)

Max Planck

German physicist, 1858–1947

- 1 Anybody who has been seriously engaged in scientific work of any kind realizes that over the entrance to the gates of the temple of science are written the words: Ye must have faith. It is a quality which the scientist cannot dispense with.
Where Is Science Going? epilogue (1932)
- 2 A new scientific truth does not triumph by convincing its opponents and making them see the light, but rather because its opponents eventually die, and a new generation grows up that is familiar with it.
Scientific Autobiography, and Other Papers “Scientific Autobiography” (1948) (translation by Frank Gaynor)

Jacques Plante

Canadian hockey player, 1929–1986

- 1 How would you like a job where, every time you make a mistake, a big red light goes on and 18,000 people boo?
Quoted in J. R. Colombo, Colombo's All Time Great Canadian Quotations (1994)

Sylvia Plath

U.S. poet, 1932–1963

- 1 My boy, it's your last resort.
Will you marry it, marry it, marry it.
"The Applicant" l. 39 (1962)
- 2 It was a queer, sultry summer, the summer they executed the Rosenbergs, and I didn't know what I was doing in New York.
The Bell Jar ch. 1 (1963)
- 3 If neurotic is wanting two mutually exclusive things at one and the same time, then I'm neurotic as hell. I'll be flying back and forth between one mutually exclusive thing and another for the rest of my days.
The Bell Jar ch. 8 (1963)
- 4 To the person in the bell jar, blank and stopped as a dead baby, the world itself is the bad dream.
The Bell Jar ch. 20 (1963)
- 5 Every woman adores a Fascist,
The boot in the face, the brute
Brute heart of a brute like you.
"Daddy" l. 48 (1963)
- 6 Dying
Is an art, like everything else.
I do it exceptionally well.
I do it so it feels like hell
I do it so it feels real.
I guess you could say I've a call.
"Lady Lazarus" l. 43 (1963)
- 7 Out of the ash
I rise with my red hair
And I eat men like air.
"Lady Lazarus" l. 82 (1963)
- 8 The woman is perfected.
Her dead
Body wears the smile of accomplishment.
"Edge" l. 1 (1965)

Plato

Greek philosopher, 429 B.C.–347 B.C.

Translations and citation information are from The Collected Dialogues of Plato, ed. Edith Hamilton and Huntington Cairns (1961).

- 1 [Socrates speaking, describing the charge against him.] Socrates is guilty of corrupting the minds of the young, and of believing in deities of his own invention instead of the gods recognized by the state.

Apology 24b

- 2 [Socrates speaking.] Life without this sort of examination is not worth living.
Apology 38a. Frequently quoted as "The life which is unexamined is not worth living."

- 3 [Socrates speaking.] Is what is holy holy because the gods approve it, or do they approve it because it is holy?

Euthyphro 10a

- 4 [Of Socrates.] Such, Echecrates, was the end of our comrade, who was, we may fairly say, of all those whom we knew in our time, the bravest and also the wisest and most upright man.

Phaedo 118a

- 5 [Socrates speaking.] If men learn this [writing], it will implant forgetfulness in their souls; they will cease to exercise memory because they rely on that which is written, calling things to remembrance no longer from within themselves, but by means of external marks. . . . And it is no true wisdom that you offer your disciples, but only its semblance, for by telling them of many things without teaching them you will make them seem to know much, while for the most part they know nothing, and as men filled, not with wisdom, but with the conceit of wisdom, they will be a burden to their fellows.

Phaedrus 275a

- 6 [Thrasymachus speaking.] I affirm that the just is nothing else than the advantage of the stronger.
The Republic bk. 1, 338c

- 7 [Socrates speaking.] Unless either philosophers become kings in our states or those whom we now call our kings and rulers take to the pursuit of philosophy seriously and adequately, and there is a conjunction of these two things, political power and philosophical intelligence, while the motley horde of the natures who at present pursue either apart from the other are compulsorily excluded, there can be no cessation of troubles, dear Glaucon, for our states, nor, I fancy, for the human race either.

Nor, until this happens, will this constitution which we have been expounding in theory ever be put into practice within the limits of possibility and see the light of the sun.

The Republic bk. 5, 473c

- 8 [Socrates speaking:] Picture men dwelling in a sort of subterranean cavern with a long entrance open to the light on its entire width. . . . Like to us. . . . Tell me do you think that these men would have seen anything of themselves or of one another except the shadows cast from the fire on the wall of the cave that fronted them?

The Republic bk. 7, 514a

- 9 [Socrates speaking:] Democracy . . . would, it seems, be a delightful form of government, anarchic and motley, assigning a kind of equality indiscriminately to equals and unequals alike!

The Republic bk. 8, 558c

- 10 [Socrates speaking:] Let us suppose that every mind contains a kind of aviary stocked with birds of every sort, some in flocks apart from the rest, some in small groups, and some solitary, flying in any direction among them all. . . . When we are babies we must suppose this receptacle empty, and take the birds to stand for pieces of knowledge. Whenever a person acquires any piece of knowledge and shuts it up in his enclosure, we must say he has learned or discovered the thing of which this is the knowledge, and that is what “knowing” means.

Theaetetus 197e

- 11 God ever geometrizes.

Attributed in Plutarch, Moralia

Plautus

Roman playwright, ca. 250 B.C.–184 B.C.

- 1 Lupus est homo homini, non homo.

A man is a wolf rather than a man to another man.

Asinaria l. 495
See Vanzetti 1

- 2 No host can be hospitable enough to prevent a friend who has descended on him from becoming tiresome after three days.

Miles Gloriosus l. 741

- 3 Things which you do not hope happen more frequently than things which you do hope.

- 4 Dictum sapienti sat est.

A sentence is enough for a sensible man.

Persa l. 729. Source of the proverb Verbum sapienti sat est (A word is enough for the wise).

Willis Player

U.S. business executive, 1915–1995

- 1 A liberal is a person whose interests aren't at stake at the moment.

Quoted in Reader's Digest, Nov. 1966

Georgi Valentinovich Plekhanov

Russian political philosopher and revolutionary, 1857–1918

- 1 He [Hegel] proved that we are free only insofar as we know the laws of nature and sociohistorical development and insofar as we, submitting to them, rely upon them. This was a tremendous gain in the field of philosophy and also in that of social science again which, however, only modern, dialectical materialism has exploited to the full.

“For the Sixtieth Anniversary of Hegel's Death”

(1891). Earliest known usage of dialectical materialism.

Pliny the Elder

Roman scholar, 23–79

- 1 Semper aliquid novi Africam adferre.

Africa always brings something new.

Historia Naturalis bk. 8, sec. 42. Frequently quoted as “Ex Africa semper aliquid novi” (always something new out of Africa). Pliny refers to it as a Greek proverb.

- 2 Addito salis grano.

With the addition of a grain of salt.

Historia Naturalis bk. 23, sec. 149. Usually quoted as “Cum grano salis” (with a grain of salt). The reference is to salt being added to Pompey's antidote to poison.

William Plomer

South African–born English writer, 1903–1973

- 1 On a sofa upholstered in human skin

Mona did researches in original sin.

“Mews Flat Mona: A Memory of the ‘Twenties’” l. 22 (1940)

George Washington Plunkitt

U.S. politician, 1842–1924

- 1 There's an honest graft, and I'm an example of how it works. I might sum up the whole thing by sayin': "I seen my opportunities and I took 'em."

Plunkitt of Tammany Hall "Honest Graft and Dishonest Graft" (1905)

Plutarch

Greek biographer, ca. 46–ca. 120

- 1 As geographers, Sosius, crowd into the edges of their maps parts of the world which they do not know about, adding notes in the margin to the effect that beyond this lies nothing but sandy deserts full of wild beasts, and unapproachable bogs.

Parallel Lives "Theseus" sec. 1

- 2 For we are told that when a certain man was accusing both of them to him, he [Julius Caesar] said that he had no fear of those fat and long-haired fellows, but rather of those pale and thin ones [Brutus and Cassius].

Edgar Allan Poe

U.S. writer, 1809–1849

- 1 Thy Naiad airs have brought me home,
To the glory that was Greece
And the grandeur that was Rome.
"To Helen" l. 8 (1831)
- 2 They who dream by day are cognizant of many things which escape those who dream only by night.
"Eleonora" (1841)
- 3 It appears to me that this mystery is considered insoluble, for the very reason which should cause it to be regarded as easy of solution—I mean for the outré character of its features.
"The Murders in the Rue Morgue" (1841)

- 4 True!—nervous—very, very dreadfully nervous I had been and am; but why will you say that I am mad? The disease had sharpened my senses—not destroyed—not dulled them.
"The Tell-Tale Heart" (1843)

- 5 I admit the deed!—tear up the planks! here, here!—It is the beating of his hideous heart!
"The Tell-Tale Heart" (1843)

- 6 Once upon a midnight dreary, while I pondered, weak and weary,
Over many a quaint and curious volume of forgotten lore,
While I nodded, nearly napping, suddenly there came a tapping,
As of someone gently rapping, rapping at my chamber door.
"The Raven" l. 1 (1845)

- 7 Ah, distinctly I remember it was in the bleak December;
And each separate dying ember wrought its ghost upon the floor.
Eagerly I wished the morrow,—vainly had I sought to borrow
From my books surcease of sorrow—sorrow for the lost Lenore—
For the rare and radiant maiden whom the angels name Lenore—
Nameless here for evermore.
And the silken, sad, uncertain rustling of each purple curtain
Thrilled me—filled me with fantastic terrors never felt before.
"The Raven" l. 7 (1845)

- 8 Deep into that darkness peering, long I stood there wondering, fearing,
Doubting, dreaming dreams no mortal ever dared to dream before.
“The Raven” l. 25 (1845)
- 9 “Ghastly grim and ancient Raven wandering from the Nightly shore—
Tell me what the lordly name is on the Night’s Plutonian shore!”
Quoth the Raven, “Nevermore.”
“The Raven” l. 46 (1845)
- 10 “Prophet!” said I, “thing of evil!—prophet still,
if bird or devil!”
“The Raven” l. 85 (1845)
- 11 Take thy beak from out my heart, and take thy form from off my door!
Quoth the Raven, “Nevermore.”
“The Raven” l. 101 (1845)
- 12 And the Raven, never flitting, still is sitting, still is sitting,
On the pallid bust of Pallas just above my chamber door.
“The Raven” l. 103 (1845)
- 13 And his eyes have all the seeming of a demon’s that is dreaming.
“The Raven” l. 105 (1845)
- 14 And my soul from out that shadow that lies floating on the floor
Shall be lifted—nevermore!
“The Raven” l. 107 (1845)
- 15 And this maiden she lived with no other thought
Than to love and be loved by me.
“Annabel Lee” l. 5 (1849)
- 16 I was a child and she was a child,
In this kingdom by the sea;
But we loved with a love that was more than love—
I and my Annabel Lee—
With a love that the winged seraphs of Heaven
Coveted her and me.
“Annabel Lee” l. 7 (1849)
- 17 In her sepulchre there by the sea,
In her tomb by the sounding sea.
“Annabel Lee” l. 40 (1849)

- 18 While the stars that oversprinkle
All the heavens, seem to twinkle
With a crystalline delight;
Keeping time, time, time,
In a sort of Runic rhyme,
To the tintinnabulation that so musically wells
From the bells, bells, bells, bells,
Bells, bells, bells.
“The Bells” l. 6 (1849)
- 19 All that we see or seem
Is but a dream within a dream.
“A Dream Within a Dream” l. 10 (1849)

Henri Poincaré

French mathematician, 1854–1912

- 1 Thought is only a gleam in the midst of a long night. But it is this gleam which is everything.
The Value of Science (1904) (translation by George B.
Halsted)
- 2 Sociology is the science with the greatest number of methods and the least results.
Science et Méthode ch. 1 (1908)
- 3 To doubt everything or to believe everything are two equally convenient solutions; both dispense with the necessity of reflection.
Quoted in Bertrand Russell, preface to Science and Method (1913) (the English translation of Poincaré’s book).

John M. Poindexter

U.S. naval officer and government official, 1936–

- 1 [Of the Iran-Contra arms-for-hostages scheme:] I made a very deliberate decision not to ask the President, so that I could insulate him from the decision and provide some future deniability
for him if it ever leaked out.
Testimony at Iran-Contra congressional hearings,
15 July 1987

Political Slogans

- 1 All power to the Soviets.
Slogan of workers in Petrograd (1917)
- 2 All the Way with LBJ [Lyndon B. Johnson].
Democratic campaign slogan (1964)
- 3 America: Love It or Leave It.
Pro-Vietnam War slogan
See Kahn 6; Dorothy Parker 16

- 4 As Maine goes, so goes the nation.
U.S. political saying (ca. 1840)
See Farley 1
- 5 Ban the bomb.
Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament slogan (1953)
- 6 Better dead than Red.
Anti-Communist slogan. May have originated with Josef Goebbels's propaganda phrase during World War II, "Lieber tot als rot."
See Political Slogans 7
- 7 Better Red than dead.
Nuclear disarmament slogan of late 1950s
See Political Slogans 6
- 8 Black is beautiful.
Civil rights slogan of mid-1960s
See Bible 156; Langston Hughes 5
- 9 Blaine, Blaine, Blaine,
The continental liar from the State of Maine.
Democratic campaign jingle (1884)
- 10 Burn, baby, burn!
African-American militant slogan (1965)
- 11 Change we can believe in.
Democratic campaign slogan (2008)
- 12 A Chicken in Every Pot, A Car in Every Garage.
Republican campaign slogan (1928)
See Henri IV 1; Herbert Hoover 3
- 13 Ein Reich, ein Volk, ein Führer.
One realm, one people, one leader.
Nazi Party slogan of early 1930s
- 14 Fifty-four Forty or Fight.
Slogan of proponents of expansionism (1846). Frequently said to be a slogan of the war party in the 1844 presidential campaign and to have been originated by Senator William Allen of Ohio. However, Hans Sperber and Travis Trittschuh, in American Political Terms: An Historical Dictionary, state that this "is nothing but an unfounded, though amazingly stubborn legend. We have failed to find it in sources of that year [1844], and we can state confidently that it was not used in Allen's senatorial speeches." The earliest known occurrence of the slogan was in the Dollar Newspaper (Philadelphia, Pa.), 8 Apr. 1846, where it is humorously spelled "Phifty-Phour Phorthy or Phight." (54°40' is the latitude of the disputed Oregon territory.)
- 15 Get the Government Off Our Backs.
Republican campaign slogan (1980)
- 16 Give 'em hell, Harry.
Democratic campaign slogan (1948)
See Truman 7
- 17 Guns don't die, people die.
Slogan of supporters of gun control
- 18 Guns don't kill people, people kill people.
Slogan of opponents of gun control
- 19 Hell no, we won't go!
Anti-Vietnam War slogan
- 20 Hey, hey, LBJ, how many kids did you kill today?
Anti-Vietnam War slogan
- 21 I Like Ike.
Republican campaign slogan (1952). These words, referring to Dwight D. Eisenhower, appeared on buttons as early as 1947.
- 22 I'll give up my gun when they pry it from my cold dead hands.
National Rifle Association slogan
- 23 [Referring to Barry Goldwater:] In Your Heart You Know He's Right.
Republican campaign slogan (1964)
- 24 Keep Cool with Coolidge.
Republican campaign slogan (1924)
- 25 Ma! Ma! Where's my pa? Gone to the White House, ha, ha, ha!
Democratic campaign jingle (1884). The first part of this was a jibe by hecklers at Democratic candidate Grover Cleveland, referring to his alleged fathering of a child out of wedlock; the second part was the Democrats' rejoinder.
- 26 Make America great again.
Donald Trump campaign slogan (2016)
See Macron 1
- 27 Nixon's the One.
Republican campaign slogan (1968)
- 28 Power to the people.
Black Panther Party slogan (ca. 1968)
- 29 Prosperity Is Just Around the Corner.
Republican campaign slogan (1932)
- 30 Save the Whales.
Animal Welfare Institute slogan (1971)
- 31 Soak the Rich.
Slogan associated with progressive taxation
- 32 Tippecanoe and Tyler too.
Whig campaign slogan (1840)
- 33 Turn the rascals out!
Liberal Republican campaign slogan (1872)

- 34 We'll stand pat!
Republican campaign slogan (1900)
- 35 What Britain needs is an iron lady.
Conservative campaign slogan (1979)
- 36 When guns are outlawed, only outlaws will have guns.
Slogan of opponents of gun control
- 37 The whole world is watching.
Chant of demonstrators at Democratic National Convention, Chicago, Ill. (1968)
- 38 Would you buy a used car from this man?
Anti-Richard Nixon slogan (1960)
- 39 Yes, we can!
Democratic Barack Obama campaign slogan for Illinois senator (2004) and U.S. president (2008). The United Farm Workers earlier used the slogan "Sí se puede (Yes, it can be done)."
See Toussaint 1

Katha Pollitt

U.S. author, 1949–

- I When you consider that God could have commanded anything he wanted—anything!—the Ten have got to rank as one of the great missed moral opportunities of all time. How different history would have been had he clearly and unmistakably forbidden war, tyranny, taking over other people's countries, slavery, exploitation of workers, cruelty to children, wife-beating, stoning, treating women—or anyone—as chattel or inferior beings.
Nation, 4 Sept. 2003

Jackson Pollock

U.S. painter, 1912–1956

- I There was a reviewer a while back who wrote that my pictures didn't have any beginning or any end. He didn't mean it as a compliment, but it was. It was a fine compliment.
Interview, New Yorker, 5 Aug. 1950

Marco Polo

Italian traveler, 1254–1324

- I ["Last words":] I have not told half of what I saw.
Attributed in Jacopo d'Acqui, Imago Mundi seu Chronica (ca. 1330)

John Pomfret

English clergyman, 1667–1702

- I We live and learn, but not the wiser grow.
"Reason" l. 112 (1700)

Madame de Pompadour (Jeanne-Antoinette Poisson)

French royal favorite, 1721–1764

- I Après nous le déluge.
After us the deluge.
Quoted in Madame du Hausset, Mémoires (1824). Said to be Pompadour's response to Louis XV after the French defeat in the Battle of Rossbach, 5 Nov. 1757. Some sources attribute the comment to the king himself. In reality, it predated 1757 in French proverbial usage. "Après nous le Déluge" appeared in Les Principales Aventures de l'Admirable Don Quichotte (1746).

Alexander Pope

English poet, 1688–1744

- I A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring:

- There shallow draughts intoxicate the brain,
And drinking largely sobers us again.
An Essay on Criticism l. 215 (1711). Often misquoted as "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing."
See Drayton 2
- 2 True wit is Nature to advantage dressed,
What oft was thought, but ne'er so well expressed.
An Essay on Criticism l. 297 (1711)
- 3 True ease in writing comes from art, not chance,
As those move easiest who learn'd to dance.
'Tis not enough no harshness gives offence,
The sound must seem an echo to the sense.
An Essay on Criticism l. 362 (1711)
- 4 To err is human; to forgive, divine.
An Essay on Criticism l. 525 (1711). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes, "Although known in Latin (humanum est errare, it is human to err) and in earlier English versions, this saying is generally quoted in Pope's words." The ODP cites "To offend is humane, to repent diuine" (Henry Wotton, 1578) and "To erre is humane, to repent is divine" (James Howell, 1659).
- 5 Fools rush in where angels fear to tread.

The Logic of Scientific Discovery ch. 1 (1934)

Cole Porter

U.S. songwriter, 1891–1964

- 1 Night and day you are the one,
Only you beneath the moon and under the sun.
"Night and Day" (song) (1932)
- 2 In olden days, a glimpse of stocking
Was looked on as something shocking,
But now, God knows,
Anything goes.
"Anything Goes" (song) (1934)
- 3 Good authors too who once knew better words
Now only use four-letter words,
Writing prose,
Anything goes.
"Anything Goes" (song) (1934)
- 4 Times have changed,
And we've often rewound the clock,
Since the Puritans got a shock,

- When they landed on Plymouth Rock.
If today,
Any shock they should try to stem,
'Stead of landing on Plymouth Rock,
Plymouth Rock would land on them.
"Anything Goes" (song) (1934)
See Malcolm X 2
- 5 I get no kick from champagne.
Mere alcohol doesn't thrill me at all,
So tell me why should it be true
That I get a kick out of you?
"I Get a Kick Out of You" (song) (1934)
- 6 You're the top!
You're the Colosseum.
You're the top!
You're the Louvre Museum.
"You're the Top" (song) (1934)
- 7 You're a melody from a symphony by Strauss,
You're a Bendel bonnet,
A Shakespeare sonnet,
You're Mickey Mouse.
"You're the Top" (song) (1934)
- 8 You're the Nile,
You're the Tow'r of Pisa,
You're the smile
On the Mona Lisa.
"You're the Top" (song) (1934)
- 9 You're the top!
You're Mahatma Gandhi.
You're the top!
You're Napoleon brandy.
"You're the Top" (song) (1934)
- 10 I'm a toy balloon that is fated soon to pop,
But if, baby, I'm the bottom
You're the top!
"You're the Top" (song) (1934)
- 11 When they begin the beguine
It brings back the sound of music so tender,
It brings back a night of tropical splendor,
It brings back a memory ever green.
"Begin the Beguine" (song) (1935)
- 12 It was just one of those things,
Just one of those crazy flings,
One of those bells that now and then rings,
Just one of those things.
"Just One of Those Things" (song) (1935)
- 13 It was just one of those nights,
Just one of those fabulous flights,
A trip to the moon on gossamer wings,
Just one of those things.
"Just One of Those Things" (song) (1935)
- 14 It's delightful, it's delicious, it's de-lovely.
"It's De-Lovely" (song) (1936)
- 15 I've got you under my skin,
I've got you deep in the heart of me,
So deep in my heart, you're really a part of me,
I've got you under my skin.
"I've Got You Under My Skin" (song) (1936)
- 16 My Heart Belongs to Daddy.
Title of song (1938)
- 17 Oh, give me land, lots of land under starry skies above,
Don't fence me in.
"Don't Fence Me In" (song) (1944). The lyrics for this song closely follow a song written by Bob Fletcher, for which Porter purchased the rights.
- 18 I want to ride to the ridge where the West
commences,
Gaze at the moon till I lose my senses,
Can't look at hobbles and I can't stand fences,
Don't fence me in.
"Don't Fence Me In" (song) (1944)
- 19 Ev'ry time we say goodbye
I die a little,
Ev'ry time we say goodbye
I wonder why a little.
"Ev'ry Time We Say Goodbye" (song) (1944)
- 20 But I'm always true to you, darlin', in my fashion,
Yes, I'm always true to you, darlin', in my way.
"Always True to You in My Fashion" (song) (1948)
See Dowson 1
- 21 All the world loves a clown.
"Be a Clown" (song) (1948)
- 22 Brush up your Shakespeare,
Start quoting him now.
"Brush Up Your Shakespeare" (song) (1948)
- 23 I love Paris in the springtime.
"I Love Paris" (song) (1953)
- 24 I love the look of you, the lure of you
The sweet of you, and the pure of you

The eyes, the arms, and the mouth of you
The east, west, north, and the south of you.
“All of You” (song) (1954)

- 25 Birds do it, bees do it,
Even educated fleas do it.
Let’s do it, let’s fall in love.
“Let’s Do It” (song) (1954). These words were added to the original 1928 song, replacing lines including “Chinks do it, Japs do it” because Porter realized that those lyrics were offensive.

- 26 Who Wants to Be a Millionaire?
Title of song (1956)

Eleanor Porter

U.S. novelist, 1868–1920

- 1 Pollyanna.
Title of book (1913)

Katherine Anne Porter

U.S. writer, 1890–1980

- 1 Miracles are instantaneous, they cannot be summoned, but come of themselves, usually at unlikely moments and to those who least expect them.
Ship of Fools pt. 3 (1962)

Robert P. Porter

U.S. government official, 1852–1917

- 1 Up to and including 1880 the country had a frontier of settlement, but at present the unsettled area has been so broken into by isolated bodies of settlement that there can hardly be said to be a frontier line. In the discussion of its extent and its westward movement it can not, therefore, any longer have a place in the census reports.

Beilby Porteus

English poet and bishop, 1731–1808

- 1 One murder made a villain,
Millions a hero.
Death l. 154 (1759)
See Jean Rostand 1; Edward Young 3

- 2 Teach him how to live,
And, oh! still harder lesson! how to die.
Death l. 319 (1759)
See Montaigne 7

Beatrix Potter

English children’s book writer, 1866–1943

- 1 Once upon a time there were four little Rabbits, and their names were Flopsy, Mopsy, Cotton-tail, and Peter.
The Tale of Peter Rabbit (1902)
- 2 Don’t go into Mr. McGregor’s garden: your father had an accident there, he was put into a pie by Mrs. McGregor.
The Tale of Peter Rabbit (1902)

- 3 NO MORE TWIST.
The Tailor of Gloucester (1903)

- 4 But Tom Kitten has always been afraid of a rat; he never durst face anything that is bigger than—A Mouse.
The Tale of Samuel Whiskers (1908)

Stephen Potter

English writer and radio producer, 1900–1969

- 1 What is gamesmanship? . . . “The Art of Winning Games Without Actually Cheating”—that is my personal “working definition.”
The Theory and Practice of Gamesmanship ch. 1 (1947)
- 2 One-Upmanship.
Title of book (1952)

Eugène Pottier

French politician, 1816–1887

- 1 Debout! les damnés de la terre!
Debout! les forçats de la faim!
La raison tonne en son cratère,
C’est l’éruption de la fin . . .
Nous ne sommes rien, soyons tout!
C’est la lutte finale
Groupons-nous, et, demain,
L’Internationale
Sera le genre humain.
On your feet, you damned souls of the earth!
On your feet, inmates of hunger’s prison!
Reason is rumbling in its crater, and its final eruption is on its way. . . . We are nothing, let us be everything! This is the final conflict: let us form up and, tomorrow, the International will encompass the human race.

"L'Internationale" (song) (1871)

Ezra Pound

U.S. poet, 1885–1972

- 1 Poetry is about as much a "criticism of life" as red-hot iron is a criticism of fire.

The Spirit of Romance ch. 9 (1910)

- 2 Poetry must be as well written as prose.

Letter to Harriet Monroe, Jan. 1915

- 3 Objectivity and again objectivity, and expression: no hindside-before-ness, no straddled adjectives ("as addled mosses dank"), no Tennysonianness of speech;
nothing—nothing that you couldn't, in some circumstance, in the stress of some emotion, actually say.

Letter to Harriet Monroe, Jan. 1915

- 4 The apparition of these faces in the crowd;
Petals on a wet, black bough.

"In a Station of the Metro" l. 1 (1916)

- 5 I make a pact with you, Walt Whitman—
I have detested you long enough.

"A Pact" l. 1 (1916)

- 6 We have one sap and one root—
Let there be commerce between us.

"A Pact" l. 8 (1916)

- 7 Your mind and you are our Sargasso Sea.

"Portrait d'une Femme" l. 1 (1916)

- 8 Winter is icummen in,
Lhude sing Goddamm,
Raineth drop and staineth slop,
And how the wind doth ramm!

"Ancient Music" l. 1 (1917)

- 9 For three years, out of key with his time,
He strove to resuscitate the dead art
Of poetry; to maintain "the sublime"
In the old sense. Wrong from the start—
No, hardly, but seeing he had been born
In a half savage country, out of date.

Hugh Selwyn Mauberley "E. P. Ode Pour l'Élection de
Son Sépulchre" l. 1 (1920)

- 10 His true Penelope was Flaubert,
He fished by obstinate isles;
Observed the elegance of Circe's hair
Rather than the mottoes on sun-dials.

Hugh Selwyn Mauberley "E. P. Ode Pour l'Élection de
Son Sépulchre" l. 13 (1920)

- 11 Unaffected by "the march of events,"
He passed from men's memory in l'an
trentuniesme

De son eage; the case presents
No adjunct to the Muses' diadem.

Hugh Selwyn Mauberley "E. P. Ode Pour l'Élection de
Son Sépulchre" l. 17 (1920)

- 12 The age demanded an image
Of its accelerated grimace,
Something for the modern stage,
Not, at any rate, an Attic grace.

Hugh Selwyn Mauberley "E. P. Ode Pour l'Élection de
Son Sépulchre" l. 21 (1920)

- 13 Better mendacities
Than the classics in paraphrase!

Hugh Selwyn Mauberley "E. P. Ode Pour l'Élection de
Son Sépulchre" l. 27 (1920)

- 14 There died a myriad,
And of the best among them,
For an old bitch gone in the teeth,
For a botched civilization.

Hugh Selwyn Mauberley "E. P. Ode Pour l'Élection de
Son Sépulchre" l. 88 (1920)

- 15 Lie quiet Divus.
Cantos no. 1, l. 68 (1925)

- 16 Hang it all, Robert Browning, there can be but the one "Sordello."
Cantos no. 2, l. 1 (1925)

- 17 And even I can remember
A day when the historians left blanks in their writings,
I mean for things they didn't know.
Cantos no. 13, l. 69 (1925)
- 18 Great literature is simply language charged with meaning to the utmost possible degree.
How to Read pt. 2 (1931)
- 19 Literature is news that STAYS news.
The ABC of Reading ch. 2 (1934)
- 20 Genius is the capacity to see ten things where the ordinary man sees one, and the man of talent sees two or three, PLUS the ability to register that multiple perception in the material of his art.
Jefferson and/or Mussolini ch. 23 (1935)
- 21 With usura hath no man a house of good stone each block cut smooth and well fitting.
Cantos no. 45, l. 1 (1937)
- 22 No picture is made to endure nor to live with but it is made to sell and sell quickly with usura, sin against nature, is thy bread ever more of stale rags
is thy bread dry as paper.
Cantos no. 45, l. 11 (1937)
- 23 Usura slayeth the child in the womb
It stayeth the young man's courting
It hath brought palsey to bed, lyeth between the young bride and her bridegroom
CONTRA NATURAM
They have brought whores for Eleusis
Corpses are set to banquet at behest of usura.
Cantos no. 45, l. 42 (1937)
- 24 What thou lovest well remains, the rest is dross
What thou lov'st well shall not be reft from thee
What thou lov'st well is thy true heritage
Whose world, or mine or theirs or is it of none?
First came the seen, then thus the palpable
Elysium, though it were in the halls of hell.
Cantos no. 81, l. 134 (1948)
- 25 The ant's a centaur in his dragon world.
Pull down thy vanity, it is not man
Made courage, or made order, or made grace,
Pull down thy vanity, I say pull down.
Cantos no. 81, l. 144 (1948)
- 26 Learn of the green world what can be thy place
In scaled invention or true artistry,
Pull down thy vanity,
Paquin pull down!
The green casque has outdone your elegance.
Cantos no. 81, l. 148 (1948)
- 27 Thou art a beaten dog beneath the hail,
A swollen magpie in a fitful sun,
Half black half white
Nor knowst'ou wing from tail.
Cantos no. 81, l. 155 (1948)
- 28 To have gathered from the air a live tradition or from a fine old eye the unconquered flame
This is not vanity.
Here error is all in the not done,
all in the diffidence that faltered.
Cantos no. 81, l. 170 (1948)
- 29 America, my country, is almost a continent and hardly yet a nation.
Patria Mia pt. 1, sec. 1 (1950)
- 30 But the beauty is not the madness
Tho' my errors and wrecks lie about me.
And I am not a demigod,
I cannot make it cohere.
Cantos no. 116, l. 26 (1972)

Roscoe Pound

U.S. legal scholar, 1870–1964

- 1 Law must be stable and yet it cannot stand still.
Interpretations of Legal History Lecture 1 (1923)

Nicolas Poussin

French painter, 1594–1665

- 1 The grand manner consists of four elements:
subject or theme, concept, structure, and style.
The first requirement, fundamental to all the others, is that the subject and the narrative be grandiose, such as battles, heroic actions, and religious themes.
Quoted in Giovanni Pietro Bellori, Lives of the Modern Painters, Sculptors and Architects (1672)

Hortense Powdermaker

U.S. anthropologist, 1896–1970

- 1 South Sea natives who have been exposed to American movies classify them into two types, “kiss-kiss” and “bang-bang.”

Adam Clayton Powell, Jr.

U.S. politician, 1908–1972

- 1 To demand these God-given rights is to seek black power.

Baccalaureate address at Howard University, Washington, D.C., 29 May 1966

See Carmichael 2; Richard Wright 3

- 2 A man's respect for law and order exists in precise relationship to the size of his paycheck.

Keep the Faith, Baby! “Black Power: A Form of Godly Power” (1967)

- 3 Keep the faith, Baby.

Quoted in Wash. Post, 10 Oct. 1966

See Bible 379

Anthony Powell

English novelist, 1905–2000

- 1 All women are stimulated by the news that any wife has left any husband.

The Acceptance World ch. 4 (1955)

Colin Powell

U.S. government official and military leader, 1937–

- 1 Our strategy to go after this [Iraq's] army is very, very simple. First, we are going to cut it off, and then we are going to kill it.

News conference, 23 Jan. 1991

- 2 We have gone forth from our shores repeatedly over the last hundred years and we've done this as recently as the last year in Afghanistan and put wonderful young men and women at risk, many of whom have lost their lives, and we have asked for nothing except enough ground to bury them in.

Remarks at World Economic Forum, Davos, Switzerland, 26 Jan. 2003

- 3 There can be no doubt that Saddam Hussein has biological weapons and the capability to rapidly produce more, many more.

Speech to United Nations Security Council, New York, N.Y., 5 Feb. 2003

- 4 [Comment during lead-up to Iraq War, upon being reminded that George W. Bush claimed to sleep like a baby:] I sleep like a baby, too—every two hours I wake up screaming.

Quoted in New Yorker, 10 Feb. 2003

Lewis F. Powell, Jr.

U.S. judge, 1907–1998

- 1 Under the First Amendment there is no such thing as a false idea. However pernicious an opinion may seem, we depend for its correction not on the conscience of judges and juries but on the competition of other ideas.

Gertz v. Robert Welch, Inc. (1974)

Thomas Reed Powell

U.S. legal scholar, 1880–1955

- 1 If you think that you can think about a thing inextricably attached to something else without thinking of the thing which it is attached to, then you have a legal mind.

Quoted in Thurman W. Arnold, The Symbols of Government (1935)

Helen Prejean

U.S. nun and activist, 1939–

- 1 [On her opposition to the death penalty:] People are more than the worst thing they have ever done in their lives.

Quoted in N.Y. Times Magazine, 9 May 1993

Elvis Presley

U.S. singer, 1935–1977

- 1 Love me tender, love me sweet,
Never let me go.

“Love Me Tender” (song) (1956). Cowritten with Vera Matson.

- 2 I don't know anything about music. In my line you don't have to.

Quoted in Robert Byrne, The Other 637 Best Things Anybody Ever Said (1984)

Jacques Prévert

French poet and screenwriter, 1900–1977

- 1 Je suis comme je suis
Je suis faite comme ça.
 I am what I am
 I am made like that.
Paroles “Je Suis Comme Je Suis” (1945)
See Segar 2

Marcel Prévošt

French novelist and playwright, 1862–1941

- 1 Les Demi-Vierges.
 The Demi-Virgins.
 Title of book (1894)

Prince (Prince Rogers Nelson)

U.S. rock musician, 1958–2016

- 1 Tonight I’m gonna party like it’s nineteen ninety nine.
 “1999” (song) (1982)
- 2 I never meant to cause you any sorrow
 I never meant to cause you any pain
 I only wanted to one time see you laughing
 I only wanted to see you laughing in the purple rain.
 “Purple Rain” (song) (1984)
- 3 Dream if you will a courtyard
 An ocean of violets in bloom
 Animals strike curious poses
 They feel the heat
 Between me and you.
 “When Doves Cry” (song) (1984)

Matthew Prior

English poet, 1664–1721

- 1 No, no; for my virginity,
 When I lose that, says Rose, I’ll die:
 Behind the elms last night, cried Dick,
 Rose, were you not extremely sick?
 “A True Maid” (1718)

V. S. (Victor Sawdon) Pritchett

English writer and critic, 1900–1997

- 1 The principle of procrastinated rape is said to be the ruling one in all the great best-sellers.
The Living Novel “Clarissa” (1946)

Adelaide Ann Procter

English poet, 1825–1864

- 1 A Lost Chord.
 Title of poem (1858)
- 2 Seated one day at the organ,
 I was weary and ill at ease,
 And my fingers wandered idly
 Over the noisy keys.
 “A Lost Chord” l. 1 (1858)
- 3 But I struck one chord of music,
 Like the sound of a great Amen.
 “A Lost Chord” l. 7 (1858)
- 4 No star is ever lost we once have seen,
 We always may be what we might have been.
 “A Legend of Provence” l. 284 (1861)

Propertius

Roman poet, ca. 54 B.C.–A.D. 2

- 1 There are two sides to every question.
 Quoted in Diogenes Laertius, Lives of Eminent Philosophers
- 2 Man is the measure of all things.
 Quoted in Plato, Theaetetus

Pierre-Joseph Proudhon

French reformer, 1809–1865

- 1 La propriété c’est le vol.
 Property is theft.
Qu’est-ce que la Propriété? (What Is Property?) ch. 1
 (1840)
- 2 La Guerre et la Paix.
 War and Peace.
 Title of book (1862). Cassell Companion to Quotations, ed. Nigel Rees, notes that, according to Henry Troyat’s biography of Tolstoy, the latter borrowed the title of his novel from Proudhon.

Annie Proulx

U.S. writer, 1935–

- 1 You know, one of the tragedies of real life is that there is no background music.
The Shipping News ch. 10 (1993)
- 2 For if Jack Buggit could escape from the pickle jar, if a bird with a broken neck could fly away, what else might be possible? Water may be older than light, diamonds crack in hot goat's blood, mountaintops give off cold fire, forests appear in mid-ocean, it may happen that a crab is caught with the shadow of a hand on its back, that the wind be imprisoned in a bit of knotted string. And it may be that love sometimes occurs without pain or misery.
The Shipping News ch. 39 (1993)
- 3 I wish I knew how to quit you.
"Brokeback Mountain" (1997)

Marcel Proust

French novelist, 1871–1922

- 1 À la Recherche du Temps Perdu.
In Search of Lost Time.
Title of multivolume book (1913–1927). Translated into English by C. K. Scott Moncrieff (1922–1931) with the title Remembrance of Things Past.
See Shakespeare 417
- 2 For a long time I used to go to bed early.
Du Côté de Chez Swann (Swann's Way) (1913)
(translation by C. K. Scott Moncrieff and Terence Kilmartin)
- 3 And suddenly the memory revealed itself. The taste was that of the little piece of madeleine which . . . my aunt Léonie used to give me, dipping it first in her own cup of tea or tisane.
Du Côté de Chez Swann (Swann's Way) (1913)
(translation by C. K. Scott Moncrieff and Terence Kilmartin)
- 4 Everything we think of as great has come to us from neurotics. It is they and they alone who found religions and create great works of art. The world will never realize how much it owes to them and what they have suffered in order to bestow their gifts on it.
Le Côté de Guermantes (The Guermantes Way) pt. 1 (1921). George Seldes, The Great Thoughts, quotes Ramon Guthrie: "This passage was meant to show what fools people who are capable of uttering such idiocies are. . . . It is slap-stick irony that Proust puts into the mouth of a fool (Boulbon) in order to show what a fool he was."
- 5 It is in sickness that we are compelled to recognize that we do not live alone but are chained to a being from a different realm, from whom we are worlds apart, who has no knowledge of us and by whom it is impossible to make ourselves understood: our body. . . . To ask pity of our body is like discoursing in front of an octopus, for which our words can have no more meaning than the sound of the tides, and with which we should be appalled to find ourselves condemned to live.
Le Côté de Guermantes (The Guermantes Way) pt. 1 (1921) (translation by C. K. Scott Moncrieff and Terence Kilmartin)
- 6 An artist has no need to express his thought directly in his work for the latter to reflect its quality; it has even been said that the highest praise of God consists in the denial of Him by the atheist who finds creation so perfect that it can dispense with a creator.
Le Côté de Guermantes (The Guermantes Way) pt. 2 (1921) (translation by C. K. Scott Moncrieff and Terence Kilmartin)
- 7 The idea of Time was of value to me for yet another reason: it was a spur. . . . This life that we live in half-darkness can be illumined, this life that at every moment we distort can be restored to its true pristine shape, that a life, in short, can be realized within the confines of a book! How happy would be, I thought, the man who had the power to write such a book! What a task awaited him!
Le Temps Retrouvé (Time Regained) (1926)
(translation by C. K. Scott Moncrieff and Terence Kilmartin)
- 8 The truth is that every morning war is declared afresh. And the men who wish to continue it are as guilty as the men who began it, more guilty perhaps, for the latter perhaps did not foresee all its horrors.
Le Temps Retrouvé (Time Regained) (1926)
(translation by C. K. Scott Moncrieff and Terence Kilmartin)
- 9 In reality every reader is, while he is reading, the reader of his own self. The writer's work is merely a kind of optical instrument which he offers to the reader to enable him to discern what, without this book, he would perhaps never have perceived in himself.

Le Temps Retrouvé (Time Regained) (1926)
(translation by C. K. Scott Moncrieff and Terence Kilmartin)

Proverbs

Listed alphabetically by first significant word of the proverb. Citations are those of the earliest known documented English-language usage. Most of the first uses are taken from the Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs, but many of the usages in the ODP have been improved upon. The wording given for the proverb is that of the earliest known usage unless otherwise indicated, with older variant wordings or analogues in other languages explained in annotations. This Proverbs category includes only those proverbs attested before 1900; those whose evidence begins after 1900 are listed under Modern Proverbs. See also Sayings and Anonymous. Quotations with a known originator that have become proverbial are listed under the originator's name.

- 1 Absence makes the heart grow fonder.
Godey's Magazine and Lady's Book, Nov. 1844. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes that Propertius much earlier wrote "Passion [is] always warmer towards absent lovers" in his Elegies.
See Propertius 1
- 2 Accidents will happen.
Robert Shiells, The Lives of the Poets of Great Britain and Ireland (1753)

- 3 There is no accounting for tastes.
Ann Radcliffe, The Mysteries of Udolpho (1794). Also current in the form "There is no accounting for taste." The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs states: "The saying is a version of the Latin tag de gustibus non est disputandum, there is no disputing about tastes. Cf. 1599 J. MINSHEU Dialogues in Spanish 6 Against ones liking there is no disputing."
- 4 Actions speak louder than words.
Melancholy State of Province (1736)
- 5 After a storm comes a calm.
Claudius Hollyband, French Littleton (1576)
- 6 Age before beauty.
Western Horticultural Review, Nov. 1851
- 7 All good things must come to an end.
Henry M. Field, Summer Pictures (1859)
- 8 It takes all sorts to make a world.
Douglas Jerrold, Story of a Feather (1844). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs records "In the world there must be of all sorts" (1620) and "The World . . . has people of all sorts" (1767).
- 9 All things come to those who wait.
Violet Fane, From Dawn to Noon (1872). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs documents earlier variants back to 1530, including "everything comes if a man will only wait" (Disraeli, 1847) and "all things come to him who will but wait" (Longfellow, 1863).
- 10 Any port in a storm.
John Cleland, Memoirs of a Woman of Pleasure (1749)
- 11 Appearances are deceptive.
Toby Meanwell, A Voyage Through Hell (1770). Giovanni Torriano, in Italian Proverbs (1666), has "Appearance oft deceives." The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs cites "appearances are very deceitful" (1748). Today the form "appearances are deceiving" is the usual one.
- 12 An apple does not fall far from the tree.
Jewish South (Richmond, Va.), 13 Oct. 1893. Wolfgang Mieder, in Strategies of Wisdom: Anglo-American and German Proverb Studies (2000), notes that "The apple does not fall far from the stem" appears in Ralph Waldo Emerson's notebook covering the years 1824 to 1836. Mieder also traces the proverb back to 1554 in German.
- 13 April showers bring forth May flowers.
John Ray, English Proverbs (1670). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs records similar formulations dating back to ca. 1560.
- 14 Ask me no questions and I'll tell you no lies.
Oliver Goldsmith, She Stoops to Conquer (1773). Goldsmith's wording was "fibs" instead of "lies."
- 15 Bad news travels fast.
Lady's Book, 1 Oct. 1830. The earliest variant in the Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs is in Thomas Kyd, The Spanish Tragedy (1592), "euill newes flie faster still than good."
- 16 A bad penny is sure to return.
Rose H. Thorpe, The Fenton Family (1884). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs records similar expressions beginning with "like a bad penny it returnd. to me again" (Abigail Adams, 1766) and "the bad shilling is sure enough to come back again" (Walter Scott, 1824).

- 17 Beauty is in the eye of the beholder.
Richard Cumberland, The Observer (1788). Cumberland's wording is "Beauty, gentlemen, is in the eye, I aver it to be in the eye of the beholder and not in the object itself." The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs states: "The idea is a very old one: THEOCRITUS Idyll . . . for in the eyes of love that which is not beautiful often seems beautiful. Cf. 1742 HUME Essays Moral & Political II. 151 Beauty, properly speaking, lyes . . . in the Sentiment or Taste of the Reader."
- 18 Beauty is only skin-deep.
Thomas Adams, The Blacke Devil or the Apostate (1615). Adams's actual wording was "the beauty of the fairest woman is but skin-deep."
See Jean Kerr 1
- 19 Beggars can't be choosers.
Vermont Watchman and State Journal (Montpelier, Vt.), 5 Mar. 1846. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes: "Cf. mid 15th-cent. Fr. qui emprunte ne peult choisir, he who borrows cannot choose. 1546 J. HEYWOOD Dialogue of Proverbs I. x. D1 Folke say alwaie, beggers shulde be no choosers."
- 20 The best things come in small packages.
Atlanta Constitution, 19 Nov. 1899. According to the Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs, "Parcels sometimes replaces packages. Cf. 13th-cent. Fr. menue[s] parcelles ensemble sunt beles, small packages considered together are beautiful; 1659 J. HOWELL Proverbs (French) 10 The best ointments are put in little boxes." The ODP cites an 1877 letter: "the best things are (said to be) wrapped in small parcels (proverb)."
- 21 It's best to be on the safe side.
Lady's Book, Oct. 1832. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs records expressions involving "safe side" or "sure side" back to 1668.
- 22 Better be safe than sorry.
N.Y. Times, 3 Mar. 1882. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs records "it's better be sure than sorry" from Samuel Lover, Rory O'More (1837).
- 23 Better late than never.
John Lydgate, The Assembly of Gods (ca. 1450). A note in the Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs reads: "Cf. DIONYSIUS OF HALICARNASSUS Roman Antiquities ix. 9 . . . it is better to start doing what one has to late than not at all."
- 24 Better the devil you know than the devil you don't know.

 John Fitzherbert, A Book of Husbandry (1523). Fitzherbert's actual words are "And [if] he [a horse] be tame and haue ben rydden vpon than caveat emptor be ware thou byer." The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes, "The Latin tag caveat emptor is also frequently found: caveat emptor, quia ignorare non debuit quod jus alienum emit, let the purchaser beware, for he ought not to be ignorant of the nature of the property which he is buying from another party."
- 40 Let bygones be bygones.
 Francis Nethersole, Parables (1648). The Oxford Dictionary of English Proverbs records earlier variants going back to 1577.
- 41 When the cat's away, the mice will play.
 Thomas Heywood, A Woman Killed with Kindness (1607). The wording in Heywood is "when the cats away, the mouse may play." The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs states: "Cf. early 14th-cent. Fr. ou chat na rat regne, where there is no cat the rat is king; c 1470 Harley MS 3362 . . . The mows lordchypythe [rules] ther a cat ys nawt."
- 42 All cats are gray in the dark.
 Thomas Lodge, A Margarite of America (1596). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs also records "when all candels be out, all cats be grey" (ca. 1549).
- 43 A chain cannot be stronger than its weakest link.
 John Walker, Euclid's Elements of Plane Geometry (1827)
- 44 Some things never change.
Saturday Evening Post, 7 Feb. 1885
- 45 Charity begins at home.
 John Wycliffe, English Works (ca. 1383). Wycliffe's wording is "Charite schuld bigyne at hem-self."
- 46 Children should be seen and not heard.
 John Quincy Adams, Memoirs (1820). Adams's words are "children in company should be seen and not heard." The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs records earlier versions, referring to women rather than children, going back to ca. 1400 ("a mayde schuld be seen, but not herd").
- 47 Circumstances alter cases.
 W. Heath, Memoirs (1776)
- 48 Clothes make the man.
Cincinnati Literary Gazette, 9 Apr. 1825. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs gives much older versions, beginning with the Greek "the man is his clothing."
- 49 Every cloud has a silver lining.
American Publishers' Circular and Literary Gazette, 15 Dec. 1855. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes the following older quotation: "1634 MILTON Comus l. 93 Was I deceiv'd, or did a sable cloud Turn forth her silver lining on the night?"
 See DeSylva 1; Lena Ford 1
- 50 A man is known by the company he keeps.
Hopkinsian Magazine, Feb. 1826. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs cites similar statements back to 1541.
 See Euripides 3
- 51 Comparisons are odious.
Gilbert of Hay's Prose MS (1456). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes: "Cf. early 14th-cent. Fr. comparisons sont hayneuses, comparisons are hateful."
- 52 Confession is good for the soul.
 David Fergusson, Scottish Proverbs (ca. 1641)
- 53 Don't count your chickens before they are hatched.
 Thomas Howell, New Sonnets (ca. 1570). Howell's wording is "Counte not thy Chickens that vnhatched be."
- 54 Happy is the country which has no history.
 Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 29 Mar. 1807. Jefferson's wording is "Blest is that nation whose silent course of happiness furnishes nothing for history to say." The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs refers to Benjamin Franklin's Poor Richard's Almanack (1740): "Happy that Nation,—fortunate that age, whose history is not diverting."
 See George Eliot 4; Montesquieu 6
- 55 Give credit where credit is due.
City Gazette and Daily Advertiser (Charleston, S.C.), 14 Aug. 1812. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs records the earlier "may Honor be given to whom Honor may be due" (John Adams, 1777). It also notes Romans 13:7: "Render therefore to all men their due: . . . to whom honor, honor."
- 56 Crime does not pay.
Law Magazine and Law Review vol. 8 (1860)
- 57 Do not cross the bridge till you come to it.
 Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Journal, 29 Apr. 1850

- 58 There's no use crying over spilt milk.
James Howell, Proverbs (1659). Howell's wording is "No weeping for shed milk."
- 59 Don't cut off your nose to spite your face.
Marshall County Republican (Plymouth, Ind.), 10 Jan. 1878. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes a mid-fourteenth-century French proverb, qui cope son nès, sa face est despechie (the man who cuts off his nose spites his face), as well as a ca. 1560 English citation, "He that byteth hys nose of, shameth hys face."
- 60 If you want to dance, you must pay the fiddler.
Abraham Lincoln, Speech, 11 Jan. 1837. Lincoln's words are "he that dances should always pay the fiddler." The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs has "those that dance must pay the Musicke" documented from 1638.
- 61 The darkest hour is just before the dawn.
Thomas Fuller, A Pisgah Sight of Palestine (1650). Fuller's words are "It is always darkest just before the Day dawneth."
- 62 Dead men tell no tales.
John Dryden, The Spanish Friar (1681). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs has variants dating back to 1560.
- 63 'Tis impossible to be sure of any thing but Death and Taxes.
Christopher Bullock, The Cobler of Preston (1716). Edward Ward, in The Dancing Devils (1724), has "Death and Taxes, they are certain." These citations predate the famous 1789 quotation by Benjamin Franklin.
See Benjamin Franklin 41; Margaret Mitchell 6
- 64 Death is the great leveller.
Thomas Hall and George Swinnock, The Beauty of Magistracy in an Exposition of the 82 Psalm (1660). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs also cites Claudian, De Raptu Proserpinae: "omnia mors aequat, death levels all things."
- 65 Desperate diseases must have desperate remedies.
Robert Sanderson, Episcopacy . . . Not Prejudicial to Regal Power (1661). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs records various similar sayings, including the Latin "extremis malis extrema remedia, extreme remedies for extreme ills"; "Diseases desperate grown By desperate appliance are reliev'd, Or not at all" (Shakespeare, Hamlet [1600–1601]); and "A desperate disease must have a desperate remedy" (John Rushworth, Historical Collections [1659]).
See Shakespeare 219
- 66 The devil is not so black as he is painted.
Thomas More, Dialogue of Comfort (1534)
- 67 Devil take the hindmost.
Francis Beaumont and John Fletcher, Philaster (1620)
- 68 You can only die once.
Torrent of Portugal (ca. 1435). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs lists many variants, beginning with "a man schall but onnys Dyeer" (the ca. 1435 citation above) and "a man can die but once" (William Shakespeare, Henry IV, Pt. 2 [1597–1598]).
- 69 Throw dirt enough, and some will stick.
B. R., Letter to Popish Friends (1678). The exact wording is "'Tis a blessed line in Matchiavel—If durt enough be thrown, some will stick." The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes a Latin equivalent, calumniare fortiter, et aliquid adhaerebit (slander strongly and some will stick).
- 70 Divide and rule.
Joseph Hall, Meditations and Vowes (1605). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs refers to the Latin divide et impera and the German entzwei und gebiete.
- 71 Do as I say, not as I do.
John Selden, Table-Talk (1689). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs cites a similar Anglo-Saxon quotation, dating from before 1100.
- 72 Do or die.
Pittscottie's Chronicles (1577)
- 73 Do right and fear no man.
Book of Precedence (ca. 1450). The wording of this source is actually "doe well, and drede no man."
- 74 Every dog has his day.
Randle Cotgrave, Dictionary of French and English (1611). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs has earlier citations for "a dogge hath a day" (Richard Taverner, translation of Erasmus' Adages [1545]) and "dog will have his day" (Shakespeare, Hamlet [1600–1601]).
- 75 The dog is man's best friend.
Thomas Hood, Whimsicalities (1843)
- 76 Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well.
Lord Chesterfield, Letter, 9 Oct. 1746
- 77 What's done is done.
Humphrey Mill and John Droeshout, Poems Occasioned by a Melancholy Vision (1639). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs gives variants back to ca. 1450 in English and the early fourteenth century in French.
- 78 A drowning man will clutch at a straw.
Samuel Richardson, Clarissa (1748). Richardson says "catch" instead of "clutch." The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs cites an earlier version: "We do not as men redie to be drowned, catch at euery straw" (John Prime, Fruitful and Brief Discourse [1583]).
- 79 To each his own.
John Wise, Churches Quarrel Espoused (1713)
- 80 The early bird catches the worm.

- William Camden, Remains Concerning Britain, 5th ed. (1636)
- 81 Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise.
John Clarke, Paroemiologia Anglo-Latina (1639). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs gives similar expressions back to 1496.
See Thurber 8
- 82 Easy come, easy go.
Samuel Warren, Diary of a Late Physician (1832). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs cites Anne Bradstreet, in Tenth Muse (1650): “That which easily comes, as freely goes.”
- 83 Easy does it.
Eclectic Magazine of Foreign Literature, June 1848
- 84 Don't put all your eggs in one basket.
Samuel Palmer, Proverbs (1710). Palmer's wording is “don't venture all your eggs in one basket.” The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs cites a 1662 reference to an Italian proverb translation, “to put all ones Eggs in a Paniard.”
See Andrew Carnegie 1; Dorothy Parker 43
- 85 The end justifies the means.
Éléazar de Mauvillon, The Life of Frederick-William I (1750). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs refers to Ovid, Heroides: “exitus acta probat, the outcome justifies the deeds.”
See Aldous Huxley 4
- 86 The enemy of my enemy is my friend.
Gabriel Manigault, A Political Creed (1884). Often attributed to the Arthashastra, a pre-fourth century B.C. Sanskrit text by Kautilya, but it appears to be a summary of strategic advice given there.
- 87 Enough is enough.
John Heywood, Dialogue of Proverbs (1546)
- 88 Every little helps.
Richard Johnson, A Defence of the Grammatical Categories (1707). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs cites “1590 G. MEURIER Deviz Familiers A6 peu ayde, disçoit le formy, pissant en mer en plein midy, every little helps, said the ant, pissing into the sea at midday.”
- 89 Every man has his price.
William Wyndham, Bee (1734)
- 90 Every man to his own taste.
Laurence Sterne, Tristram Shandy (1760). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes: “Cf. STATIUS Silvae II. ii. 73 sua cuique voluptas, everyone has his own pleasures; Fr. chacun à son goût, each to his taste.”
- 91 The exception proves the rule.
John Wilson, Cheats (1664). This is perhaps the most misunderstood of proverbs. It is widely believed to mean, illogically, that a rule is proved by examples contradicting it. Others believe that the word “prove” is used here in an archaic sense of “test.” In reality, the meaning is that the very fact of there being an exception proves the existence of a rule. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs cites G. Watts, Bacon's Advancement of Learning (1640) (“exception strengthens the force of a law in cases not excepted”) and refers to a Latin maxim, exceptio probat regulam in casibus non exceptis (the exception confirms the rule in cases not excepted).
- 92 There is an exception to every rule.
T. F., News from North (1579). The actual wording is “there is no rule so generall, that it admitteth not exception.”
- 93 Experience is the best teacher.
Thomas Taylor, David's Learning (1617). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs refers to the Latin tag experientia docet (experience teaches) as the source of this expression.
- 94 Eyes are the windows of the soul.
H.V., Counsel for Youth (1650). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs records older variants, including the Latin “vultus est index animi (also oculus animi index), the face (also, eye) is the index of the mind,” and “The eyes . . . are the wyndowes of the mynde” (1545).
- 95 Faint heart never won fair lady.
William Camden, Remains Concerning Britain (1614). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs has an earlier variant: “1580 LYLY Euphues & His England II. 131 Faint hart Philautus neither winneth Castell nor Lady.”
- 96 All's fair in love and war.
The Universal Songster (1826). “All Advantages are fair in Love and War” appears earlier in William Taverner, The Artful Husband (1717).
- 97 Faith can move mountains.
Frederick Henniker, Notes, During a Visit to Egypt (1823). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs states: “With allusion to MATTHEW xvii. 20 (AV) If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain; Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove. Cf. I CORINTHIANS xiii. 2 (AV) though I have all faith; so that I could remove mountains; and have not charity, I am nothing.”
- 98 Familiarity breeds contempt.
Thomas Fuller, Comment on Ruth (1654). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes earlier forms, including “Nimia familiaritas parit contemptum, too much familiarity breeds contempt” (Augustine, Scala Paradisi), and “Ouermuche familiaritie myght breade him contempte” (Richard Taverner, Garden of Wisdom [1539]).

- 99 Father knows best.
Youth's Companion, 18 Dec. 1835
- 100 Like father like son.
Thomas Draxe, Adages (1616). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes: "Cf. L. qualis pater talis filius, as is the father, so is the son."
- 101 Fight fire with fire.
P. T. Barnum, Struggles and Triumphs (1869). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs cites earlier versions back to the early-fourteenth-century French "lung feu doit estaindre lautre, one fire must put out another."
- 102 He who fights and runs away, may live to fight another day.
N.Y. Daily Tribune, 12 Sept. 1842. Earlier versions in the Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs include "A man who flees will fight again" (Menander) and "That same manne, that renneth away, Maye again fight, an other daye" (Erasmus' Apophthegms [1542]).
- 103 Finders keepers, losers weepers.
St. Paul Globe, 13 May 1902. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs records variants back to 1825.
- 104 First come first served.
Henry Brinkelow, Complaint of Roderick Mars (1548). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes French versions of "he who comes first to the mill may grind first" dating back to the late thirteenth century.
- 105 First impressions are the most lasting.
Jonas Hanway, A Journal of Eight Days Journey (1756)
- 106 First things first.
The Christian Observer vol. 30 (1831)
- 107 There is a first time for everything.
Ballou's Dollar Monthly Magazine vol. 15 (1862). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs cites an earlier version from the Papers of Alexander Hamilton (1792): "But there is always a first time."
- 108 Fish always stinks from the head downwards.
Stefano Guazzo, Civil Conversation, trans. George Pettie (1581). Pettie's wording is "fishe beginneth first to smell at the head." The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs refers to "a fish begins to stink from the head" as a Greek proverb.
- 109 There are plenty of other fish in the sea.
J. W. De Forest, Seacliff (1859). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs gives other "fish in sea" expressions going back to ca. 1573.

- 111 A fool and his money are soon parted.
John Bridges, Defence of the Government (1587)
- 112 A man who is his own lawyer has a fool for a client.
Port Folio (Philadelphia), Aug. 1809. This source has the wording "he who is always his own counsellor will often have a fool for his client." An earlier version appears in William De Britaine, Humane Prudence, 9th ed. (1702): "He who will be his own Counsellor, shall be sure to have a Fool for his Client."
- 113 There's no fool like an old fool.
John Heywood, Dialogue of Proverbs (1546)
- 114 Forewarned is forearmed.
The Knickerbocker, Feb. 1847. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes a Latin proverb, "praemonitus, praemunitus, forewarned, forearmed."
- 115 Forgive and forget.
William Langland, The Vision of Piers Plowman (1377)
- 116 This is a free country.
James Flint, Letters from America (1822). The letter containing this sentence is dated 28 June 1819.
- 117 A friend in need is a friend indeed.
John Smith, The Mysterie of Rhetorique (1665). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes similar expressions going back to Euripides, Hecuba: "In adversity good friends are most clearly seen."
- 118 Never look a gift horse in the mouth.
Samuel Palmer, Proverbs (1710). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs refers to Jerome, Commentary on Epistle to Ephesians (ca. 400), "Do not, as the common proverb says, look at the teeth of a gift horse," as well as pre-1710 English-language variants.
- 119 Give the devil his due.
Thomas Nashe, Saffron Walden (1596). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs has "Giue them their due though they were diuels" cited from John Lyly, Pap with Hatchet (1589).
- 120 People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones.
George Herbert, Outlandish Proverbs (1640). The precise wording is "Whose house is of glasse, must not throw stones at another."
- 121 All that glitters is not gold.
Hali Meidenhad (ca. 1220). The wording in this source is "Nis hit nower neh gold al that ter schineth." Other early versions recorded by the Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs include "All that glisters is not gold" (William Shakespeare, Merchant

- of Venice [1596]) and a Latin proverb, “non omne quod nitet aurum est, not all that shines is gold.”
See Thomas Gray 2
- 122 God helps them that help themselves.
Benjamin Franklin, Poor Richard's Almanack (1736). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs records various similar expressions going back to Aeschylus, Fragments: “God likes to assist the man who toils.”
- 123 Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad.
North American Review, Jan. 1836. The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs has “Cf. Trag. Graec. Fragm. Adesp. 296 (Nauck) . . . when divine anger ruins a man, it first takes away his good sense; L. quos Deus vult perdere, prius dementat.” Another citation there is “1640 G. HERBERT Outlandish Proverbs no. 688 When God will punish, hee will first take away the understanding.”

Aleksander Sergeevich Pushkin

Russian poet, 1799–1837

- 1 “My uncle always was respected;
But his grave illness, I confess,
Is more than could have been expected:
A stroke of genius, nothing less.
He offers all a grand example;
But, God, such boredom who would sample?—
Daylong, nightlong, thus to be bid
To sit beside an invalid!
Low cunning must assist devotion

To one who is but half-alive:
You smooth his pillow and contrive
Amusement while you mix his potion;
You sigh, and think with furrowed brow—
“Why can’t the devil take you now?”

- 1 [Remark at Battle of Bunker Hill, 17 June 1775:]
Men, you know you are all marksmen, you can take a squirrel from the tallest tree. Don’t fire till you see the whites of their eyes.
Attributed in S. Swett, Notes to His Sketch of Bunker Hill Battle (1825). The authenticity of these words is often questioned because, according to most sources, they are not documented until 1873; however, this 1825 citation, based on a deposition of a participant in the battle, seems plausible as documentation. In addition, “Don’t throw away a single shot, but take good aim; nor touch a trigger, till you can see the whites of their eyes” is attributed to Putnam in M. L. Weems, The Life of George Washington, 8th ed. (1809). The Columbian Phoenix and Boston Review, June 1800, reported: “He [Putnam] harangued his men as the British first advanced, charged them to reserve their fire, till they were near, ‘till they could see the white of their eyes;’ were his words.” The Oxford English Dictionary states that “similar expressions in a number of other European languages are also anecdotally attributed to 18th-cent. military commanders; however, German parallels are attested from as early as the early 17th cent. (see J. Grimm & W. Grimm Deutsches Wörterbuch at weisz D. la).”

Gravity's Rainbow episode 28 (1973)
- 3 If they can get you asking the wrong questions, they don't have to worry about answers.
Gravity's Rainbow episode 28 (1973)

Pyrrhus

Epirian king, 319 B.C.–272 B.C.

- 1 [Remark after defeating the Romans at the Battle of Asculum, 279 B.C.:] One more such victory and we are lost.
Quoted in Plutarch, Parallel Lives

Francis Quarles

English poet, 1592–1644

- 1 We spend our midday sweat, our midnight oil;
We tire the night in thought, the day in toil.
Emblems bk. 2, no. 2, l. 33 (1635)
See Yeats 40

Dan Quayle

U.S. politician, 1947–

- 1 [The Holocaust was] an obscene period in our nation's history. We all lived in this century. I didn't live in this century, but in this century's history.
Campaign remark, Moore, Okla., 15 Sept. 1988.
These remarks were quoted in the L.A. Times, 16 Sept. 1988.
- 2 What a waste it is to lose one's mind—or not to have a mind. . . . How true that is.
Speech to United Negro College Fund, Washington, D.C., 9 May 1989. This remark was quoted in USA Today, 10 May 1989.
See Advertising Slogans 120
- 3 If we do not succeed, then we run the risk of failure.
Speech to Phoenix Republican Forum, Phoenix, Ariz., 23 Mar. 1990
- 4 It doesn't help matters when prime time TV has Murphy Brown—a character who supposedly epitomized today's intelligent, highly paid, professional woman—mocking the importance of fathers by bearing a child alone, and calling it just another “lifestyle choice.”
Remarks to Commonwealth Club of California, San Francisco, Calif., 19 May 1992

- 5 Take a breath, Al. . . . Inhale.
Vice-Presidential Debate with Albert Gore, 13 Oct. 1992
- 6 Space is almost infinite. As a matter of fact, we think it is infinite.
Quoted in Daily Telegraph, 8 Mar. 1989
- 7 I believe we are on an irreversible trend toward more freedom and democracy—but that could change.
Quoted in Wall Street Journal, 26 May 1989
- 8 [Convincing twelve-year-old spelling bee contestant William Figueroa to add an e to the word potato, which Figueroa had spelled correctly:] That's fine phonetically, but you're missing just a little bit.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 17 June 1992. This remark occurred at a school in Trenton, N.J., 15 June 1992.

John Sholto Douglas, Marquess of Queensberry

Scottish nobleman and sports patron, 1844–1900

- 1 For Oscar Wilde posing somdomite [sic].
Card left at Oscar Wilde's club, 18 Feb. 1895. This card provoked Wilde's disastrous libel suit against Queensberry.

Raymond Queneau

Zazie dans le Métro (1959)

François Quesnay

French political economist, 1694–1774

- 1 Laissez faire.
Freedom of action [in commerce].
Quoted in M. Alpha, Letter to Quesnay (1767)
See Boisguilbert 1

Lambert-Adolphe-Jacques Quételet

Belgian statistician, 1796–1874

- 1 This determination of the average man is not merely a matter of speculative curiosity; it may be of the most important service to the science of man and the social system. It ought necessarily to precede every other inquiry into social physics, since it is, as it were, the basis. The average man, indeed, is in a nation what the center of gravity is in a body; it is by having that central point in view that we arrive at the apprehension of all the phenomena of equilibrium and motion.

A Treatise on Man and the Development of His Faculties
bk. 4, ch. 1 (1835) (translation by Robert Knox)

Arthur Quiller-Couch

English writer and critic, 1863–1944

- I Whenever you feel an impulse to perpetrate a piece of exceptionally fine writing, obey it—whole-heartedly—and delete it before sending your manuscript to press. Murder your darlings. On the Art of Writing “On Style” (1916)

Willard Van Orman Quine

U.S. philosopher and mathematician, 1908–2000

Journal of Philosophy, 21 Dec. 1939

François Rabelais

French humanist and satirist, ca. 1494–ca. 1553

- 1 Rire est le propre de l'homme.
To laugh is proper to man.
Gargantua bk. 1, “Rabelais to the Reader” (1534)
- 2 The appetite grows by eating.
Gargantua bk. 1, ch. 5 (1534)
- 3 Fais ce que voudras.
Do what you like.
Gargantua bk. 1, ch. 57 (1534)
- 4 [“Last words”:] I am going to seek a grand perhaps; draw the curtain, the farce is played.
Attributed in Peter Motteux, Life of Rabelais (1693–1694). These words are probably apocryphal.

Yitzhak Rabin

Israeli prime minister and military leader, 1922–1995

- 1 We say to you today in a loud and a clear voice: enough of blood and tears. Enough.
Remark to Palestinians upon signing of the Israel-Palestine Declaration, Washington, D.C., 13 Sept. 1993
- 2 One does not make peace with one’s friends.
One makes peace with one’s enemy.
Jerusalem Post, 26 Nov. 1993
- 3 [Comment on the “intifada” rebellion:] I’ve learned something in the past two and a half months. Among other things is that you can’t rule by force over 1.5 million Palestinians.
Quoted in St. Petersburg Times, 25 Feb. 1988

Jean Racine

French playwright, 1639–1699

- 1 Je l’ai trop aimé pour ne le point haïr!
I have loved him too much not to feel any hatred for him.
Andromaque act 2, sc. 1 (1667)
- 2 In a month, in a year, how will we bear that so many seas separate me from you?
Bérénice act 4, sc. 5 (1670)
- 3 Je le vis, je rougis, je pâlis à sa vue.
I saw him, I blushed, I paled at his view.
Phèdre act 1, sc. 3 (1677)
- 4 Ce n’est plus une ardeur dans mes veines cachée: C’est Vénus tout entière à sa proie attachée.
It’s no longer a burning within my veins: it’s Venus entire latched onto her prey.
Phèdre act 1, sc. 3 (1677)
- 5 The day is not purer than the depths of my heart.
Phèdre act 4, sc. 2 (1677)

Ann Radcliffe

English novelist, 1764–1823

- 1 Fate sits on these dark battlements, and frowns,
And, as the portals open to receive me,
Her voice, in sullen echoes through the courts,
Tells of a nameless deed.
The Mysteries of Udolpho vol. 1, epigraph (1794)

The Shadow
- 21 Faster than an airplane, more powerful than a locomotive, impervious to bullets. "Up in the sky—look!" "It's a giant bird." "It's a plane." "It's SUPERMAN!" And now, Superman—A being no larger than an ordinary man but possessed of powers and abilities never before realized on Earth: able to leap into the air an eighth of a mile at a single bound, hurtle a 20-story building with ease, race a high-powered bullet to its target, lift tremendous weights and rend solid steel in his bare hands as though it were paper. Superman—a strange visitor from a distant planet: champion of the oppressed, physical marvel extraordinary who has sworn to devote his existence on Earth to helping those in need.

Superman. This original opening was written by Robert Joffe Maxwell and Allen Ducovny and broadcast on 12 Feb. 1940. The opening had many later variations, including the following well-known form:

"Faster than a speeding bullet! More powerful than a locomotive! Able to leap tall buildings at a single bound!"

"Look! Up in the sky!"

"It's a bird!"

"It's a plane!"

"It's Superman!"

24 [Opening of broadcasts:] Good evening, Mr. and Mrs. North and South America and all the ships at sea. . . . Let's go to press!

Walter Winchell newscasts

James Rado (James Alexander Radomski)
U.S. songwriter, 1932–

- 1 When the moon is in the seventh house,
And Jupiter aligns with Mars,
Then peace will guide the planets,
And love will steer the stars;
This is the dawning of the age of Aquarius.
"Aquarius" (song) (1967). Cowritten with Jerome Ragni.

John Rae

Scottish-born Canadian-U.S. economist,
1796–1872

- 1 The things to which vanity seems most readily to apply itself are those to which the use or consumption is most apparent, and of which the effects are most difficult to discriminate. Articles of which the consumption is not conspicuous, are incapable of gratifying this passion.

Statement of Some New Principles on the Subject of Political Economy ch. 11 (1834). This anticipated Thorstein Veblen's use of the term conspicuous consumption.
See Veblen 2

Craig Raine

English poet, 1944–

- 1 Caxtons are mechanical birds with many wings
And some are treasured for their markings—
They cause the eyes to melt
Or the body to shriek without pain.
“A Martian Sends a Postcard Home” l. 1 (1979)
- 2 In homes, a haunted apparatus sleeps,
That snores when you pick it up.
If the ghost cries, they carry it
To their lips and soothe it to sleep
With sounds. And yet, they wake it up
Deliberately, by tickling with a finger.
“A Martian Sends a Postcard Home” l. 19 (1979)

Rakim (William Michael Griffin, Jr.)

U.S. rap musician, 1968–

- 1 I start to think, and then I sink
Into the paper like I was ink
When I'm writing, I'm trapped in between the lines
I escape when I finish the rhyme.
“I Know You Got Soul” (song) (1987)

Walter Raleigh

English courtier and explorer, ca. 1552–1618

- 1 Say to the court, it glows
And shines like rotten wood;
Say to the church, it shows
What's good, and doth no good:
If church and court reply,
Then give them both the lie.
“The Lie” l. 7 (1608)

- 2 Fain would I climb, yet fear I to fall.

Quoted in Thomas Fuller, History of the Worthies of England (1662). Written on a window-pane; Queen Elizabeth I wrote under it, “If thy heart fails thee, climb not at all.”

Walter Raleigh

English lecturer and critic, 1861–1922

- 1 I wish I loved the Human Race;
I wish I loved its silly face;
I wish I liked the way it walks;
I wish I liked the way it talks;
And when I'm introduced to one
I wish I thought What Jolly Fun!
“Wishes of an Elderly Man” l. 1 (1923)

Srinavasa Ramanujan

Indian mathematician, 1887–1920

- 1 [Replying to G. H. Hardy's statement that the number on the back of a taxicab (1729) was a dull number:] No, it is a very interesting number, it is the smallest number expressible as a sum of two cubes in two different ways.
Quoted in Proceedings of the London Mathematical Society, 26 May 1921
- 2 Sir, an equation has no meaning for me unless it expresses a thought of God.
Quoted in Shiyali Ramamrita Ranganathan, Ramanujan, the Man and the Mathematician (1967)

Joey Ramone (Jeffrey Ross Hyman)

U.S. musician, 1951–2001

- 1 Twenty-twenty-twenty four hours to go
I wanna be sedated
Nothing to do, nowhere to go
I wanna be sedated.
“I Wanna Be Sedated” (song) (1978)

Tommy Ramone (Tamás Erdélyi)

Hungarian-born U.S. musician, 1949–2014

- 1 Hey ho, let's go.
“Blitzkrieg Bop” (song) (1976)

Ayn Rand (Alissa Rosenbaum)

Russian-born U.S. writer, 1905–1982

- 1 Howard Roark laughed.
The Fountainhead pt. 1, ch. 1 (1943)

- 2 Kill reverence and you've killed the hero in man.
The Fountainhead pt. 4, ch. 14 (1943)
- 3 Civilization is the progress toward a society of privacy. The savage's whole existence is public, ruled by the laws of his tribe. Civilization is the process of setting men free from men.
The Fountainhead pt. 4, ch. 18 (1943)
- 4 It had to be said. The world is perishing from an orgy of self-sacrificing.
The Fountainhead pt. 4, ch. 18 (1943)
- 5 Who is John Galt?
Atlas Shrugged pt. 1, ch. 1 (1957)
- 6 I swear by my life and my love of it that I will never live for the sake of another man, nor ask another man to live for mine.
Atlas Shrugged pt. 3, ch. 1 (1957)

James Ryder Randall

U.S. journalist and poet, 1839–1908

- 1 Avenge the patriotic gore
That flecked the streets of Baltimore,
And be the battle queen of yore,
Maryland! My Maryland!
"Maryland! My Maryland!" (song) (1861)

Leopold von Ranke

German historian, 1795–1886

- 1 To history has been assigned the office of judging the past, of instructing the present for the benefit of future generations. This work does not have such a lofty ambition. It wants only to show what actually happened.
History of the Romance and Germanic Peoples, 1492–1535 preface (1824)
See Benjamin 2

Jeannette Rankin

U.S. politician and activist, 1880–1973

- 1 [Casting her vote against U.S. declaration entering World War I, 1917]: I want to stand by my country, but I cannot vote for war. I vote no.
Quoted in Hannah Josephson, Jeannette Rankin: First Lady in Congress (1974)
- 2 [Explaining her vote in Congress against the United States entering World War II, Dec. 1941]:

As a woman I can't go to war, and I refuse to send anyone else.

Quoted in Hannah Josephson, Jeannette Rankin: First Lady in Congress (1974)

- 3 You can no more win a war than you can win an earthquake.

Quoted in Hannah Josephson, Jeannette Rankin: First Lady in Congress (1974)

François-Vincent Raspail

French natural philosopher, 1794–1878

Every cell is derived from another cell.

Annales des Sciences Naturelles (1825)

Dan Rather

U.S. news broadcaster, 1931–

- 1 [Response to President Richard Nixon's question at a Houston, Tex., press conference, Mar. 1974, "Are you running for something?"]: No, sir, Mr. President. Are you?
Quoted in Wash. Post, 21 Apr. 1974

Terence Rattigan

English playwright, 1911–1977

- 1 Do you know what "le vice Anglais"—the English vice—really is? Not flagellation, not pederasty—whatever the French believe it to be. It's our refusal to admit our emotions. We think they demean us, I suppose.
In Praise of Love act 2 (1973)

Maurice Ravel

French composer, 1875–1937

- 1 ["Last words"]: I've still so much music in my head. I have said nothing. I have so much more to say.
Quoted in H el ene Jourdan-Morhange, Ravel et Nous (1945)

Marjorie Rawlings

U.S. novelist, 1896–1953

- 1 A woman has got to love a bad man once or twice in her life, to be thankful for a good one.
The Yearling ch. 12 (1938)

John Rawls

U.S. philosopher, 1921–2002

- 1 Justice is the first virtue of social institutions, as truth is of systems of thought. A theory however elegant and economical must be rejected or revised if it is untrue; likewise laws and institutions no matter how efficient and well-arranged must be reformed or abolished if they are unjust.

A Theory of Justice ch. 1 (1971)

- 2 Each person possesses an inviolability founded on justice that even the welfare of society as a whole cannot override.

A Theory of Justice ch. 1 (1971)

- 3 The principles of justice are chosen behind a veil of ignorance.

A Theory of Justice ch. 1 (1971)

Elizabeth Ray

U.S. congressional clerk, 1943–

- 1 [Remark upon revealing that she was the mistress, paid by the government, of Congressman Wayne Hays:] I can't type. I can't file. I can't even answer the phone.

Quoted in Wash. Post, 23 May 1976

Sam Rayburn

U.S. politician, 1882–1961

- 1 If you want to get along, go along.
N.Y. Times, 19 Feb. 1955. This was Speaker of the House of Representatives Rayburn's advice to new members of Congress. The Kerrville (Tex.) Times, 14 Oct. 1952, referred to "Get-Along, Go-Along Sam Rayburn."

Don Raye (Donald Macrae Wilhoite, Jr.)

U.S. songwriter, 1909–1985

- 1 He's the Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy of Company B.
"Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" (song) (1941). Cowritten with Hughie Prince.

Eric S. Raymond

U.S. computer programmer, 1957–

- 1 Given enough eyeballs, all bugs are shallow.
"The Cathedral and the Bazaar" (paper published on Internet) (1997). Raymond called this "Linus' Law" after Linus Torvalds.

Andy Razaf

U.S. songwriter, 1895–1973

- 1 Ain't misbehavin',
I'm savin' my love for you.
"Ain't Misbehavin'" (song) (1929)
- 2 The Joint Is Jumpin'.
Title of song (1938). Cowritten with J. C. Johnson.

Carveth Read

English philosopher, 1848–1931

- 1 It is better to be vaguely right than exactly wrong.

Logic: Deductive and Inductive ch. 22 (1898)

Nancy Reagan

U.S. First Lady, 1921–2016

- 1 A woman is like a tea bag. You never know her strength until she is in hot water.

Remarks to National Federation of Republican Women, 12 Mar. 1981. As far back as 14 Dec. 1876, the New Orleans Republican printed "a person's real strength of character is not drawn out until he gets in hot water." The "woman" variant showed up by 1963, in the Dallas Morning News, 29 Oct.

Ronald W. Reagan

U.S. president, 1911–2004

- 1 No government ever voluntarily reduces itself in size. Government programs, once launched, never disappear. Actually, a government bureau is the nearest thing to eternal life we'll ever see on this earth!

Television broadcast, 27 Oct. 1964. "The nearest approach to immortality on earth is a government bureau" appeared earlier in James F. Byrnes, Speaking Frankly (1947).

- 2 Politics is supposed to be the second oldest profession. I have come to realize that it bears a very close resemblance to the first.
Conference, Los Angeles, Calif., 2 Mar. 1977
- 3 I've noticed that everyone that is for abortion has already been born.
Presidential campaign debate, 21 Sept. 1980. Similar statements (not by Reagan) referring to "birth control" rather than "abortion" are recorded as early as 1965.
- 4 Next Tuesday all of you will go to the polls, will stand there in the polling place and make a decision. I think when you make that decision it might be well if you would ask yourself: Are you better off than you were four years ago?
Televised presidential debate, 28 Oct. 1980
- 5 [To his Democratic opponent Jimmy Carter:] There you go again!
Televised presidential debate, 28 Oct. 1980
- 6 In your discussions of the nuclear freeze proposals, I urge you to beware the temptation of pride—the temptation of blithely declaring yourselves above it all and label both sides equally at fault, to ignore the facts of history and the aggressive impulses of an evil empire.
Remarks at Annual Convention of National Association of Evangelicals, Orlando, Fla., 8 Mar. 1983
See George Lucas 11
- 7 My fellow Americans, I am pleased to tell you I just signed legislation which outlaws Russia forever. The bombing begins in five minutes.
Remarks during radio microphone test, 11 Aug. 1984
- 8 [Referring to his younger opponent, Walter Mondale:] I will not make age an issue of this campaign. I am not going to exploit, for political purposes, my opponent's youth and inexperience.
Televised presidential debate, 22 Oct. 1984
- 9 I have my veto pen drawn and ready for any tax increase that Congress might even think of sending up. And I have only one thing to say to the tax increasers: Go ahead, make my day.
Remarks to American Business Conference, Washington, D.C., 13 Mar. 1985
See Film Lines 164
- 10 We're especially not going to tolerate these attacks from outlaw states run by the strangest collection of misfits, looney tunes, and squalid criminals since the advent of the Third Reich.
Remarks at American Bar Association Annual Convention, Washington, D.C., 8 July 1985
- 11 Back then [before 1981], government's view of the economy could be summed up in a few short phrases: If it moves, tax it. If it keeps moving, regulate it. And if it stops moving, subsidize it.
Remarks to state chairs of National White House Conference on Small Business, 15 Aug. 1986. "If it moves, control it; if you cannot control it, tax it; if you cannot tax it, subsidize it" appeared in the Chicago Daily Tribune, 20 July 1952.
- 12 I did say something in our negotiations in Iceland in Russian: Dovorey no provorey. That means trust, but verify.
Remarks at campaign rally, Springfield, Mo., 23 Oct. 1986
See Modern Proverbs 92
- 13 A few months ago I told the American people I did not trade arms for hostages. My heart and my best intentions still tell me that is true, but the facts and the evidence tell me it is not.
Televised address to nation, 4 Mar. 1987
- 14 Mr. Gorbachev, open this gate! Mr. Gorbachev, tear down this wall!
Remarks at Brandenburg Gate, West Berlin, Germany, 12 June 1987
- 15 I have recently been told that I am one of the millions of Americans who will be afflicted with Alzheimer's Disease. . . . I now begin the journey that will lead me into the sunset of my life. I know that for America there will always be a bright dawn ahead.
Letter to the American people, 5 Nov. 1994
- 16 We should declare war on North Vietnam. . . . We could pave the whole country and put parking stripes on it, and still be home for Christmas.
Quoted in Fresno Bee, 10 Oct. 1965
- 17 The Government is like a baby's alimentary canal, with a healthy appetite at one end and no responsibility at the other.
Quoted in N.Y. Times Magazine, 14 Nov. 1965. Although this line is associated with Reagan, Reader's Digest, July 1937, attributed "BABY: An alimentary canal with a loud voice at one end and no responsibility at the other" to Elizabeth I. Adamson.

18 A tree's a tree. How many more do you need to look at?

Quoted in Sacramento Bee, 12 Mar. 1966. Speech to Western Wood Products Association, 12 Sept. 1965.

19 Approximately 80% of our air pollution stems from hydrocarbons released by vegetation, so let's not go overboard in setting and enforcing tough emission standards from man-made sources.

Quoted in Sierra, 10 Sept. 1980

20 [To the surgeons about to operate on him after he was shot by John Hinckley:] Please tell me you're Republicans.

Quoted in Wash. Post, 31 Mar. 1981

Red Cloud

Native American leader, 1822–1909

1 You have the sound of the white soldier's axe upon the Little Piney. His presence here is . . . an insult to the spirits of our ancestors. Are we then to give up their sacred graves to be ploughed for corn? Dakotas, I am for war! Speech at council, Fort Laramie, Wyo., 1866

2 When the white men came we gave them lands, and did not wish to hurt them. But the white man drove us back and took our lands. Then the Great Father [president of the United States] made us many promises, but they are not kept. He promised to give us large presents, and when they came to us they were small; they seemed to be lost on the way.

Speech at Council of Peace, New York, N.Y., 15 June 1870

Red Jacket

Native American leader, ca. 1751–1830

1 Brother, our seats were once large, and yours were small. You have now become a great people, and we have scarcely a place left to spread our blankets. You have got our country, but are not satisfied; you want to force your religion upon us.

Quoted in Norman B. Wood, Lives of Famous Indian Chiefs (1906). The original source is a speech to a Christian missionary in 1805.

Otis Redding

U.S. musician and songwriter, 1941–1967

1 What you want baby I got it
What you need you know I got it
All I'm askin' for is a little respect.
"Respect" (song) (1965)

2 I'm sittin' on the dock of the bay,
Watchin' the tide roll away,
I'm just sittin' on the dock of the bay,
Wasting time.
"Sittin' on the Dock of the Bay" (song) (1968).
Cowritten with Steve Cropper.

Helen Reddy

Australian singer, ca. 1941–2020

1 I am woman hear me roar
In numbers too big to ignore
And I know too much to go back and pretend.
"I Am Woman" (song) (1971)

2 If I have to, I can do anything.
I am strong, I am invincible, I am woman.
"I Am Woman" (song) (1971)

Florence Reece

U.S. labor activist, 1900–1986

1 Come all of you good workers,
Good news to you I'll tell
Of how the good old union
Has come in here to dwell.
Which side are you on,
Tell me, which side are you on?
"Which Side Are You On?" (song) (1931)

Henry Reed

English poet and playwright, 1914–1986

1 Today we have naming of parts. Yesterday,
We had daily cleaning. And tomorrow morning,
We shall have what to do after firing. But today,
Today we have naming of parts. Japonica Glistens like coral in all of the neighbor gardens,
And today we have naming of parts.

"Lessons of the War: 1, Naming of Parts" l. 1 (1946)

2 We can slide it
Rapidly backwards and forwards: we call this

Easing the spring. And rapidly backwards and forwards

The early bees are assaulting and fumbling the flowers:

They call it easing the Spring.

“Lessons of the War: I, Naming of Parts” l. 20 (1946)

- 3 They call it easing the Spring; it is perfectly easy

If you have any strength in your thumb: like the bolt,

And the breech, and the cocking-piece, and the point of balance,

Which in our case we have not got; and the almond blossom

Silent in all of the gardens and the bees going backwards and forwards,

For today we have naming of parts.

“Lessons of the War: I, Naming of Parts” l. 25 (1946)

- 4 And as for war, my wars
Were global from the start.

“Lessons of the War: 3, Unarmed Combat” l. 35 (1946)

John Reed

U.S. journalist and revolutionary, 1887–1920

- 1 Ten Days That Shook the World.
Title of book (1919)

Lou Reed

U.S. rock musician, 1942–2013

- 1 I don't know just where I'm going
But I'm gonna try for the kingdom, if I can 'Cause it makes me feel like I'm a man
When I put a spike into my vein
And I tell you things aren't quite the same
When I'm rushing on my run
And I feel just like Jesus's son
And I guess that I just don't know
And I guess that I just don't know.
“Heroin” (song) (1967)

- 2 It's such a perfect day
I'm glad I spent it with you
Oh, such a perfect day
You just keep me hanging on.
“Perfect Day” (song) (1972)

- 3 Holly came from Miami F-L-A Hitchhiked her way across the U.S.A.
Plucked her eyebrows on the way

Shaved her legs and then he was a she
She says, Hey babe, take a walk on the wild side.

“Walk on the Wild Side” (song) (1972)
See Algren 1

Thomas B. Reed

U.S. politician, 1839–1902

- 1 [Remark, ca. 1880:] A statesman is a successful politician—who is dead.

Quoted in State (Columbia, S.C.), 27 Feb. 1892
See Bierce 106; Truman 10

- 2 They [two fellow Congressmen] never open their mouths without subtracting from the sum of human knowledge.

Quoted in Samuel W. McCall, The Life of Thomas Brackett Reed (1914)

Martin Rees

English astronomer, 1942–

- 1 Absence of evidence is not evidence of absence.

Quoted in Project Cyclops: A Design Study of a System for Detecting Extraterrestrial Intelligent Life, rev. ed., ed. B. M. Oliver and J. Billingham (1973). Although this is associated with Rees, a much earlier occurrence was by Dugald Bell, quoted in The Glacialists' Magazine, Dec. 1895. “The distinction between absence of evidence and evidence of absence” was mentioned in Live Stock Journal, 16 Oct. 1891.

Billy Reeves

U.S. songwriter, fl. 1866

- 1 Shoo fly, don't bother me, shoo fly, don't bother me,
Shoo fly, don't bother me, I belong to Company G.
“Shoo Fly, Don't Bother Me” (song) (1866)

Max Reger

German composer, 1873–1916

- 1 [Response to negative review by Rudolf Louis of Reger's Sinfonietta, 1906:] Ich sitze in dem kleinsten Zimmer in meinem Hause. Ich habe Ihre Kritik vor mir. Im nächsten Augenblick wird sie hinter mir sein.

I am sitting in the smallest room of my house.
I have your review before me. In a moment it will be behind me.

Quoted in Nicholas Slonimsky, Lexicon of Musical Invective: Critical Assaults on Composers Since

Beethoven's Time (1953). Nigel Rees points out in Cassell's Humorous Quotations that an earlier version of this jab appeared in a 1785 letter reported as follows: "When Mr. Eden, afterwards Lord Auckland, deserted the standard of Fox for that of Pitt, he sent, in justification of his apostasy, a circular letter to his former political colleagues. The reply of Lord Sandwich [John George Montagu] was sufficiently laconic: 'Sir,' he said, 'your letter is before me, and will presently be behind'" (John Heneage Jesse, George Selwyn and His Contemporaries vol. 1 [1843]).

Charles A. Reich

U.S. legal scholar and author, 1928–2019

- 1 The institution called property guards the troubled boundary between individual man and the state. . . . In a society that chiefly values material well-being, the power to control a particular portion of that well-being is the very foundation of individuality.
"The New Property," Yale Law Journal, Apr. 1964
- 2 If an individual is to survive in a collective society, he must have protection against its ruthless pressures. There must be sanctuaries or enclaves where no majority can reach. . . . Just as the Homestead Act was a deliberate effort to foster individual values at an earlier time, so we must try to build an economic basis for liberty today—a Homestead Act for rootless twentieth century man. We must create a new property.
"The New Property," Yale Law Journal, Apr. 1964
- 3 The good society must have its hiding places—its protected crannies for the soul. Under the pitiless eye of safety the soul will wither. If I choose to get in my car and drive somewhere, it seems to me that where I am coming from, and where I am going, are nobody's business; I know of no law that requires me to have either a purpose or a destination. If I choose to take an evening walk to see if Andromeda has come up on schedule, I think I am entitled to look for the distant light of Almach and Mirach without finding myself staring into the blinding beam of a police flashlight.
"Police Questioning of Law Abiding Citizens," Yale Law Journal, June 1966
- 4 There is a revolution coming. It will not be like revolutions of the past. It will originate with the individual and with culture, and it will change the political structure only as its final act. It will not require violence to succeed, and it cannot be successfully resisted by violence.

The Greening of America ch. 1 (1970)

- 5 The extraordinary thing about this new consciousness is that it has emerged out of the wasteland of the Corporate State. For one who thought the world was irretrievably encased in metal and plastic and sterile stone, it seems a remarkable greening of America.

The Greening of America ch. 12 (1970)

Erich Maria Remarque

German novelist, 1898–1970

- 1 He fell in October 1918, on a day that was so quiet and still on the whole front, that the army report confined itself to the single sentence: All quiet on the Western Front.

He had fallen forward and lay on the earth as though sleeping. Turning him over one saw that he could not have suffered long; his face had an expression of calm, as though almost glad the end had come.

All Quiet on the Western Front ch. 12 (1929)

(translation by A. W. Wheen)

See Beers 1

Ernest Renan

French philologist and historian, 1823–1892

- 1 War is a condition of progress; the whip-cut that prevents a country from going to sleep and forces satisfied mediocrity to shake off its apathy.
La Réforme Intellectuelle et Morale (1871)
- 2 The simplest schoolboy is now familiar with facts for which Archimedes would have sacrificed his life.
Souvenirs d'Enfance et de Jeunesse preface (1883)

Jean Renoir

French film director, 1894–1979

- 1 A director makes only one film in his life. Then he breaks it into pieces and makes it again.
Quoted in Leslie Halliwell, Halliwell's Filmgoer's Companion (1993)

Pierre-Auguste Renoir

French painter, 1841–1919

- 1 It's with my brush that I make love.
Quoted in Albert André, Renoir (1919). Another commonly quoted version is "I paint with my prick."
- 2 I have a predilection for painting that lends joyousness to a wall.
Quoted in Ambroise Vollard, Auguste Renoir (1920)
- 3 In a few generations you can breed a racehorse. The recipe for making a man like Delacroix is less well known.
Quoted in Jean Renoir, Renoir My Father (1958)

Charles à Repington

English journalist, 1858–1925

- 1 [Diary entry, 10 Sept. 1918:] We discussed the right name of the war. I said that we called it now The War, but that this could not last. The Napoleonic War was The Great War. To call it The German War was too much flattery for the Boche. I suggested The World War as a shade better title, and finally we mutually agreed to call it The First World War in order to prevent the millennium folk from forgetting that the history of the world was the history of war.
The First World War, 1914–18 (1920)
See Haeckel 2

Jean-François Paul de Gondi, Cardinal de Retz

French cardinal, 1613–1679

- 1 Il n'y a rien dans le monde qui n'ait son moment décisif.
There is nothing in the world which does not have its decisive moment.
Mémoires bk. 2 (1717)

David Reuben

U.S. psychiatrist, 1933–

- 1 Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex, But Were Afraid to Ask.
Title of book (1969)

Paul Reubens

English composer, 1875–1917

- 1 Tonight's the Night.
Title of song and musical comedy (1915)

Paul Revere

Colonial American revolutionary leader and businessman, 1735–1818

- 1 If the British went out by Water, we would shew two Lanthorns in the North Church Steeple; and if by Land, one, as a Signal.
Letter to Jeremy Belknap, 1798
See Longfellow 24
- 2 [Alleged cry while riding to warn American colonists of the approach of British troops.] The British are coming!
Attributed in Nathaniel Shatswell Dodge, Stories of a Grandfather About American History (1874). This famous line is apocryphal; the colonists would have thought of themselves as British. Revere may instead have said "The Regulars are coming out!"

Charles H. Revson

U.S. business executive, 1906–1975

- 1 In the factory, we make cosmetics; in the store we sell hope.
Quoted in Andrew P. Tobias, Fire and Ice (1976)

H. A. Rey

German-born U.S. children's book writer, 1898–1977

- 1 This is George. He lived in Africa. He was a good little monkey and always very curious.
Curious George (1941)

Malvina Reynolds

U.S. songwriter, 1900–1978

- 1 Little boxes on the hillside,
Little boxes made of ticky-tacky,
Little boxes on the hillside,
Little boxes all the same.
"Little Boxes" (song) (1962)

Trent Reznor

U.S. rock musician, 1965–

- 1 I hurt myself today
To see if I still feel.
"Hurt" (song) (1994)

J. B. Rhine

U.S. psychologist, 1895–1980

- 1 Let us merely say . . . "perception by means that are outside of the recognized senses," and indicate this meaning by “Extra-Sensory Perception” or E.S.P.

Extra-Sensory Perception preface (1934)

Deborah L. Rhode

U.S. legal scholar, 1952–2021

- 1 Lawyers like to leave no stone unturned, provided they can charge by the stone.
Stanford Law Review, Jan. 1985

Cecil J. Rhodes

South African statesman, 1853–1902

- 1 I also desire to encourage and foster an appreciation of the advantages which I implicitly believe will result from the union of the English-speaking peoples throughout the world and to encourage in the students from the United States of North America who will benefit from the American Scholarships to be established for the reason above given at the University of Oxford under this my Will an attachment to the country from which they have sprung but without I hope withdrawing them or their sympathies from the land of their adoption or birth.

The Last Will and Testament of Cecil John Rhodes, ed. W. T. Stead (1902)

- 2 [Remark on the day of his death:] So little done, so much to do.
Quoted in Lewis Mitchell, Life of Rhodes (1910)
See Tennyson 31
- 3 Remember that you are an Englishman, and have consequently won first prize in the lottery of life.
Attributed in Peter Ustinov, Dear Me (1977)

Jean Rhys

Dominica-born English novelist, 1890–1979

- 1 They say when trouble comes close ranks, and so the white people did.
Wide Sargasso Sea pt. 1 (1966)

Abraham Ribicoff

U.S. politician, 1910–1998

- 1 And with George McGovern as President of the United States we wouldn't have to have Gestapo tactics in the streets of Chicago.
Speech nominating George McGovern, Democratic National Convention, Chicago, Ill., 28 Aug. 1968

Mirella Ricciardi

Kenyan-born English photographer, 1931–

- 1 Black people are natural, they possess the secret of joy.

African Saga ch. 14 (1981)

See Alice Walker 8; Alice Walker 9

Condoleezza Rice

U.S. government official and educator, 1954–

- 1 [Response to questioning about whether the President's Daily Brief of 6 Aug. 2001 warned against Al Qaida attacks within the United States:] I believe the title was, “Bin Laden Determined to Attack Inside the United States.” Testimony before National Commission on Terrorist Attacks upon the United States, 7 Apr. 2004
- 2 There was no silver bullet that could have prevented the 9/11 attacks.
Testimony before National Commission on Terrorist Attacks upon the United States, 8 Apr. 2004. Rice had made similar statements in broadcast interviews in Mar. 2004.

Grantland Rice

U.S. sportswriter, 1880–1954

- 1 For when the One Great Scorer comes to write against your name,
He marks—not that you won or lost—but how you played the Game.
“Alumnus Football” l. 63 (1908)
- 2 [Reporting Notre Dame's football victory over Army:] Outlined against a blue-gray October sky, the Four Horsemen rode again. In dramatic lore they were known as Famine, Pestilence, Destruction, and Death. These are only aliases. Their real names are Stuhldreher, Miller, Crowley, and Layden.
N.Y. Herald Tribune, 19 Oct. 1924. The “Four Horsemen” is a reference to the four allegorical horses in Revelation 6:1–8.
See Blasco-Ibáñez 1; Margaret Chase Smith 1
- 3 All wars are planned by old men
In council rooms apart.
“Two Sides of War” l. 1 (1930)
See Herbert Hoover 5

Tim Rice

English songwriter, 1944–

- 1 Jesus Christ
Who are you? What have you sacrificed?
“Superstar” (song) (1971)
- 2 Jesus Christ
Superstar
Do you think you’re what they say you are?
“Superstar” (song) (1971)
- 3 Don’t cry for me Argentina
The truth is I never left you
All through my wild days
My mad existence
I kept my promise
Don’t keep your distance.
“Don’t Cry for Me Argentina” (song) (1976)

Mandy Rice-Davies

English model and showgirl, 1944–2014

- 1 [On Lord Astor’s denying her allegations implicating him in sex scandal.:] He would, wouldn’t he?
Testimony at trial of Stephen Ward, 29 June 1963

Adrienne Rich

U.S. poet, 1929–2012

- 1 Split at the root, neither Gentile nor Jew, Yankee, nor Rebel, born
in the face of two ancient cults,
I’m a good reader of histories.
“Readings in History” pt. 5, l. 9 (1963)
- 2 A thinking woman sleeps with monsters.
The beak that grips her, she becomes.
“Snapshots of a Daughter-in-Law” l. 26 (1963)
- 3 I put on the body-armor of black rubber the absurd flippers
the grave and awkward mask.
“Diving into the Wreck” l. 5 (1973)
- 4 I came to explore the wreck.
The words are purposes.
The words are maps.
I came to see the damage that was done and the treasures that prevail.
“Diving into the Wreck” l. 51 (1973)

- 5 I stroke the beam of my lamp slowly along the flank of something more permanent than fish or weed.
“Diving into the Wreck” l. 57 (1973)
- 6 The thing I came for:
the wreck and not the story of the wreck
the thing itself and not the myth the drowned face always staring toward the sun.
“Diving into the Wreck” l. 61 (1973)
- 7 We are, I am, you are by cowardice or courage
the one who find our way back to this scene carrying a knife, a camera
a book of myths
in which our names do not appear.
“Diving into the Wreck” l. 87 (1973)
- 8 The true nature of poetry. The drive to connect. The dream of a common language.
“Origins and History of Consciousness” pt. 1, l. 11
(1972–1974)

Janet Radcliffe Richards

English philosopher, 1944–

- 1 It seems most unlikely that so much effort would have been put into making women artificially dependent on men if they had been naturally so.
The Sceptical Feminist: A Philosophical Enquiry ch. 5
(1980)
- 2 Men may have had their own very good reasons for bringing women up in servitude, but the soul of a servant is not an attractive thing, and one of the most infuriating aspects of women’s constricted upbringing is that it has made them less attractive, even in the eyes of their constrictors, than they should have been.
Man has twisted and pruned women out of all recognition and then not liked the results.
The Sceptical Feminist: A Philosophical Enquiry ch. 5
(1980)

Keith Richards

English rock musician and songwriter, 1943–

- I [Responding to a fan's request that he autograph a school chemistry book:] Sure thing, man. I used to be a laboratory myself once.
Quoted in Independent on Sunday, 7 Aug. 1994

Laura Elizabeth Richards

U.S. writer, 1850–1943

- I Once there was an elephant,
Who tried to use the telephant—
No! No! I mean an elephone
Who tried to use the telephone.
“Eletelephony” l. 1 (ca. 1880)

Samuel Richardson

English novelist, 1689–1761

- I Power and riches never want advocates.
Pamela Letter 24 (1740–1744)

Armand Jean du Plessis, Duc de Richelieu

French statesman and cardinal, 1585–1642

- I Qu'on me donne six lignes écrites de la main du plus honnête homme, j'y trouverai de quoi le faire pendre.

If you give me six lines written by the hand of the most honest of men, I will find something in them which will hang him.

Attributed in Édouard Fournier, L'Esprit dans l'Histoire: Recherches et Curiosités sur les Mots Historiques (1857). Fournier actually rejects the quotation's attribution to Richelieu. Othon Guerlac, Les Citations Françaises cites the eighteenth-century Mémoires de Mme. de Motteville as quoting Richelieu: “with two lines of writing by a man one can indict the most innocent.” Guerlac states, however, that the saying is generally credited to the judge Laubardemont.

Mordecai Richler

Canadian writer, 1931–2001

- I I'm world-famous, Dr. Parks said, all over Canada.
The Incomparable Atuk pt. 1, ch. 4 (1963)
- 2 Even in Paris, I remained a Canadian. I puffed hashish, but I didn't inhale.
St. Urbain's Horseman ch. 2 (1971)
See Bill Clinton 14

- 3 The Canadian kid who wants to grow up to be Prime Minister isn't thinking big, he is setting a limit to his ambitions rather early.
Quoted in Time (Canadian ed.), 31 May 1971

Johann Paul Friedrich Richter

German novelist, 1763–1825

- I Weltschmerz.
World pain.
Selina; or, Above Immortality (1827)

Branch Rickey

U.S. baseball executive, 1881–1965

- I Luck is the residue of design.
Quoted in Lexington (Ky.) Herald, 1 Nov. 1915

Hyman G. Rickover

U.S. admiral, 1900–1986

- I When men in Communist Russia fail, in Government or in industry, they are summarily dismissed. We, on the other hand, protect those who fail and grasp them even more tightly to the Government's bosom. We let them privatize profits and socialize losses.
Testimony before Subcommittee on Priorities and Economy in Government of the Joint Economic Committee, U.S. Congress, 28 Apr. 1971

David Riesman

U.S. sociologist, 1909–2002

- I The Lonely Crowd.
Title of book (1951)

Rig Veda

Indian collection of hymns, Second millennium B.C.

- I When they divided the Man, into how many parts did they apportion him? What did they call his mouth, his two arms and thighs and feet?
His mouth became the Brahman; his arms were made into the Warrior, his thighs the People, and from his feet the Servants were born.
Hymn of Man bk. 10, hymn 190, v. 11

James Whitcomb Riley

U.S. poet, 1849–1916

- 1 An' all us other children, when the supper things is done,
We set around the kitchen fire an' has the mostest fun
A 'list 'nin' to the witch tales 'at Annie tells about,
An' the gobble-uns 'at gits you
Ef you
    Don't Watch Out!
- "Little Orphant Annie" l. 5 (1885). This poem was originally published under the title "The Elf-Child."

Rainer Maria Rilke

German poet, 1875–1926

- 1 But, once the realization is accepted that even between the closest human beings infinite distances continue to exist, a wonderful living side by side can grow up, if they succeed in loving the distance between them which makes it possible for each to see the other whole and against a wide sky!
- Letter to Emanuel von Bodman, 17 Aug. 1901
- 2 Who, if I cried out, would hear me among the angels' hierarchies?
- Duino Elegies* no. 1 (written 1912) (translation by Stephen Mitchell)
- 3 Beauty is nothing but the beginning of terror, which we still are just able to endure, and we are so awed because it serenely disdains to annihilate us. Every angel is terrifying.
- Duino Elegies* no. 1 (written 1912) (translation by Stephen Mitchell)
- 4 If no one else, the dying must notice how unreal, how full of pretense, is all that we accomplish here, where nothing is allowed to be itself.
- Duino Elegies* no. 4 (written 1912) (translation by Stephen Mitchell)

Arthur Rimbaud

French poet, 1854–1891

- 1 A noir, E blanc, I rouge, U vert, O bleu: voyelles, Je dirai quelque jour vos naissances latentes.
Black A, white E, red I, green U, blue O:
vowels,
Someday I shall recount your latent births.
"Voyelles" (1870)
- 2 JE est un autre.
"I" is someone else.
"Lettre du Voyant" (1871)
- 3 Elle est retrouvée. Quoi?—L'éternité. C'est la mer allée Avec le soleil.
It is found again.
What? Eternity.
It is the sea
Gone with the sun.
"L'Éternité" (1872)

Mary Roberts Rinehart

U.S. detective fiction writer, 1876–1958

- 1 Conscription may form a great and admirable machine, but it differs from the trained army of volunteers as a body differs from a soul. But it costs a country heavy in griefs, does a volunteer army; for the flower of the country goes.
- Kings, Queens and Pawns* preface (1915)

Hal Riney

U.S. advertising executive, 1932–2008

- 1 [Slogan for Ronald Reagan's 1984 presidential campaign.] It's morning again in America.
Quoted in Fortune, 6 Aug. 1984

Robert L. Ripley

U.S. cartoonist, 1893–1949

1 Believe It or Not.

Title of syndicated newspaper cartoon series (1919)

César Ritz

Swiss hotel owner, 1850–1918

1 Le client n'a jamais tort.

The customer is never wrong.

Quoted in Ralph Nevill and C. E. Jerningham, Piccadilly to Pall Mall (1908)
See Modern Proverbs 21

Antoine de Rivarol

French writer, 1753–1801

1 Ce qui n'est pas clair n'est pas français.

What is not clear is not French.

Discours sur l'Universalité de la Langue Française (1784)

Diego Rivera

Mexican painter, 1886–1957

- 1 The subject is to the painter what the rails are to the locomotive. He cannot do without it. In fact, when he refuses to seek or accept a subject, his own plastic methods and his own esthetic theories become his subject instead. And even if he escapes them, he himself becomes the subject of his work. He becomes nothing but an illustrator of his own state of mind, and in trying to liberate himself he falls into the worst sort of slavery.

Quoted in Walter Lippmann, A Preface to Morals (1929)

Joan Rivers (Joan Molinsky)

U.S. comedian, 1933–2014

- 1 There is not one female comic who was beautiful as a little girl.
Quoted in L.A. Times, 10 May 1974
- 2 [Catchphrase:] Can we talk?
Quoted in Wash. Post, 24 Aug. 1982
- 3 A man can sleep around, no questions asked. A woman can make 19 or 20 mistakes and she's a tramp.
Quoted in L.A. Times, 5 June 1983

- 4 I hate housework! You make the beds, you do the dishes—and six months later you have to start all over again.

Quoted in Michèle Brown and Ann O'Connor, Woman Talk (1984)

- 5 It's been so long since I made love I can't even remember who gets tied up.

Quoted in Robert Byrne, The Other 637 Best Things Anybody Ever Said (1984)

Joan Riviere

U.S. psychologist, 1883–1962

1 Civilization and Its Discontents.

Title of book (1930). Riviere's translation of Sigmund Freud, Das Unbehagen in der Kultur.

Tom Robbins

U.S. novelist, 1932–

- 1 Who knows how to make love stay? . . . Tell love you are going to Junior's Deli on Flatbush Avenue in Brooklyn to pick up a cheesecake, and if love stays, it can have half. It will stay. . . . Wake love up in the middle of the night. Tell it the world is on fire. Dash to the bedroom window and pee out of it. Casually return to bed and assure love that everything is going to be all right. Fall asleep. Love will be there in the morning.

Still Life with Woodpecker ch. 45 (1980)

Allan Roberts

U.S. songwriter, 1905–1966

1 You Always Hurt the One You Love.

Title of song (1944)

See Wilde 92

John G. Roberts, Jr.

U.S. judge, 1955–

- 1 The way to stop discrimination on the basis of race is to stop discriminating on the basis of race.

Parents Involved in Community Schools v. Seattle School District No. 1 (2007)

Pat Robertson

U.S. religious broadcaster, 1930–

- 1 [On rainbow flags put up by gay activists in support of sexual diversity:] I would warn Orlando [Fla.] that you're right in the way of some serious hurricanes, and I don't think I'd be waving those flags in God's face if I were you. This is not a message of hate; this is a message of redemption. But a condition like this will bring about the destruction of your nation. It'll bring about terrorist bombs; it'll bring earthquakes, tornadoes, and possibly a meteor.

Quoted in Wash. Post, 10 June 1998. Two months after Robertson's warning, Hurricane Bonnie detoured around Orlando but slammed into Robertson's own headquarters city, Virginia Beach, Va.

Robbie Robertson (Jaime Royal Robertson)
Canadian rock musician, 1943–

- 1 I pulled into Nazareth, was feelin' 'bout half-past dead
I just need some place where I can lay my head
Hey, mister, can you tell me where a man might find a bed?
He just grinned and shook my hand; "No" was all he said.
"The Weight" (song) (1968)
- 2 The Night They Drove Old Dixie Down.
Title of song (1969)

Paul Robeson
U.S. singer, actor, political activist, and athlete, 1898–1976

- 1 The artist must elect to fight for freedom or slavery. I have made my choice. I had no alternative.
Speech at antifascist rally, Royal Albert Hall, London, 24 June 1937
- 2 It is unthinkable [that American Negroes] would go to war on behalf of those who have oppressed us for generations against a country [the Soviet Union] which in one generation has raised our people to the full dignity of mankind.
Speech at World Peace Congress, Paris, 20 Apr. 1949
- 3 My father was a slave and my people died to build this country, and I'm going to stay right here and have a part of it, just like you. And no fascist-minded people like you will drive me from it. Is that clear?
Testimony before House Un-American Activities Committee, 12 June 1956

- 4 You are the un-Americans, and you ought to be ashamed of yourselves.
Testimony Before House Un-American Activities Committee, 12 June 1956

Maximilien-François-Marie-Isidore de Robespierre

French revolutionary, 1758–1794

- 1 Liberté, Égalité, Fraternité.
Liberty, Equality, Fraternity.
"Discours sur l'Organisation des Gardes Nationales," 5 Dec. 1790. Became the motto of the French Revolution.
- 2 Any law which violates the inalienable rights of man is essentially unjust and tyrannical; it is not a law at all.
Déclaration des Droits de l'Homme art. 6 (1793)
- 3 Any institution which does not suppose the people good, and the magistrate corruptible, is evil.
Déclaration des Droits de l'Homme art. 25 (1793)

Leo Robin

U.S. songwriter, 1895–1984

- 1 Thanks for the Memory.
Title of song (1937). Cowritten with Ralph Rainger.
- 2 A kiss on the hand may be quite Continental,
But diamonds are a girl's best friend.

See Advertising Slogans 38; Loos 2

Edwin Arlington Robinson

U.S. poet, 1869–1935

- 1 But still he fluttered pulses when he said,
"Good morning," and he glittered when he walked.
"Richard Cory" l. 7 (1897)
- 2 So on we worked, and waited for the light,
And went without the meat, and cursed the bread,
And Richard Cory, one calm summer night,
Went home and put a bullet through his head.
"Richard Cory" l. 13 (1897)
- 3 I shall have more to say when I am dead.
"John Brown" l. 199 (1920)

Frank Robinson

U.S. baseball player and executive, 1935–2019

- 1 Close don't count in baseball. Close only counts in horseshoes and grenades.

Quoted in Time, 31 July 1973. Usually attributed to Robinson, but earlier evidence appeared in the Elwood (Ind.) Call-Leader, 4 Dec. 1965: “Close counts only in horseshoes and hand grenades.”

Jackie Robinson

U.S. baseball player, 1919–1972

- 1 Today as I look back on that opening game of my first world series, I must tell you that it was Mr. [Branch] Rickey's drama and that I was only a principal actor. As I write this twenty years later, I cannot stand and sing the anthem. I cannot salute the flag; I know that I am a black man in a white world. In 1972, in 1947, at my birth in 1919, I know that I never had it made. I Never Had It Made introduction (1972)

Joan Robinson

English economist, 1903–1983

- 1 Any government which had both the power and the will to remedy the major defects of the capitalist system would have the will and the power to abolish it altogether, while governments which have the power to retain the system lack the will to remedy its defects. Economic Journal, Dec. 1936
- 2 One of the main effects . . . of orthodox traditional economics was . . . a plan for explaining to the privileged class that their position was morally right and was necessary for the welfare of society. Essays in the Theory of Employment “An Economist's Sermon” (1937)
- 3 Marxism is the opium of the Marxists. On Re-Reading Marx title page (1953)
See Karl Marx 2
- 4 The purpose of studying economics is not to acquire a set of ready-made answers to economic questions, but to learn how to avoid being deceived by economists. “Marx, Marshall and Keynes” (1955)

- 5 Economics limps along with one foot in untested hypotheses and the other in untestable slogans.

“Metaphysics, Morals and Science” (1962)

- 6 Marx did not have very much to say about the economics of socialism. As Kalecki once remarked, it was not his business to write science fiction.

“Economics Versus Political Economy” (1968)

- 7 In the natural sciences, controversies are settled in a few months, or at a time of crisis, in a year or two, but in the social so-called sciences, absurd misunderstanding can continue for sixty or a hundred years without being cleared up.

“Thinking About Thinking” (1979)

Marilynne Robinson

U.S. writer, 1943–

- 1 This is an interesting planet. It deserves all the attention you can give it.

Gilead (2004)

Mary Robinson

English poet, 1758–1800

- 1 Pavement slippery, people sneezing,
Lords in ermine, beggars freezing;
Titled gluttons dainties carving,
Genius in a garret starving.
“January, 1795” l. 1 (1795)

William “Smokey” Robinson

U.S. singer and songwriter, 1940–

- 1 I've got sunshine on a cloudy day.
When it's cold outside I've got the month of May.
I guess you'd say
What can make me feel this way?
My girl
Talkin' 'bout my girl.
“My Girl” (song) (1964). Cowritten with Ronald White.
- 2 Oh, but if you feel like lovin' me,
If you got the notion, I second that emotion.
“I Second That Emotion” (song) (1967). Cowritten with Alfred Cleveland.

- 3 So take a good look at my face.
You'll see my smile
Looks out of place.
If you look closer it's easy to trace
The tracks of my tears.
“The Tracks of My Tears” (song) (1965). Cowritten with Warren Moore and Marvin Tarplin.

Ludwig von Rochau

German journalist and politician, 1810–1873

- 1 Grundsätze der Realpolitik.
Fundamentals of Realpolitik.
Title of book (1853)

John Wilmot, Earl of Rochester

English poet, 1647–1680

- 1 Reason, which fifty times for one does err,
Reason, an ignis fatuus of the mind.
“A Satire Against Mankind” l. 11 (1675)
- 2 Then Old Age and Experience, hand in hand,
Lead him to death, and make him understand,
After a search so painful and so long,
That all his life he has been in the wrong.
“A Satire Against Mankind” l. 25 (1675)
- 3 A merry monarch, scandalous and poor.
“A Satire on Charles II” l. 15 (1697)
- 4 [Of Charles II:]
Here lives a Great and Mighty Monarch,
Whose Promise none relies on,
Who never said a foolish Thing,
Nor ever did a wise one.
Quoted in The Miscellaneous Works of the Right Honorable the Late Earls of Rochester and Roscommon
(1707)

Chris Rock

U.S. comedian, 1965–

- 1 You know the world is going crazy when the best rapper is a white guy, the best golfer is a black guy, the tallest guy in the NBA is Chinese, the Swiss hold the America's Cup, France is accusing the U.S. of arrogance, and Germany doesn't want to go to war.
Quoted in Calgary Sun, 5 May 2003

John D. Rockefeller

U.S. businessman and philanthropist,
1839–1937

- 1 The growth of a large business is merely a survival of the fittest. . . . The American Beauty rose can be produced in the splendor and fragrance which bring cheer to its beholder only by sacrificing the early buds which grow up around it.
Quoted in W. J. Ghent, Our Benevolent Feudalism
(1902). Ellipsis in the original.

- 2 [Comment in 1905 interview:] God gave me my money. I believe the power to make money is a gift from God—to be developed and used to the best of our ability for the good of mankind.
Having been endowed with the gift I possess,
I believe it is my duty to make money and still more money and to use the money I make for the good of my fellow man according to the dictates of my conscience.

Quoted in Peter Collier and David Horowitz, The Rockefellers, an American Dynasty (1976)

John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

U.S. philanthropist, 1874–1960

- 1 Brotherhood of man under the fatherhood of God.
Radio speech, 8 July 1941

Nelson A. Rockefeller

U.S. politician, 1908–1979

- 1 I never wanted to be vice-president of anything.
Quoted in James Desmond, Nelson Rockefeller: A Political Biography (1964)

Knute Rockne

Norwegian-born U.S. football coach, 1888–1931

- 1 Show me a good loser and I will show you a failure.
Quoted in Wash. Post, 15 Aug. 1943. This citation was found by Barry Popik, who also traced the more popular form “Show me a good loser and I'll show you a loser” as far back as Life, 21 June 1963 (quoting quarterback Frankie Albert).

Gene Roddenberry

U.S. television producer, 1921–1991

Fred Rodell

U.S. legal scholar, 1907–1980

- 1 There are two things wrong with almost all legal writing. One is its style. The other is its content.
“Goodbye to Law Reviews,” Virginia Law Review, Nov. 1936
- 2 The Law is the killy-loo bird of the sciences. The killy-loo, of course, was the bird that insisted on flying backward because it didn’t care where it was going but was mightily interested in where it had been. . . . Only The Law, inexorably devoted to all its most ancient principles and precedents, makes a vice of innovation and a virtue of hoariness.
Woe unto You, Lawyers! ch. 2 (1939)

Auguste Rodin

French sculptor, 1840–1917

- 1 I invent nothing. I rediscover.

Quoted in Camille Maclair, Auguste Rodin (1905) (translation by Clementina Black)

Wilhelm Conrad Roentgen

German physicist, 1845–1923

- 1 All bodies are transparent to this agent. . . . For brevity’s sake I shall use the expression “rays”; and to distinguish them from others of this name I shall call them “X-rays.”
“On a New Kind of Rays” (1895)

Theodore Roethke

U.S. poet, 1908–1963

- 1 Over this damp grave I speak the words of my love:
I, with no rights in this matter,
Neither father nor lover.
“Elegy for Jane” l. 20 (1953)

Fred Rogers

U.S. children’s television show host, 1928–2003

- 1 It’s a beautiful day in this neighborhood,
A beautiful day for a neighbor.
Would you be mine?
Could you be mine?
“Won’t You Be My Neighbor?” (song) (1967)

Robert Emmons Rogers

U.S. educator, 1888–1941

- 1 Be a snob. You will find it is just as easy to marry the boss’s daughter as the stenographer.
Address at graduation banquet of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass., 3 June 1929

Will Rogers (William Penn Adair)

U.S. humorist, 1879–1935

- 1 All I Know Is What I Read in the Papers.
Title of article, Life, 16 Nov. 1922. Rogers used this line earlier beginning with his appearances in Florenz Ziegfeld’s Broadway shows in 1915.

- 6 Everything is funny as long as it is happening to somebody Else.
The Illiterate Digest "Warning to Jokers: Lay Off the Prince" (1924)
- 7 I dont see why a man shouldn't pay an inheritance tax. If a Country is good enough to pay taxes to while you are living, it's good enough to pay in after you die. By the time you die you should be so used to paying taxes that it would just be almost second nature to you.
"They've Got a New Dictionary at Ellis Island" (1926)
- 8 I never yet met a man that I didn't like.
Saturday Evening Post, 6 Nov. 1926
- 9 The Nineteenth Amendment—I think that's the one that made Women humans by Act of Congress.
"Mr. Toastmaster and Democrats" (1929)
- 10 Everytime a lawyer writes something, he is not writing for posterity, he is writing so that endless others of his craft can make a living out of trying to figure out what he said, course perhaps he hadent really said anything, that's what makes it hard to explain.
"The Lawyers Talking" (1935)
- 11 The minute you read something and you can't understand it you can almost be sure that it was drawn up by a lawyer.
"The Lawyers Talking" (1935)
- 12 America has a unique record. We never lost a war and we never won a conference in our lives.
Will Rogers Wit and Wisdom (1936)
- 13 My people didn't come over on the Mayflower but we were there to meet the folks when they landed.
Quoted in Dallas Morning News, 5 Nov. 1926
- 14 You can't say civilization don't advance, however, for in every war they kill you in a new way.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 23 Dec. 1929
- 15 I am not a member of any organized party—I am a Democrat.
Quoted in P. J. O'Brien, Will Rogers, Ambassador of Good Will, Prince of Wit and Wisdom (1935). Rogers was quoted in the Dubuque (Iowa) Telegraph-Herald and Times-Journal, 3 Oct. 1930: "I am a member of no political organization. I am a democrat."
- Madame Roland (Marie-Jeanne Philipon)
French revolutionary, 1754–1793
- 1 [Remark before being guillotined, 1793:] O liberté! que de crimes on commet en ton nom!
O liberty! what crimes are committed in thy name!
Quoted in Honoré Riouffe, Mémoires d'un Détenu (1794)
- 2 The more I see of men, the more I like dogs.

U.S. cookbook author, 1877–1962
- 1 The Joy of Cooking.
Title of book (1931)
- 2 We are frequently asked what is the ideal number for a dinner party. Estimates vary. . . . We are reminded of the response made to this question by a . . . nineteenth-century gourmet: "Myself and the headwaiter."
The Joy of Cooking, 5th rev. ed. (1975)

Oscar Arnulfo Romero y Galdames

Salvadoran archbishop, 1917–1980

- 1 I would like to make a special appeal to the members of the Army. . . . In the name of God, in the name of your tormented people whose cries rise up . . . I beseech you, I beg you, I command you: STOP THE REPRESSION!

Sermon, San Salvador, 23 Mar. 1980. Delivered the day before Romero's murder by paramilitary death squads.

Erwin Johannes Eugen Rommel

German general, 1891–1944

- 1 [Statement to his aide, Captain Hellmuth Lang, northern France, ca. Mar. 1944:] Believe me, Lang, the first twenty-four hours of the invasion will be decisive . . . for the Allies, as well as Germany, it will be the longest day.

Quoted in Cornelius Ryan, The Longest Day: June 6, 1944 (1959)

George Romney

U.S. politician, 1907–1995

- 1 I just had the greatest brainwashing that anyone can get when you go over to Vietnam, not only by the generals, but also by the diplomatic corps over there, and they do a very thorough job.

Television interview, 31 Aug. 1967

Mitt Romney

U.S. politician, 1947–

- 1 There are 47 percent of the people who will vote for the president no matter what . . . who are dependent upon government, who believe that they are victims. . . . These are people who pay no income tax. . . . and so my job is not to worry about those people. I'll never convince them that they should take personal responsibility and care for their lives.

Remarks at private fundraiser, Boca Raton, Fla., 17 May 2012

- 2 We took a concerted effort to go out and find women who had backgrounds that could be qualified to become members of our cabinet [in Massachusetts]. I went to a number of women's groups and said, "Can you help us find folks?"

and they brought us whole binders full of women.

Remarks at presidential debate, Hempstead, N.Y., 16 Oct. 2012

Pierre de Ronsard

French poet, 1524–1585

- 1 Le temps s'en va, le temps s'en va, ma Dame, Las! le temps non, mais nous nous en allons.

For time speeds onward, time speeds on, my lady,

Alas! it's we who must speed on, not time.

"Amours de Marie" (1555–1556)

- 2 Cueillez dès aujourd'hui les roses de la vie.

Gather the roses of life today.

Sonnets pour Hélène bk. 1, no. 43 (1578)

Assise auprès du feu, dévidant et filant,

Direz, chantant mes vers, en vous émerveillant,

Ronsard me célébrait du temps que j'étais belle.

When you are very old, and sit in the candlelight at evening spinning by the fire, you will say, as you murmur my verses, a wonder in your eyes, "Ronsard sang of me in the days when I was fair."

Sonnets pour Hélène bk. 2, no. 43 (1578)

Eleanor Roosevelt

U.S. humanitarian and diplomat, 1884–1962

- 1 All of us in this country give lip service to the ideals set forth in the Bill of Rights and emphasized by every additional amendment, and yet when war is stirring in the world, many of us are ready to curtail our civil liberties.

We do not stop to think that curtailing these liberties may in the end bring us a greater danger than the danger we are trying to avert.

Cosmopolitan, Feb. 1940

- 2 A woman will always have to be better than a man in any job she undertakes.

"My Day" (newspaper column), 29 Nov. 1945

- 4 You gain strength, courage, and confidence by every experience in which you really stop to look fear in the face. . . . You must do the thing you think you cannot do.
You Learn by Living ch. 2 (1960)
- 5 Life was meant to be lived, and curiosity must be kept alive. One must never, for whatever reason, turn his back on life.
The Autobiography of Eleanor Roosevelt preface (1961)
- 6 No one can make you feel inferior without your consent.
Quoted in Reader's Digest, Sept. 1940
See Channing 1
- 7 When you cease to make a contribution you begin to die.
Quoted in Joseph P. Lash, Eleanor: The Years Alone (1972)
- 8 The future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams.
Attributed in Gerson G. Eisenberg, Learning Vacations (1986). An earlier occurrence, not credited to Roosevelt, was published in the Surrey (British Columbia) Leader, 15 Mar. 1978.

Franklin D. Roosevelt

U.S. president, 1882–1945

- 1 [Of Alfred E. Smith:] He is the Happy Warrior of the political battlefield.
Nominating speech at Democratic National Convention, New York, N.Y., 26 June 1924
See William Wordsworth 7
- 2 These unhappy times call for the building of plans that rest upon the forgotten, the unorganized but the indispensable units of economic power, for plans like those of 1917 that build from the bottom up and not from the top down, that put their faith once more in the forgotten man at the bottom of the economic pyramid.
Radio address, 7 Apr. 1932
See Sumner 3
- 3 The country needs and, unless I mistake its temper, the country demands bold, persistent experimentation. It is common sense to take a method and try it: If it fails, admit it frankly and try another. But above all, try something.
Address at Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, Ga., 22 May 1932
- 4 I pledge you, I pledge myself, to a new deal for the American people.
Speech to Democratic National Convention accepting presidential nomination, Chicago, Ill., 2 July 1932. The earliest figurative use of the term new deal that has been found is in a letter from John Rathbone to Nicholas Biddle, 18 Jan. 1834, referring to “a new bank and a New Deal.” Roosevelt or his speechwriters may have picked up the phrase from earlier political usages by Mark Twain or Woodrow Wilson.
See Twain 40; Woodrow Wilson 4
- 5 The first theory is that if we make the rich richer, somehow they will let a part of their prosperity trickle down to the rest of us. The second theory . . . was the theory that if we make the average of mankind comfortable and secure, their prosperity will rise upward . . . through the ranks.
Campaign address, Detroit, Mich., 2 Oct. 1932
- 6 Let me assert my firm belief that the only thing we have to fear is fear itself—nameless, unreasoning, unjustified terror which paralyzes needed efforts to convert retreat into advance.
First Inaugural Address, 4 Mar. 1933
See Francis Bacon 7; Montaigne 4; Thoreau 16; Wellington 3
- 7 In the field of world policy I would dedicate this nation to the policy of the good neighbor—the neighbor who resolutely respects himself and, because he does so, respects the rights of others—the neighbor who respects his obligations and respects the sanctity of his agreements in and with a world of neighbors.
First Inaugural Address, 4 Mar. 1933. According to Hans Sperber and Travis Trittschuh, American Political Terms: An Historical Dictionary, Herbert Hoover prominently used the term “good neighbor” during his tour of South America after the 1928 presidential election.

- 8 I hope your committee will not permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable, to block the suggested legislation [the Bituminous Coal Conservation Act of 1935].
Letter to Samuel B. Hill (chairman of House Ways and Means Committee), 6 July 1935
- 9 There is a mysterious cycle in human events. To some generations much is given. Of other generations much is expected. This generation of Americans has a rendezvous with destiny.
Speech accepting renomination as president, Philadelphia, Pa., 27 June 1936
- 10 Out of this modern civilization economic royalists carved new dynasties. . . . The royalists of the economic order have conceded that political freedom was the business of the Government, but they have maintained that economic slavery was nobody's business.
Speech accepting renomination as president, Philadelphia, Pa., 27 June 1936
- 11 I have seen war. . . . I hate war.
Speech, Chautauqua, N.Y., 14 Aug. 1936
- 12 The true conservative seeks to protect the system of private property and free enterprise by correcting such injustices and inequalities as arise from it. The most serious threat to our institutions comes from those who refuse to face the need for change. Liberalism becomes the protection for the far-sighted conservative.
Campaign address, Syracuse, N.Y., 29 Sept. 1936
- 13 I see one-third of a nation ill-housed, ill-clad, ill-nourished. . . . The test of our progress is not whether we add more to the abundance of those who have much; it is whether we provide enough for those who have too little.
Second Inaugural Address, 20 Jan. 1937
- 14 We have always known that heedless self-interest was bad morals; we now know that it is bad economics. Out of the collapse of a prosperity whose builders boasted their practicality has come the conviction that in the long run economic morality pays.
Second Inaugural Address, 20 Jan. 1937
- 15 Modern complexities call also for a constant infusion of new blood in the courts, just as it is needed in executive functions of the Government and in private business. A lowered mental or physical vigor leads men to avoid an examination of complicated and changed conditions. Little by little, new facts become blurred through old glasses fitted, as it were, for the needs of another generation; older men, assuming that the scene is the same as it was in the past, cease to explore or to inquire into the present or the future.
Message to Congress recommending reorganization of judicial branch, 5 Feb. 1937
- 16 [On the "court-packing plan" increasing the number of U.S. Supreme Court justices:] This plan will save our national Constitution from hardening of the judicial arteries.
Radio broadcast, 9 Mar. 1937
- 17 Remember, remember always that all of us, and you and I especially, are descended from immigrants and revolutionists.
Remarks before Daughters of the American Revolution Convention, Washington, D.C., 21 Apr. 1938. Often paraphrased as Roosevelt's addressing the DAR as "my fellow immigrants."
- 18 A radical is a man with both feet firmly planted—in the air. A conservative is a man with two perfectly good legs who, however, has never learned to walk forward. A reactionary is a somnambulist walking backwards. A liberal is a man who uses his legs and his hands at the behest . . . of his head.
Radio address, 26 Oct. 1939
- 19 The Soviet Union, as everybody who has the courage to face the fact knows, is run by a dictatorship as absolute as any other dictatorship in the world.
Address to American Youth Congress, 10 Feb. 1940
- 20 On this tenth day of June 1940 the hand that held the dagger has struck it into the back of its neighbor.
Address at University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va., 10 June 1940
- 21 I have said this before, but I shall say it again and again and again: Your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars.
Speech, Boston, Mass., 30 Oct. 1940
See Lyndon Johnson 9
- 22 We must be the great arsenal of democracy.
Radio broadcast, 29 Dec. 1940. According to Walter Isaacson and Evan Thomas, The Wise Men (1986), this slogan was picked up for Roosevelt's address after it was used in conversation by John McCloy, who had gotten it from Jean Monnet.

23 In the future days, which we seek to make secure, we look forward to a world founded upon four essential human freedoms. The first is freedom of speech and expression—everywhere in the world. The second is freedom of every person to worship God in his own way—everywhere in the world. The third is freedom from want . . . everywhere in the world. The fourth is freedom from fear . . . anywhere in the world.

Annual Message to Congress, 6 Jan. 1941

24 When you see a rattlesnake poised to strike, you do not wait until he has struck before you crush him.

Radio talk, 11 Sept. 1941

25 Yesterday, December 7, 1941—a date which will live in infamy—the United States of America was suddenly and deliberately attacked by naval and air forces of the Empire of Japan.

Address to joint session of Congress asking for declaration of war on Japan, 8 Dec. 1941

26 We all know that books burn—yet we have the greater knowledge that books can not be killed by fire. People die, but books never die. No man and no force can abolish memory. No man and no force can put thought in a concentration camp forever. No man and no force can take from the world the books that embody man's eternal fight against tyranny of every kind. In this war, we know, books are weapons. And it is a part of your dedication always to make them weapons for man's freedom.

"Message to the Booksellers of America" (1942)

27 Poverty anywhere constitutes a danger to prosperity everywhere.

Address to Conference of International Labor Organization, Washington, D.C., 17 May 1944. These words were part of a Declaration of the International Labor Organization, but Roosevelt repeated and illustrated them at the conference.

28 [Referring to his dog]: Fala's Scotch, and being a Scottie, as soon as he learned that the Republican fiction writers in Congress and out had concocted a story that I had left him behind on an Aleutian Island and had sent a destroyer back to find him—at a cost to the taxpayers of two or three, or eight or twenty million dollars—his Scotch soul was furious. He has not been the same dog since.

Speech at Hotel Statler, Washington, D.C., 23 Sept. 1944

29 More than an end to war, we want an end to the beginnings of all wars.

Address written for Jefferson Day Dinner, 13 Apr. 1945. This address was never delivered because of Roosevelt's death on 12 April.

30 [Of Nicaraguan dictator Anastasio Somoza]: He may be a son of a bitch, but he's our son of a bitch.

Quoted in Washington Quarterly, Summer 1982. An earlier version ("As a Nicaraguan might say, he's a sonofabitch but he's ours") was credited to Roosevelt in Time, 15 Nov. 1948. The basic pattern can be found as far back as 1868, when a "but he is our rascal" anecdote appeared in the Cincinnati Enquirer, 22 July.

31 When you get to the end of your rope, tie a knot and hang on.

Attributed in Evan Esar, The Dictionary of Humorous Quotations (1949). Although this is usually credited to Roosevelt, the Daily Ardmoreite (Ardmore, Okla.), 16 Jan. 1920, printed the following without any attribution: "You get to the end of your rope, tie a knot in it and hang on!"

Franklin D. Roosevelt 1882–1945 and Winston Churchill 1874–1965

U.S. president, British statesman

1 First, their countries seek no aggrandizement, territorial or other.

Atlantic Charter, 14 Aug. 1941

2 Second, they desire to seek no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned.

Atlantic Charter, 14 Aug. 1941

3 Sixth, after the final destruction of the Nazi tyranny, they hope to see established a peace which will afford to all nations the means of dwelling in safety within their own boundaries, and which will afford assurance that all the men in all the lands may live out their lives in freedom from fear and want.

Atlantic Charter, 14 Aug. 1941
See Franklin Roosevelt 23

- 4 Eighth, they believe that all of the nations of the world, for realistic as well as spiritual reasons, must come to the abandonment of the use of force. Since no future peace can be maintained if land, sea, or air armaments continue to be employed by nations which threaten, or may threaten, aggression outside of their frontiers, they believe, pending the establishment of a wider and permanent system of general security, that the disarmament of such nations is essential.

Atlantic Charter, 14 Aug. 1941

Theodore Roosevelt

U.S. president, 1858–1919

- 1 The man who really counts in the world is the doer, not the mere critic, the man who actually does the work, even if roughly and imperfectly, not the man who only talks or writes about how it ought to be done.

New York ch. 14 (1891)

See Theodore Roosevelt 2; Theodore Roosevelt 5; Theodore Roosevelt 18

- 2 Criticism is necessary and useful; it is often indispensable; but it can never take the place of action, or be even a poor substitute for it. The function of the mere critic is of very subordinate usefulness. It is the doer of deeds who actually counts in the battle for life, and not the man who looks on and says how the fight ought to be fought, without himself sharing the stress and the danger.

“The College Graduate and Public Life” (1894)

See Theodore Roosevelt 1; Theodore Roosevelt 5; Theodore Roosevelt 18

- 3 Every man among us is more fit to meet the duties and responsibilities of citizenship because of the perils over which, in the past, the nation has triumphed; because of the blood and sweat and tears, the labor and the anguish, through which, in the days that have gone, our forefathers moved on to triumph.

Speech at Naval War College, Newport, R.I., June 1897

See Byron 28; Winston Churchill 9; Winston Churchill 12; Donne 4

- 4 To borrow a simile from the football field, we believe that men must play fair, but that there must be no shirking, and that the success can only come to the player who “hits the line hard.”

Speech, Oyster Bay, N.Y., Oct. 1897

- 5 Far better it is to dare mighty things, to win glorious triumphs, even though checkered by failure, than to take rank with those poor spirits who neither enjoy much nor suffer much, because they live in the gray twilight that knows not victory nor defeat.

Speech to Hamilton Club, Chicago, Ill., 10 Apr. 1899

See Theodore Roosevelt 1; Theodore Roosevelt 2; Theodore Roosevelt 18

- 6 I wish to preach, not the doctrine of ignoble ease, but the doctrine of the strenuous life.

Speech to Hamilton Club, Chicago, Ill., 10 Apr. 1899

- 7 I have always been fond of the West African proverb: “Speak softly and carry a big stick; you will go far.”

Letter to Henry L. Sprague, 26 Jan. 1900

- 8 Death is always and under all circumstances a tragedy, for if it is not, then it means that life itself has become one.

Letter to Cecil Spring-Rice, 12 Mar. 1900

- 9 [Responding to the question of whether he was available to run for vice-president:] I am as strong as a bull moose and you can use me to the limit.

Letter to Mark Hanna, 17 June 1900. Roosevelt had used the expression “I feel as strong as a bull-moose” in an earlier letter of 29 Oct. 1895.

- 10 The first requisite of a good citizen in this Republic of ours is that he shall be able and willing to pull his weight.
Speech, New York, N.Y., 11 Nov. 1902
- 11 A man who is good enough to shed his blood for his country is good enough to be given a square deal afterwards. More than that no man is entitled, and less than that no man shall have.
Speech, Springfield, Ill., 4 July 1903
See Theodore Roosevelt 12
- 12 We must treat each man on his worth and merits as a man. We must see that each is given a square deal, because he is entitled to no more and should receive no less.
Speech at New York State Fair, Syracuse, N.Y., 7 Sept. 1903
See Theodore Roosevelt 11
- 13 No man is above the law and no man is below it; nor do we ask any man's permission when we require him to obey it. Obedience to the law is demanded as a right; not asked as a favor.
Third Annual Message to Congress, 7 Dec. 1903.
"No one is above the law" appears as early as Henry Fielding, Don Quixote in England (1734).
- 14 Chronic wrongdoing, or an impotence which results in a general loosening of the ties of civilized society, may in America, as elsewhere, ultimately require intervention by some civilized nation, and in the Western Hemisphere the adherence of the United States to the Monroe Doctrine may force the United States, however reluctantly, in flagrant cases of such wrongdoing or impotence, to the exercise of an international police power.
Annual Message to Congress, 6 Dec. 1904. Known as the "Roosevelt Corollary" to the Monroe Doctrine.
- 15 The men with the muck-rakes are often indispensable to the well-being of society; but only if they know when to stop raking the muck.
Speech, Washington, D.C., 14 Apr. 1906
See Bunyan 6
- 16 Let individuals contribute as they desire; but let us prohibit in effective fashion all corporations from making contributions for any political purpose, directly or indirectly.
Sixth Annual Message to Congress, 3 Dec. 1906
- 17 Malefactors of great wealth.
Speech, Provincetown, Mass., 20 Aug. 1907
- 18 It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs, and comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.
Address at the Sorbonne, Paris, 23 Apr. 1910. Richard M. Nixon quoted this passage in his address to the nation announcing his decision to resign the presidency, 8 Aug. 1974.
See Theodore Roosevelt 1; Theodore Roosevelt 2; Theodore Roosevelt 5
- 19 My position as regards the monied interests can be put in a few words. In every civilized society property rights must be carefully safeguarded; ordinarily and in the great majority of cases, human rights and property rights are fundamentally and in the long run, identical; but when it clearly appears that there is a real conflict between them, human rights must have the upper hand; for property belongs to man and not man to property.
Address at the Sorbonne, Paris, 23 Apr. 1910
- 20 It would be a master stroke if those great Powers honestly bent on peace would form a league of peace, not only to keep the peace among themselves, but to prevent, by force if necessary, its being broken by others. The man or statesman who should bring about such a condition would have earned his place in history for all time and his title to the gratitude of all mankind.
Nobel Prize Lecture, Christiania, Norway, 5 May 1910
- 21 The New Nationalism puts the national need before sectional or personal advantage.
"The New Nationalism" (speech), Osawatomie, Kan., 31 Aug. 1910

- 22 The man who wrongly holds that every human right is secondary to his profit must now give way to the advocate of human welfare, who rightly maintains that every man holds his property subject to the general right of the community to regulate its use to whatever degree the public welfare may require it.
Speech, Osawatomie, Kan., 31 Aug. 1910
- 23 My hat's in the ring. The fight is on and I'm stripped to the buff.
Newspaper interview, 21 Feb. 1912
- 24 The various admirable movements in which I have been engaged have always developed among their members a large lunatic fringe. Letter to Henry Cabot Lodge, 27 Feb. 1913. This, along with two other 1913 usages, represents the earliest known use of the phrase lunatic fringe referring to extremist individuals. However, Roosevelt appears to have been playing on an older sense of lunatic fringe referring to bangs of hair (documented as far back as Feb. 1874 in Oliver Optic's Magazine).
- 25 There is no room in this country for hyphenated Americanism.
Speech, New York, N.Y., 12 Oct. 1915
- 26 One of our defects as a nation is a tendency to use what have been called "weasel words." When a weasel sucks eggs the meat is sucked out of the egg. If you use a "weasel word" after another there is nothing left of the other.
Speech, St. Louis, Mo., 31 May 1916. The Oxford English Dictionary documents usage of the term weasel word as early as 1900.
- 27 [On the presidency.] I have got such a bully pulpit!
Quoted in Outlook (N.Y.), 27 Feb. 1909
- 28 I took the canal zone and let Congress debate, and while the debate goes on the canal does also.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 24 Mar. 1911
- 29 I have only a second rate brain but I think I have a capacity for action.
Quoted in Owen Wister, Roosevelt: The Story of a Friendship (1930)
See Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr. 44
- 30 I could carve out of a banana a Justice with more backbone than that.
Quoted in Silas Bent, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes (1932)

Elihu Root

U.S. statesman and lawyer, 1845–1937

- 1 There is a useless lawsuit in every useless word of a statute and every loose, sloppy phrase plays the part of the typhoid carrier.
"The Layman's Criticism of the Lawyer," American Bar Association Report (1914)
- 2 About half the practice of a decent lawyer consists in telling would-be clients that they are damned fools and should stop.
Quoted in Philip C. Jessup, Elihu Root (1938)

George Frederick Root

U.S. songwriter, 1820–1895

- 1 Tramp! Tramp! Tramp! the boys are marching,
Cheer up, comrades, they will come,
And beneath the starry flag
We shall breathe the air again
Of the free land in our own beloved home.
"Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!" (song) (1862)
- 2 The Union forever,
Hurray! boys, Hurrah!
Down with the traitor, up with the star;
While we rally round the flag boys, rally once again,
Shouting the battle cry of freedom.
"The Battle Cry of Freedom" (song) (1863). According to the American Heritage Dictionary of American Quotations, "The phrase 'rally round the flag' has been ascribed to Gen. Andrew Jackson at the Battle of New Orleans and was used in political campaigns before Root picked it up for this popular war song." See James T. Fields 1

Wentworth Dillon, Earl of Roscommon

Irish poet and critic, ca. 1633–1685

- 1 The multitude is always in the wrong.
Essay on Translated Verse l. 183 (1684)
See Heinlein 14; Ibsen 14; Twain 119

Billy Rose

U.S. songwriter and producer, 1899–1966

- 1 Barney Google, with the goo-goo-goo-ga-ly eyes.
"Barney Google" (song) (1923). Cowritten with Con Conrad.
- 2 Fifty Million Frenchmen Can't Be Wrong.
Title of song (1927). Cowritten with Willie Ruskin.

- 3 Never invest your money in anything that eats or needs repainting.

Quoted in N.Y. Post, 26 Oct. 1957

R. D. Rosen

U.S. journalist and critic, 1949–

- 1 We are living, practically no one has to be reminded, in a therapeutic age. The sign in every storefront reads: “Psychobabble spoken here.” Personal liberation, relating, being in touch with one’s feelings (an aspiration that sadly presumes we are so out of touch with our feelings that we must now make a project of reclaiming them)—the whole pop vocabulary and grammar of human growth appear more and more suspect.

Boston Phoenix, 27 May 1975. Coinage of the term psychobabble.

Ethel Rosenberg

U.S. alleged spy, 1915–1953

- 1 We are innocent, as we have proclaimed and maintained from the time of our arrest. This is the whole truth. To forsake this truth is to pay too high a price even for the priceless gift of life—for life thus purchased we could not live out in dignity and self-respect.

Petition for executive clemency, 9 Jan. 1953.

Coauthored with her husband Julius Rosenberg.

- 2 Suffice it to say that my husband and I shall die innocent before we lower ourselves to live guilty! And nobody, not even you, whom we continue to love as our own true brother, can dictate terms to the Rosenbergs, who follow only the dictates of heart and soul, truth and conscience, and the God-blessed love we bear our fellows!

Letter to Emanuel H. Bloch, 30 Jan. 1953

- 3 We are the first victims of American Fascism.

Quoted in Julius Rosenberg, Letter to Emanuel Bloch, 19 June 1953

Harold Rosenberg

U.S. art critic, 1906–1978

- 1 At a certain moment the canvas began to appear to one American painter after another as an arena in which to act—rather than as a space in which to reproduce, re-design, analyze, or express an object, actual or imagined. What was to go on the canvas was not a picture but an event.

“The American Action Painter,” Art News, Dec. 1952

Harold Ross

U.S. journalist and editor, 1892–1951

- 1 The New Yorker will be the magazine which is not edited for the old lady from Dubuque.

Prospectus for New Yorker magazine (1925).

Frequently quoted as “little old lady from Dubuque.”

Jerry Ross

U.S. songwriter, 1926–1955

- 1 You’ve gotta have heart
All you really need is heart.

“Heart” (song) (1955)

Christina Rossetti

English poet, 1830–1894

- 1 My heart is like a singing bird

Whose nest is in a watered shoot.

“A Birthday” l. 1 (1862)

- 2 Better by far you should forget and smile
Than that you should remember and be sad.

“Remember” l. 13 (1862)

- 3 Silence more musical than any song.

“Rest” l. 10 (1862)

- 4 Does the road wind up-hill all the way?

Yes, to the very end.

Will the day’s journey take the whole long day?

From morn to night, my friend.

“Up-Hill” l. 1 (1862)

- 5 When I am dead, my dearest,

Sing no sad songs for me;

Plant thou no roses at my head,

Nor shady cypress tree.

Be the green grass above me

With showers and dewdrops wet;

And if thou wilt, remember

And if thou wilt, forget.

“When I am dead, my dearest” l. 1 (1862)

Alice S. Rossi

U.S. sociologist and feminist, 1922–2009

- 1 Without the means to prevent, and to control the timing of, conception, economic and political rights have limited meaning for women. If women cannot plan their pregnancies, they can plan little else in their lives.

The Feminist Papers pt. 3 (1973)

Gioacchino Rossini

Italian composer, 1792–1868

- 1 Wagner has lovely moments but awful quarters of an hour.

Letter to Emile Naumann, Apr. 1867

- 2 Give me a laundry list and I'll set it to music.

Attributed in Cincinnati Enquirer, 21 Sept. 1941. Garson O'Toole has found that a similar remark was attributed to Rossini in Rivista d'Italia vol. 2 (1913) and that there were eighteenth-century references to Jean-Philippe Rameau making a comparable assertion about the Gazette of Holland.

Edmond Rostand

French playwright, 1868–1918

- 1 The Cadets of Gascoyne.
Cyrano de Bergerac act 2 (1897) (translation by Brian Hooker)
- 2 There is one crown I bear away with me,
And to-night, when I enter before God,
My salute shall sweep all the stars away
From the blue threshold! One thing without stain,
Unspotted from the world, in spite of doom
Mine own!
. . . My white plume.
Cyrano de Bergerac act 5 (1897) (translation by Brian Hooker)

Jean Rostand

French biologist, 1894–1977

- 1 Kill a man, and you are an assassin. Kill millions of men, and you are a conqueror. Kill everyone, and you are a god.
Pensées d'un Biologiste ch. 5 (1939)
See Porteus 1; Edward Young 3

Theodore Roszak

U.S. author, 1933–2011

- 1 The technocratic imperative: "What can be done must be done."
The Making of the Counter Culture: Reflections on the Technocratic Society appendix (1969)

Philip Roth

U.S. novelist, 1933–2018

- 1 The first time I saw Brenda she asked me to hold her glasses.
"Goodbye, Columbus" (1959)
- 2 A Jewish man with parents alive is a fifteen-year-old boy, and will remain a fifteen-year-old boy until they die!
Portnoy's Complaint (1969)
- 3 Doctor, doctor, what do you say, LET'S PUT THE ID BACK IN YID!
Portnoy's Complaint (1969)
- 4 Now vee may perhaps to begin. Yes?
Portnoy's Complaint (1969)
- 5 In Israel it's enough to live—you don't have to do anything else and you go to bed exhausted. Have you ever noticed that Jews shout? Even one ear is more than you need.
The Counterlife ch. 2 (1987)
- 6 I write fiction and I'm told it's autobiography, I write autobiography and I'm told it's fiction, so since I'm so dim and they're so smart, let them decide what it is or it isn't.
Deception (1990)
- 7 All that we don't know is astonishing. Even more astonishing is what passes for knowing.
The Human Stain ch. 4 (2000)
- 8 Old age isn't a battle; old age is a massacre.
Everyman (2006)
- 9 [Contrasting writers in the United States and in Eastern Europe:] In my situation, everything goes and nothing matters; in their situation, nothing goes and everything matters.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 11 May 1981

Mark Rothko (Markus Yakovlevich Rotkovich)

Latvian-born U.S. painter, 1903–1970

- 1 I'm not an abstractionist. . . . The people who weep before my pictures are having the same religious experience I had when I painted them. And if you, as you say, are moved only by their color relationships, then you miss the point!
Quoted in Selden Rodman, Conversations with Artists (1957)

- 2 Silence is so accurate.

Quoted in Art News Annual (1958)

Nathan Mayer Rothschild

German-born English financier, 1777–1836

- 1 [Investment advice.] Buy when the blood is running in the streets.

Attributed in Harry D. Schultz, Bear Markets (1964). In many attributions, it is not clear which member of the Rothschild family this is being attributed to, and any attribution may well be apocryphal.

Johnny Rotten (John Joseph Lydon)

English rock singer, 1956–

- 1 I am an antichrist

I am an anarchist

Don't know what I want

But I know how to get it

I wanna destroy passer by

Cause I

Wanna be

Anarchy.

“Anarchy in the UK” (song) (1976). Cowritten with Paul Cook, Steve Jones, and Glen Matlock.

- 2 There's no future in England's dreaming

No future, no future, no future for you

No future, no future, no future for me.

“God Save the Queen” (song) (1977)

- 3 Ever get the feeling you've been cheated?

Remark to audience at concert, San Francisco, Calif., 14 Jan. 1978

- 4 Love is three minutes of squelching noises.

Quoted in Nigel Rees, Graffiti 3 (1981)

Julie Rottenberg

U.S. screenwriter, fl. 2010

- 1 He's just not that into you.

Sex and the City (television show), 13 July 2003. Cowritten with Elisa Zuritsky.

Claude-Joseph Rouget de Lisle

French soldier, 1760–1836

- 1 Allons, enfants de la patrie,

Le jour de gloire est arrivé.

Come, children of our country,

The day of glory has arrived.

“La Marseillaise” (song) (1792)

- 2 Aux armes, citoyens!

Formez vos bataillons!

To arms, citizens!

Form your battalions!

“La Marseillaise” (song) (1792)

Jean-Jacques Rousseau

Swiss-born French philosopher and novelist, 1712–1778

- 1 The first person who, having fenced off a plot of ground, took it into his head to say this is mine and found people simple enough to believe him, was the true founder of civil society.

Discourse on the Origins and Foundations of Inequality Among Men pt. 2 (1755)

- 2 Du Contrat Social.

The Social Contract.

Title of book (1762)

- 3 L'homme est né libre, et partout il est dans les fers.

Man was born free, and everywhere he is chains.

Du Contrat Social bk. 1, ch. 1 (1762)

- 4 The strongest is never strong enough to be always the master, unless he transforms strength into right, and obedience into duty. Hence the right of the strongest, which, though to all seeming meant ironically, is really laid down as a fundamental principle.

Du Contrat Social bk. 1, ch. 3 (1762)

- 5 If we take the term in the strict sense, there never has been a real democracy, and there never will be. It is against the natural order for the many to govern and the few to be governed. It is unimaginable that the people should remain continually assembled to devote their time to public affairs, and it is clear that they cannot set up commissions for that purpose without the form of administration being changed.

Du Contrat Social bk. 3, ch. 4 (1762)

- 6 The body politic, like the human body, begins to die from its birth, and bears in itself the causes of its destruction.

Du Contrat Social bk. 3, ch. 11 (1762)

7 Good laws lead to the making of better ones; bad ones bring about worse. As soon as any man says of the affairs of the State What does it matter to me? the State may be given up for lost. Du Contrat Social bk. 3, ch. 15 (1762)

8 Everything is good as it leaves the hands of the Author of things; everything degenerates in the hands of man. He forces one soil to nourish the products of another, one tree to bear the fruit of another. He mixes and confuses the climates, the elements, the seasons. He mutilates his dog, his horse, his slave. He turns everything upside down; he disfigures everything; he loves deformity, monsters. He wants nothing as nature made it, not even man; for him, man must be trained like a school horse; man must be fashioned in keeping with his fancy like a tree in his garden. Émile bk. 1 (1762)

9 I am commencing an undertaking, hitherto without precedent, and which will never find an imitator. I desire to set before my fellows the likeness of a man in all the truth of nature, and that man myself. Confessions bk. 1 (1782)

10 At length I recollected the thoughtless saying of a great princess, who, on being informed that the country people had no bread, replied, "Then let them eat cake."
Confessions bk. 6 (1782). The words "let them eat cake" are usually attributed to Marie-Antoinette, but the Rousseau usage, written in 1766–1767 before she had even arrived in France, makes it clear that the saying predated this famous queen.

Martin Joseph Routh

English classicist, 1755–1854

1 Let me recommend to you the practice of always verifying your references, sir.
Quoted in John W. Burgon, The Last Twelve Verses of the Gospel According to S. Mark (1871)

Adolphe-Basile Routhier

Canadian poet and judge, 1839–1920

1 *O Canada! Terre de nos aïeux,
Ton front est ceint de fleurons glorieux!
Car ton bras sait porter l'épée,
Il sait porter la croix!*

*O Canada! Our home and native land!
True patriot love in all thy sons command.
With glowing hearts we see thee rise,
The True North strong and free!
"O Canada" (song) (1880) (translation by Robert Stanley Weir [1856–1926], a Canadian lawyer)*

Karl Rove

U.S. political advisor, 1950–

1 The aide said that guys like me were "in what we call the reality-based community," which he defined as people who "believe that solutions emerge from your judicious study of discernible reality." . . . "That's not the way the world really works anymore," he continued. "We're an empire now, and when we act, we create our own reality. And while you're studying that reality—judiciously, as you will—we'll act again, creating other new realities, which you can study too, and that's how things will sort out. We're history's actors . . . and you, all of you, will be left to just study what we do."
Reported in N.Y. Times Magazine, 17 Oct. 2004. Ron Suskind, the journalist writing the Times Magazine story, did not identify the quoted aide, but the aide is widely believed to have been Rove.

Matthew Rowbottom

English rock musician, fl. 1996

1 I'll tell you what I want what I really really want
(So tell me what you want, what you really really want)
If you wanna be my lover
Gotta get with my friends
Make it last forever
Friendship never ends!
"Wannabe" (song) (1996). Cowritten with Richard Stannard.

Nicholas Rowe

English playwright, 1674–1718

1 Is this that haughty, gallant, gay Lothario?
The Fair Penitent act 5, sc. 1 (1703)

Helen Rowland

U.S. writer, 1875–1950

1 When you see what some girls marry, you realize how they must hate to work for a living.
Reflections of a Bachelor Girl (1909)

- 2 A husband is what is left of a lover, after the nerve has been extracted.
A Guide to Men prelude (1922)
- 3 It takes one woman twenty years to make a man of her son—and another woman twenty minutes to make a fool of him.
A Guide to Men prelude (1922)
- 4 Somehow, a bachelor never quite gets over the idea that he is a thing of beauty and a boy forever!
A Guide to Men “Bachelors” (1922)
- 5 Love, the quest; marriage, the conquest; divorce, the inquest.
A Guide to Men “Divorces” (1922)
- 6 Before marriage, a man will go home and lie awake all night thinking about something you said; after marriage, he’ll go to sleep before you finish saying it.
A Guide to Men “First Interlude” (1922)
- 7 The follies which a man regrets the most, in his life, are those which he didn’t commit when he had the opportunity.
A Guide to Men “Improvisations” (1922)
- 8 When a girl marries she exchanges the attentions of many men for the inattention of one.
Quoted in Evan Esar, The Dictionary of Humorous Quotations (1949)

Richard Rowland

U.S. motion picture producer, ca. 1881–1947

- 1 [Of the 1919 takeover of the United Artists film company by Charlie Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, and D. W. Griffith:] The lunatics are running the asylum!
Quoted in Seattle Daily Times, 16 Mar. 1924

J. K. Rowling

English-born Scottish novelist, 1965–

- 1 “A Muggle,” said Hagrid, “it’s what we call nonmagic folk like them. An’ it’s your bad luck you grew up in a family o’ the biggest Muggles I ever laid eyes on.”
Harry Potter and the Philosopher’s Stone ch. 4 (1997)
- 2 It does not do to dwell on dreams and forget to live, remember that.
Harry Potter and the Philosopher’s Stone ch. 12 (1997)

- 3 It takes a great deal of bravery to stand up to our enemies, but just as much to stand up to our friends.
Harry Potter and the Philosopher’s Stone ch. 17 (1997)
- 4 It is our choices, Harry, that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities.
Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets ch. 18 (1999)
- 5 You can exist without your soul, you know, as long as your brain and heart are still working. But you’ll have no sense of self any more, no memory, no . . . anything. There’s no chance at all of recovery. You’ll just—exist. As an empty shell.
Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban ch. 12 (1999). Ellipsis in the original.
- 6 Differences of habit and language are nothing at all if our aims are identical and our hearts are open.
Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire ch. 37 (2000)
- 7 The one with the power to vanquish the Dark Lord approaches. . . . Born to those who have thrice defied him, born as the seventh month dies . . . and the Dark Lord will mark him as his equal, but he will have power the Dark Lord knows not . . . and either must die at the hand of the other for neither can live while the other survives.
Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix ch. 37 (2003). Ellipses in the original.

- 8 The scar had not pained Harry for nineteen years. All was well.
Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows epilogue (2007)

Arundhati Roy

Indian author, 1961–

- 1 The secret of the Great Stories is that they have no secrets. The Great Stories are the ones you have heard and want to hear again. The ones you can enter anywhere and inhabit comfortably. They don’t deceive you with thrills and trick endings. They don’t surprise you with the unforeseen. They are as familiar as the house you live in. Or the smell of your lover’s skin. You know how they end, yet you listen as though you don’t. In the way that although you know that one day you will die, you live as though you won’t. In the Great Stories you know who lives, who dies, who finds love, who doesn't. And yet you want to know again. That is their mystery and their magic.

The God of Small Things ch. 12 (1997)

Maude Royden

English religious writer, 1876–1956

- 1 The Church should go forward along the path of progress and be no longer satisfied only to represent the Conservative Party at prayer. Speech at Queen's Hall, London, 16 July 1917

Rick Rubin

U.S. music producer, 1963–

- 1 You gotta fight
For your right
To party.
“Fight for Your Right (to Party)” (song) (1986).
Cowritten with Adam Yauch and The King.

Rita Rudner

U.S. comedian, 1953–

- 1 Men with pierced ears are better prepared for marriage—they've experienced pain and bought jewelry.
Quoted in Time, 1 Oct. 1990

Muriel Rukeyser

U.S. poet, 1913–1980

- 1 I am in the world
to change the world.
“Käthe Kollwitz” sec 1, l. 12 (1968)
- 2 What would happen if one woman told the truth about her life?
The world would split open.
“Käthe Kollwitz” sec. 3, l. 25 (1968)

Donald Rumsfeld

U.S. government official, 1932–

- 1 As we know, there are known knowns; there are things we know we know. We also know there are known unknowns; that is to say we know there are some things we do not know. But there are also unknown unknowns—the ones we don't know we don't know.
Defense Department news briefing, 12 Feb. 2002
- 2 Now, you're thinking of Europe as Germany and France. I don't. I think that's old Europe. If you look at the entire NATO Europe today, the center of gravity is shifting to the east.

Briefing at Foreign Press Center, Washington, D.C., 22 Jan. 2003

- 3 [On looting after the fall of Baghdad.:] Stuff happens!
Defense Department press briefing, 11 Apr. 2003
- 4 I don't do quagmires.
Defense Department news briefing, 24 July 2003
- 5 You go to war with the Army you have. They're not the Army you might want or wish to have at a later time.
Remarks at town hall meeting, Kuwait, 8 Dec. 2004
- 6 Simply because a problem can be shown to exist, it doesn't necessarily follow that there is a solution.
Quoted in Interavia Business & Technology, 1 Jan. 2001. One of “Rumsfeld's Rules.”
- 7 Learn to say, “I don't know.” If used when appropriate, it will be often.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 8 Jan. 2001. One of “Rumsfeld's Rules.”
- 8 If you are not criticized, you may not be doing much.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 8 Jan. 2001. One of “Rumsfeld's Rules.”
- 9 [Statement on lawlessness in Iraq after the entry of U.S. troops.:] Freedom's untidy. And free people are free to make mistakes and commit crimes and do bad things.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 12 Apr. 2003
- 10 There aren't any good targets in Afghanistan and there are lots of good targets in Iraq.
Quoted in N.Y. Daily News, 20 Mar. 2004. Former U.S. counterterrorism chief Richard Clarke alleged that Rumsfeld said these words on 12 Sept. 2001. Rumsfeld was explaining why the United States should bomb Iraq despite the fact that Al Qaida terrorists were located in Afghanistan. Clarke says he responded, “Well, there are lots of good targets in lots of places, but Iraq had nothing to do with [the September 11 attacks].”

Damon Runyon

U.S. writer, 1884–1946

- 1 Always try to rub up against money, for if you rub up against money long enough, some of it may rub off on you.
“A Very Honorable Guy” (1929)

2 “Some day, somewhere,” he says, “a guy is going to come to you and show you a nice brand-new deck of cards on which the seal is never broken, and this guy is going to offer to bet you that the jack of spades will jump out of this deck and squirt cider in your ear. But son,” the old guy says, “do not bet him, for as sure as you do you are going to get an ear full of cider.” “The Idyll of Miss Sarah Brown,” Collier's, 28 Jan. 1933

3 I long ago come to the conclusion that all life is 6 to 5 against.
Collier's, 8 Sept. 1934

Norman Rush

U.S. writer, 1933–

1 In Africa, you want more, I think.
Mating ch. 1 (1991)

Salman Rushdie

Indian-born English novelist, 1947–

1 I was born in the city of Bombay . . . once upon a time. No, that won't do, there's no getting away from the date: I was born in Doctor Narlikar's Nursing Home on August 15th, 1947. . . . On the stroke of midnight, as a matter of fact.
Midnight's Children bk. 1, “The Perforated Sheet” (1981). First ellipsis in the original.

2 To be born again . . . first you have to die.
The Satanic Verses pt. 1 (1988)

3 A poet's work. . . . To name the unnamable, to point at frauds, to take sides, start arguments, shape the world, and stop it from going to sleep.
The Satanic Verses pt. 2 (1988)

4 Your blasphemy, Salman, can't be forgiven. . . . To set your words against the Words of God.
The Satanic Verses pt. 6 (1988)

5 Literature is the one place in any society where, within the secrecy of our own heads, we can hear voices talking about everything in every possible way.
“Is Nothing Sacred?” (1990)

Dean Rusk

U.S. politician, 1909–1994

1 Physicists and astronomers see their own implications in the world being round, but to me it means that only one-third of the world is asleep at any given time and the other two-thirds is up to something.

Speech to American Bar Association, Atlanta, Ga., 22 Oct. 1964

2 [On the Cuban missile crisis, 24 Oct. 1962.] We're eyeball to eyeball, and I think the other fellow just blinked.
Quoted in Saturday Evening Post, 8 Dec. 1962

John Ruskin

English art and social critic, 1819–1900

1 He is the greatest artist who has embodied, in the sum of his works, the greatest number of the greatest ideas.

Modern Painters vol. 1, pt. 1, ch. 2 (1843)

2 I believe the right question to ask, respecting all ornament, is simply this: Was it done with enjoyment—was the carver happy while he was about it?

Seven Lamps of Architecture “The Lamp of Life” sec. 24 (1849)

3 When we build, let us think that we build for ever.

Seven Lamps of Architecture “The Lamp of Memory” sec. 10 (1849)

- 4 Remember that the most beautiful things in the world are the most useless; peacocks and lilies for instance.
Stones of Venice vol. 1, ch. 2, sec. 17 (1851)
- 5 All violent feelings . . . produce in us a falseness in all our impressions of external things, which I would generally characterize as the “Pathetic Fallacy.”
Modern Painters vol. 3, pt. 4, ch. 12 (1856)
- 6 To see clearly is poetry, prophecy, and religion—all in one.
Modern Painters vol. 3, pt. 4 “Of Modern Landscape” (1856)
- 7 Mountains are the beginning and the end of all natural scenery.
Modern Painters vol. 4, pt. 5, ch. 20 (1856)
- 8 Value is the life-giving power of anything; cost, the quantity of labor required to produce it; price, the quantity of labor which its possessor will take in exchange for it.
Munera Pulveris ch. 1 (1862)
- 9 Let us reform our schools, and we shall find little reform needed in our prisons.
Unto This Last Essay 2 (1862)
- 10 Government and cooperation are in all things the laws of life; anarchy and competition the laws of death.
Unto This Last Essay 3 (1862)
- 11 Whereas it has long been known and declared that the poor have no right to the property of the rich, I wish it also to be known and declared that the rich have no right to the property of the poor.
Unto This Last Essay 3 (1862)
- 12 Life being very short, and the quiet hours of it few, we ought to waste none of them in reading valueless books.
Sesame and Lilies preface (1865)
- 13 Be sure that you go to the author to get at his meaning, not to find yours.
Sesame and Lilies “Of Kings’ Treasuries” (1865)
- 14 All books are divisible into two classes, the books of the hour, and the books of all time.
Sesames and Lilies “Of Kings’ Treasuries” (1865)
- 15 Give a little love to a child, and you get a great deal back.
The Crown of Wild Olive Lecture 1 (1866)
- 16 Taste . . . is the only morality. . . . Tell me what you like, and I’ll tell you what you are.
The Crown of Wild Olive Lecture 2 (1866)
- 17 The first duty of a State is to see that every child born therein shall be well housed, clothed, fed, and educated, till it attains years of discretion.
Time and Tide Letter 13 (1867)
- 18 Life without industry is guilt, and industry without art is brutality.
Lectures on Art Lecture 3, sec. 95 (1870)
- 19 Every increased possession loads us with a new weariness.
The Eagle’s Nest ch. 5 (1872)
- 20 [Of James McNeill Whistler’s painting Nocturne in Black and Gold:] I have seen, and heard, much of Cockney impudence before now; but never expected to hear a coxcomb ask two hundred guineas for flinging a pot of paint in the public’s face.
Fors Clavigera Letter 79, 18 June 1877. This comment was the basis for Whistler’s 1878 libel suit against Ruskin.
- 21 Great nations write their autobiographies in three manuscripts—the book of their deeds, the book of their words, and the book of their art.
St. Mark’s Rest preface (1877)
- 22 There was a rocky valley between Buxton and Bakewell. . . . You enterprised a railroad . . . you blasted its rocks away. . . . And now, every fool in Buxton can be at Bakewell in half-an-hour, and every fool in Bakewell at Buxton.
Praeterita vol. 3 (1889)
- 23 There is scarcely anything in this world that some man cannot make a little worse and sell a little cheaper, and the buyers, who consider price only, are this man’s lawful prey.
Attributed in Chicago Daily Tribune, 3 Oct. 1927. This quotation, repeated in many commercial advertisements, has not been found anywhere in Ruskin’s works. An earlier unattributed occurrence appeared in the Winston-Salem Journal, 11 Nov. 1905: “There is hardly anything that some man cannot make a little worse and sell a little cheaper, and . . . people who consider price only, are that man’s lawful prey.”

Benjamin Russell

U.S. editor, 1761–1845

- 1 [Of James Monroe's administration:] The Era of Good Feelings.

Title of article, Columbian Centinel (Boston), 12 July 1817

Bertrand Russell

English philosopher and mathematician, 1872–1970

- 1 Mathematics may be defined as the subject in which we never know what we are talking about, nor whether what we are saying is true. "Mathematics and Metaphysicians" (1901)
- 2 Mathematics, rightly viewed, possesses not only truth, but supreme beauty—a beauty cold and austere, like that of sculpture, without appeal to any part of our weaker nature, without the gorgeous trappings of painting or music, yet sublimely pure, and capable of a stern perfection such as only the greatest art can show.
"The Study of Mathematics" (1902)
- 3 We are thus led to a somewhat vague distinction between what we may call "hard" data and "soft" data. . . . I mean by "hard" data those which resist the solvent influence of critical reflection, and by "soft" data those which, under the operation of this process, become to our minds more or less doubtful.
Our Knowledge of the External World Lecture 3 (1915)
- 4 One is often told that it is a very wrong thing to attack religion, because religion makes men virtuous. So I am told; I have not noticed it.
"Why I Am Not a Christian" (1927)
- 5 The infliction of cruelty with a good conscience is a delight to moralists. That is why they invented Hell.
Sceptical Essays "On the Value of Scepticism" (1928)
- 6 The fact that an opinion has been widely held is no evidence whatever that it is not utterly absurd; indeed in view of the silliness of the majority of mankind, a widespread belief is more likely to be foolish than sensible.

Marriage and Morals ch. 5 (1929)

- 7 It seems to be the fate of idealists to obtain what they have struggled for in a form which destroys their ideals.

Marriage and Morals ch. 7 (1929)

- 8 The psychology of adultery has been falsified by conventional morals, which assume, in monogamous countries, that attraction to one person cannot coexist with a serious affection for another. Everybody knows that this is untrue.

Marriage and Morals ch. 16 (1929)

- 9 A dog cannot relate his autobiography; however eloquently he may bark, he cannot tell you that his parents were honest but poor.

Human Knowledge: Its Scope and Limits pt. 2, ch. 1 (1948)

- 10 Aristotle maintained that women have fewer teeth than men; although he was twice married, it never occurred to him to verify this statement by examining his wives' mouths.

Impact of Science on Society ch. 1 (1952)

- 11 The opinions that are held with passion are always those for which no good ground exists; indeed the passion is the measure of the holder's lack of rational conviction. Opinions in politics and religion are almost always held passionately.

Sceptical Essays "Introduction: On the Value of Scepticism" (1961)

- 12 [Of Aldous Huxley:] You could always tell by his conversation which volume of the Encyclopedia Britannica he'd been reading. One day it would be Alps, Andes, and Apennines, and the next it would be the Himalayas and the Hippocratic Oath.

Letter to R. W. Clark, July 1965

- 13 Three passions, simple but overwhelmingly strong, have governed my life: the longing for love, the search for knowledge, and unbearable pity for the suffering of mankind.

Autobiography prologue (1967)

Dora Russell

English feminist, 1894–1986

- 1 We want better reasons for having children than not knowing how to prevent them.

Hyppatia ch. 4 (1925)

John Russell

British statesman, 1792–1878

- 1 If peace cannot be maintained with honor, it is no longer peace.
Speech, Greenock, Scotland, 19 Sept. 1853
See Chamberlain 2; Disraeli 27
- 2 Among the defects of the Bill . . . one provision was conspicuous by its presence and another by its absence.
Speech to electors of London, Apr. 1859
- 3 [Definition of a proverb:] One man's wit, and all men's wisdom.
Quoted in Memoirs of the Life of the Right Honourable Sir James Mackintosh, ed. Robert James Mackintosh (1835) (entry for 6 Oct. 1823)

William Howard Russell

British journalist, 1820–1907

- 1 [Of the British infantry at the Battle of Balaclava:] That thin red streak topped with a line of steel.
Times (London), 14 Nov. 1854. In Russell's book, The British Expedition to the Crimea (1877), the words read, "They dashed on towards that thin red line tipped with steel."

George Herman "Babe" Ruth

U.S. baseball player, 1895–1948

- 1 [Self-description at age fifteen:] George H Ruth World's worse singer, world's best pitcher.
Inscription in hymnbook (1910)
- 2 [Replying to a reporter's criticism that Ruth was demanding a higher salary than that of President Herbert Hoover in 1930:] I had a better year than he did.
Quoted in Tom Meany, Babe Ruth (1947)

Ernest Rutherford

New Zealand-born English physicist, 1871–1937

- 1 Radioactivity is shown to be accompanied by chemical changes in which new types of matter are being continually produced. . . . The conclusion is drawn that these chemical changes must be sub-atomic in character.
"The Cause and Nature of Radioactivity," Philosophical Magazine, Sept. 1902
- 2 In order to explain these and other results, it is necessary to assume that the electrified particle passes through an intense electric field within the atom. The scattering of the electrified particles is considered for a type of atom which consists of a central electric charge concentrated at a point and surrounded by a uniform spherical distribution of opposite electricity equal in amount.

"The Scattering of the *3 and *4 Rays and the Structure of the Atom," Proceedings of the Manchester Literary and Philosophical Society (1911)

- 3 From the results so far obtained it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that the long-range atoms arising from collision of *3 particles with nitrogen are not nitrogen atoms but probably atoms of hydrogen, or atoms of mass 2. If this be the case, we must conclude that the nitrogen atom is disintegrated under the intense forces developed in a close collision with a swift *3 particle, and that the hydrogen atom which is liberated formed a constituent part of the nitrogen nucleus.

"Collisions of *3 Particles with Light Atoms. IV. An Anomalous Effect in Nitrogen," Philosophical Magazine, June 1919

- 4 We haven't any money so we've got to think.
Quoted in Chemical and Process Engineering, Aug. 1952
- 5 [Responding to the statement, "Lucky fellow Rutherford, always on the crest of the wave":] Well, I made the wave, didn't I?
Quoted in C. P. Snow, The Two Cultures and the Scientific Revolution (1959)
- 6 [Science may be divided into either one of] physics and stamp-collecting.
Attributed in Scientific Monthly, Sept. 1945
- 7 If you can't explain your physics to a barmaid, it is probably not very good physics.
Attributed in Journal of Advertising Research, Mar./Apr. 1998. Kurt Vonnegut wrote in Cat's Cradle (1963), "Any scientist who couldn't explain to an eight-year-old what he was doing was a charlatan."

Paul Ryan

U.S. politician, 1970–

- 1 [Of Donald Trump's criticism of Judge Gonzalo Curiel:] Claiming a person can't do their job because of their race is . . . the textbook definition of a racist comment.
News conference, Washington, D.C., 7 June 2016
See Trump 11

Matthew Rycroft

British diplomat, 1968–

- I Bush wanted to remove Saddam, through military action, justified by the conjunction of terrorism and WMD [weapons of mass destruction]. But the intelligence and facts were being fixed around the policy.

Memo to David Manning summarizing British government meeting of 23 July 2002, quoted in Sunday Times, 1 May 2005

Richard D. Ryder

English psychologist, 1940–

- I I use the word “speciesism” to describe the widespread discrimination that is practised by man against the other species. . . . Speciesism and racism (and indeed sexism) overlook or underestimate the similarities between the discriminator and those discriminated against.

Victims of Science: The Use of Animals in Research ch. 1 (1975). Ryder is said to have coined the word speciesism earlier in a leaflet privately printed in Oxford, England, in 1970.

Gilbert Ryle

English philosopher, 1900–1976

- I [On Descartes’s philosophy of mind:] Such in outline is the official theory. I shall often speak of it, with deliberate abusiveness, as the dogma of the Ghost in the Machine.

The Concept of Mind ch. 1 (1949)

Rafael Sabatini

Italian-born English author, 1875–1950

- 1 He was born with a gift of laughter and a sense that the world was mad. And that was all his patrimony.

Scaramouche ch. 1 (1921)

Howard Sackler

U.S. playwright, 1929–1982

- 1 The White Hope! Every paper in the country is calling you that.

The Great White Hope act 1, sc. 1 (1968)

Oliver Sacks

U.S. author and neurologist, 1933–2015

- 1 The Man Who Mistook His Wife for a Hat.

Title of book (1985)

Victoria “Vita” Sackville-West

English writer, 1892–1962

- 1 The greater cats with golden eyes
Stare out between the bars.
Deserts are there, and different skies,
And night with different stars.

The King’s Daughter vol. 2, no. 1 (1929)

Anwar al-Sadat

Egyptian president, 1918–1981

- 1 Peace is much more precious than a piece of land.

Speech, Cairo, 8 Mar. 1978

Donatien-Alphonse-François, Marquis de Sade

French writer and libertine, 1740–1814

- 1 Far from being a vice, cruelty is the primary feeling that nature imprints in us. The infant breaks its rattle, bites its nurse’s nipple, and strangles a bird, well before reaching the age of reason.

La Philosophie dans le Boudoir “Third Dialogue” (1795)

Sadi (Muslih-ud-Din)

Persian poet, ca. 1184–1291

- 1 I never complained of the vicissitudes of fortune, nor suffered my face to be overcast at the revolution of the heavens, except once when my feet were bare, and I had not the means of obtaining shoes. I came to the chief of Kūfah in a state of much dejection, and saw there a man who had no feet. I returned thanks to God and acknowledged his mercies, and endured my want of shoes with patience.

The Gulistān, or Rose Garden ch. 3, story 19 (1258) (translation by Edward B. Eastwick). Modern versions of this are often cited as Arabian proverbs, with wordings such as “I thought I was abused because I had no shoes until I met a man who had no feet.”

William Safire

U.S. journalist and author, 1929–2009

- 1 A man who lies, thinking it is the truth, is an honest man, and a man who tells the truth, believing it to be a lie, is a liar.

Before the Fall: An Inside View of the Pre-Watergate White House prologue (1975)

Carl Sagan

U.S. astronomer and author, 1934–1996

- 1 But the fact that some geniuses were laughed at does not imply that all who are laughed at are geniuses. They laughed at Columbus, they laughed at Fulton, they laughed at the Wright Brothers. But they also laughed at Bozo the Clown.

Broca’s Brain ch. 5 (1979)

- 2 A galaxy is composed of gas and dust and stars—billions upon billions of stars.

Cosmos ch. 1 (1980). Sagan denied using the phrase “billions and billions,” as caricatured by comedian Johnny Carson, but the above quote approaches that phrase, and Sagan was extremely fond in his writing of the word billion or billions.

- 3 If you wish to make an apple pie from scratch, you must first invent the universe.

Cosmos ch. 9 (1980)

- 4 In science it often happens that scientists say, “You know that’s a really good argument; my position is mistaken,” and then they actually change their minds and you never hear that old view from them again. They really do it. It doesn’t happen as often as it should, because scientists are human and change is sometimes painful. But it happens every day. I cannot recall the last time something like that has happened in politics or religion.
“The Burden of Skepticism” (1987)

Françoise Sagan (Françoise Quoirez)

French writer, 1935–2004

- 1 To jealousy, nothing is more frightful than laughter.
La Chamade ch. 9 (1965)
- 2 I shall live bad if I do not write and I shall write bad if I do not live.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 11 Nov. 1956

Mohammed al-Sahhaf

Iraqi minister of information, 1940–

- 1 The infidels are committing suicide by the hundreds on the gates of Baghdad.
Quoted in S.F. Chronicle, 7 Apr. 2003
- 2 I triple guarantee you, there are no American soldiers in Baghdad.
Quoted in Daily Telegraph (London), 10 Apr. 2003

Edward Said

Palestinian-born U.S. social and literary critic, 1935–2003

- 1 Orientalism can be discussed and analyzed as the corporate institution for dealing with the Orient—dealing with it by making statements about it, authorizing views of it, describing it, by teaching it, settling it, ruling over it: in short, Orientalism as a Western style for dominating, restructuring, and having authority over the Orient.
Orientalism introduction (1978)

Antoine de Saint-Exupéry

French novelist, 1900–1944

- 1 Although human life is priceless, we always act as if something had an even greater price than life. . . . But what is that something?
Night Flight ch. 14 (1931)
- 2 Experience shows us that love does not consist in gazing at each other but in looking together in the same direction.
Terre des Hommes ch. 8 (1939)
- 3 Grown-ups never understand anything for themselves, and it is tiresome for children to be always and forever explaining things to them.
Le Petit Prince ch. 1 (1943)
- 4 It is much more difficult to judge oneself than to judge others. If you succeed in judging yourself rightly, then you are indeed a man of true wisdom.
Le Petit Prince ch. 10 (1943)
- 5 It is only with the heart that one can see rightly; what is essential is invisible to the eye.
Le Petit Prince ch. 21 (1943)

Charles-Augustin Sainte-Beuve

French critic, 1804–1869

- 1 Et Vigny plus secret,
Comme en sa tour d’ivoire, avant midi rentrait.
And Vigny more discreet, as if in his ivory tower, returned before noon.
Les Pensées d’Août, à M. Villemain (1837). Origin of the term ivory tower.

Buffy Sainte-Marie

Canadian singer and songwriter, 1941–

- 1 He’s five feet two and he’s six feet four.
He fights with missiles and with spears.
He’s all of thirty-one and he’s only seventeen.
He’s been a soldier for a thousand years.
“The Universal Soldier” (song) (1963)
- 2 He’s a Cath’lic, a Hindu, an atheist, a Jain,
A Buddhist and a Baptist and a Jew.
And he knows he shouldn’t kill
And he knows he always will.
“The Universal Soldier” (song) (1963)

Andrei Sakharov

Russian physicist and political activist, 1921–1989

- 1 Intellectual freedom is essential to human society—freedom to obtain and distribute information, freedom for open-minded and unfearing debate, and freedom from pressure by officialdom and prejudices.
“Reflections on Progress, Peaceful Coexistence, and Intellectual Freedom” (1968)
- 2 Freedom of thought is the only guarantee of the feasibility of a scientific democratic approach to politics, economy, and culture.
“Reflections on Progress, Peaceful Coexistence, and Intellectual Freedom” (1968)

Saki (Hector Hugh Munro)

Burmese-born Scottish writer, 1870–1916

- 1 Everyone heard that I’d written the book and got it in the press. After that, I might have been a gold-fish in a glass bowl for all the privacy I got.
Reginald “The Innocence of Reginald” (1904)
- 2 The cook was a good cook, as cooks go; and as cooks go, she went.
Reginald “Reginald on Besetting Sins” (1904)
- 3 I’m living so far beyond my means that we may almost be said to be living apart.
The Unbearable Bassington ch. 5 (1912)
- 4 Waldo is one of those people who would be enormously improved by death.
Beasts and Super-Beasts “The Feast of Nemesis” (1914)

J. D. Salinger

U.S. novelist and short story writer, 1919–2010

- 1 If you really want to hear about it, the first thing you’ll probably want to know is where I was born, and what my lousy childhood was like . . . and all that David Copperfield kind of crap, but I don’t feel like going into it, if you want to know the truth.
The Catcher in the Rye ch. 1 (1951)
- 2 What really knocks me out is a book that, when you’re all done reading it, you wish the author that wrote it was a terrific friend of yours and you could call him up on the phone whenever you felt like it.

The Catcher in the Rye ch. 3 (1951)

- 3 Sex is something I really don’t understand too hot. You never know where the hell you are. I keep making up these sex rules for myself, and then I break them right away.
The Catcher in the Rye ch. 9 (1951)
- 4 Anyway, I keep picturing all these little kids playing some game in this big field of rye and all. . . . What I have to do, I have to catch everybody if they start to go over the cliff—I mean if they’re running and they don’t look where they’re going I have to come out from somewhere and catch them. That’s all I’d do all day. I’d just be the catcher in the rye.
The Catcher in the Rye ch. 22 (1951)
See Robert Burns 10
- 5 Don’t ever tell anybody anything. If you do, you start missing everybody.
The Catcher in the Rye ch. 26 (1951)
- 6 A confessional passage has probably never been written that didn’t stink a little bit of the writer’s pride in having given up his pride.
“Seymour: An Introduction” (1959)
- 7 There isn’t anyone anywhere that isn’t Seymour’s Fat Lady. Don’t you know that? Don’t you know that goddam secret yet? And don’t you know—listen to me, now—don’t you know who that Fat Lady really is? . . . Ah, buddy. Ah, buddy. It’s Christ Himself. Christ Himself, buddy.
Franny and Zooey (1961). Ellipsis in the original.

Robert Arthur Talbot Gascoyne-Cecil, Marquis of Salisbury

British prime minister, 1830–1903

- 1 [Of Disraeli’s amendment on Disestablishment:] Too clever by half.
Speech in House of Commons, 30 Mar. 1868
- 2 Horny-handed sons of toil.
Quarterly Review, Oct. 1873. Popularized in the United States by Denis Kearney.
See James Russell Lowell 1

Jonas E. Salk

U.S. physician and virologist, 1914–1995

- 1 [When asked by journalist Edward R. Murrow who held the patent to his vaccine against polio:]
Well the people, I would say. There is no patent.
Could you patent the sun?
See It Now (television show), 12 Apr. 1955

Sallust (Gaius Sallustius Crispus)

Roman historian, 86 B.C.–35 B.C.

- 1 [Of Rome:] A venal city ripe to perish, if a buyer can be found.
Jugurtha sec. 35
- 2 Punica fide.
With Carthaginian trustworthiness [treachery].
Jugurtha sec. 108

Narcisse Achille, Comte de Salvandy

French government official and writer, 1795–1856

- 1 We are dancing on a volcano.
Quoted in Paris ou le Livre des Cent-et-Un (1832).
This remark was made at a fête given by the Duc d'Orleans for the King of Naples at the Palais-Royal,
31 May 1830.

Paul A. Samuelson

U.S. economist, 1915–2009

- 1 Wall Street indexes predicted nine out of the last five recessions.
Newsweek, 19 Sept. 1966

George Sand (Amandine-Aurore Lucie

Dupin, Baronne Dudevant)

French novelist, 1804–1876

- 1 We cannot tear out a single page of our life; but we can throw the book in the fire.
Mauprat ch. 11 (1837)
- 2 There is only one happiness in life, to love and
be loved.
Letter to Lina Calamatta, 31 Mar. 1862
- 3 Faith is an excitement and an enthusiasm, a state of intellectual magnificence which we must safeguard like a treasure, not squander on our way through life in the small coin of empty words and inexact, pedantic arguments.
Letter to Marie-Théodore Desplanches, 25 May 1866

- 4 Happiness lies in the consciousness we have
of it.

Handsome Lawrence ch. 3 (1872)

- 5 Art for art's sake is an empty phrase. Art for the sake of the true, art for the sake of the good and the beautiful, that is the faith I am searching for.

Letter to Alexandre Saint-Jean, 1872

Carl Sandburg

U.S. writer, 1878–1967

- 1 Hog Butcher for the World,
Tool Maker, Stacker of Wheat,
Player with Railroads and the Nation's Freight Handler;
Stormy, husky, brawling,
City of the big shoulders.
"Chicago" l. 1 (1916)
- 2 They tell me you are wicked and I believe them, for I have seen your painted women under the gas lamps luring the farm boys.
"Chicago" l. 6 (1916)
- 3 And they tell me you are brutal and my reply is:
On the faces of women and children I have seen the marks of wanton hunger.
And having answered so I turn once more to those who sneer at this my city, and I give them back the sneer and say to them:
Come and show me another city with lifted head singing so proud to be alive and coarse and strong and cunning.
"Chicago" l. 10 (1916)
- 4 The fog comes
on little cat feet.
It sits looking over the harbor and city
on silent haunches
and then moves on.
"Fog" l. 1 (1916)
- 5 I am the people—the mob—the crowd—the mass.
Do you know that all the great work of the world is done through me?
"I Am the People, the Mob" l. 1 (1916)

- 6 When Abraham Lincoln was shoved into the tombs, he forgot the copperheads and the assassin . . . in the dust, in the cool tombs. "Cool Tombs" l. 1 (1918). Ellipsis in the original.
- 7 Pile the bodies high at Austerlitz and Waterloo. Shovel them under and let me work— I am the grass; I cover all. "Grass" l. 1 (1918)
- 8 Two years, ten years, and passengers ask the conductor: What place is this? Where are we now? "Grass" l. 7 (1918)
- 9 Why is there always a secret singing When a lawyer cashes in? Why does a hearse horse snicker Hauling a lawyer away? "The Lawyers Know Too Much" l. 16 (1920)
- 10 Sometime they'll give a war and nobody will come. The People, Yes pt. 23 (1936). The popular form of this expression was crystallized when Charlotte Keyes published an article titled "Suppose They Gave a War and No One Came?" in McCall's, Oct. 1966.
- 11 The people will live on. The learning and blundering people will live on. The People, Yes pt. 107 (1936)
- 12 A baby is God's opinion that life should go on. Remembrance Rock ch. 2 (1948)
- 13 Slang is language that takes off its coat, spits on its hands, and goes to work. Quoted in Maurice H. Weseen, The Dictionary of American Slang (1934)

Bernie Sanders

U.S. politician, 1941–

- 1 If [a company] is too big to fail, then it is too big to exist. News release, 18 Sept. 2008
- 2 [To Hillary Clinton:] The American people are sick and tired of hearing about your damn emails. Democratic presidential debate, Las Vegas, Nev., 13 Oct. 2015

George Sanders

Russian-born English actor, 1906–1972

- 1 Dear World, I am leaving you because I am bored. I feel I have lived long enough. I am leaving you with your worries in this sweet cesspool. Good luck. Suicide note, 25 Apr. 1972

Henry R. "Red" Sanders

U.S. football coach, 1905–1958

- 1 Winning isn't everything. . . . It's the only thing! Quoted in L.A. Times, 18 Oct. 1950. Often attributed to Vince Lombardi, but the Sanders citation predates any reference to Lombardi's using it. A little earlier, the Tallahassee Democrat, 7 Feb. 1950, printed the following (citation discovered by Garson O'Toole): "Tulane football coach Henry Frnka recently asked UCLA mentor Red Sanders, 'Winning isn't everything, is it, Red?' To which Sanders replied, 'No, it isn't everything; it's just the ONLY thing.'" David Maraniss, When Pride Still Mattered: A Life of Vince Lombardi (1999), quotes Sanders's friend Fred Russell: "I remember hearing him saying it back in the mid-1930s when he was coaching at the Columbia Military Academy." See Lombardi 1; Modern Proverbs 99

Margaret Sanger

U.S. reformer, 1883–1966

- 1 Women of the working class, especially wage workers, should not have more than two children at most. The average working man can support no more and the average working woman can take care of no more in decent fashion. Family Limitation introduction (1914)
- 2 A mutual and satisfied sexual act is of great benefit to the average woman, the magnetism of it is health giving, and acts as a beautifier and tonic. When it is not desired on the part of the woman and she has no response, it should not take place. This is an act of prostitution and is degrading to the woman's finer sensibility, all the marriage certificates on earth to the contrary notwithstanding. Family Limitation (1914)
- 3 No woman can call herself free who cannot choose the time to be a mother or not as she sees fit. "The Case for Birth Control," Physical Culture, Apr. 1917

4 No woman can call herself free who does not own and control her body. No woman can call herself free until she can choose consciously whether she will or will not be a mother.

Woman and the New Race ch. 8 (1920)

5 Woman was and is condemned to a system under which the lawful rapes exceed the unlawful ones a million to one.

Woman and the New Race ch. 14 (1920)

6 Woman's role has been that of an incubator and little more. She has given birth to an incubated race.

Woman and the New Race ch. 18 (1920)

George Santayana

Spanish-born U.S. philosopher and critic,
1863–1952

1 Fanaticism consists in redoubling your effort when you have forgotten your aim.

The Life of Reason vol. 1, introduction (1905)

2 That life is worth living is the most necessary of assumptions, and were it not assumed, the most impossible of conclusions.

The Life of Reason vol. 1, ch. 10 (1905)

3 Progress, far from consisting in change, depends on retentiveness. . . . When experience is not retained, as among savages, infancy is perpetual. Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it. . . . This is the condition of children and barbarians, in whom instinct has learned nothing from experience.

The Life of Reason vol. 1, ch. 12 (1905)

4 Each religion, so dear to those whose life it sanctifies, and fulfilling so necessary a function in the society that has adopted it, necessarily contradicts every other religion, and probably contradicts itself.

The Life of Reason vol. 3, ch. 1 (1905)

5 What religion a man shall have is a historical accident, quite as much as what language he shall speak.

The Life of Reason vol. 3, ch. 1 (1905)

6 Miracles are propitious accidents, the natural causes of which are too complicated to be readily understood.

The Ethics of Spinoza introduction (1910)

7 I like to walk about amidst the beautiful things that adorn the world; but private wealth I should decline, or any sort of personal possessions, because they would take away my liberty.

Soliloquies in England and Later Soliloquies "The Irony of Liberalism" (1922)

8 My atheism, like that of Spinoza, is true piety towards the universe and denies only gods fashioned by men in their own image, to be servants of their human interests.

Soliloquies in England and Later Soliloquies "On My Friendly Critics" (1922)

9 Only the dead have seen the end of war.

Soliloquies in England and Later Soliloquies "Tipperary" (1922). Frequently attributed to Plato, as on the wall of the Imperial War Museum in London, in General Douglas MacArthur's farewell address at West Point in 1962, and in the film Black Hawk Down, but it does not appear in Plato's works.

10 There is no cure for birth and death save to enjoy the interval.

Soliloquies in England and Later Soliloquies "War Shrines" (1922)

11 Scepticism is the chastity of the intellect, and it is shameful to surrender it too soon or to the first comer.

Scepticism and Animal Faith ch. 9 (1923)

12 It is a great advantage for a system of philosophy to be substantially true.

The Unknowable (1923)

13 There is nothing impossible, therefore, in the existence of the supernatural; its existence seems to me decidedly probable; there is infinite room for it on every side.

"The Genteel Tradition at Bay" (1931)

14 The Difficult is that which can be done immediately; the Impossible that which takes a little longer.

Quoted in Reader's Digest, Nov. 1939. "The difference between the difficult and the 'impossible' is that the impossible takes a little longer time" appeared in the Oakland Tribune, 31 Mar. 1924, quoting a sermon by John Snape.

See Calonne 1; Nansen 1; Trollope 3

15 There is no God and Mary is His Mother.

Attributed in Robert Lowell, Life Studies (1953). May be a paraphrase of Santayana's ideas or a Catholic joke that became attached to his name.

Edward Sapir

U.S. anthropologist and linguist, 1884–1939

- 1 Were a language ever completely “grammatical,” it would be a perfect engine of conceptual expression. Unfortunately, or luckily, no language is tyrannically consistent. All grammars leak.

Language: An Introduction to the Study of Speech ch. 2 (1921)

- 2 Language and our thought-grooves are inextricably interwoven, are, in a sense, one and the same.

Language: An Introduction to the Study of Speech ch. 10 (1921)

Sappho

Greek poet, Seventh cent. B.C.

- 1 Equal to the gods seems to me that man who sits facing you and hears you nearby sweetly speaking and softly laughing. This sets my heart to fluttering in my breast, for when I look on you a moment, then can I speak no more, but my tongue falls silent, and at once a delicate flame courses beneath my skin, and with my eyes I see nothing, and my ears hum, and a cold sweat bathes me, and a trembling seizes me all over, and I am paler than grass, and I feel that I am near to death.

Fragment 2

- 2 The moon has set, and the Pleiades; it is midnight, and time passes, and I sleep alone.

Fragment 94

- 3 [Of a girl before marriage:] As an apple reddens on the high bough; high atop the highest bough the apple pickers passed it by—no, not passed it by, but they could not reach it.

Fragment 116

John Singer Sargent

U.S. painter, 1856–1925

- 1 Every time I paint a portrait I lose a friend.
Quoted in Evan Esar, A Dictionary of Humorous Quotations (1949)

David Sarnoff

U.S. business executive, 1891–1971

- 1 For some years I have had in mind a plan of development which would make radio a “household utility” in the same sense as a piano or phonograph.

Memorandum to Owen D. Young, 31 Jan. 1920

- 2 [Announcing the inauguration of regular television programming by the National Broadcasting Company:] And now we add radio sight to sound.

Broadcast speech, 20 Apr. 1939

William Saroyan

U.S. writer, 1908–1981

- 1 In the time of your life, live—so that in that good time there shall be no ugliness or death for yourself or for any life your life touches.

The Time of Your Life preface (1939)

- 2 If you give to a thief he cannot steal from you, and then he is no longer a thief.

The Human Comedy ch. 4 (1943)

George Sarton

Belgian-born U.S. historian of science, 1884–1956

- 1 The most ominous conflict of our time is the difference of opinion, of outlook, between men of letters, historians, philosophers, the so-called humanists, on the one side and scientists on the other. The gap cannot but increase because of the intolerance of both and the fact that science is growing by leaps and bounds.

May Sarton

Belgian-born U.S. poet, 1912–1995

- 1 I come to you with only this straight gaze.
These are not hours of fire but years of praise,
The glass full to the brim, completely full,
But held in balance so no drop can spill.

“Because What I Want Most Is Permanence” l. 20 (1954)

- 2 And one cold starry night
Whatever your belief
The phoenix will take flight
Over the seas of grief
To sing her thrilling song
To stars and waves and sky

For neither old nor young
The phoenix does not die.
“The Phoenix Again” l. 17 (1988)

Jean-Paul Sartre

French philosopher and writer, 1905–1980

- 1 Everything is gratuitous, this garden, this city and myself. When you suddenly realize it, it makes you feel sick and everything begins to drift . . . that’s nausea.
La Nausée (Nausea) (1938)
- 2 I am condemned to be free.
L’Être et le Néant (Being and Nothingness) pt. 4, ch. 1 (1943)
- 3 L’homme est une passion inutile.
Man is a useless passion.
L’Être et le Néant (Being and Nothingness) pt. 4, ch. 2 (1943)
- 4 Human life begins on the far side of despair.
Les Mouches (The Flies) act 3, sc. 2 (1943)
- 5 L’Enfer, c’est les Autres.
Hell is other people.
Huis Clos (No Exit) (1944)
See T. S. Eliot 126
- 6 Well, well, let’s get on with it.
Huis Clos (No Exit) (1944)
- 7 Man cannot will unless he has first understood that he can count on nothing but himself: that he is alone, left alone on earth in the middle of his infinite responsibilities, with neither help nor succor, with no other goal but the one he will set for himself, with no other destiny but the one he will forge on this earth.
“A More Precise Characterization of Existentialism” (1944) (translation by Richard McCleary). The previous attribution of this quotation to Sartre’s L’Être et le Néant (Being and Nothingness) is incorrect.
- 8 Existence precedes essence.
L’Existentialisme Est un Humanisme (1946)
- 9 When the rich wage war it’s the poor who die.
Le Diable et le Bon Dieu act 1, tableau 1 (1951)
- 10 [Declining to accept the Nobel Prize for Literature:]
A writer must refuse, therefore, to allow himself to be transformed into an institution. Declaration read at Stockholm, Sweden, 22 Oct. 1964

Siegfried Sassoon

English writer, 1886–1967

- 1 You smug-faced crowds with kindling eye
Who cheer when soldier lads march by,
Sneak home and pray you’ll never know
The hell where youth and laughter go.
“Suicide in the Trenches” l. 9 (1918)

Allen Saunders

U.S. cartoonist, 1899–1986

- 1 Life is what happens to us while we are making other plans.
Quoted in Reader’s Digest, Jan. 1957. Often credited to John Lennon, but this citation considerably predates Lennon’s usage.

John Monk Saunders

U.S. writer, 1895–1940

- 1 It seemed like a good idea . . . at the time.
Single Lady ch. 12 (1931). Ellipsis in the original.

Ferdinand de Saussure

Swiss linguist, 1857–1913

- 1 But what is language [langue]? It is not to be confused with human speech [langage], of which it is only a definite part, though certainly an essential one. It is both a social product of the faculty of speech and a collection of necessary conventions that have been adopted by a social body to permit individuals to exercise that faculty.
Course in General Linguistics introduction, ch. 3 (1916) (translation by Wade Baskin)
- 2 A science that studies the life of signs within society is conceivable; it would be a part of social psychology and consequently of general psychology; I shall call it semiology (from Greek sēmeion “sign”).
Course in General Linguistics introduction, ch. 3 (1916) (translation by Wade Baskin)
- 3 I call the combination of a concept and a sound-image a sign. . . . I propose to retain the word sign [signe] to designate the whole and to replace concept and sound-image respectively by signified [signifié] and signifier [signifiant]. . . . The bond between the signifier and the signified is arbitrary.
Course in General Linguistics pt. 1, ch. 1 (1916) (translation by Wade Baskin)

- 4 Language can . . . be compared with a sheet of paper: thought is the front and the sound the back; one cannot cut the front without cutting the back at the same time; likewise in language, one can neither divide sound from thought nor thought from sound; the division could be accomplished only abstractedly, and the result would be either pure psychology or pure phonology.

Course in General Linguistics pt. 2, ch. 4 (1916)
(translation by Wade Baskin)

Alfred Sauvy

French demographer, 1898–1990

- 1 Ce Tiers Monde ignoré, exploité, méprisé comme le Tiers Etat, veut, lui aussi, être quelque chose.
This Third World, ignored, exploited, scorned like the Third Estate, wants also to be something.

L'Observateur, 14 Aug. 1952. Coinage of the term Tiers Monde or Third World.

Mario Savio

U.S. political activist, 1942–1996

- 1 There's a time when the operation of the machine becomes so odious, makes you so sick at heart, that you can't take part; you can't even passively take part. And you've got to put your bodies on the gears and on the levers, and on all the apparatus, and you've got to make it stop.
Speech, Berkeley, Calif., 3 Nov. 1964
See Thoreau 7

John G. Saxe

U.S. poet, 1816–1887

- 1 Laws, like sausages, cease to inspire respect in proportion as we know how they are made.
Quoted in University Chronicle (University of Michigan), 27 Mar. 1869. Today this is usually credited to Otto von Bismarck, but the earliest Bismarck attribution that has been found is in Claudius O. Johnson, Government in the United States (1933).

Jean Baptiste Say

French economist, 1767–1832

- 1 It is production which opens a demand for products. . . . A product is no sooner created, than it, from that instant, affords a market for other products to the full extent of its own value.
A Treatise on Political Economy (1803)

Dorothy L. Sayers

English detective fiction writer, 1893–1957

- 1 I always have a quotation for everything—it saves original thinking.
Have His Carcase ch. 4 (1932)
- 2 Many words have no legal meaning. Others have a legal meaning very unlike their ordinary meaning. For example, the word “daffy-down-dilly.” It is a criminal libel to call a lawyer a “daffy-down-dilly.” Ha! Yes, I advise you never to do such a thing. No, I certainly advise you never to do it.
Unnatural Death ch. 14 (1955)
- 3 As years come in and years go out
I totter toward the tomb,
Still caring less and less about
Who goes to bed with whom.
Letter to John Benjamin, 2 Feb. 1953

Henry J. Sayers

U.S. songwriter, 1854–1932

- 1 Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay!
Title of minstrel show number (1891)

Sayings

This category lists expressions that are not strictly proverbs, that is, not traditional sentences offering advice or a moral pithily, but that resemble most proverbs in the respect that their authorship is probably impossible to trace. The citation given for each is that of the earliest occurrence that has been found in research for this book. The sayings are arranged alphabetically by their first significant word. See also Proverbs, Modern Proverbs, and Anonymous.

- 1 Age and treachery will overcome youth and skill.
Reno Evening Gazette, 2 May 1977
- 2 All the world is queer . . . but thee and me, and thee knows thee is queer sometimes.
Good Literature, 16 June 1883. Frequently attributed to Robert Owen, but no evidence has ever been produced supporting that claim.
- 3 The butler did it.
Variety, 29 Oct. 1924. “His ex-butler did it!” appears in Gilbert Wolf Gabriel, Jiminy (1922).
- 4 The check is in the mail.
Berkshire Evening Eagle, 20 Feb. 1947
- 5 Chicken Little was right.
Max Steele, Debby (1950)

- 6 Close, but no cigar.
Annie Oakley (motion picture) (1935). The actual phrasing here is “Close, Colonel, but no cigar!”
- 7 A committee is a group of the unwilling, appointed by the unfit, to do the unnecessary.
Detroit Medical News, 8 Dec. 1952
- 8 Curses, foiled again.
Yale Forest School News, July 1923
- 9 Do not fold, spindle, or mutilate.
Kansas City Star, 16 July 1941. The basic directive on punched computer cards. A later development was “I am a human being—do not fold, spindle, or mutilate.” The earliest example of the latter found in research for this book is in two 1967 books: Alan Robbins, The Guide to College Graffiti; and Robert Reisner, Great Wall Writing & Button Graffiti.
- 10 Don't call us, we'll call you.
Lowell (Mass.) Sun, 17 Mar. 1944
- 11 Don't sweat the small stuff.
Atlanta Constitution, 17 Aug. 1957. A popular extension of this is: “Don't sweat the small stuff. And try to remember it's all small stuff” (N.Y. Times, 23 Oct. 1979).
- 12 Feminism is the radical notion that women are people.
Orlando Sentinel, 20 Feb. 1993
- 13 [Formula used at the beginning of an automobile race:] Gentlemen—start your engines!
Iowa City Press-Citizen, 24 May 1952. “Gentlemen, start your motors” appeared in the 1950 edition of Floyd Clymer's Indianapolis 500 Yearbook.
- 14 Get a life.
Wash. Post, 23 Jan. 1983
- 15 [Supposed Jesuit maxim:] Give me a child until he is seven years old, and you may do what you like with him afterwards.
The Mother's Mission (1859). This has never been verified in any Jesuit source.
See Spark 2
- 16 Remember the golden rule. . . . Whoever has the gold makes the rules.
Wizard of Id (comic strip), 3 May 1965
- 17 Happy ever after.
William M. Thackeray, The History of Pendennis (1849). “And they lived happily ever after” or variants is a standard fairy tale ending. The Thackeray quotation antedates the earliest (1853) citation given by the Oxford English Dictionary.
- 18 [They snatched] defeat from the jaws of victory.
Daily Inter-Ocean (Chicago), 24 May 1874
- 19 I don't care what you call me, as long as you don't call me late to dinner.
Huron Reflector (Norwalk, Ohio), 16 July 1833. The exact words used by this source are “Call me what you please, but don't call me too late to dinner.”
- 20 If a tree falls in a forest and there is no one to hear it, does it make a sound?
Wash. Post, 9 Apr. 1935. A similar question involving a tree falling on an island appeared in The Chautauquan, June 1883. The saying is a popularization of the philosophy of George Berkeley.
- 21 If English was good enough for Jesus, it's good enough for me.
New Yorker, 4 Dec. 1926. An earlier version appeared in the New York Times, 15 Jan. 1905: “If English was good enough for St. Paul to write the Bible in it's good enough for me.”
- 22 [Military saying:] If it moves salute it. If it doesn't move pick it up. If you can't pick it up, paint it.
Chicago Defender, 16 Dec. 1944
- 23 If I'd have known I was going to live this long, I would have taken better care of myself.
Wash. Post, 24 Nov. 1966. Frequently attributed to Eubie Blake, Adolph Zukor, or others, but this occurrence significantly predates any evidence for these individuals using the saying.
- 24 If voting could change anything it would be made illegal.
Lowell (Mass.) Sun, 24 Sept. 1976
- 25 When did I ever drop my bread and butter—and it seldom got to my mouth without some such circuit—but it fell on the buttered side?
Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine, Jan. 1822
See Robert Burns 3; Dickens 67; Disraeli 7; Modern Proverbs 100; Orwell 17; Plautus 3; Proverbs 2
- 26 In God we trust; all others pay cash.
Chester (Pa.) Daily Times, 21 Apr. 1877. The exact wording here is “In God we trust, all others cash.”
- 27 It's a long time between drinks.
Henry Morford, Red-Tape and Pigeon-Hole Generals (1864). “A d—d long time between drinks” appears in the Southern Literary Messenger, Dec. 1862. A popular story ascribes the origin of the phrase to the governor of North Carolina speaking to the governor of South Carolina, or vice versa.
- 28 [New York is] a nice place to visit, but I wouldn't want to live there.
Brattleboro (Vt.) Daily Reformer, 1 Feb. 1919

- 29 [Definition of death:] It's nature's way of telling you to slow down.
Newsweek, 25 Apr. 1960
- 30 It's not the money, it's the principle.
Catherine G. F. Smith, Quixote, the Weaver (1892)
See "Kin" Hubbard 4
- 31 Just because you're paranoid doesn't mean you're not being followed.
Fitchburg (Mass.) Sentinel, 9 Sept. 1971. This 1971 source referred to the saying as being a graffito. A similar quotation, "Even Paranoids Have Real Enemies" (printed on a button), was cited in Christianity Today, 21 July 1967. Nigel Rees, Cassell's Humorous Quotations, records two earlier versions: "Because a person has monomania she need not be wrong about her facts" (Dorothy L. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise ch. 16 [1933]); and "Has it ever struck you that when people get persecution mania, they usually have a good deal to feel persecuted about?" (C. P. Snow, The Affair ch. 11 [1960]).
- 32 Keep it simple, stupid.
Robesonian (Lumberton, N.C.), 23 July 1958. Usually given as the expansion of the abbreviation KISS.
- 33 Kilroy was here.
Sheppard Field Texacts, 14 July 1945. Graffito popularized by U.S. soldiers in the 1940s. An earlier version appeared in the Kearns Air Force Post Review, 26 June 1945 ("To the Unknown Soldier—Kilroy Sleeps Here"), and the Texacts newspaper of the Sheppard Field Army base in Texas had posed the question "Who is Kilroy?" in its 21 Apr. 1945 issue.
- 34 Le roi est mort! Vive le roi!
The king is dead! Long live the king!
Encyclopaedia Americana (1851). This official formula dates at least from the sixteenth century and was used by a French court dignitary to announce the death of the sovereign and the immediate advent of his successor.
- 35 Let's run it up the flagpole and see if anyone salutes.
Twelve Angry Men (motion picture) (1957)
- 36 [Formula used to begin motion picture filming:]
Lights, camera, action.
L.A. Times, 10 Oct. 1926
- 37 [Describing the three most important things about real estate:] Location, location, location.
Omaha World Herald, 13 July 1920
- 38 The mail must go through.
Motto of Pony Express (1860–1861)
- 39 ["Chinese curse":] May you live in interesting times.
Yorkshire Post, 21 Mar. 1936. No authentic Chinese saying to this effect has ever been found.
- 40 Meanwhile back at the ranch.
Oakland Tribune, 21 July 1940. Zane Grey's Riders of the Purple Sage (1912) contains the phrase "Meantime, at the ranch."
- 41 No more Mr. Nice Guy.
Terre Haute Tribune, 8 Sept. 1960
- 42 [Pseudo-Latin for "Don't let the bastards grind you down":] Ne illigitimi carborundum.
Racine (Wis.) Journal-Times, 19 May 1945
- 43 Not tonight, Josephine.
Houston Post, 12 June 1910. Supposedly Napoleon's rejection of his wife's advances, but it appears to be a much later catchphrase.
- 44 One man's terrorist is another man's freedom fighter.
Christian E. Hauer, Jr., Crisis and Conscience in the Middle East (1970). The exact wording in the 1970 book was "heroic freedom fighter."
- 45 The operation was successful, but the patient died.
Hartford Daily Courant, 28 Aug. 1851
- 46 [Response to request for directions, "How do you get to Carnegie Hall?":] Practice, practice.
N.Y. Times, 26 Mar. 1961. With the single-word answer, "Practice!," this appeared in the Washington Post, 13 Mar. 1955.
- 47 Sex is like money—even when it's bad, it's good.
Robert Reisner, Graffiti (1971)
- 48 The South will rise again.
Baltimore Sun, 10 July 1865
- 49 Thank God It's Friday.
Lima (Ohio) News, 16 Dec. 1937. Often abbreviated TGIF.
- 50 [Of computer defects:] That's not a bug, that's a feature.
CoEvolution Quarterly, Spring 1981
- 51 There ain't nobody here but us chickens.
Times-Democrat (New Orleans), 22 Sept. 1912. A racially charged version appeared as early as 1908: "Tain't nobody in heah 'ceptin' us chickens" (Life, 11 June). According to Eric Partridge, Dictionary of Catch Phrases, this saying "had existed prob. since late or latish C19 and was based on a story about a chicken-thief surprised by the owner, who calls 'Anybody there:' and is greeted by this resourceful reply."

52 [British description of U.S. soldiers stationed in England during World War II:] They're over-paid, they're over-sexed, and they're over here.
Wash. Post, 30 Apr. 1944

53 This hurts me more than you.
 Harry Graham, Ruthless Rhymes (1899)

54 [Native American pre-battle motto:] This is a good day to die.
Leavenworth (Kan.) Weekly Times, 18 Aug. 1881

55 Hours spent fishing are not deducted from man's allotted span.
Angling Yarns (1936)

56 To err is human. To really foul up—it takes a computer.
Newark (Ohio) Advocate, 3 Oct. 1969

57 Vive la différence.
 Long live the difference [between men and women].
N.Y. Times, 5 Sept. 1943

58 Wait till next year.
Sporting Life, 5 Nov. 1884. Phrase used by disappointed sports fans.

59 [Alluding to perfunctory sexual intercourse:]
 Wham bam thank you, ma'am!
 Thomas Heggens, Mister Roberts (1948)

60 What's black and white and red all over?
 Barbara Bee, One Thousand Riddles (1882). The answer is "A newspaper."

61 When all else fails, try reading the instructions.
The Aeroplane, 4 Apr. 1954

62 Which . . . is first, the chicken or the egg?
 Stephen Pearl Andrews, The Basic Outline of Universology (1872)

63 Who's minding the store?
Wash. Post, 16 Apr. 1942

64 Will you still respect me in the morning?
N.Y. Times, 11 Oct. 1979

65 A woman's place is in the House, and the Senate, too.
Burlington (N.C.) Daily Times News, 7 May 1973.
 "A woman's place is in the House" appeared as a campaign slogan of Bella Abzug's in the Mansfield (Ohio) News Journal, 13 July 1970.
 See Proverbs 330

66 Women and children first.
 William D. O'Connor, Harrington (1860)

67 You can't win. . . . You can't even break even. . . . You can't get out of the game!
Astounding Science-Fiction, Dec. 1956

Wallace S. Sayre

U.S. political scientist, 1905–1972

- I Academic politics is the most vicious and bitter form of politics, because the stakes are so low.
 Quoted in Wall Street Journal, 20 Dec. 1973. Political scientist Herbert Kaufman has attested to the editor of this dictionary that Sayre usually stated this as "The politics of the university are so intense because the stakes are so low" and that Sayre originated the quip by the early 1950s. Philosopher Charles Frankel said in a 1969 speech, "It used to be said of politics on the university campus that it was the worst of all kinds of politics because the stakes were so small" ("Education and the Barricades," in American Association of School Administrators, Your AASA in Nineteen Sixty-Eight–Sixty-Nine).

Al Scalpone

U.S. advertising writer, fl. 1947

- I The family that prays together stays together.
Family Theater of the Air (radio program), 6 Mar. 1947. According to the Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs, "The saying was invented by Al Scalpone, a professional commercial-writer, and was used as the slogan of the Roman Catholic Family Rosary Crusade by Father Patrick Peyton. . . . The crusade began in 1942 and the slogan was apparently first broadcast" as above.

Friedrich von Schelling

German philosopher, 1775–1854

- I Architektur ist überhaupt die erstarrte Musik.
 Architecture in general is frozen music.
Philosophie der Kunst (1809). Nigel Rees notes in the Cassell Companion to Quotations: "[Schelling] had already used the 'frozen' phrase in a lecture in 1802–3. . . . Madame de Staël wrote in Corinne (1807) about St. Peter's in Rome: 'La vue d'un tel monument est comme une musique continuelle et fixée.' As she was in touch with leading German intellectuals . . . she may well have known Schelling's phrase." Rees also explains that Schopenhauer in Die Welt als Wille und Vorstellung (written 1814–1818) refers to architecture as gefrorene music; gefrorene translates more clearly as "frozen" than erstarrte, whose meaning is more that of "fixed" or "petrified."

Claudia Schiffer

German fashion model, 1970–

- 1 [On her retirement from the catwalk:] I ate a whole chocolate bar.
Quoted in Guardian (London), 27 Sept. 1996

Johann Christoph Friedrich von Schiller

German poet and playwright, 1759–1805

- 1 *Freude, schöner Götterfunken,
Tochter aus Elysium,
Wir betreten feuertrunken,
Himmlische, dein Heiligtum.
Deine Zauber binden wieder,
Was die Mode streng geteilt.
Alle Menschen werden Brüder,
Wo dein sanfter Flügel weilt.*
Joy, beautiful radiance of the gods, daughter of Elysium, we set foot in your heavenly shrine dazzled by your brilliance. Your charms reunite what common use has harshly divided. All men become brothers under your tender wings.
“An die Freude” (1785)
- 2 Die Weltgeschichte ist das Weltgericht.
The world’s history is the world’s judgment.
“Resignation” (1786)
- 3 Whatever is not forbidden is permitted.
Wallenstein’s Camp sc. 6 (1798)
- 4 Mit der Dummheit kämpfen Götter selbst vergebens.
With stupidity the gods themselves struggle in vain.
The Maid of Orleans act 3, sc. 6 (1801)

Walter M. “Wally” Schirra

U.S. astronaut, 1923–2007

- 1 It’s interesting because we couldn’t see the borders of the different countries [from space]. I’m always amazed at how geopoliticians made those borders—rulers meaning dictators, kings, or politicians—and apparently we the humans have gone along with it.
Quoted in Newark Star-Ledger, 4 May 2007

Friedrich von Schlegel

German philosopher and writer, 1772–1829

- 1 A historian is a prophet in reverse.
Athenäum vol. 1 “Fragmente” (1798)

Friedrich Schleiermacher

German theologian and philosopher, 1768–1834

- 1 I lie on the bosom of the infinite world. At the moment I am its soul, for I feel all its powers and its infinite life as my own.
On Religion: Speeches to Its Cultured Despisers (1799)

Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr.

U.S. historian, 1917–2007

- 1 [Of John F. Kennedy:] He read partly for information, partly for comparison, partly for insight, partly for the sheer joy of felicitous statement. He delighted particularly in quotations which distilled the essence of an argument.
A Thousand Days ch. 4 (1965)
- 2 The constitutional Presidency—as events so apparently disparate as the Indochina War and the Watergate affair showed—has become the imperial Presidency.
The Imperial Presidency foreword (1973)

Moritz Schlick

German philosopher, 1882–1936

- 1 The Meaning of a Proposition is the Method of its Verification.
“Form and Content” (1932)

Don Schlitz

U.S. songwriter, 1952–

- 1 You got to know when to hold ‘em,
Know when to fold ‘em,
Know when to walk away,
And when to run.
“The Gambler” (song) (1977)
See Hay 1

Mary Schmich

U.S. journalist, 1953–

- 1 Ladies and gentlemen of the class of ‘97: Wear sunscreen. If I could offer you only one tip for the future, sunscreen would be it. The long-term benefits of sunscreen have been proved by scientists, whereas the rest of my advice has no basis more reliable than my own meandering experience. I will dispense this advice now. . . . But trust me on the sunscreen.

Chicago Tribune, 1 June 1997. This column became widely misattributed as a commencement address by Kurt Vonnegut to the MIT Class of 1997.

- 2 Do one thing every day that scares you.

Chicago Tribune, 1 June 1997

Eric Schmidt

U.S. business executive, 1955–

- 1 The Internet is the first thing that humanity has built that humanity doesn't understand, the largest experiment in anarchy that we have ever had.

Speech at Netscape Communications Developers' conference, New York, N.Y., 18 Oct. 1996

Carl Schmitt

German legal scholar and political philosopher, 1888–1985

- 1 Sovereign is he who decides on the exception.
Political Theology ch. 1 (1922) (translation by George Schwab)

Artur Schnabel

Austrian pianist and composer, 1882–1951

- 1 The notes I handle no better than many pianists. But the pauses between the notes—ah, that is where the art resides.

Quoted in Chicago Daily News, 11 June 1958

- 2 The sonatas of Mozart are unique; they are too easy for children, and too difficult for artists.

Quoted in Nat Shapiro, An Encyclopedia of Quotations About Music (1978)

Max Schneckenburger

German poet, 1819–1849

- 1 *Lieb Vaterland, magst ruhig sein,
Fest steht und treu die Wacht am Rhein.*
Dear Fatherland, no danger thine:
Firm stands thy watch along the Rhine.
“Die Wacht am Rhein” (The Watch on the Rhine) (1840)

Lorraine Schneider

U.S. artist, 1925–1972

- 1 War is not healthy for children and other living things.

Poster (1965)

Arnold Schoenberg

Austrian-born U.S. composer, 1874–1951

- 1 I have made a discovery [twelve-tone composition], which will ensure the supremacy of German music for the next hundred years.

Attributed in Josef Rufer, Das Werk Arnold Schönbergs (1959). This quotation, based on Rufer's long-after-the-fact recollection of a 1921 conversation, is suspect; its extreme nationalism would have been uncharacteristic of Schoenberg.

Hans Scholl

German resistance activist, 1918–1943

- 1 [“Last words” before being executed for treason, Munich, 22 Feb. 1943:] Es lebe die Freiheit!

Long live freedom!

Quoted in Joachim Remak, The Nazi Years (1969)

Arthur Schopenhauer

German philosopher, 1788–1860

- 1 Every man takes the limits of his own field of vision for the limits of the world.

Studies in Pessimism “Psychological Observations” (1851) (translation by T. Bailey Saunders)

Olive Schreiner

South African writer and feminist, 1855–1920

- 1 Men are like the earth and we are the moon; we turn always one side to them, and they think there is no other, because they don't see it but there is.

The Story of an African Farm pt. 2, ch. 4 (1883)

- 2 A little weeping, a little wheedling, a little self-degradation, a little careful use of our advantages, and then some man will say Come, be my wife! With good looks and youth marriage is easy to attain. There are men enough; but a woman who has sold herself, even for a ring and a new name, need hold her skirt aside for no creature in the street. They both earn their bread in one way. Marriage for love is the beautifullest external symbol of the union of souls; marriage without it is the uncleanliest traffic that defiles the world.

The Story of an African Farm pt. 2, ch. 4 (1883)

- 3 There was never a great man who had not a great mother.

The Story of an African Farm pt. 2, ch. 4 (1883)

See Proverbs 129

- 4 Of all cursed places under the sun, where the hungriest soul can hardly pick up a few grains of knowledge, a girl's boarding-school is the worst. They are called finishing schools, and the name tells accurately what they are. They finish everything but imbecility and weakness, and that they cultivate. They are nicely adapted machines for experimenting on the question, Into how little space a human being can be crushed? I have seen some souls so compressed that they would have fitted into a small thimble, and found room to move there—wide room.

The Story of an African Farm pt. 2, ch. 4 (1883)

- 5 We were equals once when we lay new-born babes on our nurse's knees. We will be equal again when they tie up our jaws for the last sleep.

The Story of an African Farm pt. 2, ch. 4 (1883)

- 6 I have no conscience, none, but I would not like to bring a soul into this world. When it sinned and when it suffered something like a dead hand would fall on me, You did it, you, for your own pleasure you created this thing! See your work! If it lived to be eighty it would always hang like a millstone round my neck, have the right to demand good from me, and curse me for its sorrow. A parent is only like to God: if his work turns out bad so much the worse for him; he dare not wash his hands of it. Time and years can never bring the day when you can say to your child, Soul, what have I to do with you?

The Story of an African Farm pt. 2, ch. 6 (1883)

Erwin Schrödinger

Austrian physicist, 1887–1961

- 1 [Describing the “Schrödinger’s cat” thought experiment:] If one has left this entire system to itself for an hour, one would say that the cat still lives if meanwhile no atom has decayed. The psi-function of the entire system would express this by having in it the living and dead cat (pardon the expression) mixed or smeared out in equal parts.

“The Present Situation in Quantum Mechanics” (1935) (translation by John D. Trimmer)

Patricia Schroeder

U.S. politician, 1940–

- 1 Ronald Reagan . . . is attempting a great breakthrough in political technology—he has been perfecting the Teflon-coated Presidency. He sees to it that nothing sticks to him. Speech in House of Representatives, 2 Aug. 1983
- 2 [Responding to the question of how she could be both a member of Congress and a mother:] I have a brain and a uterus, and I use both. Quoted in Current Biography 1978 (1978)

Budd Schulberg

U.S. writer, 1914–2009

- 1 What Makes Sammy Run?
Title of book (1941)

Robert H. Schuller

U.S. clergyman and author, 1926–2015

- 1 Tough Times Never Last, But Tough People Do.
Title of book (1983). In this book Schuller described his origination of the expression during a 1982 lecture.

Charles M. Schulz

U.S. cartoonist, 1922–2000

- 1 Good grief, Charlie Brown!
Peanuts (comic strip), 12 Nov. 1955
- 2 Happiness is a warm puppy.
Peanuts (comic strip), 25 Apr. 1960
- 3 I love mankind . . . it's people I can't stand!
Peanuts (comic strip), 12 Nov. 1959. Ellipsis in the original.
- 4 Big sisters are the crab grass in the lawn of life.
Peanuts (comic strip), 17 June 1961
- 5 No problem is so big or so complicated that it can't be run away from.
Peanuts (comic strip), 27 Feb. 1963
- 6 There's no heavier burden than a great potential!
You're a Brave Man, Charlie Brown (1963)

- 7 [Imprecation of the dog Snoopy, imagining himself to be a World War I flying ace, to Baron von Richthoven:] Curse you, Red Baron!
Peanuts (comic strip), 6 Feb. 1966

E. F. Schumacher

German-born English economist, 1911–1977

- 1 When I first began to travel the world, visiting rich and poor countries alike, I was tempted to formulate the first law of economics as follows: “The amount of real leisure a society enjoys tends to be in inverse proportion to the amount of labor-saving machinery it employs.”
Small Is Beautiful: Economics As If People Mattered pt. 2, ch. 5 (1973)
- 2 I have no doubt that it is possible to give a new direction to technological development, a direction that shall lead it back to the real needs of man, and that also means: to the actual size of man. Man is small, and, therefore, small is beautiful. To go for giantism is to go for self-destruction.
Small Is Beautiful: Economics As If People Mattered pt. 2, ch. 5 (1973)
- 3 It is of little use trying to suppress terrorism if the production of deadly devices continues to be deemed a legitimate employment of man’s creative powers.
Small Is Beautiful: Economics As If People Mattered epilogue (1973)

Robert Schuman

Luxembourgian-born French prime minister, 1886–1963

- 1 World peace cannot be safeguarded without the making of creative efforts proportionate to the dangers which threaten it.
 Declaration, 9 May 1950. This declaration on behalf of the French government, which laid the foundation for the European Union, was drafted by Jean Monnet.

Robert Schumann

German composer, 1810–1856

- 1 [Of Frédéric Chopin:] Hats off, gentlemen—a genius!
Allgemeine Musikalische Zeitung, Dec. 1831

Joseph A. Schumpeter

Austro-Hungarian–born U.S. economist, 1883–1950

- 1 The spirit of a people, its cultural level, its social structure, the deeds its policy may prepare—all this and more is written in its fiscal history, stripped of all phrases. He who knows how to listen to its message here discerns the thunder of world history more clearly than anywhere else.
 “The Crisis of the Tax State” (1918)
- 2 Marxism is a religion. To the believer it presents, first, a system of ultimate ends that embody the meaning of life and are absolute standards by which to judge events and actions; and, secondly, a guide to those ends which implies a plan of salvation and the indication of the evil from which mankind, or a chosen section of mankind, is to be saved.
Capitalism, Socialism, and Democracy ch. 1 (1942)
- 3 The opening up of new markets, foreign or domestic, and the organizational development from the craft shop and factory to such concerns as U.S. Steel illustrate the same process of industrial mutation . . . that incessantly revolutionizes the economic structure from within, incessantly destroying the old one, incessantly creating a new one. This process of Creative Destruction is the essential fact about capitalism.
Capitalism, Socialism, and Democracy ch. 7 (1942)

Carl Schurz

German-born U.S. politician and general, 1829–1906

- 1 The Senator from Wisconsin cannot frighten me by exclaiming, “My country, right or wrong.” In one sense I say so too. My country; and my country is the great American Republic. My country, right or wrong; if right, to be kept right; and if wrong, to be set right.
 Remarks in Senate, 29 Feb. 1872
See Chesterton 3; Decatur 1; Twain 114

Delmore Schwartz

U.S. poet, 1913–1966

- 1 May memory restore again and again
 The smallest color of the smallest day:

Time is the school in which we learn,
Time is the fire in which we burn.
"For Rhoda" l. 40 (1938)

Arnold Schwarzenegger

Austrian-born U.S. actor, bodybuilder, and politician, 1947–

- 1 I think that gay marriage is something that should be between a man and a woman.
Radio interview, 27 Aug. 2003

Albert Schweitzer

French missionary and theologian, 1875–1965

- 1 Late on the third day, at the very moment when, at sunset, we were making our way through a herd of hippopotamuses, there flashed upon my mind, unforeseen and unsought, the phrase, "Reverence for Life."
Out of My Life and Thought ch. 13 (1949)
- 2 Happiness is nothing more than good health and a bad memory.
Attributed in L.A. Times, 3 May 1959

C. P. Scott

English newspaper editor, 1846–1932

- 1 Comment is free, but facts are sacred.
Manchester Guardian, 5 May 1921

John Scott, Earl of Eldon

English jurist, 1751–1838

- 1 Christianity is part of the law of England.
In re Bedford Charity (1819)

Robert Falcon Scott

Scottish explorer, 1868–1912

- 1 [Of the South Pole:] Great God! this is an awful place.
Diary, 17 Jan. 1912
- 2 [Final entry before dying of starvation and exposure:] For God's sake look after our people.
Diary, 29 Mar. 1912
- 3 Had we lived, I should have had a tale to tell of the hardihood, endurance, and courage of my companions which would have stirred the heart of every Englishman. These rough notes and our dead bodies must tell the tale.
"Message to the Public," Times (London), 11 Feb. 1913

Walter Scott

Scottish novelist and poet, 1771–1832

- 1 In peace, Love tunes the shepherd's reed;
In war, he mounts the warrior's steed;
In halls, in gay attire is seen;
In hamlets, dances on the green.
Love rules the court, the camp, the grove,
And men below, and saints above;
For love is heaven, and heaven is love.
The Lay of the Last Minstrel canto 3, st. 2 (1805)
- 2 Breathes there the man, with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land!
Whose heart hath ne'er within him burned,
As home his footsteps he hath turned
From wandering on a foreign strand!
The Lay of the Last Minstrel canto 6, st. 1 (1805)
- 3 For him no Minstrel raptures swell;
High though his titles, proud his name,
Boundless his wealth as wish can claim;
Despite those titles, power, and pelf,
The wretch, concentrated all in self,
Living, shall forfeit fair renown,
And, doubly dying, shall go down
To the vile dust, from whence he sprung,
Unwept, unhonour'd, and unsung.
The Lay of the Last Minstrel canto 6, st. 1 (1805)
- 4 And dar'st thou, then,
To beard the lion in his den,
The Douglas in his hall?
Marmion canto 6, introduction, st. 14 (1808)
- 5 O what a tangled web we weave,
When first we practise to deceive!
Marmion canto 6, st. 17 (1808)
- 6 O Woman! in our hours of ease,
Uncertain, coy, and hard to please,
And variable as the shade
By the light quivering aspen made;
When pain and anguish wring the brow,
A ministering angel thou!
Marmion canto 6, st. 30 (1808)
See Shakespeare 228
- 7 Hail to the Chief who in triumph advances!
The Lady of the Lake canto 2, st. 19 (1810)
- 8 Your Lordship will probably recollect where the Oriental tale occurs, of a Sultan who consulted Solomon on the proper inscription for a signet-ring, requiring that the maxim which it conveyed should be at once proper for moderating the presumption of prosperity and tempering the pressure of adversity. The apophthegm supplied by the Jewish sage was, I think, admirably adapted for both purposes, being comprehended in the words "And this also shall pass away."

Letter to Lord Byron, 6 Nov. 1813
See Edward FitzGerald 1; Lincoln 20

- 9 "That sounds like nonsense, my dear."
"May be so, my dear: but it may be very good law for all that."
Guy Mannering ch. 9 (1815)
- 10 A lawyer without history or literature is a mechanic, a mere working mason; if he possesses some knowledge of these, he may venture to call himself an architect.
Guy Mannering ch. 37 (1815)
- 11 The criminals came in so fast that they were fain to execute them first and afterwards try them at leisure.
Letter to Lady Compton, 16 Apr. 1816
See Carroll 24; Molière 5
- 12 Sea of upturned faces.
Rob Roy ch. 20 (1817)
- 13 Tell that to the marines—the sailors won't believe it.
Redgauntlet vol. 2, ch. 7 (1824). The Oxford Dictionary of English Proverbs traces the expression "Tell it to the marines" back to 1805.
- 14 Rouse the lion from his lair.
The Talisman ch. 6 (1825)
- 15 [Of his need to raise money to pay huge debts by writing:] My own right hand shall do it.
Journal, 22 Jan. 1826

Winfield Scott

U.S. general, 1786–1866

- 1 Say to the seceded States, "Wayward sisters, depart in peace."
Letter to William H. Seward, 3 Mar. 1861

Gil Scott-Heron

U.S. writer, 1949–2011

- 1 The Revolution Will Not Be Televised.
Title of song (1974)

Bobby Seale

U.S. activist, 1936–

- 1 Seize the Time.
Title of book (1970)
See Horace 17

John R. Searle

U.S. philosopher, 1932–

- 1 "Could a machine think?" My own view is that only a machine could think, and indeed only very special kinds of machines, namely brains and machines that had the same causal powers as brains. . . . Whatever else intentionality is, it is a biological phenomenon, and it is as likely to be as causally dependent on the specific biochemistry of its origins as lactation, photosynthesis, or any other biological phenomena.
"Minds, Brains, and Programs" (1980)
- 2 The reason that no computer program can ever be a mind is simply that a computer program is only syntactical, and minds are more than syntactical. Minds are semantical, in the sense that they have more than a formal structure, they have a content.
Minds, Brains, and Science ch. 2 (1984)

Alice Sebold

U.S. author, 1963–

- 1 My name was Salmon, like the fish; first name, Susie. I was fourteen when I was murdered on December 6, 1973.
The Lovely Bones ch. 1 (2002)
- 2 These were the lovely bones that had grown around my absence: the connections—sometimes tenuous, sometimes made at great cost, but often magnificent—that happened after I was gone. And I began to see things in a way that let me hold the world without me in it. The events that my death wrought were merely the bones of a body that would become whole at some unpredictable time in the future. The price of what I came to see as this miraculous body had been my life.
The Lovely Bones ch. 23 (2002)

John Sedgwick

U.S. general, 1813–1864

- 1 [Words shortly before being fatally wounded by a bullet during the Civil War, Spotsylvania, Va., 8 May 1864.] They could not hit an elephant at that distance.

Quoted in Theodore Lyman, Letter to Elizabeth Russell Lyman, 20 May 1864. These “last words” are popularly said to have been cut off in the middle of “distance” as the bullet hit.

Alan Seeger

U.S. poet, 1888–1916

- 1 I have a rendezvous with Death
At some disputed barricade,
When Spring comes back with rustling shade
And apple-blossoms fill the air.
“I Have a Rendezvous with Death” l. 1 (1916)
- 2 But I’ve a rendezvous with Death
At midnight in some flaming town,
When Spring trips north again this year,
And I to my pledged word am true,
I shall not fail that rendezvous.
“I Have a Rendezvous with Death” l. 20 (1916)

Pete Seeger

U.S. folksinger and songwriter, 1919–2014

- 1 If I had a hammer,
I’d hammer in the morning,
I’d hammer in the evening
All over this land.
“If I Had a Hammer (The Hammer Song)” (song) (1949). Cowritten with Lee Hays.
- 2 I’d hammer out danger
I’d hammer out a warning,
I’d hammer out love between
All of my brothers
All over this land.
“If I Had a Hammer (The Hammer Song)” (song) (1949). Cowritten with Lee Hays. The original lyrics above were changed to “my brothers and my sisters” by Libby Frank in 1952.
- 3 To everything, turn, turn, turn,
There is a season, turn, turn, turn,
And a time for every purpose under heaven . . .
A time of love, a time of hate
A time for peace, I swear, it’s not too late.
“Turn! Turn! Turn! (To Everything There Is a Season)” (song) (1954)
See Bible 143

- 4 Where have all the flowers gone?
Long time passing
Where have all the flowers gone?
Long time ago
Where have all the flowers gone?
Young girls picked them every one
When will they ever learn?
“Where Have All the Flowers Gone?” (song) (1961)
See Folk and Anonymous Songs 45

- 5 O deep in my heart, I do believe
We shall overcome some day.
“We Shall Overcome” (song) (1963). This civil rights anthem traces to Charles A. Tindley’s gospel song “I’ll Overcome Some Day,” although Tindley may have had an older spiritual as a source. In 1946 Lucille Simmons introduced a labor version using “we will overcome.” Pete Seeger then altered the words to “we shall.”
See Tindley 1
- 6 We’re waist deep in the big muddy
And the big fool says to push on.
“Waist Deep in the Big Muddy” (song) (1967)

John Seeley

English historian, 1834–1895

- 1 We [the English] seem, as it were, to have conquered and peopled half the world in a fit of absence of mind.
The Expansion of England lecture 1 (1883)

Giorgos Seferis (Georgios Seferiades)

Greek poet and diplomat, 1900–1971

- 1 When on his way to Thebes Oedipus encountered the Sphinx, his answer to its riddle was: “Man.” That simple word destroyed the monster. We have many monsters to destroy. Let us think of the answer of Oedipus.
Speech at Nobel Prize banquet, Stockholm, Sweden, 10 Dec. 1963

Erich Segal

U.S. novelist, 1937–2010

- 1 What can you say about a twenty-five-year-old girl who died? That she was beautiful. And brilliant. That she loved Mozart and Bach. And the Beatles. And me. Once, when she specifically lumped me with those musical types, I asked her what the order was, and she replied, smiling, “Alphabetical.”
Love Story ch. 1 (1970)

- 2 Love means not ever having to say you're sorry.

Love Story ch. 13 (1970). In the motion picture this line was "Love means never having to say you're sorry" and become famous in this form. Segal actually wrote the screenplay before he wrote the novel.

E. C. Segar

U.S. cartoonist, 1894–1938

- 1 [Popeye speaking]: Blow me down!
Thimble Theatre (comic strip), 21 Jan. 1929
- 2 [Popeye speaking]: I yam what I yam and that's what I yam.
Thimble Theatre (comic strip), 6 Nov. 1929. Segar introduced the classic formulation, "I yam what I yam an' tha's all I yam" in the strip for 17 Apr. 1931. See Prévert 1
- 3 [Wimpy speaking]: I would gladly pay you Tuesday for a hamburger to-day.
Thimble Theatre (comic strip), 20 Mar. 1932. An earlier version ("Cook me up a hamburger. I'll pay you Thursday.") appeared in the strip on 21 June 1931.

T. Lawrence Seibert

U.S. songwriter, 1877–1917

- 1 Come all you rounders if you want to hear
A story 'bout a brave engineer.
Casey Jones was the rounder's name;
On a six eight-wheeler, boys, he won his fame.
"Casey Jones" (song) (1909). Seibert's version was adapted from an original one sung by Wallace Saunders.

Jerry Seinfeld

U.S. comedian, 1954–

- 1 Everyone lies about sex. People lie during sex.
If it weren't for lies, there'd be no sex.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 7 Aug. 1998

John Selden

English jurist and antiquarian, 1584–1654

- 1 Ignorance of the law excuses no man; not that all men know the law, but because 'tis an excuse every man will plead, and no man can tell how to confute him.
Table-Talk "Law" (1689)
See Proverbs 153
- 2 Take a straw and throw it up into the air, you shall see by that which way the wind is.

Rod Serling

U.S. screenwriter and television producer, 1924–1975

- 1 You're traveling through another dimension, a dimension not only of sight and sound but of mind; a journey into a wondrous land whose boundaries are that of imagination. That's the signpost up ahead—your next stop, the Twilight Zone.

The Twilight Zone (television series), opening
narration (1959)

- 2 The tools of conquest do not necessarily come with bombs and explosions and fallout. There are weapons that are simply thoughts, attitudes, prejudices—to be found only in the minds of men. For the record, prejudices can kill and suspicion can destroy, and a thoughtless, frightened search for a scapegoat has a fallout all its own—for the children, and the children yet unborn. And the pity of it is that these things cannot be confined to the Twilight Zone.
The Twilight Zone (television show), 4 Mar. 1960
- 3 You unlock this door with the key of imagination. Beyond it is another dimension.
A dimension of sound. A dimension of sight.
A dimension of mind. You're moving into a land of both style and substance, of things and ideas. You've just crossed over into the Twilight Zone.
The Twilight Zone (television series), opening
narration (1961)
- 4 There is a fifth dimension beyond that which is known to man. It is a dimension as vast as space and timeless as infinity. It is the middle ground between light and shadow, between science and superstition, and it lies between the pit of man's fears and the summit of his knowledge. This is the dimension of imagination. It is an area which we call the Twilight Zone.
The Twilight Zone (television series), opening
narration (1963)

Robert W. Service

Canadian poet, 1874–1958

- 1 The Northern Lights have seen queer sights,
But the queerest they ever did see
Was the night on the marge of Lake Lebarge
I cremated Sam McGee.
"The Cremation of Sam McGee" l. 5 (1907)
- 2 This is the law of the Yukon, that only the Strong shall thrive;
That surely the Weak shall perish, and only the Fit survive.
"The Law of the Yukon" l. 71 (1907)

3 A bunch of the boys were whooping it up in the Malamute saloon;
The kid that handles the music-box was hitting a rag-time tune;
Back of the bar, in a solo game, sat Dangerous
Dan McGrew,
And watching his luck was his light-o'-love, the lady that's known as Lou.
"The Shooting of Dan McGrew" l. 1 (1907)

4 Ah, the clock is always slow;
It is later than you think.
"It Is Later Than You Think" l. 56 (1921)

Vikram Seth

Indian novelist and poet, 1952–

1 If we cannot eschew hatred, at least let us eschew group hatred.
Two Lives pt. 5, ch. 23 (2005)

Dr. Seuss (Theodor Seuss Geisel)

U.S. children's book author, 1904–1991

1 I meant what I said
And I said what I meant . . .
An elephant's faithful
One hundred per cent!
Horton Hatches the Egg (1940). Ellipsis in the original.

2 I'll sail to Ka-Troo
And bring back an it-kutch,

A preep, and a proo,
A nerkle, a NERD,
And a seersucker, too!

If I Ran the Zoo (1950). Earliest known appearance in print of the word nerd. However, Newsweek, 8 Oct. 1951, noted that "In Detroit, someone who once would be called a drip or a square is now, regrettably, a nerd," raising the possibility that nerd existed before If I Ran the Zoo.

3 The sun did not shine.
It was too wet to play.
So we sat in the house
All that cold, cold, wet day.
The Cat in the Hat (1957)

4 Oh, I do not like it!
Not one little bit!
The Cat in the Hat (1957)

5 You will see something new.
Two things. And I call them
Thing One and Thing Two.
The Cat in the Hat (1957)

6 What would you do
If your mother asked you?
The Cat in the Hat (1957)

7 Every Who
Down in Who-ville
Liked Christmas a lot . . .
But the Grinch,
Who lived just north of Who-ville,
Did NOT!
How the Grinch Stole Christmas (1957). Ellipsis in the original.

8 The most likely reason of all
May have been that his heart was two sizes too small.
How the Grinch Stole Christmas (1957)

9 "Maybe Christmas," he thought,
"doesn't come from a store.
Maybe Christmas . . . perhaps . . . means a little bit more!"
How the Grinch Stole Christmas (1957). Ellipses in the original.

10 I am Sam
Sam I am.
Green Eggs and Ham (1960)

11 I do not like green eggs and ham!

I do not like them,
Sam-I-am.
Green Eggs and Ham (1960)

12 I am the Lorax. I speak for the trees.
The Lorax (1971)

13 UNLESS someone like you cares a whole awful lot,
nothing is going to get better.
It's not.
The Lorax (1971)

14 Plant a new Truffula. Treat it with care.
Give it clean water. And feed it fresh air.
Grow a forest. Protect it from axes that hack.
Then the Lorax
and all of his friends
may come back.
The Lorax (1971)

15 You're in pretty good shape for the shape you are in!
You're Only Old Once! (1986)

16 Adults are obsolete children, and the hell with them.
Quoted in Thomas Fensch, Of Sneetches and Whos and the Good Dr. Seuss (1997)

17 Don't cry because it's over, smile because it happened.
Attributed in Rockland (N.Y.) Journal-News, 6 June 1998. A very similar quotation was included in the 1899 poem "Leuchtende Tage" by German writer Ludwig Jacobowski.

William H. Seward

U.S. politician, 1801–1872

- 1 There is a higher law than the Constitution.
Speech in Senate during debate on Compromise of 1850, 11 Mar. 1850
- 2 [On the slavery controversy:] It is an irrepressible conflict between opposing and enduring forces.
Speech, Rochester, N.Y., 25 Oct. 1858

Anna Sewall

English novelist, 1820–1878

- 1 Though I am an old horse, and have seen and heard a great deal, I never yet could make out why men are so fond of this sport; they often hurt themselves, often spoil good horses, and tear up the fields, and all for a hare or a fox, or a stag, that they could get more easily some other way; but we are only horses, and don't know.

Black Beauty ch. 2 (1877)

- 2 We have no right to distress any of God's creatures without a very good reason; we call them dumb animals, and so they are, for they cannot tell us how they feel, but they do not suffer less because they have no words.
Black Beauty ch. 46 (1877)

Anne Sexton

U.S. poet, 1928–1974

- 1 You, Doctor Martin, walk
from breakfast to madness.
"You, Doctor Martin" l. 1 (1960)
- 2 In a dream you are never eighty.
"Old" l. 18 (1962)
- 3 But suicides have a special language.
Like carpenters they want to know which tools.
They never ask why build.
"Wanting to Die" l. 7 (1966)
- 4 She has always been there, my darling.
She is, in fact, exquisite.
Fireworks in the dull middle of February and as real as a cast-iron pot.
"For My Lover, Returning to His Wife" l. 5 (1969)
- 5 Set forth three children under the moon,
three cherubs drawn by Michelangelo, done this with her legs spread out in the terrible months in the chapel.
"For My Lover, Returning to His Wife" l. 19 (1969)
- 6 As for me, I am a watercolor.
I wash off.
"For My Lover, Returning to His Wife" l. 47 (1969)
- 7 It doesn't matter who my father was; it matters who I remember he was.
Journal, 1 Jan. 1972

Scott Sforza

U.S. media producer, ca. 1963–

- 1 Mission Accomplished.
Banner on aircraft carrier U.S.S. Abraham Lincoln, 1 May 2003. This banner, used as a backdrop for a speech by President George W. Bush, became controversial when the lack of closure of the Iraq War was apparent.

Ernest H. Shackleton

Irish explorer, 1874–1922

- 1 Difficulties are just things to overcome after all.
Diary, 11 Dec. 1908
- 2 [Remark to Frank Worsley, 1916:] Superhuman effort isn't worth a damn unless it achieves results.
Quoted in Frank Worsley, Endurance (1931)
- 3 Men wanted for hazardous journey to South Pole. Small wages, bitter cold, long months of complete darkness, constant danger. Safe return doubtful. Honor and recognition in case of success.
Attributed in Carl Hopkins Elmore, Quit You Like Men (1944). This advertisement was allegedly printed in London newspapers in 1900, but a search in the Times Digital Archive fails to retrieve it, and no trace of it has been found before the 1944 Elmore book.

Peter Shaffer

English playwright, 1926–2016

- 1 Mediocrities everywhere—now and to come—I absolve you all.
Amadeus act 2, sc. 19 (1980)

William Shakespeare

English playwright and poet, 1564–1616

The text and line numbers follow the Arden Shakespeare Complete Works, rev. ed., ed. Richard Proudfoot, Ann Thompson, and David Scott Kastan (2001).

King Richard III

- 1 Now is the winter of our discontent
Made glorious summer by this sun of York.
King Richard III act 1, sc. 1, l. 1 (1591)
- 2 This weak piping time of peace.
King Richard III act 1, sc. 1, l. 24 (1591)
- 3 Talk'st thou to me of ifs! Thou art a traitor:
Off with his head!
King Richard III act 3, sc. 4, l. 75 (1591)
- 4 I am not in the giving vein today.
King Richard III act 4, sc. 2, l. 116 (1591)
- 5 A horse! A horse! My kingdom for a horse!
King Richard III act 5, sc. 4, l. 7 (1591)

King Henry VI, Part 2

- 6 The first thing we do, let's kill all the lawyers.
King Henry VI, Part 2 act 4, sc. 2, l. 72 (1592). This quotation, although beloved by lawyer-haters, is in context complimentary to lawyers, spoken by a would-be tyrant.

King Henry VI, Part 3

- 7 O tiger's heart wrapp'd in a woman's hide!
King Henry VI, Part 3 act 1, sc. 4, l. 137 (1592)

The Taming of the Shrew

- 8 Kiss me, Kate, we will be married o' Sunday.
The Taming of the Shrew act 2, sc. 1, l. 318 (1592)
- 9 This is a way to kill a wife with kindness.
The Taming of the Shrew act 4, sc. 1, l. 196 (1592)
- 10 A woman mov'd is like a fountain troubled,
Muddy, ill-seeming, thick, bereft of beauty.
The Taming of the Shrew act 5, sc. 2, l. 143 (1592)

King Richard II

- 11 The purest treasure mortal times afford
Is spotless reputation—that away,
Men are but gilded loam, or painted clay.
King Richard II act 1, sc. 1, l. 177 (1595)
- 12 We were not born to sue, but to command.
King Richard II act 1, sc. 1, l. 196 (1595)
- 13 How long a time lies in one little word!
Four lagging winters and four wanton springs
End in a word: such is the breath of kings.
King Richard II act 1, sc. 3, l. 213 (1595)

- 14 There is no virtue like necessity.
King Richard II act 1, sc. 3, l. 278 (1595)
- 15 As the last taste of sweets, is sweetest last,
Writ in remembrance more than things long past.
King Richard II act 2, sc. 1, l. 13 (1595)
- 16 This royal throne of kings, this scept'red isle,
This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,
This other Eden, demi-paradise,
This fortress built by Nature for herself
Against infection and the hand of war,
This happy breed of men, this little world,
This precious stone set in the silver sea.
King Richard II act 2, sc. 1, l. 40 (1595)
- 17 This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England.
King Richard II act 2, sc. 1, l. 50 (1595)
- 18 Grace me no grace, nor uncle me no uncle.
King Richard II act 2, sc. 3, l. 86 (1595)
- 19 Not all the water in the rough rude sea
Can wash the balm off from an anointed king.
King Richard II act 3, sc. 2, l. 54 (1595)
- 20 Let's talk of graves, of worms, and epitaphs,
Make dust our paper, and with rainy eyes
Write sorrow on the bosom of the earth.
Let's choose executors and talk of wills.
King Richard II act 3, sc. 2, l. 145 (1595)
- 21 For God's sake let us sit upon the ground
And tell sad stories of the death of kings.
King Richard II act 3, sc. 2, l. 155 (1595)
- 22 Within the hollow crown
That rounds the mortal temples of a king
Keeps Death his court.
King Richard II act 3, sc. 2, l. 160 (1595)
- 23 How sour sweet music is
When time is broke and no proportion kept!
So is it in the music of men's lives.
King Richard II act 5, sc. 5, l. 42 (1595)
- 24 I wasted time, and now doth time waste me.
King Richard II act 5, sc. 5, l. 49 (1595)

Love's Labour's Lost

- 25 When daisies pied and violets blue
And lady-smocks all silver-white
And cuckoo-buds of yellow hue

Do paint the meadows with delight,
The cuckoo then on every tree
Mocks married men; for thus sings he:
"Cuckoo!"

Love's Labour's Lost act 5, sc. 2, l. 885 (1595)

- 26 When icicles hang by the wall
And Dick the shepherd blows his nail
And Tom bears logs into the hall
And milk comes frozen home in pail,
When blood is nipped and ways be foul,
Then nightly sings the staring owl:
"Tu-whit, Tu-who!"
A merry note,
While greasy Joan doth keel the pot.
Love's Labour's Lost act 5, sc. 2, l. 903 (1595)

Romeo and Juliet

- 27 A pair of star-cross'd lovers.
Romeo and Juliet prologue, l. 6 (1595)
- 28 O then I see Queen Mab hath been with you.
She is the fairies' midwife, and she comes
In shape no bigger than an agate stone.
Romeo and Juliet act 1, sc. 4, l. 53 (1595)
- 29 You and I are past our dancing days.
Romeo and Juliet act 1, sc. 5, l. 32 (1595)
- 30 It seems she hangs upon the cheek of night
As a rich jewel in an Ethiop's ear—
Beauty too rich for use, for earth too dear.
Romeo and Juliet act 1, sc. 5, l. 45 (1595)
- 31 My only love sprung from my only hate.
Too early seen unknown, and known too late.
Romeo and Juliet act 1, sc. 5, l. 138 (1595)
- 32 He jests at scars that never felt a wound.
But soft, what light through yonder window breaks?
It is the east and Juliet is the sun!
Romeo and Juliet act 2, sc. 2, l. 1 (1595)
- 33 O Romeo, Romeo, wherefore art thou Romeo?
Deny thy father and refuse thy name.
Or if thou wilt not, be but sworn my love
And I'll no longer be a Capulet.
Romeo and Juliet act 2, sc. 2, l. 33 (1595)
- 34 What's in a name? That which we call a rose
By any other word would smell as sweet.
Romeo and Juliet act 2, sc. 2, l. 43 (1595)

35 O swear not by the moon, th'inconstant moon,
That monthly changes in her circled orb,
Lest that thy love prove likewise variable.
Romeo and Juliet act 2, sc. 2, l. 109 (1595)

36 Do not swear at all.
Or if thou wilt, swear by thy gracious self,
Which is the god of my idolatry.
Romeo and Juliet act 2, sc. 2, l. 111 (1595)

37 It is too rash, too unadvis'd, too sudden.
Romeo and Juliet act 2, sc. 2, l. 118 (1595)

38 O for a falconer's voice
To lure this tassel-gentle back again.
Romeo and Juliet act 2, sc. 2, l. 158 (1595)

39 Good night, good night. Parting is such sweet sorrow
That I shall say good night till it be morrow.
Romeo and Juliet act 2, sc. 2, l. 184 (1595)

40 I am the very pink of courtesy.
Romeo and Juliet act 2, sc. 4, l. 56 (1595)

41 No, 'tis not so deep as a well, nor so wide as a church door, but 'tis enough, 'twill serve.
Romeo and Juliet act 3, sc. 1, l. 97 (1595)

42 A plague o'both your houses.
Romeo and Juliet act 3, sc. 1, l. 107 (1595)

43 O, I am fortune's fool.
Romeo and Juliet act 3, sc. 1, l. 137 (1595)

44 Gallop apace, you fiery-footed steeds,
Toward Phoebus' lodging.
Romeo and Juliet act 3, sc. 2, l. 1 (1595)

45 Give me my Romeo; and when I shall die
Take him and cut him out in little stars,
And he will make the face of heaven so fine
That all the world will be in love with night,
And pay no worship to the garish sun.
Romeo and Juliet act 3, sc. 2, l. 21 (1595)

46 Adversity's sweet milk, philosophy.
Romeo and Juliet act 3, sc. 3, l. 55 (1595)

47 Night's candles are burnt out, and jocund day
Stands tiptoe on the misty mountain tops.
Romeo and Juliet act 3, sc. 5, l. 9 (1595)

48 Thank me no thankings nor proud me no prouds.
Romeo and Juliet act 3, sc. 5, l. 152 (1595)

49 Tempt not a desperate man.
Romeo and Juliet act 5, sc. 3, l. 59 (1595)

50 How oft when men are at the point of death
Have they been merry!
Romeo and Juliet act 5, sc. 3, l. 88 (1595)

A Midsummer Night's Dream

51 The course of true love never did run smooth.
A Midsummer Night's Dream act 1, sc. 1, l. 134 (1595– 1596)

52 Love looks not with the eyes, but with the mind,
And therefore is wing'd Cupid painted blind.
A Midsummer Night's Dream act 1, sc. 1, l. 234 (1595– 1596)

53 Over hill, over dale,
Thorough bush, thorough briar,
Over park, over pale,
Thorough flood, thorough fire.
A Midsummer Night's Dream act 2, sc. 1, l. 2 (1595– 1596)

54 Ill met by moonlight, proud Titania.
A Midsummer Night's Dream act 2, sc. 1, l. 60 (1595– 1596)

55 Lord, what fools these mortals be!
A Midsummer Night's Dream act 3, sc. 2, l. 115 (1595– 1596)
See Seneca 1

56 The lunatic, the lover, and the poet
Are of imagination all compact.
A Midsummer Night's Dream act 5, sc. 1, l. 7 (1595– 1596)

57 The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
Doth glance from heaven to earth, from earth
to heaven;
And as imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown, the poet's pen
Turns them to shapes, and gives to airy nothing
A local habitation and a name.
A Midsummer Night's Dream act 5, sc. 1, l. 12 (1595– 1596)

58 The best in this kind are but shadows.
A Midsummer Night's Dream act 5, sc. 1, l. 209
(1595–1596)

King Henry IV, Part 1

59 Let me tell the world.
King Henry IV, Part 1 act 5, sc. 2, l. 65 (1597)

60 The better part of valor is discretion.
King Henry IV, Part 1 act 5, sc. 4, l. 118 (1597)

King Henry IV, Part 2

61 I am not only witty in myself, but the cause that wit is in other men.

King Henry IV, Part 2 act 1, sc. 2, l. 9 (1597)
See Foote 1

62 He hath eaten me out of house and home.

King Henry IV, Part 2 act 2, sc. 1, l. 74 (1597)

63 Is it not strange that desire should so many years outlive performance?

King Henry IV, Part 2 act 2, sc. 4, l. 260 (1597)

64 Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.

King Henry IV, Part 2 act 3, sc. 1, l. 31 (1597)

65 We have heard the chimes at midnight.

King Henry IV, Part 2 act 3, sc. 2, l. 214 (1597)

66 Thy wish was father, Harry, to that thought.

King Henry IV, Part 2 act 4, sc. 5, l. 92 (1597)

The Merry Wives of Windsor

67 Why then, the world's mine oyster,
Which I with sword will open.

The Merry Wives of Windsor act 2, sc. 2, l. 2 (1597)

68 As good luck would have it.

The Merry Wives of Windsor act 3, sc. 5, l. 77 (1597)

King John

69 Bell, book, and candle shall not drive me back.

King John act 3, sc. 2, l. 22 (1591–1598). Refers to a Roman Catholic formula of excommunication.
See Malory 2

70 To gild refined gold, to paint the lily,
To throw a perfume on the violet,
To smooth the ice, or add another hue
Unto the rainbow, or with taper-light
To seek the beauteous eye of heaven to garnish,
Is wasteful and ridiculous excess.

King John act 4, sc. 2, l. 11 (1591–1598). Source of the expression "to gild the lily."

The Merchant of Venice

71 I will buy with you, sell with you, talk with you, walk with you, and so following: but I will not eat with you, drink with you, nor pray with you.
What news on the Rialto?

The Merchant of Venice act 1, sc. 3, l. 34 (1596–1598)

72 The devil can cite Scripture for his purpose.

The Merchant of Venice act 1, sc. 3, l. 96 (1596–1598)

73 (For suffrance is the badge of all our tribe)
You call me misbeliever, cut-throat dog,
And spet upon my Jewish gaberdine.

The Merchant of Venice act 1, sc. 3, l. 108 (1596–1598)

74 It is a wise father that knows his own child.

The Merchant of Venice act 2, sc. 2, l. 73 (1596–1598)

75 My daughter! O my ducats! O my daughter!

The Merchant of Venice act 2, sc. 8, l. 15 (1596–1598)

76 Hath not a Jew eyes? hath not a Jew hands, organs, dimensions, senses, affections, passions? fed with the same food, hurt with the same weapons, subject to the same diseases, healed by the same means, warmed and cooled by the same winter and summer as a Christian is?— if you prick us do we not bleed? if you tickle us do we not laugh? if you poison us do we not die? and if you wrong us shall we not revenge?

The Merchant of Venice act 3, sc. 1, l. 54 (1596–1598)

77 Tell me where is Fancy bred,
Or in the heart, or in the head?

The Merchant of Venice act 3, sc. 2, l. 63 (1596–1598)

78 I never knew so young a body with so old a head.

The Merchant of Venice act 4, sc. 1, l. 161 (1596–1598)

79 The quality of mercy is not strain'd,
It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven
Upon the place beneath.

The Merchant of Venice act 4, sc. 1, l. 182 (1596–1598)

80 Wrest once the law to your authority,—
To do a great right, do a little wrong.

The Merchant of Venice act 4, sc. 1, l. 213 (1596–1598)

81 A Daniel come to judgment: yea a Daniel!

The Merchant of Venice act 4, sc. 1, l. 221 (1596–1598)

82 He is well paid that is well satisfied.

The Merchant of Venice act 4, sc. 1, l. 413 (1596–1598)

As You Like It

83 O how full of briars is this working-day world!
As You Like It act 1, sc. 3, l. 11 (1599)

84 Sweet are the uses of adversity,
Which like the toad, ugly and venomous,
Wears yet a precious jewel in his head;
And this our life, exempt from public haunt,

- Finds tongues in trees, books in the running brooks,
Sermons in stones, and good in everything.
As You Like It act 2, sc. 1, l. 12 (1599)
- 85 Under the greenwood tree,
Who loves to lie with me,
And turn his merry note
Unto the sweet bird's throat,
Come hither, come hither, come hither.
Here shall he see
No enemy,
But winter and rough weather.
As You Like It act 2, sc. 5, l. 1 (1599)
- 86 And so from hour to hour, we ripe, and ripe,
And then from hour to hour, we rot, and rot,
And thereby hangs a tale.
As You Like It act 2, sc. 7, l. 26 (1599)
- 87 True is it that we have seen better days.
As You Like It act 2, sc. 7, l. 120 (1599)
- 88 All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players.
They have their exits and their entrances,
And one man in his time plays many parts,
His acts being seven ages.
As You Like It act 2, sc. 7, l. 139 (1599)
- 89 At first the infant,
Mewling and puking in the nurse's arms.
Then, the whining school-boy with his satchel
And shining morning face, creeping like snail
Unwillingly to school.
As You Like It act 2, sc. 7, l. 143 (1599)
- 90 Then, a soldier,
Full of strange oaths, and bearded like the pard, Jealous in honour, sudden, and quick in quarrel,
Seeking the bubble reputation
Even in the cannon's mouth.
As You Like It act 2, sc. 7, l. 149 (1599)
- 91 Second childishness and mere oblivion,
Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything.
As You Like It act 2, sc. 7, l. 165 (1599)
- 92 Blow, blow, thou winter wind,
Thou art not so unkind
As man's ingratitude.
As You Like It act 2, sc. 7, l. 174 (1599)
- 93 Thank heaven, fasting, for a good man's love.
As You Like It act 3, sc. 5, l. 58 (1599)
- 94 Men have died from time to time and worms have eaten them, but not for love.
As You Like It act 4, sc. 1, l. 101 (1599)
- 95 Men are April when they woo, December when they wed. Maids are May when they are maids, but the sky changes when they are wives.
As You Like It act 4, sc. 1, l. 140 (1599)
- 96 A poor virgin sir, an ill-favored thing sir, but mine own.
As You Like It act 5, sc. 4, l. 56 (1599)
- Julius Caesar
- 97 Beware the Ides of March.
Julius Caesar act 1, sc. 2, l. 18 (1599)
- 98 Why, man, he doth bestride the narrow world
Like a colossus, and we petty men
Walk under his huge legs and peep about
To find ourselves dishonorable graves.
Men at some time are masters of their fates.
The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars
But in ourselves, that we are underlings.
Julius Caesar act 1, sc. 2, l. 134 (1599)
- 99 Let me have men about me that are fat,
Sleek-headed men, and such as sleep
a-nights.
Yond Cassius has a lean and hungry look:
He thinks too much: such men are dangerous.
Julius Caesar act 1, sc. 2, l. 191 (1599)
See Plutarch 2
- 100 Let's carve him as a dish fit for the gods,
Not hew him as a carcass fit for hounds.
Julius Caesar act 2, sc. 1, l. 172 (1599)
- 101 When beggars die there are no comets seen;
The heavens themselves blaze forth the death
of princes.
Julius Caesar act 2, sc. 2, l. 30 (1599)
- 102 Cowards die many times before their deaths;
The valiant never taste of death but once.
Julius Caesar act 2, sc. 2, l. 32 (1599)
- 103 But I am constant as the northern star,
Of whose true-fixed and resting quality
There is no fellow in the firmament.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 1, l. 60 (1599)

- 104 Et tu, Brute?—Then fall, Caesar.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 1, l. 77 (1599)
See Caesar 7
- 105 The choice and master spirits of this age.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 1, l. 163 (1599)
- 106 O pardon me, thou bleeding piece of earth,
That I am meek and gentle with these butchers.
Thou art the ruins of the noblest man
That ever lived in the tide of times.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 1, l. 254 (1599)
- 107 Cry havoc and let slip the dogs of war.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 1, l. 273 (1599)
- 108 Not that I loved Caesar less, but that I loved Rome more.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 21 (1599)
- 109 As he was valiant, I honor him: but as he was ambitious, I slew him.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 25 (1599)
- 110 Who is here so base, that would be a bondman? If any, speak, for him have I offended. . . . I pause for a reply.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 29 (1599)
- 111 Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears:
I come to bury Caesar, not to praise him.
The evil that men do lives after them:
The good is oft interred with their bones.
So let it be with Caesar.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 74 (1599)
- 112 The noble Brutus
Hath told you Caesar was ambitious:
If it were so, it was a grievous fault,
And grievously hath Caesar answered it.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 78 (1599)
- 113 For Brutus is an honorable man;
So are they all, all honorable men.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 83 (1599)
- 114 He was my friend, faithful and just to me.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 86 (1599)
- 115 When that the poor have cried, Caesar hath wept:
Ambition should be made of sterner stuff.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 92 (1599)
- 116 You all did see, that on the Lupercal
I thrice presented him a kingly crown,
Which he did thrice refuse. Was this ambition?
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 96 (1599)
- 117 O judgement, thou art fled to brutish beasts
And men have lost their reason.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 105 (1599)
- 118 But yesterday the word of Caesar might Have stood against the world. Now lies he there,
And none so poor to do him reverence.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 119 (1599)
- 119 If you have tears, prepare to shed them now.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 167 (1599)
- 120 This was the most unkindest cut of all:
For when the noble Caesar saw him stab,
Ingratitude, more strong than traitor's arms,
Quite vanquished him: then burst his mighty heart;
And in his mantle muffling up his face,
Even at the base of Pompey's statue,
Which all the while ran blood, great Caesar fell.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 181 (1599)
- 121 O what a fall was there, my countrymen!
Then I, and you, and all of us fell down,
Whilst bloody treason flourished over us.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 188 (1599)
- 122 I am no orator, as Brutus is,
But, as you know me all, a plain blunt man.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 210 (1599)
- 123 For I have neither wit, nor words, nor worth,
Action, nor utterance, nor the power of speech
To stir men's blood. I only speak right on.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 214 (1599)
- 124 I tell you that which you yourselves do know, Show you sweet Caesar's wounds, poor poor
dumb mouths,
And bid them speak for me. But were I
Brutus,
And Brutus Antony, there were an Antony
Would ruffle up your spirits and put a tongue
In every wound of Caesar that should move
The stones of Rome to rise and mutiny.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 217 (1599)

- 125 Here was a Caesar! when comes such another?
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 243 (1599)
- 126 Now let it work. Mischief, thou art afoot:
Take thou what course thou wilt.
Julius Caesar act 3, sc. 2, l. 251 (1599)
- 127 Let me tell you, Cassius, you yourself
Are much condemned to have an itching palm.
Julius Caesar act 4, sc. 3, l. 9 (1599)
- 128 There is a tide in the affairs of men
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune.
Julius Caesar act 4, sc. 3, l. 215 (1599)
- 129 O Julius Caesar, thou art mighty yet.
Thy spirit walks abroad and turns our swords
In our own proper entrails.
Julius Caesar act 5, sc. 3, l. 92 (1599)
- 130 This was the noblest Roman of them all:
All the conspirators save only he
Did that they did in envy of great Caesar.
He only, in a general honest thought
And common good to all, made one of them.
Julius Caesar act 5, sc. 5, l. 68 (1599)
- 131 His life was gentle, and the elements
So mixed in him that nature might stand up
And say to all the world, "This was a man!"
Julius Caesar act 5, sc. 5, l. 73 (1599)

King Henry V

- 132 O for a muse of fire, that would ascend
The brightest heaven of invention.
King Henry V prologue (1599)
- 133 Once more unto the breach, dear friends,
once more,
Or close the wall up with our English dead.
In peace there's nothing so becomes a man
As modest stillness and humility;
But when the blast of war blows in our ears,
Then imitate the action of the tiger:
Stiffen the sinews, conjure up the blood,
Disguise fair nature with hard-favored rage.
Then lend the eye a terrible aspect.
King Henry V act 3, sc. 1, l. 1 (1599)
- 134 I see you stand like greyhounds in the slips,
Straining upon the start. The game's afoot.
Follow your spirit, and upon this charge

Cry "God for Harry! England and St. George!"
King Henry V act 3, sc. 1, l. 31 (1599)

- 135 And what have kings that privates have not too,
Save ceremony, save general ceremony?
King Henry V act 4, sc. 1, l. 234 (1599)
- 136 This day is called the feast of Crispian.
He that outlives this day and comes safe home
Will stand a-tiptoe when this day is named
And rouse him at the name of Crispian.
King Henry V act 4, sc. 3, l. 40 (1599)
- 137 Our names,
Familiar in his mouth as household words.
King Henry V act 4, sc. 3, l. 51 (1599)
- 138 We few, we happy few, we band of brothers.
For he today that sheds his blood with me
Shall be my brother; be he ne'er so vile,
This day shall gentle his condition.
And gentlemen in England now abed
Shall think themselves accursed they were not here,
And hold their manhoods cheap whiles any speaks
That fought with us upon Saint Crispin's day.
King Henry V act 4, sc. 3, l. 60 (1599)

Much Ado About Nothing

- 139 Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more,
Men were deceivers ever.
Much Ado About Nothing act 2, sc. 3, l. 61 (1598– 1599)

Hamlet

- 140 For this relief much thanks. 'Tis bitter cold,
And I am sick at heart.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 1, l. 8 (1601)
- 141 Not a mouse stirring.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 1, l. 11 (1601)
- 142 In the most high and palmy state of Rome,
A little ere the mightiest Julius fell,
The graves stood tenantless and the sheeted
dead
Did squeak and gibber in the Roman streets.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 1, l. 116 (1601)
- 143 And then it started like a guilty thing
Upon a fearful summons.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 1, l. 152 (1601)

- 144 It faded on the crowing of the cock.
Some say that ever 'gainst that season comes
Wherein our Savior's birth is celebrated,
This bird of dawning singeth all night long;
And then, they say, no spirit dare stir abroad.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 1, l. 162 (1601)
- 145 But look, the morn in russet mantle clad Walks o'er the dew of yon high eastward hill.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 1, l. 171 (1601)
- 146 Though yet of Hamlet our dear brother's death
The memory be green.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 2, l. 1 (1601)
- 147 A little more than kin, and less than kind.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 2, l. 65 (1601)
- 148 Not so, my lord, I am too much in the sun.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 2, l. 67 (1601)
- 149 O that this too too sullied flesh would melt,
Thaw and resolve itself into a dew,
Or that the Everlasting had not fix'd
His canon 'gainst self-slaughter.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 2, l. 129 (1601). Another reading of "sullied" here is "solid."
- 150 How weary, stale, flat, and unprofitable
Seem to me all the uses of this world!
Hamlet act 1, sc. 2, l. 133 (1601)
- 151 So excellent a king, that was to this Hyperion to a satyr, so loving to my mother
That he might not betwixt the winds of heaven
Visit her face too roughly. Heaven and earth, Must I remember? Why, she would hang on him
As if increase of appetite had grown
By what it fed on.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 2, l. 139 (1601)
- 152 Frailty, thy name is woman.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 2, l. 146 (1601)
- 153 A little month, or ere those shoes were old
With which she follow'd my poor father's body,
Like Niobe, all tears—why, she—
O God, a beast that wants discourse of reason
Would have mourn'd longer.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 2, l. 147 (1601)
- 154 It is not, nor it cannot come to good.
But break, my heart, for I must hold my tongue.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 2, l. 158 (1601)
- 155 Thrift, thrift, Horatio. The funeral bak'd meats
Did coldly furnish forth the marriage tables.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 2, l. 180 (1601)
- 156 'A was a man, take him for all in all:
I shall not look upon his like again.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 2, l. 187 (1601)
- 157 A countenance more in sorrow than in anger.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 2, l. 231 (1601)
- 158 Himself the primrose path of dalliance treads,
And recks not his own rede.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 3, l. 50 (1601)
- 159 Beware
Of entrance to a quarrel, but being in,
Bear't that th'opposed may beware of thee.
Give every man thy ear, but few thy voice;
Take each man's censure, but reserve thy judgment.
Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not express'd in fancy; rich, not gaudy;
For the apparel oft proclaims the man.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 3, l. 65 (1601)
- 160 Neither a borrower nor a lender be,
For loan oft loses both itself and friend,
And borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 3, l. 75 (1601)
- 161 This above all: to thine own self be true,
And it must follow as the night the day
Thou canst not then be false to any man.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 3, l. 78 (1601)
- 162 Ay, springes to catch woodcocks.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 3, l. 115 (1601)
- 163 But to my mind, though I am native here
And to the manner born, it is a custom
More honor'd in the breach than the observance.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 4, l. 14 (1601)
- 164 Angels and ministers of grace defend us!
Hamlet act 1, sc. 4, l. 39 (1601)
- 165 Something is rotten in the state of Denmark.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 4, l. 90 (1601)

- 166 I could a tale unfold whose lightest word
Would harrow up thy soul, freeze thy young blood,
Make thy two eyes like stars start from their spheres,
Thy knotted and combined locks to part,
And each particular hair to stand an end
Like quills upon the fretful porpentine.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 5, l. 15 (1601)
- 167 Murder most foul, as in the best it is.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 5, l. 27 (1601)
- 168 O my prophetic soul! My uncle!
Hamlet act 1, sc. 5, l. 41 (1601)
- 169 O villain, villain, smiling damned villain!
My tables. Meet it is I set it down
That one may smile, and smile, and be a villain.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 5, l. 106 (1601)
- 170 There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio,
Than are dreamt of in your philosophy.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 5, l. 174 (1601)
- 171 To put an antic disposition on.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 5, l. 180 (1601)
- 172 Rest, rest, perturbed spirit.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 5, l. 190 (1601)
- 173 The time is out of joint. O cursed spite,
That ever I was born to set it right.
Hamlet act 1, sc. 5, l. 196 (1601)
- 174 Brevity is the soul of wit.
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 90 (1601)
See Dorothy Parker 1
- 175 More matter with less art.
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 95 (1601)
- 176 [Hamlet speaking, after being asked by Polonius,
"What do you read, my lord?"]: Words, words, words.
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 191 (1601)
- 177 Though this be madness, yet there is method in't.
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 205 (1601). Commonly quoted as "There's method in his madness."
- 178 There is nothing either good or bad but thinking makes it so.
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 250 (1601)
- 179 O God, I could be bounded in a nutshell and count myself a king of infinite space—were it not that I have bad dreams.
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 255 (1601)
- 180 This goodly frame the earth seems to me a sterile promontory, this most excellent canopy the air, look you, this brave o'erhanging firmament, this majestical roof fretted with golden fire, why, it appeareth nothing to me but a foul and pestilent congregation of vapours.
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 300 (1601)
- 181 What piece of work is a man, how noble in reason, how infinite in faculties, in form and moving how express and admirable, in action how like an angel, in apprehension how like a god: the beauty of the world, the paragon of animals—and yet, to me, what is this quintessence of dust? Man delights not me—nor woman neither, though by your smiling
you seem to say so.
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 305 (1601)
- 182 I am but mad north-north-west. When the wind is southerly, I know a hawk from a handsaw.
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 379 (1601)
- 183 The play, I remember, pleased not the million,
'twas caviare to the general.
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 436 (1601)
- 184 Use every man after his desert, and who shall scape whipping?
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 530 (1601)
- 185 O what a rogue and peasant slave am I!
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 550 (1601)
- 186 What's Hecuba to him, or he to her,
That he should weep for her?
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 559 (1601)
- 187 The play's the thing
Wherein I'll catch the conscience of the King.
Hamlet act 2, sc. 2, l. 605 (1601)
- 188 To be, or not to be, that is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune,
Or to take arms against a sea of troubles
And by opposing end them.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 1, l. 56 (1601)

- 189 To die—to sleep,
No more; and by a sleep to say we end
The heart-ache and the thousand natural shocks
That flesh is heir to: 'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wish'd. To die, to sleep;
To sleep, perchance to dream—ay, there's the rub:
For in that sleep of death what dreams may come,
When we have shuffled off this mortal coil,
Must give us pause—there's the respect
That makes calamity of so long life.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 1, l. 60 (1601)
- 190 For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
Th'oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,
The pangs of dispriz'd love, the law's delay,
The insolence of office, and the spurns
That patient merit of th'unworthy takes,
When he himself might his quietus make
With a bare bodkin?
Hamlet act 3, sc. 1, l. 70 (1601)
- 191 Who would fardels bear,
To grunt and sweat under a weary life,
But that the dread of something after death,
The undiscover'd country, from whose bourn
No traveller returns, puzzles the will,
And makes us rather bear those ills we have
Than fly to others that we know not of?
Hamlet act 3, sc. 1, 76 (1601)
- 192 Thus conscience does make cowards of us all,
And thus the native hue of resolution
Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,
And enterprises of great pitch and moment
With this regard their currents turn awry
And lose the name of action.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 1, l. 83 (1601)
- 193 Nymph, in thy orisons
Be all my sins remember'd.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 1, l. 88 (1601)
- 194 Get thee to a nunnery.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 1, l. 121 (1601)
- 195 Be thou as chaste as ice, as pure as snow, thou shalt not escape calumny.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 1, l. 137 (1601)
- 196 I have heard of your paintings well enough.
God hath given you one face and you make yourselves another.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 1, l. 143 (1601)
- 197 O, what a noble mind is here o'erthrown!
The courtier's, soldier's, scholar's, eye, tongue, sword.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 1, l. 151 (1601)
- 198 The glass of fashion and the mould of form, Th'observ'd of all observers, quite, quite down!
Hamlet act 3, sc. 1, l. 154 (1601)
- 199 Now see that noble and most sovereign reason Like sweet bells jangled out of tune and harsh.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 1, l. 158 (1601)
- 200 Speak the speech, I pray you, as I pronounced it to you, trippingly on the tongue.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 2, l. 1 (1601)
- 201 I would have such a fellow whipped for o'erdoing Termagant. It out-Herods Herod.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 2, l. 13 (1601)
- 202 Suit the action to the word, the word to the action.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 2, l. 18 (1601)
- 203 To hold as 'twere the mirror up to nature.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 2, l. 22 (1601)
- 204 The lady doth protest too much, methinks.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 2, l. 232 (1601)
- 205 Let the galled jade wince, our withers are unwrung.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 2, l. 244 (1601)
- 206 Why, let the stricken deer go weep,
The hart ungalled play;
For some must watch while some must sleep,
Thus runs the world away.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 2, l. 273 (1601)
- 207 You would pluck out the heart of my mystery.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 2, l. 368 (1601)
- 208 Very like a whale.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 2, l. 384 (1601)
- 209 They fool me to the top of my bent.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 2, l. 386 (1601)

- 210 'Tis now the very witching time of night,
When churchyards yawn and hell itself breathes out
Contagion to this world.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 2, l. 390 (1601)
- 211 O, my offence is rank, it smells to heaven;
It hath the primal eldest curse upon't—
A brother's murder.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 3, l. 36 (1601)
- 212 Now might I do it pat, now a is a-praying.
And now I'll do't. And so a goes to heaven;
And so am I reveng'd.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 3, l. 73 (1601)
- 213 My words fly up, my thoughts remain below.
Words without thoughts never to heaven go.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 3, l. 97 (1601)
- 214 How now? A rat! Dead for a ducat, dead.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 4, l. 22 (1601)
- 215 A king of shreds and patches.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 4, l. 103 (1601)
See W. S. Gilbert 28
- 216 Assume a virtue if you have it not.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 4, l. 162 (1601)
- 217 I must be cruel only to be kind.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 4, l. 180 (1601)
- 218 'Tis the sport to have the engineer
Hoist with his own petard.
Hamlet act 3, sc. 4, l. 208 (1601)
- 219 Diseases desperate grown
By desperate appliance are reliev'd,
Or not at all.
Hamlet act 4, sc. 3, l. 9 (1601)
See Proverbs 65
- 220 How all occasions do inform against me,
And spur my dull revenge.
Hamlet act 4, sc. 4, l. 32 (1601)
- 221 Come, my coach. Good night, ladies, good night. Sweet ladies, good night, good night.
Hamlet act 4, sc. 5, l. 71 (1601)
See T. S. Eliot 49
- 222 When sorrows come, they come not single spies,
But in battalions.
Hamlet act 4, sc. 5, l. 78 (1601)
- 223 There's such divinity doth hedge a king
That treason can but peep to what it would.
Hamlet act 4, sc. 5, l. 123 (1601)
- 224 There's rosemary, that's for remembrance—pray you, love, remember. And there is pansies, that's for thoughts.
Hamlet act 4, sc. 5, l. 173 (1601)
- 225 You must wear your rue with a difference.
There's a daisy. I would give you some violets,
but they withered all when my father died.
Hamlet act 4, sc. 5, l. 180 (1601)
- 226 Alas, poor Yorick. I knew him, Horatio, a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy. He hath bore me on his back a thousand times, and now—how abhorred in my imagination it is. My gorge rises at
it. Here hung those lips that I have kissed I know not how oft. Where be your gibes now, your gambols, your songs, your flashes of merriment, that were wont to set the table on a roar? Not one now to mock your own grinning? Quite chop-fallen? Now get you to my lady's chamber and tell her, let her paint an inch thick, to this favor she must come.
Make her laugh at that.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 1, l. 182 (1601). The first line is frequently quoted "Alas, poor Yorick, I knew him well."
- 227 Imperious Caesar, dead and turn'd to clay,
Might stop a hole to keep the wind away.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 1, l. 211 (1601)
- 228 A minist'ring angel shall my sister be
When thou liest howling.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 1, l. 238 (1601)
See Walter Scott 6
- 229 Sweets to the sweet. Farewell.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 1, l. 241 (1601)
- 230 There's a divinity that shapes our ends,
Rough-hew them how we will.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 2, l. 10 (1601)
- 231 Not a whit. We defy augury. There is special providence in the fall of a sparrow. If it be now, 'tis not to come; if it be not to come, it will be now; if it be not now, yet it will come.
The readiness is all.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 2, l. 218 (1601)

- 232 A hit, a very palpable hit.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 2, l. 285 (1601)
- 233 This fell sergeant, Death,
Is strict in his arrest.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 2, l. 343 (1601)
- 234 I am more an antique Roman than a Dane.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 2, l. 348 (1601)
- 235 If thou didst ever hold me in thy heart,
Absent thee from felicity awhile,
And in this harsh world draw thy breath in pain
To tell my story.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 2, l. 353 (1601)
- 236 The rest is silence.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 2, l. 364 (1601)
- 237 Now cracks a noble heart. Good night, sweet prince,
And flights of angels sing thee to thy rest.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 2, l. 365 (1601)
- 238 Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are dead.
Hamlet act 5, sc. 2, l. 378 (1601)

Twelfth Night

- 239 If music be the food of love, play on,
Give me excess of it, that, surfeiting,
The appetite may sicken, and so die.
That strain again, it had a dying fall:
O, it came o'er my ear like the sweet sound
That breathes upon a bank of violets,
Stealing and giving odor.
Twelfth Night act 1, sc. 1, l. 1 (1601)
- 240 What is love? 'Tis not hereafter,
Present mirth hath present laughter:
What's to come is still unsure.
In delay there lies no plenty,
Then come kiss me, sweet and twenty:
Youth's a stuff will not endure.
Twelfth Night act 2, sc. 3, l. 47 (1601)
- 241 Dost thou think because thou art virtuous, there shall be no more cakes and ale?
Twelfth Night act 2, sc. 3, l. 113 (1601)
- 242 Let still the woman take
An elder than herself; so wears she to him,
So sways she level in her husband's heart.
Twelfth Night act 2, sc. 4, l. 29 (1601)

- 243 Come away, come away death,
And in sad cypress let me be laid.
Twelfth Night act 2, sc. 4, l. 51 (1601)
- 244 But be not afraid of greatness. Some are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon 'em.
Twelfth Night act 2, sc. 5, l. 139 (1601)
See Samuel Butler (1835–1902) 4; Heller 4
- 245 Thus the whirligig of time brings in his revenges.
Twelfth Night act 5, sc. 1, l. 369 (1601)
- 246 When that I was and a little tiny boy,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain,
A foolish thing was but a toy,
For the rain it raineth every day.
Twelfth Night act 5, sc. 1, l. 381 (1601)

Troilus and Cressida

- 247 Take but degree away, untune that string,
And hark what discord follows.
Troilus and Cressida act 1, sc. 3, l. 109 (1602)
- 248 To be wise and love
Exceeds man's might.
Troilus and Cressida act 3, sc. 2, l. 152 (1602)
- 249 Time hath, my lord, a wallet at his back,
Wherein he puts alms for oblivion.
Troilus and Cressida act 3, sc. 3, l. 147 (1602)
- 250 One touch of nature makes the whole world kin.
Troilus and Cressida act 3, sc. 3, l. 177 (1602)
- 251 The end crowns all,
And that old common arbitrator, Time,
Will one day end it.
Troilus and Cressida act 4, sc. 5, l. 224 (1602)

All's Well That Ends Well

- 252 My friends were poor, but honest.
All's Well That Ends Well act 1, sc. 3, l. 192 (1603– 1604)

Measure for Measure

- 253 O, it is excellent
To have a giant's strength, but it is tyrannous
To use it like a giant.
Measure for Measure act 2, sc. 2, l. 108 (1604)

254 Man, proud man,
Dress'd in a little brief authority,
Most ignorant of what he's most assur'd—
His glassy essence—like an angry ape
Plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven
As makes the angels weep.
Measure for Measure act 2, sc. 2, l. 118 (1604)

255 Thou hast nor youth, nor age,
But as it were an after-dinner's sleep
Dreaming on both; for all thy blessed youth
Becomes as aged, and doth beg the alms
Of palsied eld: and when thou art old and rich,
Thou hast neither heat, affection, limb, nor beauty
To make thy riches pleasant.
Measure for Measure act 3, sc. 1, l. 32 (1604)

256 If I must die,
I will encounter darkness as a bride
And hug it in mine arms.
Measure for Measure act 3, sc. 1, l. 82 (1604)

257 Ay, but to die, and go we know not where;
To lie in cold obstruction, and to rot.
Measure for Measure act 3, sc. 1, l. 117 (1604)

Othello

258 But I will wear my heart upon my sleeve
For daws to peck at.
Othello act 1, sc. 1, l. 63 (1602–1604)

259 Even now, now, very now, an old black ram
Is tupping your white ewe!
Othello act 1, sc. 1, l. 87 (1602–1604)

260 Your daughter and the Moor are now making the beast with two backs.
Othello act 1, sc. 1, l. 114 (1602–1604)

261 Keep up your bright swords, for the dew will rust them.
Othello act 1, sc. 2, l. 59 (1602–1604)

262 I will a round unvarnished tale deliver.
Othello act 1, sc. 3, l. 91 (1602–1604)

263 And of the cannibals that each other eat,
The Anthropophagi, and men whose heads
Do grow beneath their shoulders.
Othello act 1, sc. 3, l. 144 (1602–1604)

264 She loved me for the dangers I had passed
And I loved her that she did pity them.
Othello act 1, sc. 3, l. 168 (1602–1604)

265 I do perceive here a divided duty.
Othello act 1, sc. 3, l. 181 (1602–1604)

266 To suckle fools, and chronicle small beer.
Othello act 2, sc. 1, l. 160 (1602–1604)

267 O, I have lost my reputation, I have lost the immortal part of myself—and what remains is bestial.
Othello act 2, sc. 3, l. 254 (1602–1604)

268 Excellent wretch! perdition catch my soul
But I do love thee! and when I love thee not Chaos is come again.
Othello act 3, sc. 3, l. 90 (1602–1604)

269 Who steals my purse steals trash—'tis something-nothing,
'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands—
But he that filches from me my good name
Robs me of that which not enriches him
And makes me poor indeed.
Othello act 3, sc. 3, l. 160 (1602–1604)

270 O beware, my lord, of jealousy!
It is the green-eyed monster, which doth mock
The meat it feeds on.
Othello act 3, sc. 3, l. 167 (1602–1604)

271 If I do prove her haggard,
Though that her jesses were my dear heartstrings,
I'd whistle her off and let her down the wind
To prey at fortune.
Othello act 3, sc. 3, l. 264 (1602–1604)

272 I had rather be a toad
And live upon the vapor of a dungeon
Than keep a corner in the thing I love
For others' uses.
Othello act 3, sc. 3, l. 274 (1602–1604)

273 Trifles light as air
Are to the jealous confirmations strong
As proofs of holy writ.
Othello act 3, sc. 3, l. 325 (1602–1604)

274 Farewell the tranquil mind, farewell content!
Farewell the plumed troops and the big wars
That makes ambition virtue!
Othello act 3, sc. 3, l. 351 (1602–1604)

275 Pride, pomp, and circumstance of glorious war!
Othello act 3, sc. 3, l. 357 (1602–1604)

- 276 Othello's occupation's gone.
Othello act 3, sc. 3, l. 360 (1602–1604)
- 277 This denoted a foregone conclusion.
Othello act 3, sc. 3, l. 430 (1602–1604)
- 278 But yet the pity of it, Iago—O, Iago, the pity of it, Iago!
Othello act 4, sc. 1, l. 192 (1602–1604)
- 279 The poor soul sat sighing by a sycamore tree,
Sing all a green willow:
Her hand on her bosom, her head on her
knee,
Sing willow, willow, willow.
Othello act 4, sc. 3, l. 39 (1602–1604)
- 280 Put out the light, and then put out the light!
Othello act 5, sc. 2, l. 7 (1602–1604)
- 281 Here is my journey's end, here is my butt
And very sea-mark of my utmost sail.
Othello act 5, sc. 2, l. 267 (1602–1604)
- 282 I have done the state some service, and they know't:
No more of that. I pray you, in your letters,
When you shall these unlucky deeds relate,
Speak of me as I am. Nothing extenuate,
Nor set down aught in malice. Then must you speak
Of one that loved not wisely, but too well;
Of one not easily jealous, but, being wrought,
Perplexed in the extreme; of one whose hand,
Like the base Indian, threw a pearl away
Richer than all his tribe.
Othello act 5, sc. 2, l. 339 (1602–1604)
- King Lear
- 283 Nothing will come of nothing.
King Lear act 1, sc. 1, l. 90 (1605–1606)
- 284 [Lear:] So young and so untender?
[Cordelia.] So young, my lord, and true.
King Lear act 1, sc. 1, l. 107 (1605–1606)
- 285 I want that glib and oily art
To speak and purpose not.
King Lear act 1, sc. 1, l. 226 (1605–1606)
- 286 Why bastard? Wherefore base?
When my dimensions are as well compact,
My mind as generous and my shape as true
As honest madam's issue?
King Lear act 1, sc. 2, l. 6 (1605–1606)
- 287 Now gods, stand up for bastards!
King Lear act 1, sc. 2, l. 22 (1605–1606)
- 288 This is the excellent foppery of the world, that when we are sick in fortune, often the surfeits of our own behavior, we make guilty of our disasters the sun, the moon, and the stars, as if we were villains on necessity, fools by heavenly compulsion, knaves, thieves, and treachers by spherical predominance;
drunkards, liars, and adulterers by an enforced obedience of planetary influence.
King Lear act 1, sc. 2, l. 119 (1605–1606)
- 289 How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is
To have a thankless child.
King Lear act 1, sc. 4, l. 280 (1605–1606)
- 290 O sir, you are old:
Nature in you stands on the very verge
Of her confine.
King Lear act 2, sc. 2, l. 338 (1605–1606)
- 291 O, reason not the need! Our basest beggars
Are in the poorest things superfluous;
Allow not nature more than nature needs,
Man's life is cheap as beast's.
King Lear act 2, sc. 2, l. 456 (1605–1606)
- 292 Blow winds and crack your cheeks! Rage, blow!
You cataracts and hurricanoes, spout
Till you have drenched our steeples, drowned
the cocks!
You sulphurous and thought-executing fires,
Vaunt-couriers of oak-cleaving thunderbolts,
Singe my white head!
King Lear act 3, sc. 2, l. 1 (1605–1606)
- 293 I tax not you, you elements, with unkindness.
King Lear act 3, sc. 2, l. 16 (1605–1606)
- 294 I am a man
More sinned against than sinning.
King Lear act 3, sc. 2, l. 59 (1605–1606)
- 295 O, that way madness lies, let me shun that.
King Lear act 3, sc. 4, l. 21 (1605–1606)
- 296 Take physic, pomp,
Expose thyself to feel what wretches feel.
King Lear act 3, sc. 4, l. 33 (1605–1606)
- 297 Thou art the thing itself. Unaccommodated man is no more but such a poor, bare, forked animal as thou art.
King Lear act 3, sc. 4, l. 105 (1605–1606)

- 298 The green mantle of the standing pool.
King Lear act 3, sc. 4, l. 130 (1605–1606)
- 299 The prince of darkness is a gentleman.
King Lear act 3, sc. 4, l. 139 (1605–1606)
- 300 Poor Tom's a-cold.
King Lear act 3, sc. 4, l. 143 (1605–1606)
- 301 Childe Rowland to the dark tower came,
His word was still "Fie, foh, and fum,
I smell the blood of a British man."
King Lear act 3, sc. 4, l. 178 (1605–1606)
See Nashe 1
- 302 Out, vile jelly,
Where is thy luster now?
King Lear act 3, sc. 7, l. 82 (1605–1606)
- 303 The worst is not
So long as we can say "This is the worst."
King Lear act 4, sc. 1, l. 29 (1605–1606)
- 304 As flies to wanton boys are we to the gods,
They kill us for their sport.
King Lear act 4, sc. 1, l. 38 (1605–1606)
- 305 Ay, every inch a king.
King Lear act 4, sc. 6, l. 106 (1605–1606)
- 306 Die—die for adultery? No!
The wren goes to't and the small gilded fly
Does lecher in my sight.
King Lear act 4, sc. 6, l. 110 (1605–1606)
- 307 Get thee glass eyes,
And like a scurvy politician seem
To see the things thou dost not.
King Lear act 4, sc. 6, l. 166 (1605–1606)
- 308 When we are born we cry that we are come
To this great stage of fools.
King Lear act 4, sc. 6, l. 178 (1605–1606)
- 309 Mine enemy's dog
Though he had bit me should have stood that night
Against my fire.
King Lear act 4, sc. 7, l. 36 (1605–1606)
- 310 Thou art a soul in bliss, but I am bound
Upon a wheel of fire.
King Lear act 4, sc. 7, l. 46 (1605–1606)
- 311 I am a very foolish, fond old man, Fourscore and upward, not an hour more or less;
And to deal plainly,
I fear I am not in my perfect mind.
King Lear act 4, sc. 7, l. 60 (1605–1606)
- 312 Men must endure
Their going hence even as their coming hither.
Ripeness is all.
King Lear act 5, sc. 2, l. 9 (1605–1606)
- 313 Come, let's away to prison;
We two alone will sing like birds i'the cage.
When thou dost ask me blessing I'll kneel
down
And ask of thee forgiveness.
King Lear act 5, sc. 3, l. 8 (1605–1606)
- 314 The gods are just and of our pleasant vices
Make instruments to plague us.
King Lear act 5, sc. 3, l. 168 (1605–1606)
- 315 The wheel is come full circle.
King Lear act 5, sc. 3, l. 172 (1605–1606)
- 316 Howl, howl, howl, howl! O, you are men of stones!
Had I your tongues and eyes, I'd use them so
That heaven's vault should crack: she's gone for ever.
King Lear act 5, sc. 3, l. 255 (1605–1606)
- 317 Her voice was ever soft,
Gentle and low, an excellent thing in woman.
King Lear act 5, sc. 3, l. 270 (1605–1606)
- 318 And my poor fool is hanged. No, no, no life!
Why should a dog, a horse, a rat have life
And thou no breath at all? O thou'lt come no more
Never, never, never, never.
King Lear act 5, sc. 3, l. 304 (1605–1606)
- 319 Vex not his ghost; O, let him pass. He hates
him
That would upon the rack of this tough world
Stretch him out longer.
King Lear act 5, sc. 3, l. 312 (1605–1606)
- 320 The weight of this sad time we must obey,
Speak what we feel, not what we ought to say.
The oldest hath borne most; we that are young
Shall never see so much, nor live so long.
King Lear act 5, sc. 3, l. 322 (1605–1606)

Macbeth

- 321 When shall we three meet again?
In thunder, lightning, or in rain?
Macbeth act 1, sc. 1, l. 1 (1606)
- 322 Fair is foul, and foul is fair:
Hover through the fog and filthy air.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 1, l. 11 (1606)
- 323 A sailor's wife had chestnuts in her lap,
And mounch'd, and mounch'd, and mounch'd: "Give me," quoth I:—
"Aroynt thee, witch!" the rump-fed ronyon cries.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 3, l. 4 (1606)
- 324 Sleep neither night nor day
Hang upon his penthouse lid;
He shall live a man forbid.
Weary sev'n-nights nine times nine,
Shall he dwindle, peak, and pine:
Though his bark cannot be lost,
Yet it shall be tempest-tost.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 3, l. 19 (1606)
- 325 The Weird Sisters, hand in hand,
Posters of the sea and land,
Thus do go about, about.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 3, l. 32 (1606)
- 326 So foul and fair a day I have not seen.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 3, l. 38 (1606)
- 327 If you can look into the seeds of time,
And say which grain will grow, and which will not.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 3, l. 58 (1606)
- 328 Two truths are told,
As happy prologues to the swelling act
Of the imperial theme.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 3, l. 127 (1606)
- 329 Present fears
Are less than horrible imaginings.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 3, l. 137 (1606)
- 330 Come what come may,
Time and the hour runs through the roughest day.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 3, l. 147 (1606)
- 331 Nothing in his life
Became him like the leaving it.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 4, l. 7 (1606)
- 332 There's no art
To find the mind's construction in the face.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 4, l. 11 (1606)
- 333 Glamis thou art, and Cawdor; and shalt be What thou art promis'd.—Yet do I fear thy nature:
It is too full o'th' milk of human kindness,
To catch the nearest way.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 5, l. 14 (1606)
- 334 The raven himself is hoarse,
That croaks the fatal entrance of Duncan
Under my battlements.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 5, l. 37 (1606)
- 335 Unsex me here,
And fill me, from the crown to the toe, top-full
Of direst cruelty!
Macbeth act 1, sc. 5, l. 40 (1606)
- 336 Come to my woman's breasts,
And take my milk for gall, you murth'ring ministers.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 5, l. 46 (1606)
- 337 Your face, my Thane, is as a book, where men
May read strange matters.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 5, l. 61 (1606)
- 338 Look like th'innocent flower,
But be the serpent under't.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 5, l. 64 (1606)
- 339 This guest of summer,
The temple-haunting martlet.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 6, l. 3 (1606)
- 340 If it were done, when 'tis done, then 'twere well
It were done quickly: if th'assassination Could trammel up the consequence, and catch
With his surcease success; that but this blow
Might be the be-all and the end-all—here,
But here, upon this bank and shoal of time,
We'd jump the life to come.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 7, l. 1 (1606)
- 341 This even-handed Justice
Commends th'ingredience of our poison'd chalice
To our own lips.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 7, l. 10 (1606)

- 342 Besides, this Duncan
Hath borne his faculties so meek, hath been
So clear in his great office, that his virtues
Will plead like angels, trumpet-tongu'd, against
The deep damnation of his taking-off.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 7, l. 16 (1606)
- 343 I have no spur
To prick the sides of my intent, but only
Vaulting ambition, which o'erleaps itself
And falls on th'other.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 7, l. 25 (1606)
- 344 He hath honor'd me of late; and I have bought
Golden opinions from all sorts of people.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 7, l. 32 (1606)
- 345 Letting "I dare not" wait upon "I would,"
Like the poor cat i'th'adage?
Macbeth act 1, sc. 7, l. 44 (1606)
- 346 I dare do all that may become a man;
Who dares do more, is none.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 7, l. 46 (1606)
- 347 I have given suck, and know
How tender 'tis to love the babe that milks me:
I would, while it was smiling in my face,
Have pluck'd my nipple from his boneless
gums,
And dash'd the brains out, had I so sworn
As you have done to this.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 7, l. 54 (1606)
- 348 [Macbeth.:] If we should fail?
[Lady Macbeth.:] We fail?
But screw your courage to the sticking-place,
And we'll not fail.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 7, l. 59 (1606)
- 349 False face must hide what the false heart doth know.
Macbeth act 1, sc. 7, l. 83 (1606)
- 350 Is this a dagger, which I see before me,
The handle toward my hand? Come, let me clutch thee:—
I have thee not, and yet I see thee still.
Art thou not, fatal vision, sensible
To feeling, as to sight? or art thou but
A dagger of the mind, a false creation,
Proceeding from the heat-oppressed brain?
Macbeth act 2, sc. 1, l. 33 (1606)
- 351 The bell invites me.
Hear it not, Duncan; for it is a knell
That summons thee to Heaven, or to Hell.
Macbeth act 2, sc. 1, l. 62 (1606)
- 352 It was the owl that shriek'd, the fatal bellman,
Which gives the stern'st good-night.
Macbeth act 2, sc. 2, l. 3 (1606)
- 353 Had he not resembled
My father as he slept, I had done't.
Macbeth act 2, sc. 2, l. 12 (1606)
- 354 Methought, I heard a voice cry, "Sleep no
more!
Macbeth does murther Sleep,"—the innocent
Sleep;
Sleep, that knits up the ravell'd sleeve of care.
Macbeth act 2, sc. 2, l. 34 (1606)
- 355 Glamis hath murther'd Sleep, and therefore Cawdor
Shall sleep no more, Macbeth shall sleep no
more!
Macbeth act 2, sc. 2, l. 41 (1606)
- 356 Infirm of purpose!
Give me the daggers. The sleeping, and the dead,
Are but as pictures; 'tis the eye of childhood
That fears a painted devil.
Macbeth act 2, sc. 2, l. 51 (1606)
- 357 Will all great Neptune's ocean wash this blood Clean from my hand? No, this my hand will rather
The multitudinous seas incarnadine,
Making the green one red.
Macbeth act 2, sc. 2, l. 59 (1606)
- 358 Drink, Sir, is a great provoker. . . . Lechery, Sir, it provokes, and unprovokes: it provokes
the desire, but it takes away the performance.
Macbeth act 2, sc. 3, l. 24 (1606)
- 359 The labor we delight in physics pain.
Macbeth act 2, sc. 3, l. 50 (1606)
- 360 Confusion now hath made his masterpiece!
Macbeth act 2, sc. 3, l. 66 (1606)
- 361 Shake off this downy sleep, death's counterfeit.
Macbeth act 2, sc. 3, l. 75 (1606)

- 362 Had I but died an hour before this chance,
I had liv'd a blessed time; for, from this instant,
There's nothing serious in mortality;
All is but toys: renown, and grace, is dead;
The wine of life is drawn, and the mere lees
Is left this vault to brag of.
Macbeth act 2, sc. 3, l. 89 (1606)
- 363 A falcon, towering in her pride of place,
Was by a mousing owl hawk'd at, and kill'd.
Macbeth act 2, sc. 4, l. 12 (1606)
- 364 I must become a borrower of the night,
For a dark hour, or twain.
Macbeth act 3, sc. 1, l. 26 (1606)
- 365 Things without all remedy
Should be without regard; what's done is done.
Macbeth act 3, sc. 2, l. 11 (1606)
- 366 Duncan is in his grave;
After life's fitful fever he sleeps well;
Treason has done his worst: nor steel, nor poison,
Malice domestic, foreign levy, nothing
Can touch him further!
Macbeth act 3, sc. 2, l. 22 (1606)
- 367 Come, seeling Night,
Scarf up the tender eye of pitiful Day,
And, with thy bloody and invisible hand,
Cancel, and tear to pieces, that great bond
Which keeps me pale!
Macbeth act 3, sc. 2, l. 46 (1606)
- 368 Now spurs the lated traveller apace,
To gain the timely inn.
Macbeth act 3, sc. 3, l. 6 (1606)
- 369 But now, I am cabin'd, cribb'd, confin'd, bound in
To saucy doubts and fears.
Macbeth act 3, sc. 4, l. 23 (1606)
- 370 Now, good digestion wait on appetite,
And health on both!
Macbeth act 3, sc. 4, l. 37 (1606)
- 371 Thou canst not say, I did it: never shake
Thy gory locks at me.
Macbeth act 3, sc. 4, l. 49 (1606)
- 372 Stand not upon the order of your going.
Macbeth act 3, sc. 4, l. 118 (1606)
- 373 It will have blood, they say: blood will have blood.
Macbeth act 3, sc. 4, l. 121 (1606)
- 374 I am in blood
Stepp'd in so far, that, should I wade no more,
Returning were as tedious as go o'er.
Macbeth act 3, sc. 4, l. 135 (1606)
- 375 Double, double toil and trouble:
Fire, burn; and, cauldron, bubble.
Macbeth act 4, sc. 1, l. 10 (1606)
- 376 Eye of newt, and toe of frog,
Wool of bat, and tongue of dog.
Macbeth act 4, sc. 1, l. 14 (1606)
- 377 By the pricking of my thumbs,
Something wicked this way comes.
Macbeth act 4, sc. 1, l. 44 (1606)
- 378 How now, you secret, black, and midnight
hags!
Macbeth act 4, sc. 1, l. 48 (1606)
- 379 Be bloody, bold, and resolute: laugh to scorn
The power of man, for none of woman born
Shall harm Macbeth.
Macbeth act 4, sc. 1, l. 79 (1606)
- 380 But yet I'll make assurance double sure,
And take a bond of Fate.
Macbeth act 4, sc. 1, l. 83 (1606)
- 381 Macbeth shall never vanquish'd be, until Great Birnam wood to high Dunsinane hill
Shall come against him.
Macbeth act 4, sc. 1, l. 92 (1606)
- 382 Give sorrow words; the grief, that does not speak,
Whispers the o'er-fraught heart, and bids it break.
Macbeth act 4, sc. 3, l. 209 (1606)
- 383 He has no children.—All my pretty ones?
Did you say all?—O Hell-kite!—All?
What, all my pretty chickens, and their dam,
At one fell swoop?
Macbeth act 4, sc. 3, l. 216 (1606)
- 384 Out, damned spot! out, I say!
Macbeth act 5, sc. 1, l. 36 (1606)
- 385 Who would have thought the old man to have had so much blood in him?
Macbeth act 5, sc. 1, l. 40 (1606)

- 386 The Thane of Fife had a wife: where is she now?
Macbeth act 5, sc. 1, l. 43 (1606)
- 387 All the perfumes of Arabia will not sweeten
this little hand.
Macbeth act 5, sc. 1, l. 51 (1606)
- 388 The devil damn thee black, thou cream-fac'd loon!
Where gott'st thou that goose look?
Macbeth act 5, sc. 3, l. 11 (1606)
- 389 I have liv'd long enough: my way of life
Is fall'n into the sere, the yellow leaf.
Macbeth act 5, sc. 3, l. 22 (1606)
- 390 Canst thou not minister to a mind diseas'd.
Macbeth act 5, sc. 3, l. 40 (1606)
- 391 Throw physic to the dogs: I'll none of it.
Macbeth act 5, sc. 3, l. 46 (1606)
- 392 I have supp'd full with horrors.
Macbeth act 5, sc. 5, l. 13 (1606)
- 393 She should have died hereafter:
There would have been a time for such a word.—
To-morrow, and to-morrow, and to-morrow,
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day,
To the last syllable of recorded time;
And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
The way to dusty death. Out, out, brief candle!
Macbeth act 5, sc. 5, l. 17 (1606)
- 394 Life's but a walking shadow; a poor player,
That struts and frets his hour upon the stage,
And then is heard no more: it is a tale
Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury,
Signifying nothing.
Macbeth act 5, sc. 5, l. 24 (1606)
- 395 I bear a charmed life; which must not yield
To one of woman born.
Macbeth act 5, sc. 8, l. 12 (1606)
- 396 Macduff was from his mother's womb
Untimely ripp'd.
Macbeth act 5, sc. 8, l. 15 (1606)
- 397 Lay on, Macduff;
And damn'd be him that first cries, "Hold,
enough!"
Macbeth act 5, sc. 8, l. 33 (1606). Frequently misquoted as "Lead on, Macduff."

Antony and Cleopatra

- 398 Let Rome in Tiber melt, and the wide arch
Of the ranged empire fall!
Antony and Cleopatra act 1, sc. 1, l. 34 (1606–1607)
- 399 My salad days,
When I was green in judgement.
Antony and Cleopatra act 1, sc. 5, l. 77 (1606–1607)
- 400 The barge she sat in, like a burnished throne,
Burned on the water.
Antony and Cleopatra act 2, sc. 2, l. 201 (1606–1607)
See T. S. Eliot 45
- 401 For her own person,
It beggared all description.
Antony and Cleopatra act 2, sc. 2, l. 207 (1606– 1607)
- 402 Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale
Her infinite variety. Other women cloy
The appetites they feed, but she makes hungry
Where most she satisfies.
Antony and Cleopatra act 2, sc. 2, l. 245 (1606–1607)
- 403 I am dying, Egypt, dying.
Antony and Cleopatra act 4, sc. 15, l. 19 (1606–1607)
- 404 I shall see
Some squeaking Cleopatra boy my greatness
I'th' posture of a whore.
Antony and Cleopatra act 5, sc. 2, l. 217 (1606–1607)
- 405 Give me my robe. Put on my crown. I have Immortal longings in me.
Antony and Cleopatra act 5, sc. 2, l. 278 (1606–1607)

Timon of Athens

- 406 Men shut their doors against a setting sun.
Timon of Athens act 1, sc. 2, l. 146 (ca. 1607)
- 407 We have seen better days.
Timon of Athens act 4, sc. 2, l. 27 (ca. 1607)

Pericles

- 408 [First Fisherman.] Master, I marvel how the fishes live in the sea.
[Third Fisherman.] Why, as men do a-land: the great ones eat up the little ones.
Pericles act 2, sc. 1, l. 26 (1606–1608)

Sonnets

- 409 To the only begetter of these ensuing sonnets
Mr. W. H.
Sonnets dedication (1609). This dedication may have been written by the publisher, Thomas Thorpe.
- 410 From fairest creatures we desire increase,
That thereby beauty's rose might never die.
Sonnets 1, l. 1 (1609)
- 411 Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?
Thou art more lovely and more temperate:
Rough winds do shake the darling buds of
May,
And summer's lease hath all too short a date.
Sonnets 18, l. 1 (1609)
- 412 But thy eternal summer shall not fade.
Sonnets 18, l. 9 (1609)
- 413 When in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes
I all alone beweepe my outcast state,
And trouble deaf heav'n with my bootless
cries.
Sonnets 29, l. 1 (1609)
- 414 Desiring this man's art and that man's scope,
With what I most enjoy contented least.
Sonnets 29, l. 7 (1609)
- 415 Haply I think on thee, and then my state,
Like to the lark at break of day arising,
From sullen earth sings hymns at heaven's gate.
Sonnets 29, l. 10 (1609)
- 416 For thy sweet love remembered such wealth brings
That then I scorn to change my state with kings.
Sonnets 29, l. 13 (1609)
- 417 When to the sessions of sweet silent thought
I summon up remembrance of things past.
Sonnets 30, l. 1 (1609)
See Proust 1
- 418 Full many a glorious morning have I seen.
Sonnets 33, l. 1 (1609)
- 419 Not marble, nor the gilded monuments
Of princes, shall outlive this powerful rhyme.
Sonnets 55, l. 1 (1609)
- 420 Like as the waves make towards the pebbled shore,
So do our minutes hasten to their end.
Sonnets 60, l. 1 (1609)
- 421 That time of year thou mayst in me behold,
When yellow leaves, or none, or few do hang Upon those boughs which shake against the cold,
Bare ruined choirs where late the sweet birds sang.
Sonnets 73, l. 1 (1609)
- 422 Farewell, thou art too dear for my possessing.
Sonnets 87, l. 1 (1609)
- 423 In sleep a king, but waking no such matter.
Sonnets 87, l. 14 (1609)
- 424 They that have power to hurt, and will do none,
That do not do the thing they most do show,
Who, moving others, are themselves as stone,
Unmoved, cold, and to temptation slow;
They rightly do inherit heaven's graces,
And husband nature's riches from expense.
Sonnets 94, l. 1 (1609)
- 425 Lilies that fester smell far worse than weeds.
Sonnets 94, l. 14 (1609). Pliny the Elder wrote in Natural History bk. 16, ch. 15: "As in the nature of things, those which most admirably flourish, most swiftly fester or putrefy, as roses, lilies, violets, while others last: so in the lives of men, those that are most blooming, are soonest turned into the opposite."
- 426 When in the chronicle of wasted time
I see descriptions of the fairest wights.
Sonnets 106, l. 1 (1609)
- 427 Alas, 'tis true, I have gone here and there,
And made myself a motley to the view.
Sonnets 110, l. 1 (1609)
- 428 My nature is subdued
To what it works in, like the dyer's hand.
Sonnets 111, l. 6 (1609)
- 429 Let me not to the marriage of true minds
Admit impediments; love is not love
Which alters when it alteration finds.
Sonnets 116, l. 1 (1609)
- 430 Love alters not with his brief hours and weeks,
But bears it out even to the edge of doom.

If this be error, and upon me proved,
I never writ, nor no man ever loved.
Sonnets 116, l. 11 (1609)

- 431 Th'expense of spirit in a waste of shame
Is lust in action.
Sonnets 129, l. 1 (1609)
- 432 My mistress' eyes are nothing like the sun;
Coral is far more red than her lips' red;
If snow be white, why then her breasts are dun;
If hairs be wires, black wires grow on her
head.
Sonnets 130, l. 1 (1609)
- 433 Two loves I have, of comfort and despair,
Which, like two spirits, do suggest me still:
The better angel is a man right fair,
The worse spirit a woman colored ill.
Sonnets 144, l. 1 (1609)
- 434 For I have sworn thee fair, and thought thee bright,
Who art as black as hell, as dark as night.
Sonnets 147, l. 13 (1609)

Cymbeline

- 435 Hark, hark, the lark at heaven's gate sings.
Cymbeline act 2, sc. 3, l. 20 (1609–1610)
- 436 The game is up.
Cymbeline act 3, sc. 3, l. 106 (1609–1610)
- 437 Fear no more the heat o'th' sun,
Nor the furious winter's rages,
Thou thy worldly task has done,
Home art gone and ta'en thy wages.
Golden lads and girls all must,
As chimney-sweepers, come to dust.
Cymbeline act 4, sc. 2, l. 258 (1609–1610)

The Tempest

- 438 My library
Was dukedom large enough.
The Tempest act 1, sc. 2, l. 109 (1611)
- 439 Full fathom five thy father lies,
Of his bones are coral made;
Those are pearls that were his eyes,
Nothing of him that doth fade
But doth suffer a sea-change
Into something rich and strange.
The Tempest act 1, sc. 2, l. 397 (1611)

- 440 What's past is prologue.
The Tempest act 2, sc. 1, l. 254 (1611)
- 441 Misery acquaints a man with strange bedfellows!
The Tempest act 2, sc. 2, l. 39 (1611)
- 442 Our revels now are ended. These our actors,
As I foretold you, were all spirits and
Are melted into air, into thin air;
And—like the baseless fabric of this vision—
The cloud-capped towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve,
And like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind.
The Tempest act 4, sc. 1, l. 148 (1611)
- 443 We are such stuff
As dreams are made on, and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep.
The Tempest act 4, sc. 1, l. 156 (1611)
See Film Lines 112
- 444 But this rough magic
I here abjure.
The Tempest act 5, sc. 1, l. 50 (1611)
- 445 I'll break my staff,
Bury it certain fathoms in the earth,
And deeper than did ever plummet sound
I'll drown my book.
The Tempest act 5, sc. 1, l. 54 (1611)
- 446 Where the bee sucks, there suck I,
In a cowslip's bell I lie;
There I couch when owls do cry.
On the bat's back I do fly
After summer merrily.
Merrily, merrily, shall I live now,
Under the blossom that hangs on the bough.
The Tempest act 5, sc. 1, l. 88 (1611)
- 447 How beauteous mankind is! O brave new world
That has such people in't.
The Tempest act 5, sc. 1, l. 184 (1611)

The Winter's Tale

- 448 [Stage direction:] Exit, pursued by a bear.
The Winter's Tale act 3, sc. 3, l. 58 (1610–1611)

449 When daffodils begin to peer,
With heigh! the doxy over the dale,
Why then comes in the sweet o'the year.
The Winter's Tale act 4, sc. 3, l. 1 (1610–1611)

450 Jog on, jog on, the foot-path way,
And merrily hent the stile-a:
A merry heart goes all the day,
Your sad tires in a mile-a.
The Winter's Tale act 4, sc. 3, l. 121 (1610–1611)

King Henry VIII

451 Orpheus, with his lute, made trees
And the mountain tops that freeze
Bow themselves, when he did sing.
King Henry VIII act 3, sc. 1, l. 3 (1613)

452 Had I but served my God with half the zeal
I served my King, he would not in mine age
Have left me naked to mine enemies.
King Henry VIII act 3, sc. 2, l. 455 (1613)
See Wolsey 1

453 Men's evil manners live in brass, their virtues
We write in water.
King Henry VIII act 4, sc. 2, l. 45 (1613)
See Keats 24

Miscellaneous

454 Item, I give unto my wife my second best bed with the furniture.
Will (1616)

455 Good friend, for Jesu's sake forbear
To dig the dust enclosed here.
Blest be the man that spares these stones,
And curst be he that moves my bones.
Inscription on his grave, Stratford-upon-Avon,
England

Bill Shankly

British soccer manager, 1914–1981

1 Some people think football is a matter of life and death. . . . I can assure them it is much more serious than that.

Quoted in Sunday Times, 4 Oct. 1981. Barry Popik has found that UCLA football coach Henry Russell
"Red" Sanders was quoted as using virtually the same words, in reference to his team's rivalry with the University of Southern California, in 1966, at which time it was already called "an old Red Sanders line."

John Patrick Shanley

U.S. playwright, 1950–

1 In the pursuit of wrongdoing, one steps away from God. Of course there's a price. . . . I have doubts! I have such doubts!

U.S. poet, 1913–2000

1 Our throats were tight as tourniquets.
"Auto Wreck" l. 22 (1942)

2 But this invites the occult mind,
Cancels our physics with a sneer,
And spatters all we knew of denouement
Across the expedient and wicked stones.
"Auto Wreck" l. 35 (1942)

3 Backwardly tolerant, Faustus was expelled
From the Third Reich in Nineteen Thirty-nine.
His exit caused the breaching of the Rhine,
Except for which the frontier might have held.
Five years unknown to enemy and friend
He hid, appearing on the sixth to pose
In an American desert at war's end
Where, at his back, a dome of atoms rose.

Robert Shapiro

U.S. lawyer, 1942–

- 1 [On defense lawyers’ strategy at the trial of O. J. Simpson:] Not only did we play the race card, we played it from the bottom of the deck.
Quoted in Times (London), 5 Oct. 1995. Before Shapiro’s comment, the Lakeland (Fla.) Ledger, 28 Aug. 1995, headlined an article by Joseph Wambaugh, “Johnnie Cochran Plays the Race Card from Bottom of Deck.” Still earlier in a non-O.J. context, historian Lawrence Powell was quoted, “two Republican administrations have been playing this race card from the bottom of the deck” (Chicago Tribune, 17 Nov. 1991).

Bernard Shaw

U.S. journalist, 1940–

- 1 [Question asked by Shaw to presidential candidate Michael Dukakis regarding his wife:] Governor, if Kitty Dukakis were raped and murdered, would you favor an irrevocable death penalty for the killer?
Presidential debate, 13 Oct. 1988

David T. Shaw

U.S. singer, fl. 1843

- 1 O Columbia the gem of the ocean,
The home of the brave and the free,
The shrine of each patriot’s devotion,
A world offers homage to thee.
“Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean” (song) (1843)

George Bernard Shaw

Irish author and socialist, 1856–1950

- 1 The Family is a petty despotism; . . . a school in which men learn to despise women and women to mistrust men (much more than is necessary); a slaughterhouse for children (the firstborn succumbing to unskilled treatment, the lastborn to neglect). . . . Unfortunately, we cannot as yet do without it; and therefore we put a good face on the matter by conferring upon it the conventional attribute of sacredness, and impudently proclaiming it the source of all the virtues it has well-nigh killed in us.

“Socialism and the Family” (1886)

- 2 The man of business . . . goes on Sunday to the church with the regularity of the village blacksmith, there to renounce and abjure before his God the line of conduct which he intends to pursue with all his might during the following week.
Fabian Essays in Socialism pt. 1 “Economic” (1889)
- 3 We do not seek for truth in the abstract. . . .
Every man sees what he looks for, and hears what he listens for, and nothing else.
Letter to E. C. Chapman, 29 July 1891
- 4 The fickleness of the women I love is only equaled by the infernal constancy of the women who love me.
The Philanderer act 2 (1893)
- 5 Patriotism is, fundamentally, a conviction that a particular country is the best in the world because you were born in it.
The World, 15 Nov. 1893
- 6 I dread success. To have succeeded is to have finished one’s business on earth, like the male spider, who is killed by the female the moment he has succeeded in his courtship. I like a state of continual becoming, with a goal in front and not behind.
Letter to Ellen Terry, 28 Aug. 1896

- 7 With the single exception of Homer, there is no eminent writer, not even Sir Walter Scott, whom I can despise so entirely as I despise Shakespeare when I measure my mind against his.
Saturday Review, 26 Sept. 1896
- 8 I . . . once read the Old Testament and the four Gospels straight through, from a vainglorious desire to do what nobody else had done.
Saturday Review, 6 Feb. 1897
- 9 Oh, you are a very poor soldier—a chocolate cream soldier!
Arms and the Man act 1 (1898)
- 10 There is nothing so bad or so good that you will not find Englishmen doing it; but you will never find an Englishman in the wrong. He does everything on principle. He fights you on patriotic principles; he robs you on business principles; he enslaves you on imperial principles.
The Man of Destiny (1898)
- 11 Man and Superman.
Title of play (1903)
See Nietzsche 13; Radio Catchphrases 21; Radio Catchphrases 22; Siegel 1; Television Catchphrases 6
- 12 This is the true joy in life, the being used for a purpose recognized by yourself as a mighty one; the being thoroughly worn out before you are thrown on the scrap heap; the being a force of nature instead of a feverish selfish little clod of ailments and grievances complaining that the world will not devote itself to making you happy.
Man and Superman epistle dedicatory (1903)
- 13 A lifetime of happiness! No man alive could bear it: it would be hell on earth.
Man and Superman act 1 (1903)
- 14 Hell is full of musical amateurs: music is the brandy of the damned.
Man and Superman act 3 (1903)
- 15 An Englishman thinks he is moral when he is only uncomfortable.
Man and Superman act 3 (1903)
- 16 There are two tragedies in life. One is not to get your heart's desire. The other is to get it.
Man and Superman act 4 (1903)
See Goethe 15; T. H. Huxley 4; Modern Proverbs 14; Teresa of Ávila 2; Wilde 56; Wilde 74
- 17 He who can, does. He who cannot, teaches.
Man and Superman "Maxims for Revolutionists" (1903). A further extension appears in Jacob M. Braude, Speaker's Encyclopedia of Stories, Quotations, and Anecdotes (1955): "Those who can, do; those who can't teach; and those who can't do anything at all, teach the teachers."
- 18 The golden rule is that there are no golden rules.
Man and Superman "Maxims for Revolutionists" (1903)
- 19 Democracy substitutes election by the incompetent many for appointment by the corrupt few.
Man and Superman "Maxims for Revolutionists" (1903)
- 20 Marriage is popular because it combines the maximum of temptation with the maximum of opportunity.
Man and Superman "Maxims for Revolutionists" (1903)
- 21 If you strike a child take care that you strike it in anger, even at the risk of maiming it for life. A blow in cold blood neither can nor should be forgiven.
Man and Superman "Maxims for Revolutionists" (1903)
- 22 The reasonable man adapts himself to the world: the unreasonable one persists in trying to adapt the world to himself. Therefore all progress depends on the unreasonable man.
Man and Superman "Maxims for Revolutionists" (1903)
See Hawthorne 18
- 23 Every man over forty is a scoundrel.
Man and Superman "Maxims for Revolutionists" (1903)
- 24 On Christmas Day it is proclaimed that Christianity established peace on earth and good will towards men. Next day the Christian, with refreshed soul, goes back to the manufacture of submarines and torpedoes.
"The Solidarity of Social-Democracy" (1906)
- 25 It's usually pointed out that women are not fit for political power, and ought not to be trusted with a vote because they are politically ignorant, socially prejudiced, narrow-minded, and selfish. True enough, but precisely the same is true of men!
Tribune (London), 12 Mar. 1906

- 26 The greatest of our evils and the worst of crimes is poverty.
Major Barbara preface (1907)
- 27 I am a Millionaire. That is my religion.
Major Barbara act 2 (1907)
- 28 All professions are conspiracies against the laity.
The Doctor's Dilemma act I (1911)
- 29 When two people are under the influence of the most violent, most insane, most delusive, and most transient of passions, they are required to swear that they will remain in that excited, abnormal, and exhausting condition continuously until death do them part.
Getting Married preface (1911)
- 30 The early Christian rules of life were not made to last, because the early Christians did not believe that the world itself was going to last.
Getting Married (1911)
- 31 Assassination is the extreme form of censorship.
The Shewing-up of Blanco Posnet preface (1911)
- 32 If you demand my authorities for this and that, I must reply that only those who have never hunted up the authorities as I have believe that there is any authority who is not contradicted flatly by some other authority.
Androcles and the Lion preface (1913)
- 33 I have not wasted my life trifling with literary fools in taverns as [Samuel] Johnson did when he should have been shaking England with the thunder of his spirit.
Misalliance preface (1914)
- 34 A perpetual holiday is a good working definition of hell.
Misalliance preface (1914)
- 35 Anybody on for a game of tennis?
Misalliance (1914). "Tennis, anyone?" was later a catchphrase associated with drawing room comedies. Humphrey Bogart is often said to have originated that phrase, but no example of its use has ever been found in the plays in which he appeared. The earliest example found to date for "Tennis, anyone?" is in the Oakland Tribune, 14 Mar. 1935.
- 36 I've got a soul: don't tell me I haven't. Cut me up and you can't find it. Cut up a steam engine and you can't find the steam. But, by George, it makes the engine go.
Misalliance (1914)
- 37 [Referring to World War I:] When all the world goes mad, one must accept madness as sanity, since sanity is, in the last analysis, nothing but the madness on which the whole world happens to agree.
Letter to Maxim Gorky, 28 Dec. 1915
- 38 It is impossible for an Englishman to open his mouth without making some other Englishman despise him.
Pygmalion preface (1916)
- 39 Women upset everything. When you let them into your life, you find that the woman is driving at one thing and you're driving at another.
Pygmalion act 2 (1916)
- 40 Gin was mother's milk to her.
Pygmalion act 3 (1916)
- 41 Walk! Not bloody likely.
Pygmalion act 3 (1916). This line created a sensation because of the taboo status at the time of the word bloody.
- 42 We all profess the deepest regard for liberty; but no sooner does anyone claim to exercise it than we declare with horror that we are in favor of liberty but not of licence, and demand indignantly whether true freedom can ever mean freedom to do wrong, to preach sedition and immorality, to utter blasphemy. Yet this is exactly what liberty does mean.
W. E. A. Education Year Book preface to pt. 1 (1918)
- 43 All great truths begin as blasphemies.
Annajanska (1919)
- 44 I am the sort of man who devotes his life to the salvation of humanity in the abstract, and can't bear to give a penny to a starving widow.
Letter to Sister Ethna, 1 Oct. 1920
- 45 You see things; and you say "Why?" But I dream things that never were; and I say "Why not?"
Back to Methuselah pt. 1, act I (1921). This was a favorite quotation of Robert F. Kennedy's, and Edward M. Kennedy used it in his eulogy of Robert Kennedy.

- 46 I have defined the 100 per cent American as 99 per cent an idiot.
N.Y. Times, 19 Dec. 1930
- 47 Democracy, then, cannot be government by the people: it can only be government by consent of the governed. Unfortunately, when democratic statesmen propose to govern us by our own consent, they find that we don't want to be governed at all, and that we regard rates and taxes and rents and death duties as intolerable burdens. What we want to know is how little government we can get along with without being murdered in our beds.
The Apple Cart preface (1930)
- 48 If you don't begin to be a revolutionist at the age of twenty, then at fifty you will be a most impossible old fossil. If you are a red revolutionary at the age of twenty, you have some chance of being up-to-date when you are forty!
"Universities and Education" (speech at University of Hong Kong), 12 Feb. 1933
See John Adams 19; Bathie 1; Clemenceau 5
- 49 The rain in Spain stays mainly in the plains.
Pygmalion (motion picture) (1938). Nigel Rees notes in Cassell's Movie Quotations: "(Note that is plains.) An elocution exercise said to have been invented by the director, Anthony Asquith, and approved by Shaw (though this [does] not appear in Shaw's published scenes for the film script)."
- 50 In Hampshire, Hereford, and Hertford, Hurricanes hardly ever happen.
Pygmalion (motion picture) (1938). See note for quotation above.
- 51 [Henry Higgins, played by Leslie Howard, speaking:] Where the devil are my slippers, Eliza?
Pygmalion (motion picture) (1938). According to Nigel Rees, Cassell's Movie Quotations, these were "Last words of film, not in Shaw's original text nor in his screenplay. He disapproved of anything that even hinted at a romantic interest between Higgins and Eliza."
- 52 We speak of war gods, but not of mathematician gods, poet or painter gods, or inventor gods. Nobody has ever called me a god; I am at best a sage. We worship all the conquerors, but have only one Prince of Peace, who was horribly put to death, and if he lived in these islands, would have some difficulty in getting exempted from military service as a conscientious objector.
Everybody's Political What's What? ch. 16 (1944)
- 53 A government which robs Peter to pay Paul can always depend on the support of Paul.
Everybody's Political What's What? ch. 30 (1944)
- 54 [Referring to film producer Samuel Goldwyn:] Well, Mr. Goldwyn, there is not much use in going on. There is this difference between you and me: You are only interested in art and I am only interested in money.
Quoted in Baltimore American, 1 May 1921
- 55 [When Isadora Duncan regretted that they could not have a child together, saying, "Think what a child it would be, with my body and your brain":] I know, but suppose the child was so unlucky as to have my body and your brain?
Quoted in Lewis and Faye Copeland, 10,000 Jokes, Toasts, & Stories (1939). Garson O'Toole has discovered a similar anecdote from 1925, with Duncan allegedly writing to Shaw and Shaw allegedly replying: "It might happen that our child would have my body and your brain" (Minutes of the Seventeenth Session of the Interfraternity Conference). A still earlier discovery by O'Toole shows that the Boston Globe, 7 Dec. 1923, recounted an analogous putative exchange between Duncan and Anatole France.
- 56 [Of Archibald Primrose, Fifth Earl of Rosebery:] [A] man who never missed a chance of missing an opportunity.
Quoted in Robert Rhodes, Rosebery (1963)
See Eban 3
- 57 Youth . . . is wasted on the young.
Attributed in Frank H. Lee, Tokyo Calendar (1934). In the Rockford (Ill.) Register-Republic, 14 Feb. 1931, Shaw was quoted as saying about youth, "What a pity that it has to be wasted on children!"

U.S. clergyman, 1857–1946

- 1 What would Jesus do?
In His Steps ch. 1 (1896). This slogan was popularized by Sheldon, but the words can be found earlier, for example in Charles Bullock, Home Words for Heart and Hearth (1880).

Mary Wollstonecraft Shelley

English novelist, 1797–1851

- 1 Frankenstein.
Title of book (1818)
- 2 It was the secrets of heaven and earth that I desired to learn.
Frankenstein ch. 2 (1818)
- 3 I beheld the wretch—the miserable monster whom I had created.
Frankenstein ch. 5 (1818)
- 4 All men hate the wretched; how, then, must I be hated, who am miserable beyond all living things! Yet you, my creator, detest and spurn me, thy creature, to whom thou art bound by ties only dissoluble by the annihilation of one of us.
Frankenstein ch. 10 (1818)
- 5 Everywhere I see bliss, from which I alone am irrevocably excluded.
Frankenstein ch. 10 (1818)
- 6 Nothing contributes so much to tranquilize the mind as a steady purpose—a point on which the soul may fix its intellectual eye.
Frankenstein Letter 1 (1818)
- 7 You seek for knowledge and wisdom as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been.
Frankenstein Letter 4 (1818)
- 8 [Replying to someone who advised her to send her son to a school “where they will teach him to think for himself!”:] Teach him to think for himself? Oh, my God, teach him rather to think like other people!
Quoted in Matthew Arnold, Essays in Criticism, Second Series (1888)

"Ode to the West Wind" l. 53 (1819)
- 4 If Winter comes, can Spring be far behind?
"Ode to the West Wind" l. 70 (1819)
- 5 I met a traveller from an antique land
Who said: Two vast and trunkless legs of stone
Stand in the desert.
"Ozymandias" l. 1 (1819)
- 6 Near them, on the sand,
Half sunk, a shattered visage lies, whose frown,
And wrinkled lip, and sneer of cold command,
Tell that its sculptor well those passions read.
"Ozymandias" l. 3 (1819)
- 7 And on the pedestal these words appear:
"My name is Ozymandias, king of kings:
Look on my works, ye Mighty, and despair!"
Nothing beside remains. Round the decay
Of that colossal wreck, boundless and bare
The lone and level sands stretch far away.
"Ozymandias" l. 9 (1819)
- 8 An old, mad, blind, despised, and dying king.
"Sonnet: England in 1819" l. 1 (written 1819)
- 9 Hail to thee, blithe Spirit!
Bird thou never wert.
"To a Skylark" l. 1 (1819)
- 10 And singing still dost soar, and soaring ever singing.
"To a Skylark" l. 10 (1819)
- 11 Our sincerest laughter
With some pain is fraught;
Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest
thought.
"To a Skylark" l. 88 (1819)
- 12 The dust of creeds outworn.
Prometheus Unbound act 1, l. 697 (1820)
- 13 I weep for Adonais—he is dead!
Oh, weep for Adonais! though our tears
Thaw not the frost which binds so dear a head!
Adonais l. 1 (1821)
- 14 The One remains, the many change and pass;
Heaven's light forever shines, Earth's shadows fly;
Life, like a dome of many-colored glass,
Stains the white radiance of Eternity.
Adonais l. 460 (1821)

- 15 Poets are the hierophants of an unapprehended inspiration; the mirrors of the gigantic shadow which futurity casts upon the present; the words which express what they understand not;
the trumpets which sing to battle, and feel not what they inspire; the influence which is moved not, but moves. Poets are the unacknowledged legislators of the world.

"To Night" l. 1 (1824)
- 18 The desire of the moth for the star,
Of the night for the morrow,
The devotion to something afar
From the sphere of our sorrow.
"To—: One word is too often profaned" l. 13 (1824)

Quoted in Independent, 19 Apr. 1866

Richard Brinsley Sheridan

Irish playwright and orator, 1751–1816

- 1 You write with ease, to show your breeding,
But easy writing's vile hard reading.
"Clio's Protest" (written 1771)
- 2 He is the very pineapple of politeness!
The Rivals act 3, sc. 3 (1775)
- 3 If I reprehend any thing in this world, it is the use of my oracular tongue, and a nice derangement of epitaphs!
The Rivals act 3, sc. 3 (1775)
- 4 She's as headstrong as an allegory on the banks of the Nile.
The Rivals act 3, sc. 3 (1775)
- 5 Here's to the maiden of bashful fifteen
Here's to the widow of fifty
Here's to the flaunting, extravagant quean;
And here's to the housewife that's thrifty.
The School for Scandal act 3, sc. 3 (1777)
- 6 An unforgiving eye, and a damned
disinheriting countenance!
The School for Scandal act 4, sc. 1 (1777)

John Sherman

U.S. politician, 1823–1900

- 1 I [have] come home to look after my fences.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 27 Mar. 1887. Sherman's remark is said to have inspired the political phrase "fence-mending." He explained to the Times: "While I was Secretary of the Treasury I came home to Mansfield [Ohio] for a few days at one time. As soon as I got there there was an influx of newspaper correspondents from all parts. . . . One of them came to me and boldly asked me what I was doing in Ohio. It just happened that on that day I had contracted with a man to repair some fences on my place that were in a tumble-down condition. So when that newspaper man asked me what I was doing in Ohio I told him that I had come home to look after my fences."

Robert B. Sherman

U.S. songwriter, 1925–2012

- 1 Supercalifragilisticexpialidocious!
Title of song (1964). "The word" was popularized by this song in the movie Mary Poppins. However, usage of very similar words has been documented as far back as 1931.

Sidney Sherman

U.S. general, 1805–1873

- 1 Remember the Alamo!
Battle cry, San Jacinto, 21 Apr. 1836. These words, chanted by advancing troops in the battle of San Jacinto, are traditionally attributed to their commander, Sherman. Sam Houston's letter to David G. Burnet, 25 Apr. 1836, stated: "Col. Sherman with his regiment having commenced the action upon our left wing, the whole line at the centre and on the right, advancing in double quick time, rung the war cry 'Remember the Alamo.'"

William Tecumseh Sherman

U.S. military leader, 1820–1891

- 1 You cannot qualify war in harsher terms than I will. War is cruelty, and you cannot refine it; and those who brought war into our country deserve all the curses and maledictions a people can pour out.
Letter to Mayor Calhoun of Atlanta, Ga., and others, 12 Sept. 1864
See Napoleon 11; William Tecumseh Sherman 4
- 2 Hold on to Allatoona, to the last. I will help you.
Flag signal at Battle of Allatoona, Ga., to General John Murray Corse, 5 Oct. 1864. Usually quoted as "Hold the fort! I am coming!"
See Bliss 1
- 3 I hereby state, and mean all that I say, that I never have been and never will be a candidate for President; that if nominated by either party I should peremptorily decline, and even if unanimously elected I should decline to serve.
Letter to N.Y. Herald, 25 May 1871
See William Tecumseh Sherman 5
- 4 There is many a boy here to-day who looks on war as all glory, but, boys, it is all hell.
Speech to reunion of veterans, Columbus, Ohio, 11 Aug. 1880. Sherman's words are famous in the paraphrase "War is hell," but, as shown in the above record of the speech as given in the Ohio State Journal, 12 Aug. 1880, Sherman did not utter this precise saying there. Bartlett's Familiar Quotations prints “war is hell” with the source “Attributed to a graduation address at Michigan Military Academy [June 19, 1879].” However, research by Buzz Brown, president of the Greater West Bloomfield [Ohio] Historical Society, shows that this attribution rests solely on the recollections of Charles Oliver Brown decades later. The real coiner of “war is hell” may be Napoleon Bonaparte.

See Napoleon 11; William Tecumseh Sherman 1

- 5 I will not accept if nominated, and will not serve if elected.

Telegram to General Henderson (1884). Sherman’s telegram, sent to the Republican National Convention while he was being urged to run for president, was quoted by his son in an addendum to the elder Sherman’s Memoirs (4th ed., 1891). The words are frequently quoted as “If nominated, I will not run. If elected, I will not serve.”

See William Tecumseh Sherman 3

- 6 General Grant is a great general. I know him well. He stood by me when I was crazy, and I stood by him when he was drunk; and now, sir, we stand by each other always.

Quoted in L. P. Brockett, Our Great Captains (1865)

Robert E. Sherwood

U.S. playwright, 1896–1955

- 1 Thou blind man's mark, thou fool's self-chosen snare,
Fond fancy's scum, and dregs of scatt'red thought,
Band of all evils, cradle of causeless care,
Thou web of will, whose end is never wrought;
Desire, desire! I have too dearly bought,
With price of mangled mind, thy worthless ware;
Too long, too long, asleep thou hast me brought,
Who should my mind to higher things prepare.
Certain Sonnets no. 31, l. 1 (written 1577–1581)
- 2 Leave me, O Love which reachest but to dust,
And thou, my mind, aspire to higher things;

Paul Simon

U.S. singer and songwriter, 1941–

- 1 Hello darkness my old friend
I've come to talk with you again.
"The Sounds of Silence" (song) (1964)
- 2 And the sign said, "The words of the prophets
Are written on subway walls
And tenement halls."
And whisper'd in the sounds of silence.
"The Sounds of Silence" (song) (1964)
- 3 Time, time, time, see what's become of me
While I looked around for my possibilities.
I was so hard to please,
Look around
Leaves are brown
And the sky is a hazy shade of winter.
"A Hazy Shade of Winter" (song) (1966)
- 4 Counting the cars
On the New Jersey Turnpike.
They've all come
To look for America.
"America" (song) (1968)
- 5 In the clearing stands a boxer,
And a fighter by his trade
And he carries the reminders
Of ev'ry glove that laid him down
Or cut him till he cried out
In his anger and his shame,
"I am leaving, I am leaving."
But the fighter still remains.
"The Boxer" (song) (1968)

- 6 Going to the candidates debate
Laugh about it, shout about it
When you've got to choose
Ev'ry way you look at it, you lose.
"Mrs. Robinson" (song) (1968)
- 7 Where have you gone, Joe DiMaggio?
A nation turns its lonely eyes to you
What's that you say, Mrs. Robinson
Joltin' Joe has left and gone away.
"Mrs. Robinson" (song) (1968)
- 8 Like a bridge over troubled water
I will lay me down.
"Bridge over Troubled Water" (song) (1969).
According to the New Penguin Dictionary of Modern Quotations, "the words are said to have been inspired by 'Mary Don't You Weep,' a song by the gospel group the Swan Silvertones, which included the line 'I'll be a bridge over deep water if you trust in my name.'"
- 9 We come on the ship they call the Mayflower
We come on the ship that sailed the moon
We come in the age's most uncertain hours
And sing an American tune.
"American Tune" (song) (1973)
- 10 There must be fifty ways to leave your lover . . .
You just slip out the back, Jack
Make a new plan, Stan
You don't need to be coy, Roy.
"50 Ways to Leave Your Lover" (song) (1975)
- 11 Slip slidin' away, slip slidin' away
You know the nearer your destination, the more you're slip slidin' away.

"Feed your head."
"White Rabbit" (song) (1967)

Edwin E. Slosson

U.S. author and chemist, 1865–1929

- 1 Learning is that mysterious process by means of which the contents of the note-book of the professor are transferred through the instrument of the fountain pen to the note-book of the student without passing through the mind of either.
Quoted in Harry L. Miller, Creative Learning and Teaching (1927)

Elizabeth Smart

Canadian poet and novelist, 1913–1986

- 1 By Grand Central Station I Sat Down and Wept.
Title of book (1945)
See Bible 122

George Smathers

U.S. politician, 1913–2007

- 1 [Of his opponent in a Florida election primary:]
Are you aware that Claude Pepper is known all over Washington as a shameless extrovert? Not only that, but this man is reliably reported to practice nepotism with his sister-in-law, and he has a sister who was once a thespian in wicked New York. Worst of all, it is an established fact that Mr. Pepper before his marriage habitually practiced celibacy.

Attributed in Time, 17 Apr. 1950. These comments were undoubtedly fabricated by journalists and not actually uttered by Smathers.

Adam Smith

Scottish economist and philosopher, 1723–1790

- 1 The rich . . . divide with the poor the produce of all their improvements. They are led by an invisible hand to make nearly the same distribution of the necessaries of life, which would have been made, had the earth been divided into equal proportions among all its inhabitants.
Theory of Moral Sentiments pt. 4, sec. 1 (1759).
This usage of invisible hand is earlier than Smith's employment of it in Wealth of Nations (1776), which is the one cited by standard reference works.
See Adam Smith 6
- 2 It is not from the benevolence of the butcher, the brewer, or the baker, that we expect our dinner, but from their regard to their own interest. We address ourselves not to their humanity but their self-love.
An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations vol. 1, bk. 1, ch. 2 (1776)
- 3 People of the same trade seldom meet together, even for merriment and diversion, but the conversation ends in a conspiracy against the public, or in some contrivance to raise prices.
An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations vol. 1, bk. 1, ch. 10 (1776)
- 4 With the greater part of rich people, the chief enjoyment of riches consists in the parade of riches, which in their eyes is never so complete as when they appear to possess those decisive marks of opulence which nobody can possess but themselves.
An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations vol. 1, bk. 1, ch. 11 (1776)
- 5 It is the highest impertinence and presumption, therefore, in kings and ministers, to pretend to watch over the economy of private people, and to restrain their expence either by sumptuary laws, or by prohibiting the importation of foreign luxuries. They are themselves always, and without any exception, the greatest spendthrifts in the society. Let them look well after their own expence, and they may safely trust private people with theirs. If their own extravagance does not ruin the state, that of their subjects never will.

An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations vol. 1, bk. 2, ch. 3 (1776)

- 6 Every individual necessarily labors to render the annual revenue of the society as great as he can. He generally, indeed, neither intends to promote the public interest, nor knows how much he is promoting it. . . . He intends only his own gain, and he is in this, as in many other cases, led by an invisible hand to promote an end which was no part of his intention.

An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations vol. 2, bk. 4, ch. 2 (1776)

See Adam Smith 1

- 7 To found a great empire for the sole purpose of raising up a people of customers, may at first sight appear a project fit only for a nation of shopkeepers. It is, however, a project altogether unfit for a nation of shopkeepers; but extremely fit for a nation that is governed by shopkeepers.

An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations vol. 2, bk. 4, ch. 7 (1776). Other quotation compilations have this ending with “whose government is influenced by shopkeepers,” but the first edition reads as above.

Alfred E. Smith

U.S. politician, 1873–1944

- 1 Let’s look at the record.
Speech at convention dinner of New York State League of Women Voters, Albany, N.Y., 2 Dec. 1927
- 2 [On Ogden Mills after Hearst endorsed Mills for governor of New York:] William Randolph Hearst gave him the kiss of death.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 25 Oct. 1926. Earliest known usage of kiss of death, antedating the 1948 citation given by historical dictionaries.
- 3 No sane local official who has hung up an empty stocking over the municipal fireplace, is going to shoot Santa Claus just before a hard Christmas.

Quoted in New Outlook, Dec. 1933

Betty Smith (Elizabeth Wehmer)

U.S. writer, 1904–1972

- 1 There’s a tree that grows in Brooklyn. Some people call it the Tree of Heaven. No matter where its seed falls, it makes a tree which struggles to reach the sky.

A Tree Grows in Brooklyn epigraph (1943)

- 2 “Dear God,” she prayed, “let me be something every minute of every hour of my life.”

A Tree Grows in Brooklyn ch. 48 (1943)

Dodie Smith

English novelist and playwright, 1896–1990

- 1 I write this sitting in the kitchen sink.

I Capture the Castle pt. 1, ch. 1 (1948)

Edgar Smith

English songwriter, 1857–1938

- 1 Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl.

Title of song (1910)

Elliott Dunlap Smith

U.S. author, 1891–1976

- 1 The law is the only profession which records its mistakes carefully, exactly as they occurred, and yet does not identify them as mistakes.

Quoted in Journal of the American Judicature Society, June 1955

Frederick Edwin Smith, First Earl of Birkenhead

British politician and lawyer, 1872–1930

- 1 The world continues to offer glittering prizes to those who have stout hearts and sharp swords.

Rectorial Address, Glasgow University, Glasgow, Scotland, 7 Nov. 1923

- 2 [To a judge who complained that he was none the wiser after listening to Smith’s argument:] Possibly not, My Lord, but far better informed.

Quoted in Earl of Birkenhead, Frederick Edwin, Earl of Birkenhead (1933)

H. Allen Smith

U.S. journalist and author, 1906–1976

- 1 Low Man on a Totem Pole.

Title of book (1941)

Henry John Stephen Smith

English mathematician, 1826–1883

- 1 [Toast:] Pure mathematics; may it never be of any use to anyone.

Quoted in Alexander Macfarlane, Ten British Mathematicians of the Nineteenth Century (1916). “Pure mathematics; may it never be of use to any man!” is cited as the toast of the Mathematical Society of England in Science, 10 Dec. 1886.

Joseph Smith

U.S. founder of Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon Church), 1805–1844

- 1 He called me by name, and said unto me that he was a messenger sent from the presence of God to me, and that . . . God had a work for me to do.

“History of Joseph Smith,” Times and Seasons, 15 Apr. 1842

Logan Pearsall Smith

U.S.-born English essayist, 1865–1946

- 1 An improper mind is a perpetual feast.
Afterthoughts ch. 1 (1931)
- 2 There is one thing that matters—to set a chime of words tinkling in the minds of a few fastidious people.
Quoted in New Statesman, 9 Mar. 1946

Margaret Chase Smith

U.S. politician, 1897–1995

- 1 [Of the tactics of Senator Joseph McCarthy:] I don’t want to see the Republican Party ride to political victory on the four horsemen of calumny—fear, ignorance, bigotry, and smear.
Speech in Senate, 1 June 1950
See Blasco-Ibáñez 1; Grantland Rice 2

Patti Smith

U.S. singer and songwriter, 1946–

- 1 Jesus died for somebody’s sins but not mine.
“Oath” l. 1 (1970)

- 2 Take me now baby here as I am
Pull me close, try and understand
Desire is hunger is the fire I breathe
Love is a banquet on which we feed.
“Because the Night” (song) (1978). Coauthored with Bruce Springsteen.

Samuel Francis Smith

U.S. poet and clergyman, 1808–1895

- 1 My country, ’tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing:
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the pilgrims’ pride,
From every mountain-side
Let freedom ring.
“America” (song) (1831)
See Archibald Carey 1; Martin Luther King 14

Stevie Smith (Florence Margaret Smith)

English poet and novelist, 1902–1971

- 1 If you cannot have your dear husband for a comfort and a delight, for a breadwinner and a crosspatch, for a sofa, chair, or a hot-water bottle, one can use him as a Cross to be Borne.
Novel on Yellow Paper (1936)
- 2 This Englishwoman is so refined
She has no bosom and no behind.
“This Englishwoman” l. 1 (1937)
- 3 A Good Time Was Had by All.
Title of book (1937). Smith took this phrase from parish magazines describing church picnics or other social occasions. Searches of historical electronic texts yield occurrences as far back as 1889: “During the evening the prizes were given the successful players and a good time was had by all” (Wash. Post, 22 Sept.).
See Bette Davis 2
- 4 I was much too far out all my life
And not waving but drowning.
“Not Waving but Drowning” l. 11 (1957)

Sydney Smith

English clergyman and essayist, 1771–1845

- 1 The moment the very name of Ireland is mentioned, the English seem to bid adieu to common feeling, common prudence, and common sense, and to act with the barbarity of tyrants, and the fatuity of idiots.

Letters of Peter Plymley Letter 2 (1807)

- 2 I look upon Switzerland as an inferior sort of Scotland.
Letter to Lord Holland, 1815
- 3 In the four quarters of the globe, who reads an American book, or goes to an American play, or looks at an American picture or statue? . . . Under which of the old tyrannical governments of Europe is every sixth man a slave, whom his fellow-creatures may buy, and sell, and torture?
Edinburgh Review, Jan.–May 1820
- 4 I have no relish for the country; it is a kind of healthy grave.
Letter to G. Harcourt, 1838
- 5 If you choose to represent the various parts in life by holes upon a table, of different shapes—some circular, some triangular, some square, some oblong—and the persons acting these parts by bits of wood of similar shapes, we shall generally find that the triangular person has got into the square hole, the oblong into the triangular, and a square person has squeezed himself into the round hole.
Sketches of Moral Philosophy Lecture 9 (1849).
Frequently paraphrased as “a square peg in a round hole.”
- 6 Minorities . . . are almost always in the right.
Quoted in Hesketh Pearson, The Smith of Smiths (1934)
See Debs 1; Ibsen 16
- 7 No furniture so charming as books.
Quoted in Lady Holland, Memoir (1855)
- 8 Daniel Webster struck me much like a steam-engine in trousers.
Quoted in Lady Holland, Memoir (1855)
- 9 My definition of marriage . . . it resembles a pair of shears, so joined that they cannot be separated; often moving in opposite directions, yet always punishing anyone who comes between them.
Quoted in Lady Holland, Memoir (1855)
- 10 Serenely full, the epicure would say,
Fate cannot harm me, I have dined to-day.
Quoted in Lady Holland, Memoir (1855)

11 What you don't know would make a great book.
Quoted in Lady Holland, Memoir (1855)

12 [Of Thomas Babington Macaulay:] He has occasional flashes of silence, that make his conversation perfectly delightful.
Quoted in Lady Holland, Memoirs (1855)

13 I never read a book before reviewing it; it prejudices a man so.
Quoted in Metropolitan Magazine, Feb. 1848

Walter Wellesley “Red” Smith

U.S. sportswriter, 1905–1982

- 1 [Explaining why writing is easy:] You simply sit down at the typewriter, open your veins and bleed.
Quoted in Philadelphia Inquirer, 6 Apr. 1949

Zadie Smith

English novelist, 1975–

- 1 We are so convinced of the goodness of ourselves, and the goodness of our love, we cannot bear to believe that there might be something more worthy of love than us, more worthy of worship. Greeting cards routinely tell us everybody deserves love. No. Everybody deserves clean water. Not everybody deserves love all the time.
White Teeth ch. 17 (2000)
- 2 But surely to tell these tall tales and others like them would be to spread the myth, the wicked lie, that the past is always tense and the future, perfect.
White Teeth ch. 20 (2000)

James Smithson (James Louis Macie)

French-born English chemist and philanthropist, 1765–1829

- 1 I bequeath the whole of my property . . . to the United States of America to found at Washington under the name of the Smithsonian Institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men.
Bequest (1829)

Tobias Smollett

Scottish novelist, 1721–1771

- 1 He was formed for the ruin of our sex.
The Adventures of Roderick Random ch. 22 (1748)
- 2 That great Cham of literature, Samuel Johnson.
Letter to John Wilkes, 16 Mar. 1759
- 3 I am pent up in frowzy lodgings, where there is not room enough to swing a cat.
Humphry Clinker vol. 1 (1771)

Jan Christiaan Smuts

South African prime minister, 1870–1950

- 1 This community of nations, which I prefer to call the British Commonwealth of nations.
The British Commonwealth of Nations (1917). The Earl of Rosebery said “The British Empire is a commonwealth of nations” in a speech in Adelaide, Australia, 18 Jan. 1884.
- 2 The whole-making, holistic tendency, or Holism, operating in and through particular wholes, is seen at all stages of existence.
Holism and Evolution ch. 5 (1926)

W. D. (William De Witt) Snodgrass

U.S. poet, 1926–2009

- 1 Up the reputable walks of old established trees
They stalk, children of the nouveaux riches;
chimes
Of the tall Clock Tower drench their heads in blessing:
“I don’t wanna play at your house;
I don’t like you any more.”
“The Campus on the Hill” l. 1 (1959)
- 2 Before we drained out one another’s force
With lies, self-denial, unspoken regret
And the sick eyes that blame; before the divorce
And the treachery.
“Mementos, 1” l. 19 (1968)

Snoop Doggy Dogg (Calvin Broadus)

U.S. rap musician and actor, 1971–

- 1 One, two, three and to the fo’
Snoop Doggy Dogg and Dr. Dre is at the do’ . . .
Ain’t nuthin’ but a G thang, baby!
“Nuthin’ But a ‘G’ Thang” (song) (1992). Cowritten with Leon Haywood and Frederick Knight.

- 2 Rollin’ down the street, smokin’ indo’
Sippin’ on gin and juice
Laid back (with my mind on my money and my money on my mind).
“Gin and Juice” (song) (1993)

C. P. Snow

English novelist and physicist, 1905–1980

- 1 The official world, the corridors of power.
Homecomings ch. 22 (1956)
- 2 The separation between the two cultures has been getting deeper under our eyes; there is now precious little communication between them. . . . The traditional culture . . . is, of course, mainly literary . . . the scientific culture is expansive, not restrictive.
New Statesman, 6 Oct. 1956
See Nabokov 9
- 3 Literary intellectuals at one pole—at the other scientists, and as the most representative, the physical scientists. Between the two a gulf of mutual incomprehension—sometimes (particularly among the young) hostility and dislike, but most of all lack of understanding.
The Two Cultures (1959)
See George Sarton 1
- 4 A good many times I have been present at gatherings of people who, by the standards of the traditional culture, are thought highly educated and who have with considerable gusto been expressing their incredulity at the illiteracy of scientists. Once or twice I have been provoked and have asked the company how many of them could describe the Second Law of Thermodynamics. The response was cold: it was also negative. Yet I was asking something which is about the scientific equivalent of: Have you read a work of Shakespeare’s?
The Two Cultures (1959)

Edward Snowden

U.S. activist, 1983–

- 1 I don’t want to live in a world where everything that I say, everything I do, everyone I talk to, every expression of creativity or love or friendship is recorded.
Interview, Guardian, 9 July 2013

Ethel Snowden

English reformer, 1881–1951

- 1 We were behind the “iron curtain” at last!

 See Winston Churchill 33; Goebbels 3; Troubridge 1

Gary Snyder

U.S. poet, 1930–

- 1 I cannot remember things I once read
 A few friends, but they are in cities.
 Drinking cold snow-water from a tin cup
 Looking down for miles
 Through high still air.
 “Mid-August at Sourdough Mountain Lookout” l. 6
 (1959)
- 2 each rock a word
 a creek-washed stone
 Granite: ingrained with torment of fire and weight.
 “Riprap” l. 19 (1959)

Socrates

Greek philosopher, 469 B.C.–399 B.C.

See Plato for other quotations attributed by him to Socrates.

- 1 [On looking at an expensive shop:] How many things I can do without!
 Quoted in Diogenes Laertius, Lives of the Philosophers
- 2 I know nothing except the fact of my ignorance.
 Quoted in Diogenes Laertius, Lives of the Philosophers
 See Milton 45
- 3 The rest of the world lives to eat, while I eat to live.
 Quoted in Diogenes Laertius, Lives of the Philosophers
- 4 [“Last words”:] Crito, we ought to offer a cock to Asclepius. See to it, and don’t forget.
 Quoted in Plato, Phaedo
- 5 The children now love luxury, they have bad manners, contempt for authority, they show disrespect for elders and love chatter in place of exercise. Children are now tyrants, not the slaves of their households. They no longer rise when an elder enters the room, they contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up the dainties at the table, cross their legs and tyrannize over their pedagogues.
 Attributed in Olean (N.Y.) Evening Herald, 16 June 1922. This spurious quotation, trying to make the point that adults have always complained about the behavior of youths, became very popular in the 1960s. Researchers have never found anything like it in the words of Socrates or Plato. Kenneth John Freeman, Schools of Hellas (1907), has a very similar passage, attributed there to Xenophon, that may well have inspired newspaper items such as the one above.

Alan Sokal

U.S. physicist and mathematician, 1955–

- 1 Anyone who believes that the laws of physics are mere social conventions is invited to try transgressing those conventions from the windows of my apartment. I live on the twenty-first floor.
 “Transgressing the Boundaries: Toward a Transformative Hermeneutics of Quantum Gravity” (1996)

Valerie Solanas

U.S. feminist, 1936–1988

- 1 The male is a biological accident: the Y (male) gene is an incomplete X (female) gene, that is, has an incomplete set of chromosomes. In other words, the male is an incomplete female, a walking abortion, aborted at the gene stage. To be male is to be deficient, emotionally limited; maleness is a deficiency disease and males are emotional cripples.
The S.C.U.M. Manifesto (1967)

Ezra Solomon

U.S. economist, 1920–2002

- 1 The only function of economic forecasting is to make astrology look respectable.
 Quoted in Psychology Today, Mar. 1984

Solon

Greek lawgiver, ca. 640 B.C.–ca. 550 B.C.

- 1 I grow old ever learning many things.
 Fragment 22
- 2 Call no man happy before he dies, he is at best but fortunate.
 Quoted in Herodotus, Histories

Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn

Russian writer, 1918–2008

- 1 You only have power over people as long as you don’t take everything away from them. But when you've robbed a man of everything he's no longer in your power—he's free again.

The First Circle ch. 17 (1968)

- 2 A great writer is, so to speak, a second government. That's why no regime anywhere has ever loved its great writers, only its minor ones.
The First Circle ch. 57 (1968)
- 3 The Gulag Archipelago had already begun its malignant life and would shortly metastasize throughout the whole body of the nation.
The Gulag Archipelago, 1918–1956 vol. 1, ch. 2 (1973)
- 4 I have spent all my life under a Communist regime and I will tell you that a society without any objective legal scale is a terrible one indeed. But a society with no other scale but the legal one is not quite worthy of man either.
Commencement address at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., 8 June 1978
- 5 A society based on the letter of the law and never reaching any higher fails to take advantage of the full range of human possibilities. The letter of the law is too cold and formal to have a beneficial influence on society. Whenever the tissue of life is woven of legalistic relationships, this creates an atmosphere of spiritual mediocrity that paralyzes man's noblest impulses.
Commencement address at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., 8 June 1978

William Somerville

English poet, 1675–1742

- 1 The chase, the sport of kings;
Image of war, without its guilt.
The Chase bk. 1, l. 14 (1735)

Anastasio Somoza

Nicaraguan president, 1925–1980

- 1 You won the elections, but I won the count.
Quoted in Guardian, 17 June 1977
See Nast 1; Stoppard 4

Stephen Sondheim

U.S. songwriter, 1930–

- 1 I like to be in America!
O.K. by me in America!

Everything free in America
For a small fee in America!

"America" (song) (1957)

- 2 Tonight, tonight, won't be just any night.
Tonight there will be no morning star.
"Tonight" (song) (1957)
- 3 Everything's Coming Up Roses.
Title of song (1959)
- 4 The Ladies Who Lunch.
Title of song (1970)
- 5 [It's the] concerts you enjoy together
Neighbors you annoy together
Children you destroy together
That make marriage a joy.
"The Little Things You Do Together" (song) (1970)
- 6 Isn't it rich?
Are we a pair?
Me here at last on the ground,
You in mid-air.
Send in the clowns.
"Send in the Clowns" (song) (1973)
- 7 Isn't it rich?
Isn't it queer?
Losing my timing this late
In my career?
"Send in the Clowns" (song) (1973)
- 8 The history of the world, my sweet,
Is who gets eaten and who gets to eat.
"A Little Priest" (song) (1979)

Susan Sontag

U.S. writer, 1933–2004

- 1 Interpretation is the revenge of the intellect upon art.
"Against Interpretation" (1964)
- 2 The truth is that Mozart, Pascal, Boolean algebra, Shakespeare, parliamentary government, baroque churches, Newton, the emancipation of women, Kant, Marx, and Balanchine ballets don't redeem what this particular civilization has wrought upon the world. The white race is the cancer of human history.
"What's Happening in America" (1966)
- 3 What pornography is really about, ultimately, isn't sex but death.
"The Pornographic Imagination" (1967)

- 4 What pornographic literature does is precisely to drive a wedge between one's existence as a full human being and one's existence as a sexual being.
"The Pornographic Imagination" (1967)
- 5 Much of modern art is devoted to lowering the threshold of what is terrible. By getting us used to what, formerly, we could not bear to see or hear, because it was too shocking, painful, or embarrassing, art changes morals.
On Photography "America, Seen Through Photographs, Darkly" (1977)
- 6 Though collecting quotations could be considered as merely an ironic mimetism—victimless collecting, as it were . . . in a world that is well on its way to becoming one vast quarry, the collector becomes someone engaged in a pious work of salvage. The course of modern history having already sapped the traditions and shattered the living wholes in which precious objects once found their place, the collector may now in good conscience go about excavating the choicer, more emblematic fragments.
On Photography "Melancholy Objects" (1977)
- 7 Illness is the night-side of life, a more onerous citizenship. Everyone who is born holds dual citizenship, in the kingdom of the well and in the kingdom of the sick.
Illness as Metaphor preface (1978)
- 8 [Of the terrorist attacks of 11 Sept. 2001:] Where is the acknowledgment that this was not a "cowardly" attack on "civilization" or "liberty" or "humanity" or "the free world" but an attack on the world's self-proclaimed superpower, undertaken as a consequence of specific American alliances and actions?
New Yorker, 24 Sept. 2001

Sophocles

Greek playwright, ca. 496 B.C.–406 B.C.

- 1 Nobody likes the man who brings bad news.
Antigone l. 277. Sophocles's words are the earliest version that has been traced for the modern saying "Don't shoot the messenger."
- 2 There are many wonderful things, and nothing is more wonderful than man.
Antigone l. 333

- 3 Not to be born is, past all prizing, best.
Oedipus Coloneus l. 1225
- 4 Someone asked Sophocles, "How is your sex-life now? Are you still able to have a woman?" He replied, "Hush, man; most gladly indeed am I rid of it all, as though I had escaped from a mad and savage master."
Reported in Plato, Republic

Aaron Sorkin

U.S. screenwriter, 1961–

- 1 You can't handle the truth.
A Few Good Men act 2 (1989)
- 2 We live in a world that has walls. And those walls have to be guarded by men with guns. Who's gonna do it? You? . . . You can't handle it. Because deep down, in places you don't talk about, you want me on that wall. You need me there. We use words like honor, code, loyalty. We use these words as a backbone to a life spent defending something. You use them as a punchline. I have neither the time nor the inclination to explain myself to a man who rises and sleeps under the blanket of the very freedom I provide, then questions the manner in which I provide it.
A Few Good Men act 2 (1989)

George Soros

Hungarian-born U.S. businessman and philanthropist, 1930–

- 1 The Bush doctrine . . . is built on two pillars: First, the United States will do everything in its power to maintain its unquestioned military supremacy and, second, the United States arrogates the right to preemptive action. Taken together, these two pillars support two classes of sovereignty: the sovereignty of the United States, which takes precedence over international treaties and obligations, and the sovereignty of all other states, which is subject to the Bush doctrine.

Sonia Sotomayor

U.S. judge, 1954–

- 1 I would hope that a wise Latina woman with the richness of her experiences would more often than not reach a better conclusion than a white male who hasn't lived that life.

Address at University of California Law School, Berkeley, Calif., 26 Oct. 2001. Sotomayor had made similar statements in other speeches going back to 1994.

Terry Southern

U.S. writer, 1924–1995

- 1 While the hopeless ecstasy of his huge pent-up spasm began, and sweet Candy's melodious voice rang out through the temple in truly mixed feelings: "GOOD GRIEF—IT'S DADDY!"
Candy ch. 15 (1958). Coauthored with Mason Hoffenberg.
- 2 Listen, who do I have to fuck to get off this picture!?!
Blue Movie ch. 1 (1970). Nigel Rees, Cassell's Movie Quotations, presents evidence that versions of this quotation predated 1970.

Robert Southey

English author, 1774–1843

- 1 [Of Mary Wollstonecraft's letters from Scandinavia.] She has made me in love with a cold climate.
Letter to Thomas Southey, 28 Apr. 1797
See Mitford 2
- 2 You are old, Father William, the young man cried,
The few locks which are left you are grey;
You are hale, Father William, a hearty old man,
Now tell me the reason, I pray.
"The Old Man's Comforts and How He Gained Them" l. 1 (1799)
See Carroll 9
- 3 "I am cheerful, young man," Father William replied;
"Let the cause thy attention engage;
In the days of my youth I remembered my God,
And He hath not forgotten my age."
"The Old Man's Comforts and How He Gained Them" l. 21 (1799)

- 4 But what they fought each other for,
I could not well make out.

"The Battle of Blenheim" l. 33 (1800)

- 5 "And everybody praised the Duke,
Who this great fight did win."

"But what good came of it at last?"

Quoth little Peterkin.

"Why that I cannot tell," said he;

"But 'twas a famous victory."

"The Battle of Blenheim" l. 61 (1800)

- 6 Curses are like young chickens, they always come home to roost.

The Curse of Kehama motto (1810). Geoffrey Chaucer wrote something similar in "The Parson's Tale" (ca. 1387): "And ofte tyme swich cursynge wrongfully retorneth agayn to hym that curseth, as a bryd that retorneth agayn to his owene nest."

- 7 What are little boys made of?

Snips and snails and puppy-dog tails,

And such are little boys made of.

"What All the World Is Made Of" (ca. 1820)

- 8 What are young women made of?

Sugar and spice and all things nice,

And such are young women made of.

"What All the World Is Made Of" (ca. 1820)

- 9 "Somebody has been at my porridge!" said the Great, Huge Bear, in his great, rough, gruff voice.

"Story of the Three Bears" (1837)

- 10 "Somebody has been at my porridge, and has eaten it all up!" said the Little, Small, Wee Bear, in his little, small, wee voice.

"Story of the Three Bears" (1837)

- 11 "Somebody has been lying in my bed!" said the Great, Huge Bear, in his great, rough, gruff voice.

"Story of the Three Bears" (1837)

Robert Southwell

English poet and Jesuit martyr, ca. 1561–1595

- 1 As I in hoary winter night stood shivering in the snow,
Surprised was I with sudden heat which made my heart to glow;
And lifting up a fearful eye to view what fire was near

A pretty Babe all burning bright did in the air appear.

"The Burning Babe" l. 1 (ca. 1590)

Thomas Sowell

U.S. economist and author, 1930–

- 1 Envy was once considered to be one of the seven deadly sins before it became one of the most admired virtues under its new name, "social justice."

The Quest for Cosmic Justice ch. 2 (1999)

Wole Soyinka

Nigerian writer, 1934–

- 1 But the skin of progress
Masks, unknown, the spotted wolf of sameness.
The Lion and the Jewel "Night" (1962)

Muriel Spark

Scottish novelist and satirist, 1918–2006

- 1 I am putting old heads on your young shoulders . . . all my pupils are the crème de la crème.
The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie ch. 1 (1961)
- 2 Give me a girl at an impressionable age, and she is mine for life.
The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie ch. 1 (1961)
See Sayings 15
- 3 One's prime is elusive. You little girls, when you grow up, must be on the alert to recognize your prime at whatever time of your life it may occur. You must then live it to the full.
The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie ch. 1 (1961)
- 4 To me education is a leading out of what is already there in the pupil's soul. To Miss Mackay it is a putting in of something that is not there, and that is not what I call education, I call it intrusion.
The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie ch. 2 (1961)

Nicholas Sparks

U.S. novelist, 1965–

- 1 I am nothing special; of this I am sure. I am a common man with common thoughts, and I've led a common life. There are no monuments dedicated to me and my name will soon be forgotten, but I've loved another with all my heart and soul, and to me, this has always been enough.

The Notebook (1996)

Phil Spector (Harvey Philip Spector)

U.S. record producer, 1939–2021

- 1 To Know Him Is to Love Him.
Title of song (1958). Nigel Rees, in the Cassell Companion to Quotations, notes that Spector took this title from his father's gravestone, which read
"To Have Known Him Was To Have Loved Him."
Rees also quotes Samuel Rogers's poem "Jacqueline" (1814) ("To know her was to love her") and a 1928 hymn ("To know Him is to love Him").
- 2 You've lost that lovin' feelin'
Now it's gone gone gone.
"You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin'" (song) (1964).
Cowritten with Barry Mann and Cynthia Weil.

John H. Speke

English explorer, 1827–1864

- 1 The expedition had now performed its functions. I saw that old Father Nile without any doubt rises in the Victoria N'yanza, and, as I had foretold, that lake is the great source of the holy river which cradled the first expounder of our religious belief.
Journal of the Discovery of the Source of the Nile ch. 15 (1863)

Charles Edward Maurice Spencer, Ninth Earl Spencer

English nobleman, 1964–

- 1 It is a point to remember that, of all the ironies about Diana, perhaps the greatest was this:
a girl given the name of the ancient goddess of hunting was, in the end, the most hunted person of the modern age.
Funeral tribute for his sister, Princess Diana, 7 Sept.
1997
- 2 [Of Princess Diana and her sons, Princes William and Harry:] We, your blood family, will do all we can to continue the imaginative way in which you were steering these two exceptional young men so that their souls are not simply immersed by duty and tradition but can sing openly as you planned.
Funeral tribute for his sister, Princess Diana, 7 Sept.
1997

3 [On the death of his sister, Princess Diana, in an automobile crash while being pursued by photographers:] I always believed the press would kill her in the end. But not even I could believe they would take such a direct hand in her death as seems to be the case. . . . Every proprietor and editor of every publication that has paid for intrusive and exploitative photographs of her . . . has blood on their hands today.

Quoted in Daily Telegraph (London), 1 Sept. 1997

Herbert Spencer

English sociologist and philosopher, 1820–1903

1 Progress . . . is not an accident, but a necessity. Instead of civilization being artificial, it is a part of nature.

Social Statics pt. 1, ch. 2 (1850)

2 Every active force produces more than one change—every cause produces more than one effect.

“Progress: Its Law and Cause” (1857)

3 Science is organized knowledge.

Education ch. 2 (1861)

4 Evolution . . . is—a change from an indefinite, incoherent homogeneity, to a definite coherent heterogeneity.

First Principles ch. 16 (1862)

5 This survival of the fittest, which I have here sought to express in mechanical terms, is that which Mr Darwin has called “natural selection, or the preservation of favored races in the struggle for life.”

The Principles of Biology vol. 1, pt. 3, ch. 12 (1864).

This is the coinage of the phrase survival of the fittest. Bartlett’s Familiar Quotations erroneously indicates that Charles Darwin used that phrase in On the Origin of Species (1859); he did not actually use it until 1868.

See Darwin 7; Philander Johnson 1; Herbert Spencer 6

6 The law is the survival of the fittest. . . . The law is not the survival of the “better” or the “stronger,” if we give to those words any thing like their ordinary meanings. It is the survival of those which are constitutionally fittest to thrive under the conditions in which they are placed; and very often that which, humanly speaking, is inferiority, causes the survival.

“Mr. Martineau on Evolution” (1872)

See Darwin 7; Philander Johnson 1; Herbert Spencer 5

Oswald Spengler

German historian and philosopher, 1880–1936

1 The decline of the West, which at first sight may appear, like the corresponding decline of the Classical Culture, a phenomenon limited in time and space, we now perceive to be a philosophical problem that, when comprehended in all its gravity, includes within itself every great question of Being.

The Decline of the West ch. 1 (1918) (translation by Charles Francis Atkinson)

Edmund Spenser

English poet, ca. 1552–1599

1 And he that strives to touch the stars,
Oft stumbles at a straw.

The Shepherd’s Calendar “July” l. 99 (1579)

2 So now they have made our English tongue a gallimaufry or hodgepodge of all other speeches.

The Shepherd’s Calendar “Letter to Gabriel Harvey” (1579)

3 Sleep after toil, port after stormy seas,
Ease after war, death after life does greatly please.

The Faerie Queen bk. 1, canto 9, st. 40 (1596)

4 And with rich metal loaded every rift.

The Faerie Queen bk. 2, canto 7, st. 28 (1596)

5 And all for love, and nothing for reward.

The Faerie Queen bk. 2, canto 8, st. 2 (1596)

6 Dan Chaucer, well of English undefiled.

The Faerie Queen bk. 4, canto 2, st. 32 (1596)
See Samuel Johnson 6

7 Sweet Thames, run softly, till I end my song.

Prothalamion l. 18 (1596)

Sean Spicer

U.S. government official, 1971–

1 [Of Donald Trump’s presidential inauguration:]

This was the largest audience to ever witness an inauguration.

Statement to media, 21 Jan. 2017. Spicer’s claim was erroneous.

Steven Spielberg

U.S. film director, 1946–

- 1 Close Encounters of the Third Kind.
Title of motion picture (1977). The title refers to a categorization of UFO sightings created by UFO researcher J. Allen Hynek. A “close encounter 3” was actual contact with aliens.
- 2 The most expensive habit in the world is celluloid not heroin and I need a fix every two years.
Quoted in Time, 16 Apr. 1979

Baruch Spinoza

Dutch philosopher, 1632–1677

- 1 There is no Hope without Fear, and no Fear without Hope.
Ethics pt. 3 (1677) (translation by Edwin Curley)
- 2 Of Human Bondage.
Ethics title of pt. 4 (1677)
- 3 Deus, sive Natura.
God, or Nature.
Ethics pt. 4 (1677) (translation by Edwin Curley)
- 4 To bring aid to everyone in need far surpasses the powers and advantage of a private person.
. . . So the case of the poor falls upon society as a whole.
Ethics pt. 4, appendix (1677) (translation by Edwin Curley)
- 5 All things excellent are as difficult as they are rare.
Ethics pt. 5 (1677) (translation by Edwin Curley)
- 6 I have taken great care not to deride, bewail, or execrate human actions, but to understand them.
Tractatus Politicus ch. 1 (1677) (translation by Samuel Shirley)

Benjamin Spock

U.S. physician and author, 1903–1998

- 1 Trust yourself. You know more than you think you do.
The Common Sense Book of Baby and Child Care ch. 1 (1946)
- 2 The more people have studied different methods of bringing up children the more they have come to the conclusion that what good mothers and fathers instinctively feel like doing for their babies is the best after all.

The Common Sense Book of Baby and Child Care ch. 1 (1946)

- 3 I was proud of the youths who opposed the war in Vietnam because they were my babies.
Quoted in Times (London), 2 May 1988

William Spooner

English clergyman and academic, 1844–1930

- 1 In a dark, glassly.
Quoted in William Hayter, Spooner: A Biography (1977)
- 2 Poor soul, very sad; her late husband, you know, a very sad death—eaten by missionaries—poor soul!
Quoted in William Hayter, Spooner: A Biography (1977)
- 3 Kinquering congs their titles take.
Attributed in Echo (Oxford, England), 4 May 1892
- 4 [Addressing an undergraduate:] You have tasted your worm, you have hissed my mystery lectures, and you must leave by the first town drain.
Attributed in Oxford University What's What (1948). This is undoubtedly an apocryphal “Spoonerism.”
- 5 [Toast:] To our queer old dean.
Attributed in Oxford University What's What (1948)

Cecil Spring-Rice

British diplomat, 1859–1918

- 1 The love that makes undaunted the final sacrifice.
“I Vow to Thee, My Country” (hymn) (written 1918)

Bruce Springsteen

U.S. rock singer and songwriter, 1949–

- 1 In the day we sweat it out in the streets
Of a runaway American dream
At night we ride through mansions of Glory in suicide machines.
“Born to Run” (song) (1974)
- 2 Baby this town rips the bones from your back
It's a death trap, it's a suicide rap
We gotta get out while we're young 'Cause tramps like us, baby, we were born to run.
“Born to Run” (song) (1974)

- 3 Is a dream a lie if it don't come true,
Or is it something worse?
"The River" (song) (1980)
- 4 Born down in a dead man's town
First kick I took was when I hit the ground.
"Born in the U.S.A." (song) (1984)
- 5 So they put a rifle in my hand
Sent me off to a foreign land
To go and kill the yellow man
Born in the U.S.A.
"Born in the U.S.A." (song) (1984)
- 6 We made a promise we swore we'd always remember
No retreat, baby, no surrender.
"No Surrender" (song) (1984)
- 7 57 Channels (and Nothin' On).
Title of song (1992)

J. C. Squire

English man of letters, 1884–1958

- 1 It did not last: the Devil howling "Ho!
Let Einstein be!" restored the status quo.
"In Continuation of Pope on Newton" l. 1 (1926)
See Pope 11

Madame de Staël (Anne-Louise-Germaine Necker)

French writer, 1766–1817

- 1 L'amour est l'histoire de la vie des femmes; c'est un épisode dans celle des hommes.
Love is the whole history of a woman's life, it is only an episode in man's.
De l'Influence des Passions preface (1796)
See Byron 20

- 2 A man must know how to defy opinion; a woman how to submit to it.
Delphine epigraph (1802)
- 3 Tout comprendre rend très indulgent.
To understand everything makes one tolerant.
Corinne bk. 18, ch. 5 (1807)

Josef Stalin (Iosif Vissarionovich Dzhugashvili)

Soviet political leader, 1879–1953

- 1 You are engineers of human souls.
Speech to writers at Maxim Gorky's house, 26 Oct.
1932

- 2 History shows that there are no invincible armies.
Broadcast address, 3 July 1941
- 3 In case of a forced retreat of Red Army units, all rolling stock must be evacuated; to the enemy must not be left a single engine, a single railway car, not a single pound of grain or a gallon of fuel. . . . In occupied regions conditions must be made unbearable for the enemy and all his accomplices. They must be hounded and annihilated at every step and all their measures frustrated.
Broadcast address, 3 July 1941. This became known as the "scorched earth" policy.
- 4 [When asked by French Foreign Minister Pierre Laval to encourage Catholicism in the Soviet Union in order to appease the Pope, 13 May 1935:]
The Pope? How many divisions has he got?
Quoted in Winston S. Churchill, The Gathering Storm
(1948)

- 5 A single death is a tragedy, a million deaths is a statistic.
Quoted in N.Y. Times Book Review, 28 Sept. 1958.
An earlier version quoted Stalin as saying, "If only one man dies of hunger, that is a tragedy. If millions die, that's only statistics" (Washington Post, 30 Jan.
1947). Stephen Goranson has discovered an article by German journalist Kurt Tucholsky, published in the newspaper Vossische Zeitung, 23 Aug. 1925, quoting an unnamed French diplomat as saying
"Der Tod eines Menschen: das ist eine Katastrophe.
Hunderttausend Tote: das ist eine Statistik!" ("The death of one man: that is a catastrophe. One hundred thousand deaths: that is a statistic!")
See Film Lines 118

- 6 [Remark upon being informed that the United States had developed the atom bomb:] Well, that's fine. Let's use it. What's the next item on the agenda?
Quoted in James B. Reston, Deadline (1991)

Josiah Stamp

English economist, 1880–1941

- 1 The individual source of the statistics may easily be the weakest link. Harold Cox tells a story of his life as a young man in India.
He quoted some statistics to a Judge, an Englishman, and a very good fellow. His friend said, "Cox, when you are a bit older, you will not quote Indian statistics with that assurance.

The Government are very keen on amassing statistics—they collect them, add them, raise them to the *n*th power, take the cube root and prepare wonderful diagrams. But what you must never forget is that every one of those figures comes in the first instance from the chowty dar (village watchman), who just puts down what he damn pleases.”

Some Economic Factors in Modern Life ch. 8 (1929)

- 2 A pessimist looks at his glass and says it is half empty; an optimist looks at it and says it is half full.

Attributed in N.Y. Times, 13 Nov. 1935

Konstantin Stanislavsky

Russian theatrical director and actor, 1863–1938

- 1 There are no small parts, there are only small actors.

My Life in Art ch. 28 (1924) (translation by J. J. Robbins)

- 2 In the creative process there is the father, the author of the play; the mother, the actor pregnant with the part; and the child, the role to be born.

An Actor Prepares ch. 16 (1936)

Bessie A. Stanley

U.S. writer, 1879–1952

- 1 He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often, and loved much; who has enjoyed the trust of pure women, the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem, or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others and given them the best he had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory is a benediction.

Quoted in John Bartlett, Familiar Quotations, 11th ed. (1937). Often said to be by Ralph Waldo Emerson and to be titled “Success.” In fact, however, it was written in 1905 by Stanley and was the first-prize winner in a contest sponsored by the magazine Modern Women. Anthony W. Shipps wrote in Notes and Queries in 1976: “The versions printed in the two local newspapers in 1905 do not agree, and in the many later appearances in print which I have seen, the wording has varied somewhat. However, the essayist's son, Judge Arthur J. Stanley, Jr., of Leavenworth, writes me that the correct text is the one given in the eleventh edition (1937) of Bartlett's Familiar Quotations.”

Henry Morton Stanley (John Rowlands)

Welsh-born U.S. explorer and journalist, 1841–1904

- 1 [Remark on meeting David Livingstone, Ujiji, Central Africa, 10 Nov. 1871:] Dr. Livingstone, I presume?

Quoted in Henry Morton Stanley, How I Found Livingstone (1872). In Richard Brinsley Sheridan's play School for Scandal, act 5, sc. 1, the line “Mr. Stanley, I presume?” appears.

Vivian Stanshall

English musician and entertainer, 1943–1995

- 1 Cool Britannia
Britannia, you are cool
Take a trip
Britons ever ever ever shall be hip.
“Cool Britannia” (song) (1967)

Charles E. Stanton

U.S. soldier, 1859–1933

- 1 [Statement after arrival of first U.S. troops joining Allied forces in World War I:] Lafayette, nous voilà! Lafayette, we are here!

Address at tomb of Marquis de Lafayette, Paris, 4 July 1917

Edwin M. Stanton

U.S. politician, 1814–1869

- 1 [Of Abraham Lincoln after his assassination, 15 Apr. 1865:] Now he belongs to the ages.

Quoted in Century Illustrated Magazine, Jan. 1890. This is sometimes quoted with “angels” as the last word instead of “ages,” and one of the observers at Lincoln's deathbed, James Tanner, is said to have recorded the “angels” version.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton

U.S. feminist, 1815–1902

- 1 We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men and women are created equal.

Declaration of Sentiments, First Woman's Rights Convention, Seneca Falls, N.Y., 19–20 July 1848

- 2 The history of mankind is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations on the part of man toward woman, having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over her. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.
Declaration of Sentiments, First Woman's Rights Convention, Seneca Falls, N.Y., 19–20 July 1848
- 3 Now, in view of this entire disfranchisement of one-half the people of this country, their social and religious degradation—in view of the unjust laws above mentioned, and because women do feel themselves aggrieved, oppressed, and fraudulently deprived of their most sacred rights, we insist that they have immediate admission to all the rights and privileges which belong to them as citizens of the United States.
Declaration of Sentiments, First Woman's Rights Convention, Seneca Falls, N.Y., 19–20 July 1848
- 4 Resolved, That all laws which prevent women from occupying such a station in society as her conscience shall dictate, or which place her in a position inferior to that of man, are contrary to the great precept of nature, and therefore of no force or authority.
Resolutions, First Woman's Rights Convention, Seneca Falls, N.Y., 19–20 July 1848
- 5 Resolved, That the same amount of virtue, delicacy, and refinement of behavior, that is required of woman in the social state, should also be required of man, and the same transgressions should be visited with equal severity on both man and woman.
Resolutions, First Woman's Rights Convention, Seneca Falls, N.Y., 19–20 July 1848
- 6 Resolved, That it is the duty of the women of this country to secure to themselves their sacred right to the elective franchise.
Resolutions, First Woman's Rights Convention, Seneca Falls, N.Y., 19–20 July 1848
- 7 Would to God you could know the burning indignation that fills woman's soul when she turns over the pages of your statute books, and sees there how like feudal barons you freemen hold your women.
Address to New York State Legislature, Albany, N.Y., Feb. 1854
- 8 Who of you appreciate the galling humiliation, the refinements of degradation, to which women . . . are subject, in this the last half of the nineteenth century? How many of you have ever read even the laws concerning them that now disgrace your statute-books? In cruelty and tyranny, they are not surpassed by any slaveholding code in the Southern States.
Address to New York State Legislature, Albany, N.Y., 18 Feb. 1860
- 9 The point I wish plainly to bring before you on this occasion is the individuality of each human soul; our Protestant idea, the right of individual conscience and judgment—our republican idea, individual citizenship. In discussing the rights of woman, we are to consider, first, what belongs to her as an individual, in a world of her own, the arbiter of her own destiny, an imaginary Robinson Crusoe with her woman Friday on a solitary island. Her rights under such circumstances are to use all her faculties for her own safety and happiness.
Speech before Senate Judiciary Committee, 18 Jan. 1892
- 10 The isolation of every human soul and the necessity of self-dependence must give each individual the right, to choose his own surroundings. The strongest reason for giving woman all the opportunities for higher education, for the full development of her faculties, her forces of mind and body; for giving her the most enlarged freedom of thought and action; a complete emancipation from all forms of bondage, of custom, dependence, superstition; from all the crippling influences of fear, is the solitude and personal responsibility of her own individual life.
Speech before Senate Judiciary Committee, 18 Jan. 1892
- 11 The strongest reason why we ask for woman a voice in the government under which she lives; in the religion she is asked to believe; equality in social life, where she is the chief factor; a place in the trades and professions, where she may earn her bread, is because of her birthright to self-sovereignty; because, as an individual, she must rely on herself.
Speech before Senate Judiciary Committee, 18 Jan. 1892

12 To throw obstacles in the way of a complete education is like putting out the eyes; to deny the rights of property, like cutting off the hands. To deny political equality is to rob the ostracized of all self-respect; of credit in the market place; of recompense in the world of work; of a voice among those who make and administer the law; a choice in the jury before whom they are tried, and in the judge who decides their punishment.

Speech before Senate Judiciary Committee, 18 Jan. 1892

13 Nothing strengthens the judgment and quickens the conscience like individual responsibility. Nothing adds such dignity to character as the recognition of one's self-sovereignty; the right to an equal place, every where conceded; a place earned by personal merit, not an artificial attainment, by inheritance, wealth, family, and position.

Speech before Senate Judiciary Committee, 18 Jan. 1892

14 The talk of sheltering woman from the fierce storms of life is the sheerest mockery, for they beat on her from every point of the compass, just as they do on man, and with more fatal results, for he has been trained to protect himself, to resist, to conquer.

Speech before Senate Judiciary Committee, 18 Jan. 1892

Barbara Stanwyck (Ruby Catherine Stevens)
U.S. actress, 1907–1990

1 My only problem is finding a way to play my fortieth fallen female in a different way from my thirty-ninth.

Quoted in Indianapolis Star, 29 June 1953

Star Trek

Television series

Catchphrases are cited to the first episode in which they were used, according to Quotable Star Trek, ed. Jill Sherwin (1999) and other sources. See also Gene Roddenberry and Film Lines.

1 Engage.

"The Cage" pilot episode, 1966

2 Energize.

"Where No Man Has Gone Before" episode, 22 Sept. 1966

3 He's dead, Jim.

"The Enemy Within" episode, 6 Oct. 1966

4 Hailing frequencies still open, sir.

"The Corbomite Maneuver" episode, 10 Nov. 1966

5 Fascinating.

"The Corbomite Maneuver" episode, 10 Nov. 1966

6 Live long and prosper.

"Amok Time" episode, 15 Sept. 1967

7 Beam us up, Mr. Scott.

"Gamesters of Triskelion" episode, 5 Jan. 1968. This is the closest approach in the television series to the apocryphal line "Beam me up, Scotty!" "Beam us up, Scotty" is said to occur in the animated Star Trek episode "The Lorelei Signal," 29 Sept. 1973. The earliest known occurrence of the actual words "beam me up, Scotty" was in Aeronautical Journal, Apr. 1975.

8 The Prime Directive. . . . No identification of self or mission. No interference with the social development of said planet. No reference to space or the fact that there are other worlds or more advanced civilizations.

"Bread and Circuses" episode, 15 Mar. 1968. The "Return of the Archons" episode, 9 Feb. 1967, referred to the "prime directive of non-interference."

9 Make it so.

"Encounter at Farpoint" episode of Star Trek: The Next Generation series, 28 Sept. 1987

10 [Catchphrase of the Borg]: Resistance is futile.

"The Best of Both Worlds" episode of Star Trek: The Next Generation series, 6 Apr. 1990. "Resistance is useless" had earlier been a catchphrase on the British television series Doctor Who.

John Stark

U.S. general, 1728–1822

1 Live free or die.

Letter "To My Friends and Fellow Soldiers," 31 July 1809. Adopted in 1945 as the official motto of New Hampshire. The General Advertiser (Philadelphia), 26 July 1791, printed "live Free, or Die" as a translation of a French revolutionary oath.

2 [Exhortation before Battle of Bennington, 16 Aug. 1777]: You see those red coats yonder! They must fall into our hands in fifteen minutes, or—Molly Stark is a widow.

Quoted in New Hampshire Sentinel, 20 July 1819

Christina Stead

Australian novelist, 1902–1983

- 1 A self-made man is one who believes in luck and sends his son to Oxford.
House of All Nations (1938)

Richard Steele

Irish essayist and playwright, 1672–1729

- 1 [Of Elizabeth Hastings:] Though her mien carries much more invitation than command, to behold her is an immediate check to loose behavior; and to love her is a liberal education.
The Tatler no. 49, 2 Aug. 1709
- 2 It was very prettily said, that we may learn the little value of fortune by the persons on whom heaven is pleased to bestow it.

Gwen Stefani

U.S. singer, 1969–

- 1 Don't speak, I know
Just what you're saying
So, please stop explaining
Don't tell me 'cause it hurts
Don't speak, I know
What you're thinking
I don't need your reasons
Don't tell me 'cause it hurts.
"Don't Speak" (song) (1997). Cowritten with Eric Stefani.

Vilhjalmur Steffanson

Canadian explorer and author, 1879–1962

- 1 A land may be said to be discovered the first time a white European, preferably an Englishman, sets foot on it.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 21 May 1967

Lincoln Steffens

U.S. journalist, 1866–1936

- 1 The Shame of the Cities.
Title of book (1904)
- 2 [Describing a visit to the Soviet Union:] I have seen the future; and it works.

Letter to Marie Howe, 3 Apr. 1919. The Oxford Dictionary of Quotations notes: "Steffens had composed the expression before he had even arrived in Russia."

Edward Steichen

Luxembourg-born U.S. photographer, 1879–1973

- 1 The mission of photography is to explain man to man and each man to himself.
Quoted in Cornell Capa, The Concerned Photographer (1972)

Gertrude Stein

U.S. writer, 1874–1946

- 1 Rose is a rose is a rose is a rose, is a rose.
"Sacred Emily" (1913). Frequently misquoted as "a rose is a rose is a rose." The allusion may have been to English painter Francis Rose.
- 2 They were regular in being gay, they learned little things that are things in being gay, they learned many little things that are things in being gay, they were gay every day, they were regular, they were gay, they were gay the same length of time every day, they were gay, they were quite regularly gay.
Geography and Plays "Miss Furr and Miss Skeene" (1922). Some scholars regard this as the genesis or popularization of the term gay to mean "homosexual."

- 8 In the United States there is more space where nobody is than where anybody is. That is what makes America what it is.
The Geographical History of America (1936)
- 9 More great Americans were failures than they were successes. They mostly spent their lives in not having a buyer for what they had for sale.
Everybody's Autobiography ch. 2 (1937)
- 10 It is funny the two things most men are proudest of is the thing that any man can do and doing does in the same way, that is being drunk and being the father of their son.
Everybody's Autobiography ch. 2 (1937)
- 11 I do want to get rich but I never want to do what there is to do to get rich.
Everybody's Autobiography ch. 3 (1937)
- 12 What was the use of my having come from Oakland it was not natural to have come from there yes write about it if I like or anything if I like but not there, there is no there there.
Everybody's Autobiography ch. 4 (1937)
- 13 You are all a lost generation.
Quoted in Ernest Hemingway, The Sun Also Rises (1926). In Stein's Everybody's Autobiography (1937), she wrote: “It was this hotel-keeper who said what it is said I said in this way. He said that every man becomes civilized between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five. If he does not go through a civilizing experience at that time in his life he will not be a civilized man. And the men who went to war at eighteen missed the period of civilizing, and they could never be civilized. They were a lost generation.”
- 14 [Of Ernest Hemingway:] Anyone who marries three girls from St. Louis hasn't learned much.
Quoted in James R. Mellow, Charmed Circle: Gertrude Stein & Company (1974)
- 15 Just before she died she asked, “What is the answer?” No answer came. She laughed and said, “In that case, what is the question?” Then she died.
Reported in Donald Sutherland, Gertrude Stein: A Biography of Her Work (1951). Stein's companion Alice B. Toklas, who was with her at her death, reported Stein's words as, “What is the answer? . . . In that case . . . what is the question?” (Alice B. Toklas, What Is Remembered [1963]), and did not identify these specifically as the last words.
- 16 [Remark, 1925:] The Jews have produced only three originative geniuses; Christ, Spinoza, and myself.
Attributed in Exile, Autumn 1928

John Steinbeck

U.S. novelist, 1902–1968

- 1 I know this—a man got to do what he got to do.
The Grapes of Wrath ch. 18 (1939)
- 2 Okie use' ta mean you was from Oklahoma. Now it means you're a dirty son-of-a-bitch. Okie means you're scum. Don't mean nothing itself, it's the way they say it.
The Grapes of Wrath ch. 18 (1939)
- 3 Why, Tom, we're the people that live. They ain't gonna wipe us out. Why, we're the people—we go on.
The Grapes of Wrath ch. 20 (1939)
- 4 Maybe that makes us tough. Rich fellas come up an' they die, an' their kids ain't no good, an' they die out. But, Tom, we keep a-comin'.
The Grapes of Wrath ch. 20 (1939)
- 5 Wherever they's a fight so hungry people can eat, I'll be there. Wherever they's a cop beating up a guy, I'll be there. . . . I'll be in the way guys yell when they're mad an'—I'll be in the way kids laugh when they're hungry an' they know supper's ready. An' when our folks eat the stuff they raise an' live in the houses they build—why, I'll be there.
The Grapes of Wrath ch. 28 (1939)
- 6 Men really need sea-monsters in their personal oceans. . . . An ocean without its unnamed monsters would be like a completely dreamless sleep.
Sea of Cortez ch. 4 (1941)

Gloria Steinem

U.S. feminist and editor, 1934–

- 1 There are times when a woman reading Playboy feels a little like a Jew reading a Nazi manual.
McCall's, Oct. 1970
- 2 Any woman who chooses to behave like a full human being should be warned that the armies of the status quo will treat her as something of a dirty joke. That's their natural and first weapon. She will need her sisterhood.
Ms., Spring 1972
- 3 Some of us are becoming the men we wanted to marry.
Speech at Yale University, New Haven, Conn., 23 Sept. 1981
- 4 Pornography is about dominance. Erotica is about mutuality.
Outrageous Acts and Everyday Rebellions "Erotica vs. Pornography" (1983)
- 5 I have yet to hear a man ask for advice on how to combine marriage and a career.
Quoted in Robert Byrne, The Fourth—and by Far the Most Recent—637 Best Things Anybody Ever Said (1990)

George Steiner

French-born U.S. critic and novelist, 1929–2020

- 1 We know that a man can read Goethe or Rilke in the evening, that he can play Bach and Schubert, and go to his day's work at Auschwitz in the morning.
Language and Silence preface (1967)
- 2 We Jews walk closer to our children than other men . . . because to have children is possibly to condemn them.
Quoted in Guardian, 6 Jan. 1996

Peter Steiner

U.S. cartoonist, 1940–

- 1 On the Internet, nobody knows you're a dog.
Cartoon caption, New Yorker, 5 July 1993

Frances Steloff

U.S. bookstore owner, 1887–1989

- 1 [Sign for Gotham Book Mart, New York, N.Y.] Wise men fish here.
Quoted in Wash. Post, 21 Sept. 1933

Stendhal (Henri Beyle)

French novelist, 1783–1842

- 1 One can acquire everything in solitude—except character.
"De l'Amour" fragment 1 (1822)
- 2 Every true passion thinks only of itself.
Le Rouge et le Noir bk. 2, ch. 1 (1830)
- 3 Un roman est un miroir qui se promène sur une grande route.
A novel is a mirror that strolls along a highway.
Le Rouge et le Noir bk. 2, ch. 19 (1830)
- 4 La politique au milieu des intérêts d'imagination, c'est un coup de pistolet au milieu d'un concert.
Politics in the middle of things concerning the imagination are like a pistol shot in the middle of a concert.
Le Rouge et le Noir bk. 2, ch. 22 (1830)
- 5 I know of only one rule: style cannot be too clear, too simple.
Letter to Honoré de Balzac, 30 Oct. 1840

Charles Dillon "Casey" Stengel

U.S. baseball manager, ca. 1890–1975

- 1 I had many years that I was not so successful as a ball player, as it is a game of skill.
Testimony before Senate Antitrust and Monopoly Subcommittee, 9 July 1958
- 2 [Comment as manager of the last-place New York Mets in 1962:] Can't anybody here play this game?
Quoted in Wash. Post, 29 Mar. 1963

3 [Remark to a barber, after losing a doubleheader:]
Don't cut my throat. I may want to do that later myself.

Quoted in Joseph Durso, Casey: The Life and Legend of Charles Dillon Stengel (1967)

4 A lot of people my age are dead at the present time.

Quoted in Leo Rosten, People I Have Loved, Known, or Admired (1970). Paul Dickson, in Baseball's Greatest Quotations, credits this to Stengel "on being asked by a reporter what people 'your age' thought of modern-day ballplayers or, depending on the source, being asked about his future. It appears to date from the spring of 1965."

5 [Of the new New York baseball franchise, on Thanksgiving Day, 1961] The Mets are gonna be amazin'.

Quoted in S.F. Examiner, 30 Sept. 1975

6 Going to bed with a woman never hurt a ballplayer. It's staying up all night looking for them that does you in.

Quoted in Barbara Rowes, The Book of Quotes (1979)

7 Good pitching will always stop good hitting and vice versa.

Quoted in Paul Dickson, The Official Explanations (1980)

8 There comes a time in every man's life and I've had plenty of them.

Quoted in Wash. Post, 6 May 1981. This quotation marks Stengel's grave.

9 All you have to do is keep the five players who hate your guts away from the five who are undecided.

Quoted in The Guardian Book of Sports Quotes, ed. John Samuel (1985)

10 Most ball games are lost, not won.

Quoted in Paul Dickson, Baseball's Greatest Quotations (1991)

J. K. Stephen

English journalist and poet, 1859–1892

1 When the Rudyards cease from kipling
And the Haggards ride no more.

"To R. K." l. 15 (1891)

James Fitzjames Stephen

English jurist, 1829–1894

1 The criminal law stands to the passion of revenge in much the same relation as marriage to the sexual appetite.

A General View of the Criminal Law of England ch. 4 (1863)

2 Complete moral tolerance is possible only when men have become completely indifferent to each other—that is to say, when society is at an end.

Liberty, Equality, Fraternity ch. 4 (1873)

Andrew B. Sterling

U.S. songwriter, 1874–1955

1 Meet me in St. Louis, Louis,
Meet me at the fair.

"Meet Me in St. Louis, Louis" (song) (1904)

Bruce Sterling

U.S. science fiction writer, 1954–

1 Information is not power. If information were power, then librarians would be the most powerful people on the planet.

Speech at Social Work Futures Conference, Houston, Tex., 23 May 1994

John W. Sterling

U.S. lawyer, 1844–1918

1 [The ideal client is] the very wealthy man in very great trouble.

Quoted in American Bar Association Journal, Apr. 1960

Laurence Sterne

Irish novelist, 1713–1768

1 I wish either my father or my mother, or indeed both of them, as they were in duty both equally bound to it, had minded what they were about when they begot me.

Tristram Shandy bk. 1, ch. 1 (1759–1767)

2 "Pray, my dear," quoth my mother, "have you not forgot to wind up the clock?"—"Good G—!" cried my father, making an exclamation, but taking care to moderate his voice at the same time,— "Did ever woman, since the creation of the world, interrupt a man with such a silly question?"

Tristram Shandy bk. 1, ch. 1 (1759–1767)

3 That's another story, replied my father.

Tristram Shandy bk. 2, ch. 17 (1759–1767)

4 L—d! said my mother, "what is all this story about?"—"A Cock and a Bull," said Yorick.

Tristram Shandy bk. 9, ch. 33 (1759–1767). The Oxford English Dictionary points out that the origins of the notion of the "cock and bull story" are obscure.

5 They order, said I, this matter better in France.

A Sentimental Journey (1768)

John Paul Stevens

U.S. judge, 1920–2019

1 Although we may never know with complete certainty the identity of the winner of this year's presidential election, the identity of the loser is perfectly clear. It is the nation's confidence in the judge as an impartial guardian of the rule of law.

Bush v. Gore (dissenting opinion) (2000)

2 While American democracy is imperfect, few outside the majority of this court would have thought its flaws included a dearth of corporate money in politics.

Citizens United v. Federal Election Commission (dissenting opinion) (2010)

Wallace Stevens

U.S. poet, 1879–1955

1 I placed a jar in Tennessee,
And round it was, upon a hill,
It made the slovenly wilderness
Surround that hill.

"Anecdote of the Jar" l. 1 (1923)

2 It did not give of bird or bush,
Like nothing else in Tennessee.

"Anecdote of the Jar" l. 11 (1923)

3 Call the roller of big cigars,
The muscular one, and bid him whip

9 She sang beyond the genius of the sea.

"The Idea of Order at Key West" l. 1 (1935)

10 The water never formed to mind or voice,
Like a body wholly body, fluttering
Its empty sleeves, and yet its mimic motion made constant cry.

"The Idea of Order at Key West" l. 2 (1935)

11 The ever-hooded, tragic-gestured sea
Was merely a place by which she walked to sing.

"The Idea of Order at Key West" l. 16 (1935)

12 It was her voice that made
The sky acutest at its vanishing.
She measured to the hour its solitude.
She was the single artificer of the world
In which she sang.

"The Idea of Order at Key West" l. 33 (1935)

13 Oh, Blessed rage for order, pale Ramon,
The maker's rage to order words of the sea,
Words of the fragrant portals, dimly-starred,
And of ourselves and of our origins,
In ghostlier demarcations, keener sounds.

"The Idea of Order at Key West" l. 59 (1935)

14 A. A violent order is disorder; and
B. A great disorder is an order. These Two things are one.

"Connoisseur of Chaos" l. 1 (1942)

15 The palm at the end of the mind,
Beyond the last thought, rises
In the bronze distance.

"Of Mere Being" l. 1 (1957)

Adlai E. Stevenson

U.S. politician, 1900–1965

- 1 The problem of cat versus bird is as old as time. If we attempt to resolve it by legislation who knows but what we may be called upon to take sides as well in the age old problems of dog versus cat, bird versus bird, or even bird versus worm. In my opinion, the State of Illinois and its local governing bodies already have enough to do without trying to control feline delinquency.
Veto message, 23 Apr. 1949
- 2 Let's talk sense to the American people. Let's tell them the truth, that there are no gains without pains, that we are now on the eve of great decisions, not easy decisions, like resistance when you're attacked, but a long, patient, costly struggle which alone can assure triumph over the great enemies of man—war, poverty, and tyranny—and the assaults upon human dignity which are the most grievous consequences of each.
Speech accepting presidential nomination, Democratic National Convention, Chicago, Ill., 26 July 1952
- 3 I yield to no man—if I may borrow that majestic parliamentary phrase—I yield to no man in my belief in the principle of free debate, inside or outside the halls of Congress. The sound of tireless voices is the price we pay for the right to hear the music of our own opinions. But there is also, it seems to me, a moment at which democracy must prove its capacity to act. Every man has a right to be heard; but no man has the right to strangle democracy with a single set of vocal cords.
Speech to the State Committee of the Liberal Party, New York, N.Y., 28 Aug. 1952
- 4 A hungry man is not a free man.
Speech, Kasson, Minn., 6 Sept. 1952
- 5 The time to stop a revolution is at the beginning, not the end.
Speech, San Francisco, Calif., 9 Sept. 1952
- 6 I have been thinking that I would make a proposition to my Republican friends. . . . That if they will stop telling lies about the Democrats, we will stop telling the truth about them.
Campaign remark, Fresno, Calif., 10 Sept. 1952.
Garson O'Toole has traced the reverse statement to a speech by Asa W. Tenney quoted in the Buffalo Evening News, 27 Sept. 1888: "If the Democrats will stop lying about Harrison the Republicans will stop telling the truth about Cleveland."
- 7 [Of Richard Nixon] The young man who asks you to set him one heart-beat from the Presidency of the United States.
Speech, Cleveland, Ohio, 23 Oct. 1952
- 8 [Remark after he was defeated in the presidential election.] A funny thing happened to me on the way to the White House.
Speech, Washington, D.C., 13 Dec. 1952
- 9 We hear the Secretary of State [John Foster Dulles] boasting of his brinkmanship—the art of bringing us to the edge of the abyss.
Speech, Hartford, Conn., 25 Feb. 1956
See John Foster Dulles 3
- 10 Our nation stands at a fork in the political road. In one direction lies a land of slander and scare; the land of sly innuendo, the poison pen, the anonymous phone call and hustling, pushing, shoving; the land of smash and grab and anything to win. This is Nixonland. But I say to you that it is not America.
Speech, Los Angeles, Calif., 27 Oct. 1956
- 11 Do you, Ambassador Zorin, deny that the U.S.S.R. has placed and is placing medium- and intermediate-range missiles and sites in Cuba? Yes or no? Don't wait for the translation. . . . I am prepared to wait for my answer until Hell freezes over, if that's your decision. And I am also prepared to present the evidence in this room!
Statement to United Nations Security Council, 25 Oct. 1962
- 12 We travel together, passengers on a little space ship, dependent on its vulnerable reserves of air and soil; all committed for our safety to its security and peace; preserved from annihilation only by the care, the work, and, I will say, the love we give our fragile craft. We cannot maintain it half fortunate, half miserable, half confident, half despairing, half slave—to the ancient enemies of man—half free in a liberation of resources undreamed of until this day. No craft, no crew can travel safely with such vast contradictions. On their resolution depends the survival of us all.

Speech to Economic and Social Council of United Nations, Geneva, Switzerland, 9 July 1965

- 13 [The Republican Party] had to be dragged kicking and screaming into the twentieth century.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 19 Oct. 1952
- 14 [Paying tribute to Eleanor Roosevelt after her death on 7 Nov. 1962:] I have lost more than a beloved friend. I have lost an inspiration. She would rather light a candle than curse the darkness, and her glow has warmed the world.

Robert Louis Stevenson

Scottish novelist, 1850–1894

- 1 For my part, I travel not to go anywhere, but to go. I travel for travel's sake. The great affair is to move.
Travels with a Donkey "Cheylard and Luc" (1879)
- 2 Books are good enough in their own way, but they are a mighty bloodless substitute for life.
Virginibus Puerisque "An Apology for Idlers" (1881)
- 3 It is better to be a fool than to be dead.
Virginibus Puerisque "Crabbed Age and Youth" (1881)
- 4 Some people swallow the universe like a pill; they travel on through the world, like smiling images pushed from behind. For God's sake give me the young man who has brains enough to make a fool of himself!
Virginibus Puerisque "Crabbed Age and Youth" (1881)
- 5 To travel hopefully is a better thing than to arrive, and the true success is to labor.
Virginibus Puerisque "El Dorado" (1881)
- 6 Falling in love is the one illogical adventure, the one thing of which we are tempted to think as supernatural, in our trite and reasonable world.
Virginibus Puerisque title essay (1881)
- 7 Politics is perhaps the only profession for which no preparation is thought necessary.
Familiar Studies of Men and Books "Yoshida-Torajiro" (1882)
- 8 Fifteen men on the dead man's chest
Yo-ho-ho, and a bottle of rum!
Drink and the devil had done for the rest—
Yo-ho-ho, and a bottle of rum!
Treasure Island ch. 1 (1883). Stevenson took the phrase dead man's chest from a pirate name for an isle in Charles Kingsley, At Last, ch. 1 (1870).
- 9 Pieces of eight, pieces of eight, pieces of eight!
Treasure Island ch. 10 (1883)
- 10 Them that die'll be the lucky ones.
Treasure Island ch. 20 (1883)
- 11 There is but one art—to omit! O if I knew how to omit, I would ask no other knowledge.
Letter to R. A. M. Stevenson, Oct. 1883
- 12 In winter I get up at night
And dress by yellow candle-light.
In summer, quite the other way,—
I have to go to bed by day.
A Child's Garden of Verses "Bed in Summer" l. 1 (1885)
- 13 The world is so full of a number of things,
I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings.
A Child's Garden of Verses "Happy Thought" l. 1 (1885)
- 14 How do you like to go up in a swing,
Up in the air so blue?
Oh, I do think it the pleasantest thing
Ever a child can do!
A Child's Garden of Verses "The Swing" l. 1 (1885)
- 15 A birdie with a yellow bill
Hopped upon the window sill,
Cocked his shining eye and said:
"Ain't you 'shamed, you sleepy-head!"
A Child's Garden of Verses "Time to Rise" l. 1 (1885)
- 16 A child should always say what's true,
And speak when he is spoken to,
And behave mannerly at table;
At least as far as he is able.
A Child's Garden of Verses "Whole Duty of Children" l. 1 (1885)
- 17 Am I no a bonny fighter?
Kidnapped ch. 10 (1886)
- 18 Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.
Title of book (1886)
- 19 I have thus played the sedulous ape to Hazlitt, to Lamb, to Wordsworth, to Sir Thomas
Browne, to Defoe, to Hawthorne, to Montaigne, to Baudelaire, and to Obermann.
Memories and Portraits ch. 4 (1887)

20 No human being ever spoke of scenery for above two minutes at a time, which makes me suspect we hear too much of it in literature.

Memories and Portraits ch. 10 (1887)

21 Under the wide and starry sky
Dig the grave and let me lie.
Glad did I live and gladly die,
And I laid me down with a will.

This be the verse you grave for me:
“Here he lies where he longed to be;
Home is the sailor, home from sea,
And the hunter home from the hill.”

Underwoods “Requiem” (1887). Engraved on Stevenson’s tomb in Samoa, with the seventh line reading “home from the sea,” which is a frequently quoted variant.

22 A Footnote to History.

Title of book (1892)

23 I hate writing, but I love having written.

Jon Stewart (Jonathan Stuart Leibowitz)

U.S. comedian and political commentator, 1962–

1 We live in hard times, not end times.

Speech at Rally to Restore Sanity and/or Fear, Washington, D.C., 30 Oct. 2010

2 The press can hold its magnifying glass up to our problems, bringing them into focus, illuminating issues heretofore unseen, or they can use that magnifying glass to light ants on fire. And then perhaps host a week of shows on the sudden, unexpected, dangerous flaming ant epidemic. If we amplify everything, we hear nothing.

Speech at Rally to Restore Sanity and/or Fear, Washington, D.C., 30 Oct. 2010

Martha Stewart

U.S. businesswoman and media personality, 1941–

1 It’s a good thing.

Quoted in Palm Beach (Fla.) Post, 24 Dec. 1994
See Sellar 1

Potter Stewart

U.S. judge, 1915–1985

1 I have reached the conclusion . . . that under the First and Fourteenth Amendments criminal laws in this area [obscenity] are constitutionally limited to hard-core pornography. I shall not today attempt further to define the kinds of materials I understand to be embraced within that shorthand description; and perhaps I could never succeed in intelligibly doing so. But I know it when I see it; and the motion picture involved in this case is not that.

Jacobellis v. Ohio (concurring opinion) (1964)

Henry L. Stimson

U.S. statesman, 1867–1950

1 Gentlemen do not read each other’s mail.

On Active Service in Peace and War ch. 7 (1948).

Stimson was explaining his action, while secretary of state in 1929, in closing the State Department’s code-breaking office. The 1948 book, coauthored with McGeorge Bundy, is the earliest known appearance of this quotation. Louis Kruh, in his article “Stimson, the Black Chamber, and the ‘Gentleman’s Mail’ Quote,” Cryptologia, Apr. 1988, concludes that these words accurately represented Stimson’s feelings in 1929 but that “whether he also said it then remains unknown.”

Sting (Gordon Matthew Sumner)

English rock singer and songwriter, 1951–

1 Roxanne

You don’t have to
Put on the red light
Those days are over
You don’t have to sell
Your body to the night.
“Roxanne” (song) (1979)

2 Every breath you take

Every move you make . . .
I’ll be watching you.
“Every Breath You Take” (song) (1983)

3 Every vow you break

Every smile you fake
Every claim you stake
I’ll be watching you.
“Every Breath You Take” (song) (1983)

John Michael Stipe

U.S. rock musician and songwriter, 1960–

1 It’s the End of the World As We Know It (and I Feel Fine).

Title of song (1988)

- 2 That's me in the corner
That's me in the spotlight
Losing my religion.
"Losing My Religion" (song) (1991). "Losing my religion" is a Southern expression for losing one's temper.

- 3 Everybody hurts sometimes Everybody cries.
"Everybody Hurts" (song) (1992)

James B. Stockdale

U.S. admiral, 1923–2005

- 1 [Remark during vice-presidential campaign debate, Atlanta, Ga., 13 Oct. 1992:] Who am I? Why am I here?

Quoted in Wash. Post, 14 Oct. 1992. In fairness to Admiral Stockdale, who was Ross Perot's running mate on the Reform Party ticket, it should be noted that he had not had time to prepare for the debate, being notified that he would participate only two days beforehand.

David Stockman

U.S. government official, 1946–

- 1 None of us really understands what's going on with all these numbers.

Quoted in Atlantic Monthly, Dec. 1981. Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget during the Reagan administration, was referring to the U.S. budget.

Frank R. Stockton

U.S. editor, humorist, and short story writer, 1834–1902

- 1 And so I leave it with all of you:
Which came out of the opened door—the lady,
or the tiger?
The Lady, or the Tiger? title story (1884)

Bram Stoker

Irish writer, 1847–1912

- 1 I am Dracula; and I bid you welcome.
Dracula ch. 2 (1897)
- 2 The mouth, so far as I could see it under the heavy moustache, was fixed and rather cruel-looking, with peculiarly sharp white teeth; these protruded over the lips, whose remarkable ruddiness showed astonishing vitality in a man of his years.
Dracula ch. 2 (1897)

- 3 [Of howling wolves:] Listen to them—the children of the night. What music they make!
Dracula ch. 2 (1897)

Leopold Stokowski

English conductor, 1882–1977

- 1 A painter paints his pictures on canvas. But musicians paint their pictures on silence.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 11 May 1967

Clifford Stoll

U.S. astronomer and computer expert, 1950–

- 1 There's a relationship between data, information, knowledge, understanding, and wisdom. Our networks are awash in data. A little of it's information. A smidgen of this shows up as knowledge. Combined with ideas, some of that is actually useful. Mix in experience, context, compassion, discipline, humor, tolerance, and humility, and perhaps knowledge becomes wisdom.
Silicon Snake Oil ch. 11 (1995)

Harlan F. Stone

U.S. judge, 1872–1946

- 1 Nor need we enquire . . . whether prejudice against discrete and insular minorities may be a special condition, which tends seriously to curtail the operation of those political processes ordinarily to be relied upon to protect minorities, and which call for a correspondingly more searching judicial inquiry.
United States v. Carolene Products Co. (footnote 4) (1938)

Irving Stone

U.S. novelist, 1903–1989

- 1 The Agony and the Ecstasy.
Title of book (1961)

Lucy Stone

U.S. reformer, 1818–1893

- 1 While acknowledging our mutual affection by publicly assuming the relationship of husband and wife, . . . we deem it a duty to declare that this act on our part implies no sanction of, nor promise of voluntary obedience to such

of the present laws of marriage, as refuse to recognize the wife as an independent, rational being, while they confer upon the husband an injurious and unnatural superiority.

Statement read at marriage of Stone and Henry B. Blackwell (1855)

- 2 We believe that personal independence and equal human rights can never be forfeited, except for crime; that marriage should be an equal and permanent partnership, and so recognized by law; that until it is so recognized, married partners should provide against the radical injustice of present laws, by every means in their power.

Statement read at marriage of Stone and Henry B. Blackwell (1855)

Winifred Sackville Stoner, Jr.

U.S. child prodigy and poet, 1902–1983

- 1 In fourteen hundred ninety-two, Columbus sailed the ocean blue.
“The History of the United States” (1919)

Marie Stopes

Scottish reformer, 1880–1958

- 1 An impersonal and scientific knowledge of the structure of our bodies is the surest safeguard against prurient curiosity and lascivious gloating.
Married Love ch. 5 (1918)

Tom Stoppard (Thomas Straussler)

Czech-born English playwright, 1937–

- 1 Eternity is a terrible thought. I mean, where’s it going to end?
Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead act 2 (1967)
- 2 Life is a gamble at terrible odds—if it was a bet, you wouldn’t take it.
Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead act 3 (1967)
- 3 Skill without imagination is craftsmanship and gives us many useful objects such as wickerwork picnic baskets. Imagination without skill gives us modern art.
Artist Descending a Staircase (1972)
- 4 It’s not the voting that’s democracy, it’s the counting.
Jumpers act 1 (1972)
See Nast 1; Somoza 1

- 5 [On James Joyce.] An essentially private man who wished his total indifference to public notice to be universally recognized.

Travesties act 1 (1975)

- 6 What is an artist? For every thousand people there’s nine hundred doing the work, ninety doing well, nine doing good, and one lucky bastard who’s the artist.

Travesties act 1 (1975)

- 7 I learned three things in Zurich during the war. I wrote them down. Firstly, you’re either a revolutionary or you’re not, and if you’re not you might as well be an artist as anything else. Secondly, if you can’t be an artist, you might as well be a revolutionary . . . I forget the third thing.

Travesties act 2 (1975). Ellipsis in the original.

Joseph Story

U.S. judge and legal scholar, 1779–1845

- 1 [Of the law.] It is a jealous mistress, and requires a long and constant courtship. It is not to be won by trifling favors, but by lavish homage.

“The Value and Importance of Legal Studies” (1829). Earlier, the following passage appeared in Roger North, A Discourse on the Study of the Laws (1824): “The law is not so jealous a mistress as to exclude every other object from the mind of her devotee.” See William Jones (1746–1794) 1

Harriet Beecher Stowe

U.S. novelist, 1811–1896

- 1 Eliza made her desperate retreat across the river just in the dusk of twilight. The gray mist of evening, rising slowly from the river, enveloped her as she disappeared up the bank, and the swollen current and floundering masses of ice presented a hopeless barrier between her and her pursuer.
Uncle Tom’s Cabin ch. 8 (1852)
- 2 [The character Topsy speaking.] I s’pect I growed. Don’t think nobody never made me.
Uncle Tom’s Cabin ch. 20 (1852)
- 3 Whipping and abuse are like laudanum; you have to double the dose as the sensibilities decline.
Uncle Tom’s Cabin ch. 20 (1852)

- 4 My soul an't yours, Mas'r! You haven't bought it,—ye can't buy it! It's been bought and paid for, by one that is able to keep it.
Uncle Tom's Cabin ch. 33 (1852)
- 5 Every nation that carries in its bosom great and unredressed injustice has in it the elements of this last convulsion.
Uncle Tom's Cabin ch. 45 (1852)
- 6 I did not write it. God wrote it. I merely did His dictation.
Uncle Tom's Cabin introduction (1879 edition)

Lytton Strachey

English biographer and critic, 1880–1932

- 1 The history of the Victorian Age will never be written: we know too much about it. For ignorance is the first requisite of the historian—ignorance, which simplifies and clarifies, which selects and omits, with a placid perfection unattainable by the highest art.
Eminent Victorians preface (1918)
- 2 The art of biography seems to have fallen on evil times in England. . . . With us, the most delicate and humane of all the branches of the art of writing has been relegated to the journeymen of letters; we do not reflect that it is perhaps as difficult to write a good life as to live one.
Eminent Victorians preface (1918)
- 3 [Responding to the chairman of the military tribunal's question, "What would you do if you saw a German soldier trying to violate your sister?"] I would try to get between them.
Quoted in Robert Graves, Good-bye to All That (1929). Strachey's comment is sometimes quoted as "I should interpose my body."
- 4 [Deathbed remark.] If this is dying, then I don't think much of it.
Quoted in Michael Holroyd, Lytton Strachey (1968)

Mark Strand

Canadian-born U.S. poet, 1934–2014

- 1 We all have reasons for moving.
I move
to keep things whole.
"Keeping Things Whole" l. 14 (1969)

- 2 Ink runs from the corners of my mouth.
There is no happiness like mine.
I have been eating poetry.
"Eating Poetry" l. 1 (1980)

Lewis L. Strauss

U.S. government official, 1896–1974

- 1 Our children will enjoy in their homes electrical energy too cheap to meter.
Speech at twentieth anniversary of National Association of Science Writers, New York, N.Y., 16 Sept. 1954. Strauss was chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and was referring to atomic energy.

Igor Stravinsky

Russian-born U.S. composer, 1882–1971

- 1 Now that Mr. [John] Cage's most successful opus is undoubtedly the delectable silent piece 4'33", we may expect his example to be followed by more and more silent pieces by younger composers who, in rapid escalation, will produce their silences with more and more varied and beguiling combinations. . . . I only hope they turn out to be works of major length.
Themes and Episodes pt. 1 "Conspiracy of Silence" (1966)
- 2 My music is best understood by children and animals.
Quoted in Observer, 8 Oct. 1961

Cheryl Strayed

U.S. writer, 1968–

- 1 How wild it was, to let it be.
Wild ch. 19 (2012)

Barbra Streisand

U.S. singer and actress, 1942–

- 1 Success to me is having ten honeydew melons and eating only the top half of each one.
Quoted in Life, 20 Sept. 1963

August Strindberg

Swedish playwright and novelist, 1849–1912

- 1 The Family! Home of all social evils, a charitable institution for indolent women, a prison workhouse for family breadwinners, and a hell for children!
The Son of a Servant ch. 1 (1886) (translation by Evert Spinchorn)

- 2 I detest dogs, those protectors of cowards who have not the courage to bite the assailant themselves.

The Madman's Manifesto pt. 3 (1895) (translation by Anthony Swerling)

Muriel Strode

U.S. writer, 1875–1964

- I I will not follow where the path may lead, but I will go where there is no path, and I will leave a trail.

Open Court, Aug. 1903

Joe Strummer (John Graham Mellor)

Turkish-born English rock musician, 1952–2002

- I The ice age is coming, the sun's zooming in Meltdown expected, the wheat is growing thin
Engines stop running, but I have no fear 'Cause London is drowning and I live by the river.

"London Calling" (song) (1979)

William Strunk, Jr.

U.S. educator, 1869–1946

- I Omit needless words.
Vigorous writing is concise. A sentence should contain no unnecessary words, a paragraph no unnecessary sentences, for the same reason that a drawing should have no unnecessary lines and a machine no unnecessary parts. This requires not that the writer make all his sentences short, or that he avoid all detail and treat his subjects only in outline, but that every word tell.

The Elements of Style ch. 2 (1918)

Simeon Strunsky

Russian-born U.S. journalist and essayist, 1879–1948

- I Famous remarks are very seldom quoted correctly.

No Mean City ch. 38 (1944)

Theodore Sturgeon

U.S. science fiction writer, 1918–1985

- I Ninety-percent of everything is crud.

Venture Science Fiction Magazine, Sept. 1957. This is known as "Sturgeon's Law," although the author originally described it as "Sturgeon's Revelation." According to James Gunn in The New York Review of Science Fiction, Sept. 1995, Sturgeon used it in a talk at the 1953 World Science Fiction Convention, Philadelphia, Pa., saying: "Ninety percent of science fiction is crud. But then ninety percent of everything is crud, and it's the ten percent that isn't crud that is important. And the ten percent of science fiction that isn't crud is as good as or better than anything being written anywhere." The Oxford English Dictionary adds that "the aphorism was apparently first formulated in 1951 or 1952 at a lecture at New York University."

John Suckling

English poet and playwright, 1609–1642

- I Why so pale and wan, fond lover?
Prithee, why so pale?

Aglaure act 4, sc. 1 (1637)

Sukarno (Kusno Sosrodihardjo)

Indonesian president, 1901–1970

- I A Year of Living Dangerously.

Title of speech, Jakarta, 17 Aug. 1964

Brendan V. Sullivan, Jr.

U.S. lawyer, 1942–

- I [Upon being told to allow his client, Lieutenant Colonel Oliver North, to object for himself if he wished, at the Senate hearings on the Iran-Contra scandal.] I'm not a potted plant. . . . I'm here as the lawyer. That's my job.

Remarks at Senate hearing, 9 July 1987

Louis H. Sullivan

U.S. architect, 1856–1924

- I Form ever follows function.

"The Tall Office Building Artistically Considered," Lippincott's Magazine, Mar. 1896

William Graham Sumner

U.S. sociologist, 1840–1910

- I It would be hard to find a single instance of a direct assault by positive effort upon poverty, vice, and misery which has not either failed or, if it has not failed directly and entirely, has not entailed other evils greater than the one which it removed.

“Sociology” (1881)

- 2 We are born into no right whatever but what has an equivalent and corresponding duty right alongside of it. There is no such thing on this earth as something for nothing.

“The Forgotten Man” (1883)

- 3 The Forgotten Man . . . works, he votes, generally he prays—but he always pays—yes, above all, he pays. He does not want an office; his name never gets into the newspaper except when he gets married or dies. He keeps production going on. . . . He does not frequent the grocery or talk politics at the tavern. Consequently, he is forgotten. . . . All the burdens fall on him, or on her, for it is time to remember that the Forgotten Man is not seldom a woman.

“The Forgotten Man” (1883)

See Franklin Roosevelt 2

- 4 The Absurd Attempt to Make the World Over.
Title of article, Forum, Mar. 1894
- 5 If we put together all that we have learned from anthropology and ethnography about primitive men and primitive society, we perceive that the first task of life is to live. Men begin with acts, not with thoughts.
Folkways ch. 1 (1906)
- 6 A differentiation arises between ourselves, the we-group, or in-group, and everybody else, or the others-groups, out-groups.
Folkways ch. 1 (1906)
- 7 [Ethnocentrism is] the view of things in which one’s own group is the center of everything and all others are scaled and rated with reference to it. . . . Each group nourishes its own pride and vanity, boasts itself superior, exalts its own divinities, and looks with contempt on outsiders.
Folkways ch. 1 (1906)
- 8 The mores come down to us from the past. Each individual is born into them as he is born into the atmosphere, and he does not reflect on them, or criticise them any more than a baby analyzes the atmosphere before he begins to breathe it.

Folkways ch. 2 (1906)

- 9 The men, women, and children who compose a society at any time are the unconscious depositaries and transmitters of the mores. They inherited them without knowing it; they are molding them unconsciously; they will transmit them involuntarily. The people cannot make the mores. They are made by them.

Folkways ch. 11 (1906)

Sun Tzu

Chinese collective name for authors of The Art of War, fl. ca. 400 B.C.

- 1 War is a vital matter of state.
The Art of War ch. 1 (translation by Roger T. Ames)
- 2 Warfare is the art of deceit.
The Art of War ch. 1 (translation by Roger T. Ames)
- 3 There has never been a state that has benefited from an extended war.
The Art of War ch. 2 (translation by Roger T. Ames)
- 4 To win a hundred victories in a hundred battles is not the highest excellence; the highest excellence is to subdue the enemy’s army without fighting at all.
The Art of War ch. 3 (translation by Roger T. Ames)
- 5 He who knows the enemy and himself
Will never in a hundred battles be at risk.
The Art of War ch. 3 (translation by Roger T. Ames)
- 6 The victorious army only enters battle after having first won the victory, while the defeated army only seeks victory after having first entered the fray.
The Art of War ch. 4 (translation by Roger T. Ames)
- 7 So veiled and subtle,
To the point of having no form;
So mysterious and miraculous,
To the point of making no sound.
Therefore he can be arbiter of the enemy’s fate.
The Art of War ch. 6 (translation by Roger T. Ames)
- 8 Hence a commander who advances without any thought of winning personal fame and withdraws in spite of certain punishment, whose only concern is to protect his people and promote the interests of his ruler, is the nation's treasure.

The Art of War ch. 10 (translation by Roger T. Ames)

Sun Yat-sen

Chinese president, 1866–1925

- 1 The Chinese people have only family and clan solidarity; they do not have national spirit . . . they are just a heap of loose sand. . . . Other men are the carving knife and serving dish; we are the fish and the meat.

“China as a Heap of Loose Sand” (1924)

- 2 The National Government shall construct the Republic of China on the revolutionary basis of the Three Principles of the People. The primary requisite of reconstruction lies in the people's livelihood. . . . Second in importance is the people's sovereignty. . . . Third comes nationalism.

Fundamentals of National Reconstruction (1924)

Jacqueline Susann

U.S. novelist, 1921–1974

- 1 Valley of the Dolls.
Title of book (1966)
- 2 [Of Philip Roth:] He's a fine writer, but I wouldn't want to shake hands with him.
Quoted in Barbara Seaman, Lovely Me (1987)

Willie Sutton

U.S. criminal, 1901–1980

- 1 [Explanation of why he robbed banks:] That's where the money is.

Quoted in Saturday Evening Post, Jan. 1951

Han Suyin (Elisabeth Rosalie Matthilde Clare Chou)

Chinese novelist and physician, 1917–2012

- 1 Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing.

Title of book (1952)

See Francis Thompson 1

Claude A. Swanson

U.S. politician, 1862–1939

- 1 When in doubt, do right.

Quoted in Current Opinion, 1 July 1923

Gloria Swanson (Gloria Josephine Mae Swenson)

U.S. actress, 1899–1983

- 1 When I die, my epitaph should read: She Paid the Bills. That's the story of my life.

Quoted in Saturday Evening Post, 22 July 1950

Edwin Swayzee

U.S. jazz musician, 1906–1935

- 1 Jitter Bug.

Title of song (1934). Swayzee wrote this song for Cab Calloway. The actual coiner of the term jitterbug was trombonist-drummer Harry Alexander White; Swayzee picked up the word from White.

May Swenson

U.S. poet, 1919–1989

- 1 Body my house
my horse my hound
what will I do
when you are fallen.
“Question” l. 1 (1954)

Jonathan Swift

Irish-born English satirist and clergyman, 1667–1745

- 1 Instead of dirt and poison we have rather chosen to fill our hives with honey and wax; thus furnishing mankind with the two noblest of things, which are sweetness and light.

The Battle of the Books (1704)

See Matthew Arnold 27

- 2 Last week I saw a woman flayed, and you will hardly believe, how much it altered her person for the worse.
A Tale of a Tub ch. 9 (1704)
- 3 Laws are like Cobwebs, which may catch small Flies, but let Wasps and Hornets break through.
A Critical Essay upon the Faculties of the Mind (1709)
See Anacharsis 1
- 4 We have just Religion enough to make us hate, but not enough to make us love one another.
Thoughts on Various Subjects (1711)
- 5 When a true Genius appears in the World, you may know him by this Sign; that the Dunces are all in Confederacy against him.
Thoughts on Various Subjects (1711)
- 6 The stoical scheme of supplying our wants, by lopping off our desires, is like cutting off our feet when we want shoes.
Thoughts on Various Subjects (1711)
- 7 Proper words in proper places, make the true definition of a style.
Letter to a Young Gentleman Lately Entered into Holy Orders, 9 Jan. 1720
- 8 If Heaven had looked upon riches to be a valuable thing, it would not have given them to such a scoundrel.
Letter to Miss Vanhomrigh, 12–13 Aug. 1720
See Luther 3; Steele 2
- 9 All Government without the Consent of the Governed, is the very Definition of Slavery.
The Drapier's Letters no. 4 (1724)
- 10 I have ever hated all nations, professions, and communities, and all my love is towards individuals. . . . I hate and detest that animal called man, although I heartily love John, Peter, Thomas, and so forth.
Letter to Alexander Pope, 29 Sept. 1725
- 11 I cannot but conclude the Bulk of your Natives, to be the most pernicious Race of little odious Vermin that Nature ever suffered to crawl upon the Surface of the Earth.
Gulliver's Travels "A Voyage to Brobdingnag" ch. 6 (1726)
- 12 Whoever could make two Ears of Corn, or two Blades of Grass to grow upon a Spot of Ground where only one grew before; would deserve better of Mankind, and do more essential Service to his Country, than the whole Race of Politicians put together.
Gulliver's Travels "A Voyage to Brobdingnag" ch. 7 (1726)
- 13 He replied, That I must needs be mistaken, or that I said the thing which was not. (For they have no Word in their Language to express Lying or Falsehood.)
Gulliver's Travels "A Voyage to the Houyhnhnms" ch. 3 (1726)
- 14 [On lawyers:] I said there was a Society of Men among us, bred up from their Youth in the Art of proving by Words multiplied for the Purpose, that White is Black, and Black is White, according as they are paid. To this Society all the rest of the People are Slaves.
Gulliver's Travels "A Voyage to the Houyhnhnms" ch. 5 (1726)
- 15 It is a Maxim among these Lawyers, that whatever hath been done before, may legally be done again.
Gulliver's Travels "A Voyage to the Houyhnhnms" ch. 5 (1726)
- 16 I told him . . . that we eat when we were not hungry, and drank without the Provocation of Thirst.
Gulliver's Travels "A Voyage to the Houyhnhnms" ch. 6 (1726)
- 17 But when I beheld a Lump of Deformity, and Diseases both in Body and Mind, smitten with Pride, it immediately breaks all the Measures of my Patience.
Gulliver's Travels "A Voyage to the Houyhnhnms" ch. 12 (1726)
- 18 He had been Eight Years upon a Project for extracting Sun-Beams out of Cucumbers, which were to be put into Vials hermetically sealed, and let out to warm the Air in raw inclement Summers.
Gulliver's Travels "A Voyage to Laputa, etc." ch. 5 (1726)
- 19 Men are never so serious, thoughtful, and intent, as when they are at Stool.
Gulliver's Travels "A Voyage to Laputa, etc." ch. 6 (1726)

- 20 It is computed, that eleven Thousand Persons have, at several Times, suffered Death, rather than submit to break their Eggs at the smaller End. Many large Volumes have been published upon this Controversy: But the Books of the Big-Indians have been long forbidden, and the whole Party rendered incapable by Law of holding Employments.
Gulliver's Travels "A Voyage to Lilliput" ch. 4 (1726)
- 21 Ingratitude is among them a capital Crime, . . . For they reason thus: that whoever makes ill Returns to his Benefactor, must needs be a common Enemy to the rest of Mankind, from whom he hath received no Obligation; and therefore such a Man is not fit to live.
Gulliver's Travels "A Voyage to Lilliput" ch. 6 (1726)
- 22 They will never allow, that a Child is under any Obligation to his Father for begetting him, or his Mother for bringing him into the World; which, considering the Miseries of human Life, was neither a Benefit in itself, nor intended so by his Parents, whose Thoughts in their Love-encounters were otherwise employed.
Gulliver's Travels "A Voyage to Lilliput" ch. 6 (1726)
- 23 How haughtily he lifts his nose,
To tell what every schoolboy knows.
"The Journal" l. 81 (1727)
See Thomas Macaulay 8; Jeremy Taylor 1
- 24 Every man desires to live long; but no man would be old.
Thoughts on Various Subjects (1727 edition)
- 25 Hail, fellow, well met,
All dirty and wet:
Find out, if you can,
Who's master, who's man.
"My Lady's Lamentation" l. 165 (written 1728)
- 26 A Modest Proposal for Preventing the Children of Poor People from Being a Burden to their Parents, or the Country, and for Making Them Beneficial to the Public.
Title of pamphlet (1729)
- 27 I have been assured by a very knowing American of my Acquaintance in London, that a young healthy Child, well nursed, is, at a Year old, a most delicious, nourishing, and wholesome Food; whether Stewed, Roasted,
Baked, or Boiled; and, I make no doubt, that it will equally serve in a Fricasie, or Ragoust.
A Modest Proposal for Preventing the Children of Poor People from Being a Burden to their Parents, or the Country, and for Making Them Beneficial to the Public (1729)
- 28 Hobbes clearly proves, that every creature Lives in a state of war by nature.
"On Poetry" l. 319 (1733)
- 29 So, Nat'ralists observe, a Flea
Hath smaller Fleas that on him prey,
And these have smaller Fleas to bite 'em,
And so proceed ad infinitum:
Thus ev'ry Poet in his Kind,
Is bit by him that comes behind.
"On Poetry" l. 337 (1733)
- 30 The Sight of you is good for sore Eyes.
Polite Conversation "First Conversation" (1738)
- 31 He was a bold man that first eat an oyster.
Polite Conversation "Second Conversation" (1738)
- 32 There was all the World, and his Wife.
Polite Conversation "Third Conversation" (1738)
- 33 I'm going to the Land of Nod.
Polite Conversation "Third Conversation" (1738)
- 34 Ubi saeva indignatio ulterius cor lacerare nequit.
Abi Viator et imitare, si poteris, strenuum, pro virili, libertatis vindicatore.
Where savage indignation can no longer tear his heart. Go, traveller, and imitate him if you can, a man who to his utmost championed liberty.
Epitaph (1745). These words, in St. Patrick's Cathedral in Dublin, have been described by William Butler Yeats as "the greatest epitaph in history."
See Yeats 58
- 35 Although reason were intended by Providence to govern our passions, yet it seems that, in two points of the greatest moment to the being and continuance of the world, God hath intended our passions to prevail over reason. The first is, the propagation of our species, since no wise man ever married from the dictates of reason. The other is, the love of life, which, from the dictates of reason, every man would despise, and wish it at an end, or that it never had a beginning.
Thoughts on Religion (1765)

- 36 I heard the little bird say so.
Journal to Stella (1768) (entry for 23 May 1711)
- 37 The other day we had a long discourse with [Lady Orkney] about love; and she told us a saying . . . which I thought excellent, that in men, desire begets love; and in women, love begets desire.
Journal to Stella (1768) (entry for 30 Oct. 1712)
- 38 Good God! what a genius I had when I wrote that book [A Tale of a Tub].
Quoted in Works of Swift, ed. Walter Scott (1814)
- 39 [Of angling]: A stick and a string, with a worm at one end and a fool at the other.
Attributed in Monthly Review, Apr. 1805. Francis Grose, A Classical Dictionary of the Vulgar Tongue, 2nd ed. (1788), had earlier written: "A fool at the end of a stick; a fool at one end, and a maggot at the other: gibes on an angler." A similar remark has also been attributed to Samuel Johnson.

Taylor Swift

U.S. singer and songwriter, 1989–

- 1 Nice to meet you, where you been?
I could show you incredible things
Magic, madness, heaven, sin
Saw you there and I thought
Oh my God, look at that face
You look like my next mistake
Love's a game, wanna play?
"Blank Space" (song) (2014). This song was coauthored with Max Martin and Shellback.

Algernon Charles Swinburne

English poet, 1837–1909

- 1 When the hounds of spring are on winter's traces,
The mother of months in meadow or plain
Fills the shadows and windy places
With lisp of leaves and ripple of rain.
Atalanta in Calydon chorus (1865)
- 2 For winter's rains and ruins are over,
And all the season of snows and sins;
The days dividing lover and lover,
The light that loses, the night that wins;
And time remembered is grief forgotten,
And frosts are slain and flowers begotten,
And in green underwood and cover
Blossom by blossom the spring begins.
Atalanta in Calydon chorus (1865)

- 3 From too much love of living,
From hope and fear set free,
We thank with brief thanksgiving
Whatever gods may be
That no man lives forever,
That dead men rise up never;
That even the weariest river
Winds somewhere safe to sea.
"The Garden of Proserpine" l. 81 (1866)
- 4 If love were what the rose is,
And I were like the leaf,
Our lives would grow together
In sad or singing weather.
"A Match" l. 11 (1866)
- 5 As a god self-slain on his own strange altar,
Death lies dead.
"A Forsaken Garden" l. 79 (1878)

John Swinton

U.S. journalist, 1829–1901

- 1 There is no such thing in America as an independent press. . . . There is not one of you who dares to write your honest opinions, and if you did, you know beforehand that it would never appear in print. I am paid $150 a week for keeping my honest opinions out of the paper I am connected with.
Quoted in Chicago Labor Enquirer, 12 May 1888
- 2 The business of the New York journalist is to destroy the truth; to lie outright; to pervert; to vilify; to fawn at the feet of mammon, and to sell his race and his country for his daily bread.
Quoted in Chicago Labor Enquirer, 12 May 1888
- 3 We are the tools and vassals of rich men behind the scenes. We are the jumping jacks, they pull the strings and we dance. Our talents, our possibilities, and our lives are all the property of other men. We are intellectual prostitutes.
Quoted in Chicago Labor Enquirer, 12 May 1888

Herbert Bayard Swope

U.S. editor and journalist, 1882–1958

- 1 I can not give you [the formula for success], but I can give you the formula for failure—which is: Try to please everybody.
Quoted in Miami News, 27 Dec. 1950

Charles J. Sykes

U.S. writer, 1954–

- I Be nice to nerds. You may end up working for them.
San Diego Union-Tribune, 19 Sept. 1996

J. A. Symonds

English scholar, 1840–1893

- I The author [Richard Francis Burton] endeavoured to co-ordinate a large amount of miscellaneous matter, and to frame a general theory regarding the origin and prevalence of homosexual passions.
A Problem in Modern Ethics ch. 8 (1891). Appears to be the earliest printed occurrence in English of the word homosexual.

Arthur Symons

Welsh literary critic, 1865–1945

- I There is not a dream which may not come true, if we have the energy which makes or chooses our own fate. . . . It is only the dreams of those light sleepers who dream faintly that do not come true.
Poems of Ernest Dowson introduction (1900)

John Millington Synge

Irish playwright, 1871–1909

- I “A translation is no translation,” he said, “unless it will give you the music of a poem along with the words of it.”
The Aran Islands pt. 3 (1907)

- 2 Oh my grief, I’ve lost him surely. I’ve lost the only Playboy of the Western World.
The Playboy of the Western World act 3 (1907)

Thomas Szasz

Hungarian-born U.S. psychiatrist, 1920–2012

- I Happiness is an imaginary condition, formerly often attributed by the living to the dead, now usually attributed by adults to children, and by children to adults.
The Second Sin “Emotions” (1973)
- 2 If you talk to God, you are praying; if God talks to you, you have schizophrenia.
The Second Sin “Schizophrenia” (1973)
- 3 Formerly, when religion was strong and science weak, men mistook magic for medicine; now, when science is strong and religion weak, men mistake medicine for magic.
The Second Sin “Science and Scientism” (1973)
- 4 Traditionally, sex has been a very private, secretive activity. Herein perhaps lies its powerful force for uniting people in a strong bond. As we make sex less secretive, we may rob it of its power to hold men and women together.
The Second Sin “Sex” (1973)

Cornelius Tacitus

Roman historian, ca. 56–ca. 120

- 1 [Referring to the Romans:] They make a desert and call it peace.
Agricola ch. 30. These are allegedly Calgacus's words at the battle of the Grampians.
- 2 [Of Petronius:] Elegantiae arbiter.
The arbiter of taste.
Annals bk. 16, ch. 18
- 3 Deos fortioribus adesse.
The gods are on the side of the stronger.
Histories bk. 4, ch. 17
See Bussy-Rabutin 1; Frederick the Great 1; Turenne 1
- 4 Experientia docuit.
Experience has taught.
Histories bk. 5, ch. 6. Usually quoted as "Experientia docet [Experience teaches]."

William Howard Taft

U.S. president and judge, 1857–1930

- 1 [Of the 350-pound Taft:] Taft, stuck at a water-tank railroad station and learning that the train would only stop if a number of passengers wished to come aboard, telegraphed to the conductor: "Stop at Hicksville. Large party waiting to catch train."
Reported in Malcolm Ross, Death of a Yale Man (1939)
- 2 When I suggested to him [Taft, who weighed more than three hundred pounds] . . . that he occupy a Chair of Law at the University, he said that he was afraid that a Chair would not be adequate, but that if we would provide a Sofa of Law, it might be all right.
Reported in Anson Phelps Stokes, Letter to Frederick C. Hicks, 10 May 1940

William Tager

U.S. criminal, fl. 1986

- 1 What is the frequency, Kenneth?
Quoted in Chicago Tribune, 8 Oct. 1986. Television broadcaster Dan Rather was assaulted in New York City by two men, one of whom cryptically asked Rather, "What is the frequency, Kenneth?" The speaker was later identified as Tager.

Rabindranath Tagore

Indian poet and philosopher, 1861–1941

- 1 On the seashore of endless worlds children meet. Tempest roams in the pathless sky, ships are wrecked in the trackless water, death is abroad and children play. On the seashore of endless worlds is the great meeting of children.
"On the Seashore" l. 6 (1918)
- 2 Bigotry tries to keep truth safe in its hand
With a grip that kills it.
Fireflies (1928)

Hippolyte Adolphe Taine

French critic, historian, and philosopher, 1828–1893

- 1 Le vice et la vertu sont des produits comme le vitriol et le sucre.
Vice and virtue are products like vitriol and sugar.
Histoire de la Littérature Anglaise introduction (1863)

Nassim Nicholas Taleb

Lebanese-born U.S. author and statistician, 1960–

- 1 Our world is dominated by the extreme, the unknown, and the very improbable (improbable according to our current knowledge)—and all the while we spend our time engaged in small talk, focusing on the known, and the repeated.
The Black Swan: The Impact of the Highly Improbable prologue (2007)
- 2 Economic, financial, and political predictors . . . are quite ashamed to say anything outlandish to their clients—and yet events, it turns out, are almost always outlandish.
The Black Swan: The Impact of the Highly Improbable ch. 10 (2007)

S. G. Tallentyre (Evelyn Beatrice Hall)

English writer, 1868–1956

- 1 [Paraphrase of Voltaire's attitude:] I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it.

The Friends of Voltaire ch. 7 (1906). Bartlett's Familiar Quotations traces this to a letter by Voltaire to a M. le Riche, 6 Feb. 1770, but that is based on an error in Norbert Guterman, A Dictionary of French Quotations. The quotation does not appear in Voltaire's letter to François-Louis-Henri Leriche of that date nor anywhere else in Voltaire's writings.

Charles Maurice de Talleyrand-Périgord

French statesman, 1754–1838

- 1 You can do anything with bayonets except sit on them.

Quoted in N.Y. Times, 18 Dec. 1898. Although this is associated with Talleyrand, Littell's Living Age, 31 Jan. 1852, printed the following: "There may be some truth in that humorous Parisian bon mot, in which a queer sort of point has been given by attributing it to Prince Schwartzberg, that 'a man may do anything with bayonets except sit upon them.'"

See Inge 3

- 2 [Response to the tsar of Russia's criticism of those who "betrayed the cause of Europe:"] That, Sire, is a question of dates.

Quoted in Duff Cooper, Talleyrand (1932). Often quoted as "treason is a matter of dates."

- 3 [Of Napoleon's costly victory at the Battle of Borodino, 1812:] C'est le commencement de la fin. This is the beginning of the end.

Attributed in Édouard Fournier, L'Esprit dans l'Histoire (1857)

Talmud

Jewish traditional compilation, ca. sixth cent.

- 1 If the soft [water] can wear away the hard [stone], how much more can the words of the Torah, which are hard like iron, carve a way into my heart which is of flesh and blood!
Babylonian Talmud "Avot de Rabbi Nathan" 20b
- 2 Even an iron partition cannot interpose between Israel and their Father in Heaven.
Babylonian Talmud "Pesahim" 85b
- 3 [Of the laws of the Torah:] He shall live by them, but he shall not die because of them.
Babylonian Talmud "Yoma" 85b

- 4 On Passover eve the son asks his father, and if the son is unintelligent, his father instructs him to ask: Why is this night different from all other nights?

Mishnah "Pesahim" 10:4

- 5 The day is short, the labor long, the workers are idle, and reward is great, and the Master is urgent.

Mishnah "Pirquei Avot" 2:15

- 6 The tradition is a fence around the Law.

Mishnah "Pirquei Avot" 3:14

- 7 [Of the Torah:] Turn it and turn it again, for everything is in it.

Mishnah "Pirquei Avot" 5:22

- 8 Whoever destroys a single life is as guilty as though he had destroyed the entire world; and whoever rescues a single life earns as much merit as though he had rescued the entire world.

Mishnah "Sanhedrin" 4:5

Amy Tan

U.S. novelist, 1952–

- 1 Fate is shaped half by expectation, half by inattention.

The Joy Luck Club (1989)

Roger B. Taney

U.S. judge and cabinet officer, 1777–1864

- 1 They [slaves and their descendants] are not included, and are not intended to be included, under the word "citizens" in the Constitution, and can therefore, claim none of the rights and privileges which that instrument provides for and secures to citizens of the United States.

Dred Scott v. Sandford (1857)

- 2 They had for more than a century before been regarded as beings of an inferior order, and altogether unfit to associate with the white race, either in social or political relations; and so far inferior, that they had no rights which the white man was bound to respect; . . . This opinion was at that time fixed and universal in the civilized portion of the white race.

Dred Scott v. Sandford (1857)

T'ao Ch'ien

Chinese poet, 365–427

- 1 They told him that their ancestors had fled the disorders of Ch'in times and, having taken refuge here with wives and children and neighbors, had never ventured out again; consequently they had lost all contact with the outside world.
 "The Peach Blossom Spring" (ca. 500) (translation by James Robert Hightower)

Siegbert Tarrasch

German chess player, 1862–1934

- 1 Chess, like love, like music, has the power to make men happy.
The Game of Chess ch. 9 (1931)

Donna Tartt

U.S. novelist, 1963–

- 1 The snow in the mountains was melting and Bunny had been dead for several weeks before we came to understand the gravity of our situation.
The Secret History prologue (1992)

Torquato Tasso

Italian poet, 1544–1595

- 1 Much wished, hoped little, and demanded nought.
Jerusalem Delivered bk. 2, st. 16 (1580)

Ann Taylor

English children's book writer, 1782–1866

- 1 Who ran to help me when I fell,
 And would some pretty story tell,
 Or kiss the place to make it well?
 My mother.
 "My Mother" l. 21 (1804)
- 2 Twinkle, twinkle, little star,
 How I wonder what you are!
 Up above the world so high,
 Like a diamond in the sky!
Rhymes for the Nursery "The Star" l. 1 (1806). Book authored with Jane Taylor, who wrote "The Star."
 See Carroll 16

Bert L. Taylor

U.S. journalist, 1866–1921

- 1 A bore is a man who, when you ask him how he is, tells you.
The So-Called Human Race (1922)

James Taylor

U.S. singer and songwriter, 1948–

- 1 Just yesterday morning they let me know you were gone,
 Suzanne the plans they made put an end to you.
 I walked out this morning and I wrote down this song,
 I just can't remember who to send it to.
 "Fire and Rain" (song) (1969)
- 2 I've seen fire and I've seen rain
 I've seen sunny days that I thought would never end
 I've seen lonely times when I could not find a friend
 But I always thought that I'd see you again.
 "Fire and Rain" (song) (1969)
- 3 There's a song that they sing when they take to the highway
 A song that they sing when they take to the sea
 A song that they sing of their home in the sky
 Maybe you can believe it if it helps you to sleep
 But singing works just fine for me.
 "Sweet Baby James" (song) (1970)
- 4 The first of December was covered with snow
 So was the turnpike from Stockbridge to Boston
 The Berkshires seemed dream-like on account of that frosting
 With ten miles behind me and ten thousand more to go.
 "Sweet Baby James" (song) (1970)

Jeremy Taylor

English clergyman and author, 1613–1667

- 1 This thing . . . that can be understood and not expressed, may make a neuter gender; and every School-boy knows it.

Tell Taylor

U.S. entertainer, 1876–1937

- 1 Down by the old mill stream where I first met you,
With your eyes of blue, dressed in gingham too,
It was there I knew that you loved me true,
You were sixteen, my village queen, by the old mill stream.
"Down by the Old Mill Stream" (song) (1910)
- 2 You're in the Army now,
You're not behind a plow;
You'll never get rich
A-diggin' a ditch,
You're in the Army now.
"You're in the Army Now" (song) (1917). Cowritten with Ole Olsen.

Sara Teasdale

U.S. poet, 1884–1933

- 1 Time is a kind friend, he will make us old.
"Let It Be Forgotten" l. 4 (1919)

Tecumseh

Native American leader, 1768–1813

- 1 Sell a country! Why not sell the air, the clouds, and the great sea, as well as the earth? Did not the Great Spirit make them all for the use of his children?
Speech to William Henry Harrison, Vincennes,
Indiana Territory, 14 Aug. 1810
- 2 Sleep not longer, O Choctaws and Chickasaws, in false security and delusive hopes. Our broad domains are fast escaping from our grasp. Every year our white intruders become more greedy, exacting, oppressive, and overbearing.
Speech before joint council of Choctaws and Chickasaws, Sept. 1811
- 3 Where today are the Pequot? Where are the Narragansett, the Mohican, the Pokanoket, and many other once powerful tribes of our people?
They have vanished before the avarice and oppression of the white man, as snow before the summer sun.

Quoted in Dee Brown, *Bury My Heart at Wounded
Knee* (1970)

Pierre Teilhard de Chardin

French philosopher and paleontologist, 1881–
1955

- 1 Tout ce qui monte converge.
Everything that rises must converge.
"Faith in Man" (1947)
- 2 The day will come when, after harnessing space, the winds, the tides, gravitation, we shall harness for God the energies of love. And, on that day, for the second time in the history of the world, man will have discovered fire.
The Evolution of Chastity (1934)

Friends
- 22 [Catchphrase of Ross Geller, played by David Schwimmer:] We were on a break!
Friends
- 23 [Catchphrase of George Burns, said to Gracie Allen:] Say goodnight, Gracie.
The George Burns and Gracie Allen Show. It is often said that Allen would respond, "Goodnight, Gracie."
- Burns, however, in his book Gracie: A Love Story (1988) describes this response as a show business myth. That myth may have been reinforced by analogous banter between Dan Rowan and Dick Martin in the series Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In, in which Martin would actually respond to "Say goodnight, Dick" by saying "Goodnight, Dick."
- 24 [Catchphrase of Maxwell Smart, played by Don Adams:] Would you believe . . .
Get Smart. Earlier used by Adams on the Bill Dana Show.
- 25 [Catchphrase of Jimmy Walker:] Dy-No-Mite!
Good Times
- 26 [Catchphrase of Fonzie, played by Henry Winkler:] Aaay.
Happy Days

Hill Street Blues
- 29 [Catchphrase of Ralph Kramden, played by Jackie Gleason:] One of these days, Alice . . . POW!, right in the kisser!
The Honeymooners
- 30 [Catchphrase of Ralph Kramden, played by Jackie Gleason:] To the moon, Alice!
The Honeymooners
- 31 Everybody lies.
House
- 32 [War cry of Chief Thunderthud:] Kowabunga!
The Howdy Doody Show
- 33 [Catchphrase of Buffalo Bob Smith:] Say kids, what time is it? It's Howdy Doody Time!
The Howdy Doody Show
- 34 [Catchphrase of Barney Stinson, played by Neil Patrick Harris:] Legendary.
How I Met Your Mother
- 35 [Catchphrase of Barney Stinson, played by Neil Patrick Harris:] Suit up!
How I Met Your Mother
- 36 [Catchphrase of Ricky Ricardo, played by Desi Arnaz:] Lucy, I'm ho-o-ome.
I Love Lucy

- 37 [Catchphrase of David Banner, played by Bill Bixby:] Don't make me angry. You wouldn't like me when I'm angry.
The Incredible Hulk
- 38 How sweet it is!
The Jackie Gleason Show
- 39 [Catchphrase of Lt. Theo Kojak, played by Telly Savalas:] Who loves ya, baby?
Kojak
- 40 Wunnerful, wunnerful.
The Lawrence Welk Show
- 41 [Catchphrase of robot:] Danger! Danger, Will Robinson!
Lost in Space
- 42 [Catchphrase of Maynard G. Krebs, played by Bob Denver:] You rang?
The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis. This was also a catchphrase of Lurch, played by Ted Cassidy, on the later television series The Addams Family.
- 43 [Catchphrase of Maynard G. Krebs, played by Bob Denver:] Work!
The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis
- 44 Now it's time to say goodbye to all our company. M-I-C (see you real soon). K-E-Y (why? because we like you). M-O-U-S-E.
The Mickey Mouse Club
- 45 Good morning, Mr. Phelps. . . . Your mission . . . should you decide to accept it, is to [mission of the week described]. As always, should you or any member of your IM Force be caught or killed, the secretary will disavow any knowledge of your actions. This tape will self-destruct in five seconds.
Mission Impossible. In the show's first season, the beginning was "Good morning, Mr. Briggs."
- 46 [Catchphrase of Robot AF709, played by Julie Newmar:] Does not compute.
My Living Doll
- 47 There is nothing wrong with your television set. Do not attempt to adjust the picture. We are controlling the transmission.
The Outer Limits
- 48 Thanks . . . I needed that.
The Perry Como Show
- 49 You really know how to hurt a guy.
The Perry Como Show
- 50 Come on down!
The Price Is Right
- 51 [Catchphrase of "Number Six," played by Patrick McGoochan:] I am not a number! I am a free man!
The Prisoner
- 52 [Catchphrase of "Number Six," played by Patrick McGoochan:] I will not be pushed, stamped, filed, indexed, briefed, debriefed, or numbered. My life is my own.
The Prisoner
- 53 [Catchphrase of Tim Gunn:] Make it work.
Project Runway
- 54 [Catchphrase of Ashton Kutcher:] You've been punk'd.
Punk'd
- 55 Sock it to me!
Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In. Was in use before this show, appearing in a song sung by Stepin Fetchit in the 1945 short film "Big Times."
- 56 [Catchphrase of Arte Johnson:] Very interesting . . . but stupid.
Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In
- 57 You bet your sweet bippy.
Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In
- 58 [Catchphrase of Gary Owen:] Beautiful downtown Burbank.
Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In
- 59 [Catchphrase of Sammy Davis, Jr., and Flip Wilson:] Here come de judge.
Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In. This phrase derived most immediately from a routine of Dewey "Pigmeat" Markham's, but the Oxford Dictionary of Catchphrases states, "The 'here comes the judge' vaudeville routine written and performed by blacks for black audiences dates to the early part of the century, and particularly the 1920s."
- 60 [Catchphrase of Fred Sanford, played by Redd Foxx:] This is the big one! Elizabeth, I'm coming to join you honey!
Sanford and Son
- 61 [Catchphrase of Steve Martin:] Exc-u-u-u-se me!
Saturday Night Live
- 62 [Catchphrase of Mike Myers and Dana Carvey in "Wayne's World" skits:] We're not worthy!
Saturday Night Live

- 63 [Catchphrase of Mike Myers and Dana Carvey in “Wayne’s World” skits, indicating that a female was attractive:] Schwing!
Saturday Night Live
- 64 [Catchphrase of Dan Aykroyd, speaking to Jane Curtin:] Jane, you ignorant slut.
Saturday Night Live
- 65 [Catchphrase of Steve Martin and Dan Aykroyd:] We are two wild and crazy guys!
Saturday Night Live
- 66 [Catchphrase of Mike Myers and Dana Carvey in “Wayne’s World” skits, negating the entire statement preceding it:] Not!
Saturday Night Live. This usage of the word not was not original with the “Wayne’s World” skits; the Historical Dictionary of American Slang documents it as far back as 1893.
- 67 [Catchphrase of Mike Myers and Dana Carvey in “Wayne’s World” skits:] No way?! Way!
Saturday Night Live
- 68 Live from New York, it’s Saturday Night!
Saturday Night Live
- 69 Hello, Newman.
Seinfeld
- 70 [Catchphrase of Paris Hilton:] That’s hot.
The Simple Life
- 71 [Indicating approval of a motion picture:] Two thumbs up!
Siskel & Ebert at the Movies
- 72 Oh my God! They killed Kenny!
South Park
- 73 The tribe has spoken.
Survivor
- 74 Voted off the island.
Survivor
- 75 [Catchphrase of Ed McMahon, introducing host Johnny Carson:] He-e-ere’s . . . Johnny!
The Tonight Show
- 76 [Catchphrase of Johnny Carson:] I did not know that.
The Tonight Show
- 77 Will the real [name of person] please stand up?
To Tell the Truth
- 78 [Catchphrase of Dale Cooper, played by Kyle MacLachlan:] Damn good coffee.
Twin Peaks
- 79 [Title of series:] Upstairs, Downstairs.
Upstairs, Downstairs
- 80 [Catchphrase of Road Runner:] Beep! Beep!
Warner Brothers cartoons. First appeared in the animated short film Fast and Furry-Ous (1949), directed by Chuck Jones.
- 81 [Catchphrase of Tweety Pie:] I tawt I taw a puddy tat!
Warner Brothers cartoons. First appeared in the 1942 cartoon “A Tale of Two Kitties.”
- 82 [Catchphrase of Sylvester the Cat:] Thufferin’ Thuccotash!
Warner Brothers cartoons. Mel Blanc, who voiced Sylvester, had previously used this phrase for a traveling salesman character named Roscoe E. Wortle on the radio program The Judy Canova Show.
- 83 [Signoff of Porky the Pig:] Th-th-th-that’s all, folks!
Warner Brothers cartoons. Before Porky, “That’s all, folks!” was used by other characters ending Looney Tunes cartoons.
- 84 [Catchphrase of Anne Robinson:] You are the weakest link. Goodbye!
The Weakest Link
- 85 [Steve Allen’s regular question:] Is it bigger than a breadbox?
What’s My Line
- 86 Is that your final answer?
Who Wants to Be a Millionaire?
- 87 The truth is out there.
The X-Files
- 88 [Catchphrase of Snagglepuss the lion:] Exit, stage left [or “right”].
Yogi Bear
- 89 [Catchphrase of Snagglepuss the lion:] Heavens to Murgatroyd!
Yogi Bear. This was used earlier by Bert Lahr in the 1944 film Meet the People.
- 90 Smarter than the average bear.
Yogi Bear

Shirley Temple Black

U.S. actress and diplomat, 1928–2014

- 1 I stopped believing in Santa Claus when I was six. Mother took me to see him in a department store and he asked for my autograph.
Quoted in Leslie Halliwell, Halliwell’s Filmgoer’s Companion (1984)

George Tenet

U.S. government official, 1953–

- 1 It's a slam-dunk case.

Quoted in Bob Woodward, Plan of Attack (2004). Tenet's response to President George W. Bush when the latter asked him, during a White House meeting, 21 Dec. 2002, about the evidence that Iraq possessed weapons of mass destruction.

John Tenniel

English cartoonist and illustrator, 1820–1914

- 1 [On Bismarck's leaving office:] Dropping the pilot.
Cartoon caption and title of poem, Punch, 29 Mar. 1890

Alfred, Lord Tennyson

English poet, 1809–1892

- 1 Out flew the web and floated wide;
The mirror cracked from side to side;
"The curse is come upon me," cried
The Lady of Shalott.
"The Lady of Shalott" pt. 3, st. 5 (1832)
- 2 Break, break, break,
On thy cold gray stones, O Sea!
And I would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me.
"Break, Break, Break" l. 1 (1842)
- 3 And the stately ships go on
To their haven under the hill;
But O for the touch of a vanish'd hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still!
"Break, Break, Break" l. 9 (1842)
- 4 Kind hearts are more than coronets,
And simple faith than Norman blood.
"Lady Clara Vere de Vere" l. 55 (1842)

- 5 In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.
"Locksley Hall" l. 20 (1842)
- 6 For I dipp'd into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be.
"Locksley Hall" l. 119 (1842)
- 7 Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there
rain'd a ghastly dew
From the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue.
"Locksley Hall" l. 123 (1842)
- 8 Till the war-drum throbbed no longer, and the battle-flags were furled
In the Parliament of man, the Federation of the world.
"Locksley Hall" l. 127 (1842)
- 9 I will take some savage woman, she shall rear
my dusky race.
"Locksley Hall" l. 168 (1842)
- 10 I the heir of all the ages, in the foremost files of time.
"Locksley Hall" l. 178 (1842)
- 11 Forward, forward let us range,
Let the great world spin for ever down the ringing grooves of change.
"Locksley Hall" l. 181 (1842)
- 12 Better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay.
"Locksley Hall" l. 184 (1842)
- 13 My strength is as the strength of ten,
Because my heart is pure.
"Sir Galahad" l. 3 (1842)
- 14 It little profits that an idle king,
By this still hearth, among these barren crags,
Match'd with an aged wife, I mete and dole
Unequal laws unto a savage race
That hoard, and sleep, and feed, and know not me.
"Ulysses" l. 1 (1842)
- 15 I cannot rest from travel; I will drink
Life to the lees: all times I have enjoy'd Greatly, have suffer'd greatly.
"Ulysses" l. 6 (1842)

- 16 I am become a name.
"Ulysses" l. 11 (1842)
- 17 Much have I seen and known; cities of men
And manners, climates, councils, governments,
Myself not least, but honor'd of them all;
And drunk delight of battle with my peers,
Far on the ringing plains of windy Troy.
I am a part of all that I have met.
"Ulysses" l. 13 (1842)
- 18 Yet all experience is an arch wherethro'
Gleams that untravell'd world, whose margin fades
For ever and for ever when I move.
"Ulysses" l. 19 (1842)
- 19 How dull it is to pause, to make an end,
To rust unburnish'd, not to shine in use!
As tho' to breathe were life.
"Ulysses" l. 22 (1842)
- 20 And this gray spirit yearning in desire
To follow knowledge like a sinking star,
Beyond the utmost bound of human thought.
"Ulysses" l. 30 (1842)
- 21 This is my son, mine own Telemachus,
To whom I leave the scepter and the isle.
"Ulysses" l. 33 (1842)
- 22 He works his work, I mine.
"Ulysses" l. 43 (1842)
- 23 Death closes all: but something ere the end,
Some work of noble note, may yet be done,
Not unbecoming men that strove with gods.
"Ulysses" l. 51 (1842)
- 24 The deep
Moans round with many voices. Come, my friends,
'Tis not too late to seek a newer world.
"Ulysses" l. 55 (1842)
- 25 For my purpose holds
To sail beyond the sunset, and the baths
Of all the western stars, until I die.
It may be that the gulfs will wash us down:
It may be we shall touch the Happy Isles,
And see the great Achilles, whom we knew.
"Ulysses" l. 59 (1842)
- 26 Tho' much is taken, much abides; and tho'
We are not now that strength which in old days Moved earth and heaven: That which we are,
we are;
One equal temper of heroic hearts,
Made weak by time and fate, but strong in will
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield.
"Ulysses" l. 65 (1842)
- 27 In Memoriam.
Title of poem (1850)
- 28 Let knowledge grow from more to more,
But more of reverence in us dwell;
That mind and soul, according well,
May make one music as before.
In Memoriam prologue, st. 7 (1850)
- 29 I hold it true, whate'er befall;
I feel it, when I sorrow most;
'Tis better to have loved and lost
Than never to have loved at all.
In Memoriam canto 27 (1850)
See Congreve 7
- 30 Nature, red in tooth and claw.
In Memoriam canto 56 (1850)
- 31 So many worlds, so much to do,
So little done, such things to be.
In Memoriam canto 73 (1850)
See Rhodes 2
- 32 He seems so near and yet so far.
In Memoriam canto 97 (1850)
- 33 Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring, happy bells, across the snow:
The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.
In Memoriam canto 106 (1850)
- 34 Wearing all that weight
Of learning lightly like a flower.
In Memoriam epilogue, st. 10 (1850)
- 35 One God, one law, one element,
And one far-off divine event,
To which the whole creation moves.
In Memoriam epilogue, st. 36 (1850)
- 36 He clasps the crag with crooked hands;
Close to the sun in lonely lands,
Ringed with the azure world, he stands.
The wrinkled sea beneath him crawls;
He watches from his mountain walls,
And like a thunderbolt he falls.
"The Eagle" l. 1 (1851)

- 37 Half a league, half a league,
Half a league onward,
All in the valley of Death
Rode the six hundred.
"Forward the Light Brigade!"
"The Charge of the Light Brigade" l. 1 (1854)
- 38 Was there a man dismay'd?
Not tho' the soldier knew
Some one had blunder'd.
"The Charge of the Light Brigade" l. 6 (1854).
Tennyson was inspired to write this poem by reading the account of the Battle of Balaclava in the Times (London), 13 Nov. 1854. In that account, written by William Russell, this passage appears: "The British soldier will do his duty, even to certain death, and is not paralyzed by feeling that he is the victim of some hideous blunder."
- 39 Theirs not to make reply,
Theirs not to reason why,
Theirs but to do and die:
Into the valley of Death
Rode the six hundred.
"The Charge of the Light Brigade" l. 13 (1854)
- 40 Cannon to right of them,
Cannon to left of them,
Cannon in front of them
Volley'd and thunder'd.
"The Charge of the Light Brigade" l. 18 (1854)
- 41 Into the jaws of Death,
Into the mouth of Hell.
"The Charge of the Light Brigade" l. 24 (1854)
- 42 Mastering the lawless science of our law,
That codeless myriad of precedent,
That wilderness of single instances.
"Aylmer's Field" st. 18 (1864)
- 43 The woods decay, the woods decay and fall,
The vapors weep their burthen to the ground,
Man comes and tills the field and lies beneath,
And after many a summer dies the swan.
"Tithonus" l. 1 (1860–1864)
- 44 For why is all around us here
As if some lesser god had made the world,
But had not force to shape it as he would?
Idylls of the King "The Passing of Arthur" l. 13 (1869)
- 45 The old order changeth, yielding place to new,
And God fulfils himself in many ways,
Lest one good custom should corrupt the world.

Idylls of the King "The Passing of Arthur" l. 408 (1869)

- 46 For tho' from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar.
"Crossing the Bar" l. 13 (1889)

Terence (Publius Terentius Afer)

Roman playwright, ca. 190 B.C.–159 B.C.

1 Hinc illae lacrimae.

Hence those tears.

Andria l. 126

2 Nullumst iam dictum quod non dictum sit prius.

Nothing is said that has not been said before.

Eunuchus prologue, l. 41

3 Homo sum: humani nil a me alienum puto.

I am a man, and nothing human is foreign to me.

Mother Teresa (Agnes Gonxha Bojaxhiu)

Albanian-born Indian missionary, 1910–1997

- 1 God loves me, and I have an opportunity to love others as he loves me, not in big things, but in small things with great love.

Nobel Peace Prize Lecture, Stockholm, Sweden,

11 Dec. 1979

- 2 Let us do something beautiful for God.

Quoted in Malcom Muggeridge, Mother Teresa of Calcutta (1971)

Teresa of Ávila (Teresa de Cepeda y Ahumada)

Spanish mystic and saint, 1512–1582

- 1 I die because I do not die.

"Versos Nacidos del Fuego del Amor de Dios" (ca. 1571–1573)

- 2 More tears are shed over answered prayers than unanswered ones.

Paul Terry

U.S. cartoonist and filmmaker, 1887–1971

- 1 When I feel like exercising, I just lie down until the feeling goes away.
Quoted in Cleveland Plain Dealer, 13 June 1937

Tertullian (Quintus Septimius Florens Tertullianus)

Latin Church father, ca. 160–ca. 225

- 1 Domina mater ecclesia.
Mother Church.
Ad Martyras ch. 1
- 2 We grow up in greater number as often as we are cut down by you. The blood of the Christians is their harvest seed.
Apologeticus ch. 50, sec. 13. Often quoted as “The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the Church.”
- 3 Certum est, quia impossibile est.
It is certain because it is impossible.
De Carne Christi ch. 5. Often quoted as Credo quia impossibile (I believe because it is impossible).

Nikola Tesla

Croatian-born U.S. electrical engineer and inventor, 1856–1943

- 1 Ere many generations pass, our machinery will be driven by a power obtainable at any point of the universe. . . . Throughout space there is energy . . . it is a mere question of time when men will succeed in attaching their machinery to the very wheelwork of nature.
“Experiments with Alternate Currents of High Potential and High Frequency” (1892)
- 2 In the twenty-first century the robot will take the place which slave labor occupied in ancient civilization.
“A Machine to End War” (1935)
- 3 When wireless is perfectly applied the whole earth will be converted into a huge brain, which in fact it is, all things being particles of a real and rhythmic whole. We shall be able to communicate with one another instantly, irrespective of distance. Not only this, but through television and telephony we shall see and hear one another as perfectly as though we were face to face, despite intervening distances of thousands of miles; and the instruments through which we shall be able to do this will be amazingly simple compared with our present telephone. A man will be able to carry one in his vest pocket.

Quoted in Collier's, 30 Jan. 1926

Tewodros II

Ethiopian emperor, ca. 1820–1868

- 1 I know their game. First, the traders and the missionaries: then the ambassadors: then the cannon. It's better to go straight to the cannon.
Quoted in Basil Davidson, Africa in Modern History: The Search for a New Society (1978)

William Makepeace Thackeray

Indian-born English novelist, 1811–1863

- 1 There is a skeleton in every house.
“Punch in the East” (1845)
- 2 He who meanly admires mean things is a Snob.
The Book of Snobs ch. 2 (1848)
- 3 A woman with fair opportunities and without a positive hump, may marry whom she likes.
Vanity Fair ch. 4 (1847–1848)
- 4 Them's my sentiments!
Vanity Fair ch. 21 (1847–1848)
- 5 How to live well on nothing a year.
Vanity Fair ch. 36 (chapter title) (1847–1848)
- 6 I think I could be a good woman if I had five thousand a year.
Vanity Fair ch. 36 (1847–1848)
- 7 Ah! Vanitas Vanitatum! Which of us is happy in this world? Which of us has his desire? or, having it, is satisfied?—Come, children, let us shut up the box and the puppets, for our play is played out.
Vanity Fair ch. 67 (1847–1848)

8 It is best to love wisely, no doubt: but to love foolishly is better than not to be able to love at all.

The History of Pendennis ch. 6 (1848–1850)

9 Remember, it is as easy to marry a rich woman as a poor woman.

12 'Tis strange what a man may do, and a woman yet think him an angel.

The History of Henry Esmond bk. 1, ch. 7 (1852)

13 [Of Jonathan Swift:] An immense genius: an awful downfall and ruin. So great a man he seems to me, that thinking of him is like thinking of an empire falling.

The English Humorists of the Eighteenth Century: A Series of Lectures "Swift" (1853)

14 The wicked are wicked, no doubt, and they go astray and they fall, and they come by their deserts; but who can tell the mischief which the very virtuous do?

The Newcomes ch. 20 (1853–1855)

15 Next to the very young, I suppose the very old are the most selfish.

The Virginians ch. 61 (1857–1859)

16 Whatever you are, try to be a good one.

Attributed in St. Nicholas, Mar. 1897. Thackeray was said by Laurence Hutton to have given this advice to Hutton in the 1850s.

Margaret Thatcher

British prime minister, 1925–2013

1 In politics, if you want anything said ask a man, if you want anything done ask a woman.
Speech to National Council of the Townswomen's Guilds, London, 20 May 1965

2 No woman in my time will be Prime Minister or Chancellor or Foreign Secretary—not the top jobs.

Interview, Sunday Telegraph (London), 26 Oct. 1969

3 They've [the Labor Government] got the usual Socialist disease—they've run out of other people's money.

Speech to Conservative Party Conference, Blackpool, England, 10 Oct. 1975. This is usually quoted as "The trouble with socialism is that you eventually run out of other people's money."

4 To those waiting with bated breath for that favorite media catchphrase, the U-turn, I have only this to say. "You turn if you want; the lady's not for turning."

Speech at Conservative Party Conference, Brighton, England, 10 Oct. 1980
See Christopher Fry 1

5 [On the reconquest of South Georgia in the Falklands War:] Just rejoice at that news and congratulate our forces and the Marines. Rejoice!

Statement to journalists at 10 Downing Street, London, 25 Apr. 1982. Usually quoted as "Rejoice, rejoice!"

6 We know we can do it—we haven't lost the ability. That is the Falklands Factor.

Speech at Conservative Party rally, Cheltenham, England, 3 July 1982

- 7 [Of the Irish Republican Army bombing in Brighton intended to assassinate her:] This was the day I was meant not to see.
Television interview on Channel 4, 15 Oct. 1984
- 8 [Of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev:] We can do business together.
BBC television interview, 17 Dec. 1984
- 9 We must try to find ways to starve the terrorist and the hijacker of the oxygen of publicity on which they depend.
Speech to American Bar Association, London, 15 July 1985
- 10 The President of the Commission, Mr. Delors, said at a press conference the other day that he wanted the European Parliament to be the democratic body of the Community, he wanted the Commission to be the Executive and he wanted the Council of Ministers to be the Senate. No. No. No.
Statement in House of Commons, 30 Oct. 1990
- 11 In my lifetime all the problems have come from mainland Europe and all the solutions have come from the English-speaking nations across the world.
Speech at reception for Scottish delegates to Conservative Party conference, Blackpool, England, 5 Oct. 1999
- 12 There is no such thing as Society. There are individual men and women, and there are families.
Quoted in Woman's Own, 31 Oct. 1987
- 13 We have become a grandmother.
Quoted in Times (London), 4 Mar. 1989

Bob Thaves

U.S. cartoonist, 1924–2006

- 1 [Of Fred Astaire:] Sure he was great, but don't forget that Ginger Rogers did everything he did, . . . backwards and in high heels.
Frank and Ernest (comic strip), 3 May 1982. Often attributed to Ann Richards, Linda Ellerbee, or Faith Whittlesey, but no reference before Thaves's strip has been found, and Thaves confirmed to the editor of this book that he was the originator.

Ernest L. Thayer

U.S. journalist, 1863–1940

- 1 The outlook wasn't brilliant for the Mudville nine that day.
"Casey at the Bat" l. 1 (1888)
- 2 There was ease in Casey's manner as he stepped into his place.
"Casey at the Bat" l. 21 (1888)
- 3 The sneer is gone from Casey's lip, his teeth are clenched in hate,
He pounds with cruel violence his bat upon the plate.
And now the pitcher holds the ball, and now he lets it go,
And now the air is shattered by the force of Casey's blow.
"Casey at the Bat" l. 45 (1888)
- 4 Oh! somewhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright;
The band is playing somewhere, and somewhere hearts are light,
And somewhere men are laughing, and somewhere children shout;
But there is no joy in Mudville—mighty Casey has struck out.
"Casey at the Bat" l. 49 (1888)

William Roscoe Thayer

U.S. historian, 1859–1923

- 1 [Biography of James A. Garfield.:] From Log-Cabin to the White House.
Title of book (1881)

Themistocles

Greek general and statesman, ca. 528 B.C.—ca. 462 B.C.

- 1 [To Spartan admiral Eurybiades, when the latter raised his staff.:] Strike, but hear me.
Quoted in Plutarch, Lives

Clarence Thomas

U.S. judge, 1948–

- 1 [Of the contentious hearings for his nomination as a Supreme Court justice:] This is a circus. It's a national disgrace. From my standpoint as a black American, it is a high-tech lynching for uppity blacks who in any way deign to think for themselves, to do for themselves.

Quoted in N.Y. Times, 12 Oct. 1991

Dylan Thomas

Welsh poet, 1914–1953

- 1 The force that through the green fuse drives the flower
Drives my green age; that blasts the roots of trees
Is my destroyer.
“The Force That Through the Green Fuse Drives the Flower” l. 1 (1934)
- 2 I see the boys of summer in their ruin
Lay the gold tithings barren,
Setting no store by harvest, freeze the soils.
“I See the Boys of Summer” l. 1 (1934)
- 3 And death shall have no dominion.
Dead men naked they shall be one
With the man in the wind and the west moon.
“And Death Shall Have No Dominion” l. 1 (1936)
See Bible 343
- 4 The hand that signed the paper felled a city;
Five sovereign fingers taxed the breath,
Doubled the globe of dead and halved a country;
These five kings did a king to death.
“The Hand That Signed the Paper Felled a City” l. 1
(1936)
- 5 When All My Five and Country Senses See.
Title of poem (1939)
- 6 Now as I was young and easy under the apple boughs
About the lilting house and happy as the grass was green.
“Fern Hill” l. 1 (1946)
- 7 Oh as I was young and easy in the mercy of his means,
Time held me green and dying
Though I sang in my chains like the sea.
“Fern Hill” l. 52 (1946)
- 8 In my craft or sullen art
Exercised in the still night
When only the moon rages
And the lovers lie abed
With all their griefs in their arms.
“In My Craft or Sullen Art” l. 1 (1946)
- 9 But for the lovers, their arms
Round the griefs of the ages,
Who pay no praise or wages
Nor heed my craft or art.
“In My Craft or Sullen Art” l. 17 (1946)
- 10 It was my thirtieth year to heaven
Woke to my hearing from harbor and neighbor wood
And the mussel pooled and the heron
Priested shore
The morning beckon.
“Poem in October” l. 1 (1946)
- 11 And I rose
In rainy autumn
And walked abroad in a shower of all my days.
“Poem in October” l. 14 (1946)
- 12 A child’s
Forgotten mornings when he walked with his mother
Through the parables
Of sunlight
And the legends of the green chapels
And the twice-told fields of infancy.
“Poem in October” l. 46 (1946)
- 13 And there could I marvel my birthday Away but the weather turned around. And the true

- Joy of the long dead child sang burning
In the sun.
"Poem in October" l. 61 (1946)
- 14 O may my heart's truth
Still be sung
On this high hill in a year's turning.
"Poem in October" l. 68 (1946)
- 15 And I must enter again the round
Zion of the water bead
And the synagogue of the ear of corn.
"A Refusal to Mourn the Death, by Fire, of a Child in London" l. 7 (1946)
- 16 Deep with the first dead lies London's daughter,
Robed in the long friends,
The grains beyond age, the dark veins of her mother,
Secret by the unmourning water
Of the riding Thames.
After the first death, there is no other.
"A Refusal to Mourn the Death, by Fire, of a Child in London" l. 19 (1946)
- 17 Do not go gentle into that good night,
Old age should burn and rave at close of day;
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.
"Do Not Go Gentle into That Good Night" l. 1 (1952)
- 18 And you, my father, there on the sad height, Curse, bless me now with your fierce tears, I pray.
Do not go gentle into that good night.
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.
"Do Not Go Gentle into That Good Night" l. 16 (1952)
- 19 I read somewhere of a shepherd who, when asked why he made, from within fairy rings, ritual observances to the moon to protect his flocks, replied: I'd be a damn fool if I didn't!
These poems, with all their crudities, doubts,
and confusions, are written for the love of Man and in praise of God, and I'd be a damn fool if they weren't.
Collected Poems introduction (1953)
- 20 It is spring, moonless night in the small town, starless and bible-black.
Under Milk Wood (1954)
- 21 [Definition of an alcoholic:] A man you don't like who drinks as much as you do.
Quoted in Constantine FitzGibbon, The Life of Dylan Thomas (1965)

- 22 ["Last words":] I've had eighteen straight whiskies. I think that is the record.
Quoted in Barnaby Conrad, Famous Last Words (1961)

J. Parnell Thomas

U.S. politician, 1895–1970

- 1 [Standard question posed to witnesses testifying before the House Committee on Un-American Activities:] Are you now or have you ever been a member of the Communist Party?
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 29 Oct. 1947

Lewis Thomas

U.S. physician and author, 1913–1993

- 1 Viewed from the distance of the moon, the astonishing thing about the earth . . . is that it is alive. . . . Aloft, floating free beneath the moist, gleaming membrane of bright blue sky, is the rising earth, the only exuberant thing in this part of the cosmos. . . . It has the organized, self-contained look of a live creature, full of information, marvelously skilled in handling the sun.
The Lives of a Cell "The World's Biggest Membrane" (1974)

M. Carey Thomas

U.S. feminist and educator, 1857–1935

- 1 [Of Bryn Mawr—educated women:] Our failures only marry.
Attributed in Vivian Gornick and Barbara K. Moran,
Woman in Sexist Society (1971). According to the Bryn Mawr College Archives, Thomas denied having said this. The quotation is sometimes rendered as "Only our failures marry."

Marlo Thomas

U.S. actress and feminist, 1937–

- 1 Free to Be . . . You and Me.
Title of record album (1972)

W. I. Thomas

U.S. sociologist, 1863–1947

- 1 If men define situations as real, they are real in their consequences.
The Child in America ch. 13 (1928). Coauthored with Dorothy Swaine Thomas.

Thomas à Kempis

German clergyman and writer, ca. 1380–1471

- 1 Nam homo proponit, sed Deus disponit.
For man proposes, but God disposes.
De Imitatione Christi bk. 1, ch. 19, sec. 2 (ca. 1420)
See Proverbs 186
- 2 Hodie homo est: et cras non comparet. Cum autem sublatus fuerit ab oculis: etiam cito transit a mente.
Today man is, and tomorrow he will be seen no more. And being removed out of sight, quickly also he is out of mind.
De Imitatione Christi bk. 1, ch. 23, sec. 1 (ca. 1420)

E. P. (Edward Palmer) Thompson

English historian and activist, 1924–1993

- 1 I am seeking to rescue the poor stockinger, the Luddite cropper, the “obsolete” hand-loom weaver, the “utopian” artisan, and even the deluded follower of Joanna Southcott, from the enormous condescension of posterity. . . .
they lived through these times of acute social disturbance, and we did not. Their aspirations were valid in terms of their own experience; and,
if they were casualties of history, they remain,
condemned in their own lives, as casualties.
The Making of the English Working Class preface (1964)

Francis Thompson

English poet, 1859–1907

- 1 The angels keep their ancient places;—
Turn but a stone, and start a wing!
’Tis ye, ’tis your estranged faces,
That miss the many-splendored thing.
“The Kingdom of God” l. 13 (1913)
See Suyin 1

Hunter S. Thompson

U.S. writer, 1939–2005

- 1 Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas.
Title of articles, Rolling Stone, 11 and 25 Nov. 1971.
Thompson said that he took the phrase “fear and loathing” from Thomas Wolfe’s book The Web and the Rock.
- 2 We were somewhere around Barstow on the edge of the desert when the drugs began to take hold.
Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas pt. 1 (1971)

3 No point mentioning those bats, I thought. The poor bastard will see them soon enough.
Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas pt. 1 (1971)

4 It is Nixon himself who represents that dark, venal, and incurably violent side of the American character almost every other country in the world has learned to fear and despise.
Fear and Loathing: On the Campaign Trail ’72 (1973)

5 When the going gets weird, the weird turn pro.
“Fear and Loathing at the Super Bowl” (1974)

6 Gonzo journalism . . . is a style of “reporting” based on William Faulkner’s idea that the best fiction is far more true than any kind of journalism—and the best journalists have always known this.
The Great Shark Hunt “Jacket Copy for Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas” (1979)

7 The TV business . . . is normally perceived as some kind of cruel and shallow money trench through the heart of the journalism industry, a long plastic hallway where thieves and pimps run free and good men die like dogs, for no good reason.
S.F. Examiner, 4 Nov. 1985

8 Going to trial with a lawyer who considers your whole life-style a Crime in Progress is not a happy prospect.
Letter, The Champion, July 1990

9 I hate to advocate drugs, alcohol, violence, or insanity to anyone . . . but they’ve always worked for me.
Quoted in Life, Jan. 1981. In the 1980 film Where the Buffalo Roam, based on stories by Thompson, Bill Murray, playing Thompson, says: “I hate to advocate drugs or liquor, violence, insanity to anyone. But in my case it’s worked.”

W. J. Thoms

English scholar, 1803–1900

- 1 What we in England designate as Popular Antiquities, or Popular Literature (though . . .
it . . . would be most aptly described by a good Saxon compound, Folk-Lore, the Lore of the People).
Athenaeum, 22 Aug. 1846. Coinage of the term folklore.

James Thomson

Scottish poet, 1700–1748

- 1 When Britain first, at heaven's command,
Arose from out the azure main,
This was the charter of the land,
And guardian angels sung this strain:
"Rule, Britannia, rule the waves;
Britons never will be slaves."

Alfred: A Masque act 2 (1740). The words to this song may have been written by David Mallet rather than Thomson.

- 2 Delightful task! to rear the tender thought,
To teach the young idea how to shoot.
The Seasons "Spring" l. 1152 (1746)

Roy Thomson, First Baron Thomson of Fleet

Canadian-born Scottish media proprietor,
1894–1976

- 1 A licence to put commercial programs on the air in Britain is a licence to print your own money.
Quoted in Times (London), 16 Mar. 1961

Henry David Thoreau

U.S. writer, 1817–1862

- 1 I am a parcel of vain strivings tied
By a chance bond together.
"Sic Vita" l. 1 (1841)
- 2 Perchance, coming generations will not abide the dissolution of the globe, but, availing themselves of future inventions in aerial locomotion, and the navigation of space, the entire race may migrate from the earth, to settle some vacant and more western planet.

. . . It took but little art, a simple application of natural laws, a canoe, a paddle, and a sail of matting, to people the isles of the Pacific, and a little more will people the shining isles of space.

"Paradise (to Be) Regained" (1843)

- 3 I heartily accept the motto, "That government is best which governs least"; and I should like to see it acted up to more rapidly and systematically. Carried out, it finally amounts to this, which also I believe,—"That government is best which governs not at all"; and when men are prepared for it, that will be the kind of government which they will have.

Civil Disobedience (1849)

See Ralph Waldo Emerson 29; O'Sullivan 1; Shipley 1

- 4 The objections which have been brought against a standing army, and they are many and weighty, and deserve to prevail, may also at last be brought against a standing government.

Civil Disobedience (1849)

- 5 I think that we should be men first, and subjects afterwards. It is not desirable to cultivate a respect for the law, so much as for the right. The only obligation which I have a right to assume is to do at any time what I think right.

Civil Disobedience (1849)

- 6 The mass of men serve the state thus, not as men mainly, but as machines, with their bodies. They are the standing army, and the militia, jailers, constables, posse comitatus, etc.
In most cases there is no free exercise whatever of the judgement or of the moral sense; but they put themselves on a level with wood and earth and stones; and wooden men can perhaps be manufactured that will serve the purpose as well.

Civil Disobedience (1849)

- 7 If the injustice is part of the necessary friction of the machine of government, let it go, let it go: perchance it will wear smooth,—certainly the machine will wear out. If the injustice has a spring, or a pulley, or a rope, or a crank, exclusively for itself, then perhaps you

- may consider whether the remedy will not be worse than the evil; but if it is of such a nature that it requires you to be the agent of injustice to another, then, I say, break the law. Let your life be a counter-friction to stop the machine.
- Civil Disobedience* (1849)
See Savio 1
- 8 As for adopting the ways which the State has provided for remedying the evil, I know not of such ways. They take too much time, and a man's life will be gone. I have other affairs to attend to. I came into this world, not chiefly to make this a good place to live in, but to live in it, be it good or bad.
- Civil Disobedience* (1849)
- 9 I do not hesitate to say, that those who call themselves Abolitionists should at once effectually withdraw their support, both in person and property, from the government of Massachusetts, and not wait until they constitute a majority of one, before they suffer the right to prevail through them. I think that it is enough if they have God on their side, without waiting for that other one. Moreover, any man more right than his neighbors constitutes a majority of one already.
- Civil Disobedience* (1849)
See Coolidge 2; Douglass 7; Andrew Jackson 7; John Knox 1; Wendell Phillips 3
- 10 Under a government which imprisons any unjustly, the true place for a just man is also a prison.
- Civil Disobedience* (1849)
- 11 When I meet a government which says to me, "Your money or your life," why should I be in haste to give it my money?
- Civil Disobedience* (1849)
- 12 The lawyer's truth is not Truth, but consistency or a consistent expediency.
- Civil Disobedience* (1849)
- 13 It is remarkable that, notwithstanding the universal favor with which the New Testament is outwardly received, and even the bigotry with which it is defended, there is no hospitality shown to, there is no appreciation of, the order of truth with which it deals. I know of no book that has so few readers. There is none so truly strange, and heretical, and unpopular.
- A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers* (1849)
- 14 It takes two to speak the truth,—one to speak, and another to hear.
- A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers* (1849)
- 15 Some circumstantial evidence is very strong, as when you find a trout in the milk.
- Journal, 11 Nov. 1850
- 16 Nothing is so much to be feared as fear.
- Journal, 7 Sept. 1851
See Francis Bacon 7; Montaigne 4; Franklin Roosevelt 6; Wellington 3
- 17 The fate of the country . . . does not depend on what kind of paper you drop into the ballot box once a year, but on what kind of man you drop from your chamber into the street every morning.
- "Slavery in Massachusetts" (address), Framingham, Mass., 4 July 1854
- 18 The mass of men lead lives of quiet desperation. What is called resignation is confirmed desperation.
- Walden* ch. 1 (1854)
- 19 Beware of all enterprises that require new clothes.
- Walden* ch. 1 (1854)
- 20 Our inventions are wont to be pretty toys, which distract our attention from serious things. They are but improved means to an unimproved end. . . . We are in great haste to construct a magnetic telegraph from Maine to Texas, but Maine and Texas, it may be, have nothing important to communicate.
- Walden* ch. 1 (1854)
- 21 There are a thousand hacking at the branches of evil to one who is striking at the root.
- Walden* ch. 1 (1854)
- 22 A man is rich in proportion to the number of things which he can afford to let alone.
- Walden* ch. 2 (1854)
- 23 I went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately, to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what it had to teach, and not, when I came to die, to discover that I had not lived.
- Walden* ch. 2 (1854)

- 24 Our life is frittered away by detail. . . . Simplify, simplify.
Walden ch. 2 (1854)
- 25 We do not ride on the railroad; it rides upon us.
Walden ch. 2 (1854)
- 26 I had three chairs in my house; one for solitude, two for friendship; three for society. When visitors came in larger and unexpected numbers there was but the third chair for them all, but they generally economized the room by standing up.
Walden ch. 6 (1854)
- 27 [Of wood stumps:] They warmed me twice—once while I was splitting them, and again when they were on the fire.
Walden ch. 13 (1854)
- 28 I learned this, at least, by my experiment: that if one advances confidently in the direction of his dreams, and endeavors to live the life which he has imagined, he will meet with a success unexpected in common hours.
Walden ch. 18 (1854)
- 29 If you have built castles in the air, your work need not be lost; that is where they should be. Now put the foundations under them.
Walden ch. 18 (1854)
- 30 If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music which he hears, however measured or far away.
Walden ch. 18 (1854). Frequently quoted as “marches to the tune of a different drummer.”
- 31 Only that day dawns to which we are awake. There is more day to dawn. The sun is but a morning star.
Walden ch. 18 (1854)
- 32 Don't spend your time in drilling soldiers, who may turn out hirelings after all, but give to undrilled peasantry a country to fight for.
Letter to Harrison Blake, 26 Sept. 1855
- 33 That man is the richest whose pleasures are the cheapest.
Journal, 11 Mar. 1856
- 34 Not that the story need be long, but it will take a long while to make it short.
Letter to Harrison Blake, 16 Nov. 1857

- 35 I hear many condemn these men because they were so few. When were the good and the brave ever in a majority?
“A Plea for Captain John Brown” (1859)
- 36 We preserve the so-called peace of a community by deeds of petty violence everyday. Look at the policeman's billy and handcuffs! Look at the jail! Look at the gallows!
“A Plea for Captain John Brown” (1859)
- 37 The West of which I speak is but another name for the Wild; and what I have been preparing to say is, that in Wildness is the preservation of the World.
“Walking” (1862)
- 38 If a man walk in the woods for love of them half of each day, he is in danger of being regarded as a loafer; but if he spends his whole day as a speculator, shearing off those woods and making earth bald before her time, he is esteemed an industrious and enterprising citizen. As if the town had no interest in its forests but to cut them down!
“Life Without Principle” (1863)
- 39 [Reply to Ralph Waldo Emerson's questioning why Thoreau had gone to jail in 1843 for not paying the Massachusetts poll tax as a protest against slavery:] Why are you not here also?
Attributed in Christian Examiner, July 1865. Henry Seidel Canby, in his book Thoreau (1939), argues that there is no evidence that Emerson visited Thoreau in jail, and also notes that Emerson is unlikely to have asked this question because he knew very well why Thoreau was in prison.

Edward L. Thorndike

U.S. psychologist, 1874–1949

- I Whatever exists at all exists in some amount. To know it thoroughly involves knowing its quantity as well as its quality.

Thucydides

Greek historian, ca. 455 B.C.–ca. 400 B.C.

- 1 The absence of romance in my history will, I fear, detract somewhat from its interest; but if it be judged useful by those inquirers who desire an exact interpretation of the future, which in the course of human things must resemble if it does not reflect it, I shall be content. In fine, I have written my work, not as an essay which is to win the applause of the moment, but as a possession for all time.
History of the Peloponnesian War bk. 1, ch. 1
- 2 Happiness depends on being free, and freedom depends on being courageous.
History of the Peloponnesian War bk. 2, ch. 4
- 3 Revolution . . . ran its course from city to city, and the places which it arrived at last, from having heard what had been done before carried to a still greater excess the refinement of their inventions, as manifested to the cunning of their enterprises and the atrocity of their reprisals. Words had to change their ordinary meaning and to take that which was now given them.

- 13 You Could Look It Up.
Title of story (1941). Later popularized by Casey Stengel.
- 14 How is it possible, woman, in the awful and magnificent times we live in, to be preoccupied exclusively with the piddling?
Cartoon caption, New Yorker, 16 Feb. 1946

Rex Tillerson

U.S. government official and business executive, 1952–

- 1 If our leaders seek to conceal the truth, or we as people become accepting of alternative realities that are no longer grounded in facts, then we as American citizens are on a pathway to relinquishing our freedom.
Commencement address at Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Va., 16 May 2018

Paul Tillich

German-born U.S. theologian and philosopher, 1886–1965

- 1 Neurosis is the way of avoiding non-being by avoiding being.
The Courage to Be pt. 2, ch. 3 (1952)
- 2 I had the great honor and luck to be the first non-Jewish professor dismissed from a German university.
Quoted in Minneapolis Star, 23 Oct. 1965

Justin Timberlake

U.S. singer, 1981–

- 1 [Of Janet Jackson's exposure of her breast:] I am sorry if anyone was offended by the wardrobe malfunction during the halftime performance of the Super Bowl.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 2 Feb. 2004

Nicholas Conyngham Tindal

English judge, 1776–1846

- 1 To establish a defence on the ground of insanity, it must be clearly proved that, at the time of the committing of the act, the party accused was laboring under such a defect of reason, from disease of the mind, as not to know the nature and quality of the act he was doing; or, if he did know it, that he did not know he was doing what was wrong.
M'Naghten's Case (1843)

Charles A. Tindley

U.S. songwriter and clergyman, 1851–1933

- 1 I'll overcome some day
If in my heart I do not yield,
I'll overcome some day.
"I'll Overcome Some Day" (song) (1900)
See Pete Seeger 5

Titus Flavius Sabinus Vespasianus

Roman emperor, 39–81

- 1 [Remark upon the fact that he had done nothing to help anyone all day:] Amici, diem perdididi.
Friends, I have lost a day.
Quoted in Suetonius, Lives of the Caesars

Alexis de Tocqueville

French historian and statesman, 1805–1859

- 1 I know of no country, indeed, where the love of money has taken stronger hold on the affections of men, and where a profounder contempt is expressed for the theory of the permanent equality of property.
Democracy in America vol. 1, ch. 3 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 2 The power vested in the American courts of justice of pronouncing a statute to be unconstitutional, forms one of the most powerful barriers which has ever been devised against the tyranny of political assemblies.
Democracy in America vol. 1, ch. 6 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 3 I have never been more struck by the good sense and the practical judgment of the Americans than in the ingenious devices by which they elude the numberless difficulties resulting from their Federal Constitution.
Democracy in America vol. 1, ch. 8 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 4 There is no medium between servitude and extreme licence; in order to enjoy the inestimable benefits which the liberty of the

- press ensures, it is necessary to submit to the inevitable evils which it engenders.
Democracy in America vol. 2, ch. 3 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 5 In countries where associations are free, secret societies are unknown. In America there are numerous factions, but no conspiracies.
Democracy in America vol. 2, ch. 4 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 6 [Section title:] Tyranny of the Majority.
Democracy in America vol. 2, ch. 7 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 7 In America, the majority raises very formidable barriers to the liberty of opinion: within these barriers an author may write whatever he pleases, but he will repent it if he ever step beyond them.
Democracy in America vol. 2, ch. 7 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 8 I cannot believe that a republic could subsist at the present time, if the influence of lawyers in public business did not increase in proportion to the power of the people.
Democracy in America vol. 2, ch. 8 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 9 In America there are no nobles or literary men, and the people is apt to mistrust the wealthy; lawyers consequently form the highest political class, and the most cultivated circle of society. They have therefore nothing to gain by innovation, which adds a conservative interest to their natural taste for public order. If I were asked where I place the American aristocracy, I should reply without hesitation, that it is not composed of the rich, who are united together by no common tie, but that it occupies the judicial bench and the bar.
Democracy in America vol. 2, ch. 8 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 10 The more we reflect upon all that occurs in the United States, the more shall we be persuaded that the lawyers as a body, form the most powerful, if not the only counterpoise to the democratic element. In that country we perceive how eminently the legal profession is qualified by its powers, and even by its defects, to neutralize the vices which are inherent in popular government.
Democracy in America vol. 2, ch. 8 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 11 Scarcely any question arises in the United States which does not become, sooner or later, a subject of judicial debate; hence all parties are obliged to borrow the ideas, and even the language usual in judicial proceedings, in their daily controversies. . . . The language of the law thus becomes, in some measure, a vulgar tongue; the spirit of the law, which is produced in the schools and courts of justice, gradually penetrates beyond their walls into the bosom of society, where it descends to the lowest classes, so that the whole people contracts the habits and the tastes of the magistrate.
Democracy in America vol. 2, ch. 8 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 12 The jury . . . may be regarded as a gratuitous public school, ever open, in which every juror learns to exercise his rights, enters into daily communication with the most learned and enlightened members of the upper classes, and becomes practically acquainted with the laws of his country.
Democracy in America vol. 2, ch. 8 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 13 The time will therefore come when one hundred and fifty millions of men will be living in North America, equal in condition, the progeny of one race, owing their origin to the same cause, and preserving the same civilization, the same language, the same religion, the same habits, the same manners, and imbued with the same opinions, propagated under the same forms.
Democracy in America vol. 2, ch. 10 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 14 There are, at the present time, two great nations in the world, which seem to tend towards the same end, although they started from different points: I allude to the Russians and the Americans. . . . Their starting-point is different, and their courses are not the same; yet each of them seems marked out by the will of Heaven to sway the destinies of half the globe.
Democracy in America vol. 2, ch. 10 (1835) (translation by Henry Reeve)
- 15 Democratic nations care but little for what has been, but they are haunted by visions of what will be; in this direction their unbounded

- imagination grows and dilates beyond all measure. . . . Democracy, which shuts the past against the poet, opens the future before him.
Democracy in America vol. 2, sec. 1, ch. 17 (1840)
(translation by Henry Reeve)
- 16 Not only does democracy make every man forget his ancestors, but it hides his descendants and separates his contemporaries from him; it throws him back forever upon himself alone and threatens to the end to confine him entirely within the solitude of his own heart.
Democracy in America vol. 2, sec. 2, ch. 2 (1840)
(translation by Henry Reeve)
- 17 Wherever at the head of some new undertaking you see the government in France, or a man of rank in England, in the United States you will be sure to find an association.
Democracy in America vol. 2, sec. 2, ch. 5 (1840)
(translation by Henry Reeve)
- 18 I believe that [in the United States] the social changes that bring nearer to the same level the father and son, the master and servant, and, in general, superiors and inferiors will raise woman and make her more and more the equal of man.
Democracy in America vol. 2, sec. 3, ch. 12 (1840)
(translation by Henry Reeve)
- 19 If I were asked . . . to what the singular prosperity and growing strength of that people [the Americans] ought mainly to be attributed, I should reply: To the superiority of their women.
Democracy in America vol. 2, sec. 3, ch. 12 (1840)
(translation by Henry Reeve)
- 20 The love of wealth is therefore to be traced, as either a principal or an accessory motive, at the bottom of all that the Americans do; this gives to all their passions a sort of family likeness.
Democracy in America vol. 2, sec. 3, ch. 17 (1840)
(translation by Henry Reeve)
- 21 In no country in the world is the love of property more active and more anxious than in the United States; nowhere does the majority display less inclination for those principles which threaten to alter, in whatever manner, the laws of property.
Democracy in America vol. 2, sec. 3, ch. 21 (1840)
(translation by Henry Reeve)
- 22 If ever America undergoes great revolutions, they will be brought about by the presence of the black race on the soil of the United States; that is to say, they will owe their origin, not to the equality, but to the inequality of condition.
Democracy in America vol. 2, sec. 3, ch. 21 (1840)
(translation by Henry Reeve)
- 23 All those who seek to destroy the liberties of a democratic nation ought to know that war is the surest and the shortest means to accomplish it.
Democracy in America vol. 2, sec. 3, ch. 22 (1840)
(translation by Henry Reeve)
- 24 Not until I went into the churches of America and heard her pulpits flame with righteousness did I understand the secret of her genius and power. America is great because America is good, and if America ever ceases to be good America will cease to be great.
Attributed in Herald and Presbyterian, 6 Sept. 1922.
Nothing like this passage actually appears anywhere in Tocqueville's writings.

Chuck Todd

U.S. newscaster, 1972–

- 1 Alternative facts are not facts, they're falsehoods.

Alvin Toffler

U.S. writer, 1928–2016

- 1 Culture shock is relatively mild in comparison with a much more serious malady that might be called "future shock." Future shock is the dizzying disorientation brought on by the premature arrival of the future.

Hideki Tojo

Japanese prime minister and general, 1884–1948

- 1 [Final testimony before International Tribunal for the Far East, Tokyo, Nov. 1945:]

This is farewell.

I shall wait beneath the moss,

Until the flowers again are fragrant

In this island country of Japan.

Quoted in Robert J. C. Butow, Tojo and the Coming of the War (1961)

Tokugawa Iemitsu

Japanese shogun, 1604–1651

- 1 Japanese ships are strictly forbidden to leave for foreign countries.
Edict 1 (1635)
- 2 No Japanese is permitted to go abroad. If there is anyone who attempts to do so secretly, he must be executed. The ship so involved must be impounded and its owner arrested, and the matter must be reported to the higher authority.
Edict 2 (1635)
- 3 If any Japanese returns from overseas after residing there, he must be put to death.
Edict 3 (1635)

J. R. R. Tolkien

South African-born English novelist and philologist, 1892–1973

- 1 In a hole in the ground there lived a hobbit. Not a nasty, dirty, wet hole, filled with the ends of worms and an oozy smell, nor yet a dry, bare, sandy hole with nothing in it to sit down on or to eat: it was a hobbit-hole, and that means comfort.
The Hobbit ch. 1 (1937). In a letter to W. H. Auden, 7 June 1955, Tolkien stated that in the late 1920s he had written the first line of this passage impulsively on a blank leaf of an examination paper he was correcting.
- 2 Never laugh at live dragons.
The Hobbit ch. 12 (1937)
- 3 I desired dragons with a profound desire. Of course, I in my timid body did not wish to have them in the neighborhood, intruding into my relatively safe world, in which it was, for instance, possible to read stories in peace of mind, free from fear. But the world that contained even the imagination of Fáfñir was richer and more beautiful, at whatever cost of peril.
“On Fairy-Stories” (1947)
- 4 [Gollum speaking of the Ring:] Where iss it? Where iss it? . . . Losst it is, my precious, lost, lost! Curse us and crush us, my precious is lost!
The Hobbit, 2nd ed., ch. 5 (1951)
- 5 Do not laugh! But once upon a time (my crest has long since fallen) I had a mind to make a body of more or less connected legend, ranging from the large and cosmogonic, to the level of romantic fairy-story—the larger founded on the lesser in contact with the earth, the lesser drawing splendor from the vast backcloths—which I could dedicate simply to: to England; to my country.

Letter to Milton Waldman, ca. Dec. 1951

- 6 One Ring to rule them all, One Ring to find them
One Ring to bring them all and in the darkness bind them.
The Fellowship of the Ring epigraph (1954)
- 7 The Road goes ever on and on Down from the door where it began.
Now far ahead the Road has gone,
And I must follow, if I can,
Pursuing it with eager feet,
Until it joins some larger way
Where many paths and errands meet.
And whither then? I cannot say.
The Fellowship of the Ring bk. 1, ch. 1 (1954)
- 8 Do not meddle in the affairs of Wizards, for they are subtle and quick to anger.
The Fellowship of the Ring bk. 1, ch. 3 (1954)
- 9 Not all those who wander are lost.
The Fellowship of the Ring bk. 1, ch. 10 (1954)

10 “I will take the Ring,” he said, “though I do not know the way.”

The Fellowship of the Ring bk. 2, ch. 2 (1954)

11 “The realm of Sauron is ended!” said Gandalf. “The Ring-bearer has fulfilled his Quest.”

The Return of the King bk. 6, ch. 4 (1955)

12 [Sam Gamgee speaking:] “Well, I’m back,” he said.

The Return of the King bk. 6, ch. 9 (1955)

13 I speak no comfort to you, for there is no comfort for such pain within the circles of the world. The uttermost choice is before you: to repent and go to the Havens and bear away into the West the memory of our days together that shall there be evergreen but never more than memory; or else to abide the Doom of Men.

The Return of the King Appendix A, “A Part of the Tale of Aragon and Arwen” (1955)

14 I am in fact a Hobbit (in all but size). I like gardens, trees, and unmechanized farmlands; I smoke a pipe, and like good plain food (unrefrigerated), but detest French cooking; I like, and even dare to wear in these dull days, ornamental waistcoats. I am fond of mushrooms (out of a field); have a very simple sense of humor (which even my appreciative critics find tiresome); I go to bed late and get up late (when possible). I do not travel much. Letter to Deborah Webster, 25 Oct. 1958

Leo Tolstoy

Russian novelist, 1828–1910

1 “What’s this? Am I falling? My legs are giving way,” thought he, and fell on his back. He opened his eyes, hoping to see how the struggle of the Frenchmen with the gunners ended, whether the red-haired gunner had been killed or not, and whether the cannon had been captured or saved. But he saw nothing. Above him there was nothing but the sky—the lofty sky, not clear yet still immeasurably lofty, with grey clouds gliding slowly across it.

War and Peace bk. 3, ch. 16 (1865–1869) (translation by Louise and Aylmer Maude)

2 If I were not myself, but the handsomest, cleverest, and best man in the world, and were free, I would this moment ask on my knees for your hand and your love!

War and Peace bk. 8, ch. 22 (1865–1869) (translation by Louise and Aylmer Maude)

3 In historic events the so-called great men are labels giving names to events, and like labels they have but the smallest connexion with the event itself. Every act of theirs, which appears to them an act of their own will, is in an historical sense involuntary, and is related to the whole course of history and predestined from eternity.

War and Peace bk. 9, ch. 1 (1865–1869) (translation by Louise and Aylmer Maude)

4 A king is history’s slave.

War and Peace bk. 9, ch. 1 (1865–1869) (translation by Louise and Aylmer Maude)

5 Not only does a good army commander not need any special qualities, on the contrary he needs the absence of the highest and best human attributes—love, poetry, tenderness, and philosophic inquiring doubt. He should be limited, firmly convinced that what he is doing is very important (otherwise he will not have sufficient patience), and only then will he be a brave leader. God forbid that he should be humane, should love, or pity, or think of what is just and unjust.

War and Peace bk. 9, ch. 11 (1865–1869) (translation by Louise and Aylmer Maude)

6 Our body is a machine for living. It is organized for that, it is its nature. Let life go on in it unhindered and let it defend itself, it will do more than if you paralyze it by encumbering it with remedies.

War and Peace bk. 10, ch. 29 (1865–1869) (translation by Louise and Aylmer Maude)

- 14 It is generally supposed the Conservatives are usually old people, and that those in favor of change are the young. That is not quite correct. Usually Conservatives are young people: those who want to live but who do not think about how to live, and have not time to think, and therefore take as a model for themselves a way of life that they have seen.
The Devil ch. 1 (1889) (translation by Louise and Aylmer Maude)
- 15 Man survives earthquakes, epidemics, the horrors of disease, and all the agonies of the soul, but for all time his most tormenting tragedy has been, is, and will be the tragedy of the bedroom.

Toussaint-Louverture (François-Dominique Toussaint)

Haitian general and liberator, 1743–1803

I Brothers and Friends,

I am Toussaint Louverture; perhaps my name has made itself known to you. I have undertaken vengeance. I want Liberty and Equality to reign in Saint Domingue. I am working to make that happen. Unite yourselves to us, brothers, and fight with us for the same cause.

Proclamation from Camp Turel, 29 Aug. 1793

- 2 [Remarks, 1802, while boarding the ship taking him to his death in France:] In overthrowing me, you have cut down in San Domingo only the trunk of the tree of liberty. It will spring up again by the roots, for they are numerous and deep.

Quoted in Negro Digest, Aug. 1964

A. Toussenel

French writer, 1803–1885

- I Plus on apprend à connaître l'homme, plus on apprend à estimer le chien.

The more one gets to know of men, the more one values dogs.

L'Esprit des Bêtes ch. 3 (1847). Garson O'Toole has found an earlier, anonymously attributed citation: "Plus je connais les hommes, mieux j'aime les chiens" ("the more I know men, the better I like dogs"), published in Tablettes Historiques et Littéraires, 13 Nov. 1822, quoting prior usage in Miroir de la Somme.

A Study of History vol. 1 (1934)

- 2 The nature of the breakdowns of civilizations can be summed up in three points: a failure of creative power in the minority, an answering withdrawal of mimesis on the part of the majority, and a consequent loss of social unity in the society as a whole.

A Study of History (D. C. Somervell abridgement), bk. 4, ch. 13 (1947)

- 3 Though sixteen civilizations may have perished already to our knowledge, and nine others may be now at the point of death, we—the twenty-sixth—are not compelled to submit the riddle of our fate to the blind arbitrament of statistics. The divine spark of creative power is still alive in us, and, if we have the grace to kindle it into flame, then the stars in their courses cannot defeat our efforts to attain the goal of human endeavor.

B. Traven

U.S. writer, 1890–1969

- I Badges, to god-damned hell with badges! We have no badges. In fact, we don't need badges. I don't have to show you any stinking badges. I

The Treasure of the Sierra Madre ch. 13 (1935). This quotation was immortalized by its use in the 1948 film. (In the film it is worded “Badges? We ain't got no badges. We don't need no badges. I don't have to show you any stinking badges!”) Now it is frequently quoted as “Badges? We don't need no stinking badges!” The latter version was popularized by the motion picture Blazing Saddles (1974) but appeared earlier in a 1967 episode of the television series The Monkees.

Linda R. Tripp

U.S. government employee, 1949–2020

- I [Explanation of why she covertly tape-recorded conversations of her friend, Monica Lewinsky:] I'm you. I'm just like you. I'm an average American who found herself in a situation not of her own making.
Statement after testifying to grand jury, Washington, D.C., 29 July 1998

Anthony Trollope

English novelist, 1815–1882

- I It is not the prize that can make us happy; it is not even the winning of the prize. . . . [It is] the struggle, the long hot hour of the honest fight. . . . There is no human bliss equal to twelve hours of work with only six hours in which to do it.
Orley Farm ch. 49 (1862)
- 2 [Concluding words of the Barssetshire novels:] To me Barsset has been a real county, and its city a real city, and the spires and towers have been before my eyes, and the voices of the people are known to my ears, and the pavement of the city ways are familiar to my footsteps. . . . I have been induced to wander among them too long by my love of old friendships, and by the sweetness of old faces.
The Last Chronicle of Barsset ch. 84 (1867)

Pierre Elliott Trudeau

Canadian prime minister, 1919–2000

- 1 There’s no place for the state in the bedrooms of the nation.
Interview, Ottawa, 21 Dec. 1967. Trudeau was paraphrasing Martin O’Malley’s statement in the Globe and Mail (Toronto), 12 Dec. 1967, which read: “Obviously, the state’s responsibility should be to legislate rules for a well-ordered society. It has no right or duty to creep into the bedrooms of the nation.”
- 2 [Response to question asking how far he would go in suspending civil liberties to restore order in Quebec province:] Just watch me.
Interview by CBC reporter Tim Ralfe, Ottawa, Canada, 13 Oct. 1970

Harry S. Truman

U.S. president, 1884–1972

- 1 [After the death of President Franklin D. Roosevelt:] When they told me yesterday what had happened, I felt like the moon, the stars, and all the planets had fallen on me.
Remarks to reporters, 13 Apr. 1945
- 2 Sixteen hours ago an American airplane dropped one bomb on Hiroshima. . . . It is a harnessing of the basic powers of the universe. The force from which the sun draws its powers has been loosed against those who brought war to the Far East.
Statement on first use of atomic bomb in combat, 6 Aug. 1945
- 3 I believe that it must be the policy of the United States to support free peoples who are resisting attempted subjugation by armed minorities or by outside pressures.
Address to joint session of Congress, 12 Mar. 1947
- 4 The Government has been informed that a Jewish state has been proclaimed in Palestine, and recognition has been requested by the provisional government thereof. The United States recognizes the provisional government of the de facto authority of the new state of Israel.
Statement, 14 May 1948

- 5 Every segment of our population and every individual has a right to expect from our Government a fair deal.
State of the Union Address, 4 Jan. 1949
- 6 I've just read your lousy review [of a concert by Truman's daughter, Margaret]. I've come to the conclusion that you are an "eight ulcer man on four ulcer pay." It seems to me that you are a frustrated old man who wishes he could have been successful. When you write such poppycock as was in the back section of the paper you work for it shows conclusively that you're off the beam and at least four of your ulcers are at work. Some day I hope to meet you. When that happens you'll need a new nose, a lot of beefsteak for black eyes, and perhaps a supporter below!
Letter to Paul Hume, 6 Dec. 1950
- 7 Now they accuse me of going up and down the Nation on a whistlestop train, and the slogans that they hurl at me most of the time are "Give 'em hell, Harry." That reputation I did not earn. All I do is to tell them [the Republicans] the truth, and that hurts a lot worse than giving them hell.
Address at Palace Hotel, San Francisco, Calif., 4 Oct. 1952
See Political Slogans 16
- 8 Those who want the Government to regulate matters of the mind and spirit are like men who are so afraid of being murdered that they commit suicide to avoid assassination.
Address at National Archives, Washington, D.C., 15 Dec. 1952
- 9 I have found the best way to give advice to your children is to find out what they want, and then advise them to do it.
Television interview by Edward R. Murrow, CBS, 27 May 1955
- 10 A statesman is a politician who's been dead 10 or 15 years.

- 11 The buck stops here.
Quoted in Wash. Post, 15 Dec. 1946. Described by the Post as a "desk gadget . . . a little thing" on which these four words were printed. The Oxford Dictionary of Catchphrases states, "The sign was made in the Federal Reformatory at El Reno, Oklahoma, and mailed to President Truman on 2 October 1945, appearing at different times on his desk until late in his administration." The phrase is now firmly associated with Truman but appears to have an older history. Garson O'Toole has found that an article in the journal Hospital Management, Oct. 1939, stated: "[General] Warfield spoke on 'Co-operation,' emphasizing the value of doing his job without seeking to escape responsibility by referring to a motto he keeps on his desk—"The buck stops here.'" Still earlier, the Lincoln (Nebr.) Evening Journal, 2 Oct. 1929, noted: "Capt. Joe Lehman tells a story . . . about the second lieutenant in the war department whose desk was back in the corner among the boxes and barrels. . . . Above the desk the second looney had placed a card which read: 'The buck stops here'" (citation found by Barry Popik).
See Coolidge 5
- 12 There is nothing new in the world except the history you do not know.
Quoted in William Hillman, Mr. President (1952)
- 13 [On General Douglas MacArthur:] I fired him because he wouldn't respect the authority of the President. That's the answer to that. I didn't fire him because he was a dumb son of a bitch, although he was, but that's not against the law for generals. If it was, half to three-quarters of them would be in jail.
Quoted in Merle Miller, Plain Speaking: An Oral Biography of Harry S. Truman (1974)

Dalton Trumbo

U.S. screenwriter and novelist, 1905–1976

- 1 You plan the wars you masters of men plan the wars and point the way and we will point the gun.
Johnny Got His Gun ch. 20 (1939)
- 2 [Of the Hollywood blacklist of suspected Communists:] There was bad faith and good, honesty and dishonesty, courage and cowardice, selflessness and opportunism, wisdom and stupidity, good and bad on both sides; and almost every individual involved, no matter where he stood, combined some or all of these antithetical qualities in his own person, in his own acts. . . . It will do no good to search for villains or heroes or saints or devils because there were none; there were only victims.
Speech accepting an award from the Writers' Guild, 13 Mar. 1970

Donald Trump

U.S. president and businessman, 1946–

- 1 Deals are my art form. Other people paint beautifully on canvas or write wonderful poetry. I like making deals, preferably big deals. That's how I get my kicks.

U.S. evangelist and reformer, ca. 1797–1883
- I Dat man ober dar say dat womin needs to be helped into carriages, and lifted ober ditches, and to hab de best place everywhar. Nobody eber helps me into carriages, or ober mud-puddles, or gibs me any best place! An a'n't I a woman? Look at me! Look at my arm! I have ploughed, and planted, and gathered into barns, and no man could head me! And a'n't I a woman? I could work as much and eat as much as a man—when I could get it—and bear de lash as well! And a'n't I a woman? I have borne thirteen chilern, and seen 'em mos' all sold off to slavery and when I cried out with my mother's grief, none but Jesus heard me! And a'n't I a woman?
Speech at Women's Rights Convention, Akron, Ohio, 29 May 1851. This is a version of Truth's speech not recorded until 1863 and appears to have been embellished by Frances Dana Gage.

2 Den dat little man in black dar, he say women can't have as much rights as men, 'cause Christ wan't a woman! Whar did your Christ come from? Whar did your Christ come from? From God and a woman! Man had nothin' to do wid Him.

Speech at Women's Rights Convention, Akron, Ohio, 29 May 1851. See comment above.

3 My name was Isabella; but when I left the house of bondage, I left everything behind. I wa'n't goin' to keep nothin' of Egypt on em, an' so I went to the Lord an' asked him to give me a new name. And the Lord gave me Sojourner, because I was to travel up an' down the land, showin' the people their sins, an' bein' a sign unto them. Afterward I told the Lord I wanted another name, 'cause everybody else had two names; and the Lord gave me Truth, because I was to declare Truth to the people.

Marcello Truzzi

Danish-born U.S. sociologist, 1935–2003

1 Extraordinary claims require extraordinary proof.

Letter to the editor, Parapsychology Review, Nov.–Dec. 1975. This idea can be traced as far back as David Hume and Pierre-Simon Laplace, and in 1824 “Extraordinary claims can rest only on extraordinary proofs” appeared in Craig Brownlee, A Careful and Free Inquiry into the True Nature and Tendency of the Religious Principles of the Society of Friends.

Harriet Tubman (Araminta Green)

U.S. abolitionist, 1821–1913

1 There was one of two things I had a right to, liberty, or death; if I could not have one, I would take de oder; for no man should take me alive; I should fight for my liberty as long as my strength lasted, and when de time came for me to go, de Lord would let dem take me.

Quoted in Sarah Bradford, Harriet, the Moses of Her People (1969)

2 I had crossed de line of which I had so long been dreaming. I was free; but dere was no one to welcome me to de land of freedom. I was a stranger in a strange land, and my home after all was down in de old cabin quarter, wid de ole folks, and my brudders and sisters. But to dis solemn resolution I came; I was free, and dey should be free also; I would make a home for dem in de North, and de Lord helping me, I would bring dem all dere.

Quoted in Sarah Bradford, Harriet, the Moses of Her People (1969)

3 I was the conductor of the Underground Railroad for eight years, and I can say what most conductors can't say—I never ran my train off the track and I never lost a passenger. Quoted in Lyde Cullen Sizer, Divided Houses (1992)

Barbara W. Tuchman

U.S. historian and writer, 1912–1989

1 Dead battles, like dead generals, hold the military mind in their dead grip and Germans, no less than other peoples, prepare for the last war.

The Guns of August ch. 2 (1962). J. L. Schley wrote in The Military Engineer, Jan.–Feb. 1929: “It has been said critically that there is a tendency in many armies to spend the peace time studying how to fight the last war.”

2 For one August in its history Paris was French—and silent.

The Guns of August ch. 20 (1962)

3 No more distressing moment can ever face a British government than that which requires it to come to a hard and fast and specific decision.

Frederick Jackson Turner

U.S. historian, 1861–1932

- 1 Up to our own day American history has been in a large degree the history of the colonization of the Great West. The existence of an area of free land, its continuous recession, and the advance of American settlement westward, explain American development.

See Bancroft 1; Frederick Jackson Turner 2

- 2 What the Mediterranean Sea was to the Greeks, breaking the bond of custom, offering new experiences, calling out new institutions and activities, that, and more, the ever retreating frontier has been to the United States directly, and to the nations of Europe more remotely. And now, four centuries from the discovery of America, at the end of a hundred years of life under the Constitution, the frontier has gone, and with its going has closed the first period of American history.

South African religious leader, 1931–

- 1 There is no peace in Southern Africa. There is no peace because there is no justice.

Nobel Lecture, Oslo, Norway, 11 Dec. 1984

- 2 Having looked the past in the eye, having asked for forgiveness and having made amends, let us shut the door on the past—not in order to forget it but in order not to allow it to imprison us.

Report of South Africa’s Truth and Reconciliation Commission foreword (1998)

- 3 If you are neutral in situations of injustice, you have chosen the side of the oppressor. If an elephant has its foot on the tail of a mouse and you say that you are neutral, the mouse will not appreciate your neutrality.

Quoted in Robert McAfee Brown, Unexpected News (1984)

Mark Twain (Samuel Langhorne Clemens)

U.S. writer, 1835–1910

- 1 I have often noticed that you shun exertion. There comes the difference between us. I court exertion. I love work. Why, sir, when I have a piece of work to perform, I go away to myself, sit down in the shade, and muse over the coming enjoyment.

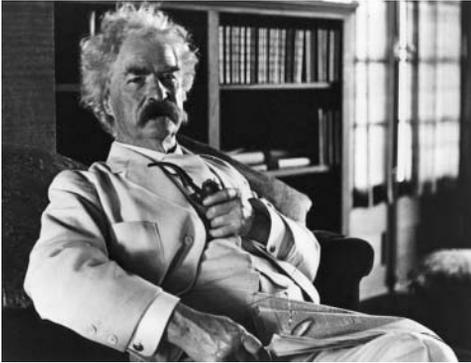

Letter to John T. Moore, 6 July 1859

- 2 The serene confidence which a Christian feels in four aces.

Territorial Enterprise, 1–15 May 1864

- 3 What a good thing Adam had—when he said a good thing he knew nobody had said it before.

Notebook, 2 July 1867

- 4 If I were settled I would quit all nonsense & swindle some girl into marrying me. But I wouldn't expect to be "worthy" of her. I wouldn't have a girl that I was worthy of. She wouldn't do. She wouldn't be respectable enough.

- 7 [Deleted dedication of Twain's book Roughing It:] To the Late Cain, This Book is Dedicated, Not on account of respect for his memory, for it merits little respect; not on account of sympathy with him, for his bloody deed placed him without the pale of sympathy, strictly speaking; but out of a mere human commiseration for him in that it was his misfortune to live in a dark age that knew not the beneficent Insanity Plea.

- 15 Tom appeared on the sidewalk with a bucket of whitewash and a long-handled brush. He surveyed the fence, and all gladness left him and a deep melancholy settled down upon his spirit. Thirty yards of board fence nine feet high. Life to him seemed hollow, and existence but a burden.
The Adventures of Tom Sawyer ch. 2 (1876)
- 16 He [Tom Sawyer] had discovered a great law of human action, without knowing it—namely, that in order to make a man or a boy covet a thing, it is only necessary to make the thing difficult to attain. If he had been a great and wise philosopher, like the writer of this book, he would now have comprehended that Work

- 20 Anywhere is better than Paris. Paris the cold, Paris the drizzly, Paris the rainy, Paris the Damnable. More than a hundred years ago, somebody asked Quin, "Did you ever see such a winter in all your life before?" "Yes," said he, "last summer." I judge he spent his summer in Paris.
Letter to Lucius Fairchild, 28 Apr. 1880. This letter is the closest source that has been found for the saying, frequently credited to Twain, that "The coldest winter I ever spent was a summer in San Francisco." The Quin referred to was an eighteenth-century actor and wit.
- 21 A pretty air in an opera is prettier there than it could be anywhere else, I suppose, just as an honest man in politics shines more than he would elsewhere.
A Tramp Abroad ch. 9 (1880)
- 22 In the matter of intellect the ant must be a strangely overrated bird. During many summers, now, I have watched him, when I ought to have been in better business, and I have not yet come across a living ant that seemed to have any more sense than a dead one. I refer to the ordinary ant, of course; I have had no experience of those wonderful Swiss and African ones which vote, keep drilled armies, hold slaves, and dispute about religion.

- 30 I thought a minute, and says to myself, hold on,—s'pose you'd a done right and give Jim up; would you felt better than what you do now? No, says I, I'd feel bad—I'd feel just the same way I do now. Well, then, says I, what's the use you learning to do right, when it's troublesome to do right and ain't no trouble to do wrong, and the wages is just the same?

- 40 Here I was, in a country where a right to say how the country should be governed was restricted to six persons in each thousand of its population. . . . I was become a stockholder in a corporation where nine hundred and ninety-four of the members furnished all the money and did all the work, and the other six elected themselves a permanent board of direction and took all the dividends. It seemed to me that what the nine hundred and ninety-four dupes needed was a new deal.

- 44 Don't you know, there are some things that can beat smartness and foresight? Awkwardness and stupidity can. The best swordsman in the world doesn't need to fear the second best swordsman in the world; no, the person for him to be afraid of is some ignorant antagonist who has never had a sword in his hand before;
he doesn't do the thing he ought to.

- 46 Dying man couldn't make up his mind which place to go to—both have their advantages,
"heaven for climate, hell for company!"
Notebook, 1889–1890. Ben Wade was quoted as saying "heaven has the better climate, but hell has the better company" in the 1885 Proceedings of the National Conference of Charities and Correction.
- 47 Bill Styles . . . spoke of the low grade of legislative morals. "Kind of discouraging. You see, it's so hard to find men of a so high type of morals that they'll stay bought."
Notebook, 1890–1891. "An honest politician is one who, when he is bought, will stay bought" is often attributed to Simon Cameron. However, Erwin S.
Bradley, in Simon Cameron, Lincoln's Secretary of War (1966), states that "apparently there is no basis for the definition of an honest politician commonly attributed to him." The New York Times, 8 Sept. 1866,

Letter to Olivia Clemens, 19 Apr. 1894. After initially writing "worst is," Clemens crossed these words out and wrote "best is."
- 50 Of all God's creatures there is only one that cannot be made the slave of the lash. That one is the cat. If man could be crossed with a cat it would improve man, but it would deteriorate the cat.

- 52 There is no character, howsoever good and fine, but it can be destroyed by ridicule, howsoever poor and witless. Observe the ass, for instance: his character is about perfect, he is the choicest spirit among all the humbler animals, yet see what ridicule has brought him to. Instead of feeling complimented when we are called an ass, we are left in doubt.

- 55 Adam was but human—this explains it all. He did not want the apple for the apple's sake, he wanted it only because it was forbidden. The mistake was in not forbidding the serpent: then he would have eaten the serpent.

- 65 Courage is resistance to fear, mastery of fear—not absence of fear. Except a creature be part coward it is not a compliment to say it is brave; it is merely a loose misapplication of the word. Consider the flea!—incomparably the bravest of all the creatures of God, if ignorance of fear were courage.

- 74 Even the clearest and most perfect circumstantial evidence is likely to be at fault, after all, and therefore ought to be received with great caution. Take the case of any pencil, sharpened by any woman: if you have witnesses, you will find she did it with a knife; but if you take simply the aspect of the pencil, you will say she did it with her teeth.

There isn't a foot of land in the world which doesn't represent the ousting and re-ousting of a long line of successive "owners," who each in turn, as "patriots," with proud swelling hearts defended it against the next gang of "robbers" who came to steal it and did—and became swelling-hearted patriots in their turn.

- 110 A successful book is not made of what is in it, but of what is left out of it.
Letter to H. H. Rogers, 26–28 Apr. 1897
- 111 I have no race prejudices, and I think I have no color prejudices nor caste prejudices nor creed prejudices. Indeed, I know it. I can stand any society. All that I care to know is that a man is a human being—that is enough for me; he can't be any worse.
"Concerning the Jews" (1899)
- 112 Good breeding consists in concealing how much we think of ourselves and how little we think of the other person.

- 124 Thunder is good, thunder is impressive; but it is lightning that does the work.
Letter to Henry W. Ruoff, 28 Aug. 1908
- 125 Power, Money, Persuasion, Supplication, Persecution—these can lift at a colossal humbug—push it a little—crowd it a little—weaken it a little, century by century: but only Laughter can blow it to rags and atoms at a blast. Against the assault of Laughter nothing can stand.
The Mysterious Stranger ch. 10 (1916)
- 126 There is no God, no universe, no human race, no earthly life, no heaven, no hell. It is all a dream, a grotesque and foolish dream. Nothing exists but you. And you are but a thought—a vagrant thought, a useless thought, a homeless thought, wandering forlorn among the empty eternities!

Mark Twain in Eruption (1940)
- 135 Annihilation has no terrors for me, because I have already tried it before I was born—a hundred million years—and I have suffered more in an hour, in this life, than I remember to have suffered in the whole hundred million years put together. There was a peace, a serenity, an absence of all sense of responsibility, an absence of worry, an absence of care, grief, perplexity; and the presence of a deep content and unbroken satisfaction in that hundred million years of holiday which I look back upon with a tender longing and with a grateful desire to resume, when the opportunity comes.

Autobiography ch. 78 (1959)
- 137 God made man, without man’s consent, and made his nature, too; made it vicious instead of angelic, and then said, Be angelic, or I will punish you and destroy you. But no matter, God is responsible for everything man does, all the same; He can’t get around that fact. There is only one Criminal, and it is not man.
“Little Bessie” (1972)

- 138 The report of my death was an exaggeration. Quoted in N.Y. Journal, 2 June 1897. These words were preceded by "James Ross Clemens, of St. Louis, a cousin of mine, was seriously ill two or three weeks ago in London, but is well now. The report of my illness grew out of his illness." The quotation is usually reported as "Reports of my death have been greatly exaggerated." Much earlier (5 July 1863), the following appeared in a letter by Twain to the Territorial Enterprise: "There was a report about town, last night, that Charles Strong, Esq., Superintendent of the Gould & Curry, had been shot and very effectually killed. I asked him about it at church this morning. He said there was no truth in the rumor."
- 139 In certain trying circumstances, urgent circumstances, desperate circumstances, profanity furnishes a relief denied even to prayer. Quoted in Albert B. Paine, Mark Twain: A Biography (1912)
- 140 Suppose you were an idiot. And suppose you were a member of Congress. But I repeat myself. Quoted in Albert B. Paine, Mark Twain: A Biography (1912)
- 141 [Christian nations are the most enlightened and progressive] in spite of their religion, not because of it. The Church has opposed every innovation and discovery from the day of Galileo down to our own time, when the use of anesthetics in child-birth was regarded as a sin because it avoided the biblical curse pronounced against Eve. Quoted in Albert B. Paine, Mark Twain: A Biography (1912)
- 142 [To his wife Olivia, who had repeated his swearing:] You got the words right, Livy, but you don't know the tune. Quoted in Albert B. Paine, Mark Twain: A Biography (1912)
- 143 Clothes make the man. Naked people have little or no influence in society. Quoted in More Maxims of Mark, ed. Merle Johnson (1927)
- 144 A lawyer one day spoke to him [Mark Twain] with his hands in his pockets. "Is it not a curious sight to see a lawyer with his hands in his own pockets?" remarked the humorist in his quiet drawl. Reported in Max O'Rell, Jonathan and His Continent (1889)
- 145 A well known American writer said once that, while everybody talked about the weather, nobody seemed to do anything about it. Reported in Hartford Courant, 24 Aug. 1897. This witticism is famous in the form "Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it." The "well-known American writer" is usually taken to be Twain, but the writer could also have been Charles Dudley Warner, who was the editor of the Hartford Courant in 1897. There is an 1884 reference to Warner saying about New England weather that "it is a matter about which a great deal is said, but very little done" (Proceedings of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, Twenty-seventh Annual Report).
- 146 I made it [a] rule never to smoke more than one cigar at a time. Attributed in Wash. Post, 11 Aug. 1929. Twain did apparently utter this in a speech at his seventieth birthday dinner, 5 Dec. 1905, but may have been recycling an already existing joke, as the Burlington (Iowa) Weekly Hawk-Eye, 12, Jan. 1882, published "I will only smoke one cigar at a time" as a New Year's resolution.
- 147 I have no respect for a man who can spell a word only one way. Attributed in Chicago Daily Tribune, 22 May 1932. Without attribution to Twain, this appears as early as 1880, in Marshall Brown, Wit and Humor: "A man must be a great fool who can't spell a word more than one way." Without attribution, this appeared as early as 1855, in The Farmer's Cabinet, 13 Sept.: "A man must be a great fool who can't spell a word more than one way."
- 148 I am an old man and have known a great many troubles, but most of them never happened. Attributed in Reader's Digest, Apr. 1934. A similar remark, attributed to an anonymous old man, appeared in Andrew Carnegie, An American Four-in-Hand in Britain (1883). See Jefferson 42
- 149 When I was a boy of fourteen, my father was so ignorant I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But when I got to be twenty-one, I was astonished at how much he had learned in seven years. Attributed in Reader's Digest, Sept. 1937. A similar attribution to Twain occurred in The Square Deal, Dec. 1915.
- 150 If you don't like the weather in New England, just wait a few minutes. Attributed in Bennett Cerf, Try and Stop Me (1944). An earlier version, not attributed to any individual, appeared in Thomas Morris Longstreth, Reading the Weather (1915), and referred to the St. Lawrence River valley: "If you don't like our weather, wait a minute."

- 151 I have never let my schooling interfere with my education.

Attributed in Reader's Digest, Oct. 1946. The writer Grant Allen complained that "we should . . . be compelled to let our boys' schooling interfere with their education!" in his 1894 book Post-Prandial Philosophy.

- 152 Golf is a good walk spoiled.

Attributed in Reader's Digest, Dec. 1948. Commonly attributed to Twain, but the Stevens Point (Wis.) Daily Journal, 19 Dec. 1913, printed the following without attribution to any named individual: "Golf, of course, has been defined as a good walk spoiled."

- 153 Twenty-four years ago I was strangely handsome; in San Francisco in the rainy season I was often mistaken for fair weather.

Attributed in Evan Esar, The Dictionary of Humorous Quotations (1949). This is an abridgment of a passage in an unmailed letter of Twain's dated 8 Sept. 1887.

- 154 History never repeats itself, but it rhymes.

Attributed in N.Y. Times, 25 Jan. 1970

Harrison Tweed

U.S. lawyer, 1885–1969

- 1 I have a high opinion of lawyers. With all their faults, they stack up well against those in every other occupation or profession. They are better to work with or play with or fight with or drink with than most other varieties of mankind.

Quoted in Bernard Botein, Trial Judge (1952). Inscribed on a plaque in the reading room of the Harvard Law Library.

Twiggy (Leslie Hornby)

English model, 1949–

- 1 [Remarks in 1968 interview:] Oh! God! When did you say it happened? Where? Hiroshima? But that's ghastly. A hundred thousand dead? It's frightful. Men are mad.

Quoted in R. Buckminster Fuller, I Seem to Be a Verb (1970)

Anne Tyler

U.S. novelist, 1941–

- 1 "While armchair travelers dream of going places," Julian said, "traveling armchairs dream of staying put."

The Accidental Tourist ch. 6 (1985)

- 2 Once upon a time, there was a woman who discovered she had turned into the wrong person.

Back When We Were Grownups ch. 1 (2001)

Kenneth Tynan

English theater critic, 1927–1980

- 1 What, when drunk, one sees in other women, one sees in Garbo sober.

Curtains pt. 2 (1961)

- 2 A critic is a man who knows the way but can't drive the car.

N.Y. Times, 1 Dec. 1963

Mike Tyson

U.S. boxer, 1966–

- 1 Everybody has a plan until they get punched in the mouth.

Quoted in L.A. Times, 6 July 2004

Alexander Fraser Tytler, Lord

Woodhouselee

Scottish historian and lawyer, 1747–1813

- 1 A true democracy cannot exist as a permanent form of government. It can only exist until the electorate discovers it can vote itself largess out of the public treasury.

Attributed in Brainerd (Minn.) Daily Dispatch, 1 June 1946. Researchers have failed to find this in Tytler's writings, and the often-made attribution to him is probably apocryphal.

Tristan Tzara (Samy Rosenstock)

Romanian-born French writer and editor, 1896–1963

- 1 Dada ne signifie rien.

Dada means nothing.

"Manifeste Dada 1918" (1918)

Harlan K. Ullman

U.S. military theorist, 1941–

- 1 In Rapid Dominance, the aim of affecting the adversary's will, understanding, and perception through achieving Shock and Awe is multifaceted.

Shock and Awe: Achieving Rapid Dominance ch. 2 (1996). Coauthored with James P. Wade.

Ulpian (Domitius Ulpianus)

Roman jurist, ca. 170–228

- 1 Nulla iniuria est, quae in volentem fiat.
No injustice is done to someone who wants that thing done.

Corpus Iuris Civilis Digests, bk. 47, ch. 10, sec. 1. Commonly quoted as “Volenti non fit iniuria” (To a willing person it is not wrong).

Laurel Thatcher Ulrich

U.S. historian, 1938–

- 1 Well-behaved women seldom make history.
American Quarterly, Spring 1976

Miguel de Unamuno

Spanish philosopher and writer, 1864–1937

- 1 Life is doubt,
And faith without doubt is nothing but death.
“Salmo II” (1907)

Jesse M. Unruh

U.S. politician, 1922–1987

- 1 Money is the mother's milk of politics.
Quoted in Time, 14 Dec. 1962

- 2 [Of lobbyists and California legislators:] If you can't eat their food, drink their booze, screw their women and then vote against them, you have no business being up here.

Lou Cannon, Ronnie and Jesse: A Political Odyssey (1969)

Upanishads

Hindu sacred texts, ca. 800 B.C.–200 B.C.

- 1 As the bees make honey by gathering juices from many flowering plants and trees, and as these juices reduced to one honey do not know from what flowers they severally come, similarly, my son, all creatures, when they are merged in that one Existence, whether in dreamless sleep or in death, know nothing of their past or present state, because of the ignorance enveloping them—know not that they are merged in him and that from him they came. “Whatever these creatures are, whether a lion, or a tiger, or a boar, or a worm, or a gnat, or a mosquito, that they remain after they come back from dreamless sleep.” All these have their self in him alone. He is the truth.

He is the subtle essence of all. He is the Self.
And that, Svetaketu, THAT ART THOU.
Chāndogya Upanishad ch. 6, pt. 14

- 2 Abiding in the midst of ignorance, thinking themselves wise and learned, fools go aimlessly hither and thither, like blind led by the blind.
Katha Upanishad ch. 2, v. 5
- 3 If any man thinks he slays, and if another thinks he is slain, neither knows the ways of truth. The Eternal in man cannot kill: the Eternal in man cannot die.
Katha Upanishad ch. 2, v. 19
- 4 Sages say the path is narrow and difficult to tread, narrow as the edge of a razor.
Katha Upanishad ch. 3, v. 15
- 5 The sound of Brahman is om. At the end of om is silence. It is a silence of joy.
Maitri Upanishad ch. 6, v. 23
- 6 Shantih, shantih, shantih.
Peace, peace, peace!
Taittirīya Upanishad ch. 1, pt. 1, mantra

John Updike

U.S. novelist, 1932–2009

- 1 [On Ted Williams's last baseball game at Fenway Park, Boston, Mass.:] Our noise for some seconds passed beyond excitement into a kind of immense open anguish, a cry to be saved. But immortality is nontransferable. The papers said that the other players, and even the umpires on the field, begged him to come out and acknowledge us in some way, but he never had and did not now. Gods do not answer letters.
New Yorker, 22 Oct. 1960
- 2 The first breath of adultery is the freest; after it, constraints aping marriage appear.
Couples ch. 5 (1968)
- 3 Writing criticism is to writing fiction and poetry as hugging the shore is to sailing in the open sea.
Hugging the Shore foreword (1984)
- 4 To say that war is madness is like saying that sex is madness: true enough, from the standpoint of a stateless eunuch, but merely a provocative epigram for those who must make their arrangements in the world as given.
Self-Consciousness ch. 4 (1989)
- 5 Rabbit realized the world was not solid and benign, it was a shabby set of temporary arrangements rigged up for the time being, all for the sake of the money. You just passed through, and they milked you for what you were worth, mostly when you were young and gullible.
Rabbit at Rest ch. 3 (1990)

Lauren Caitlin Upton

U.S. beauty contestant, 1989–

- 1 [Response to a pageant question about why one-fifth of Americans are unable to locate the United States on a world map:] I personally believe that U.S. Americans are unable to do so because some people out there in our nation don't have maps and I believe that our education like such as in South Africa and the Iraq and everywhere like such as and I believe that they should our education over here in the U.S. should help the U.S. or should help South Africa and should help Iraq and the Asian countries so we will be able to build up our future for our children.

Television broadcast of Miss Teen USA competition, 24 Aug. 2007

Urban II

French pope, ca. 1042–1099

- 1 [Exhortation to faithful to embark on the First Crusade:] Rid God's sanctuary of the wicked; expel the robbers; bring in the pious. . . . Let no attachment to your native soil be an impediment; because, in different points of view, all the world is exile to the Christian and all the world his country. Thus exile is his country, and his country exile.
Speech to Council of Clermont, 27 Nov. 1095.
There were no immediate contemporary accounts of Urban's speech; the quotation here is taken from William of Malmesbury, De Gestis Regum Anglorum.

James Ussher

Irish prelate and scholar, 1581–1656

- 1 [Calculating that the Creation occurred in the year 4004 B.C.:] Which beginning of time according to our Chronology, fell upon the entrance of the night preceding the twenty third day of Octob. in the year of the Julian Calendar, 710.
The Annals of the World (1658)

Paul Valéry

French poet and man of letters, 1871–1945

- 1 Nous autres, civilisations, nous savons maintenant que nous sommes mortelles.

We others, civilizations, we know now that we are mortal.

“La Crise de l’Esprit” Letter 1 (1919)

- 2 Un poème n’est jamais achevé—c’est toujours un accident qui le termine.

A poem is never finished—it’s always an accident that ends it.

Littérature (1929)

- 3 Liberty is the hardest test that one can inflict on a people. To know how to be free is not given equally to all men and all nations.

Regards sur le Monde Actuel (1931)

- 4 History justifies whatever we want it to. It teaches absolutely nothing, for it contains everything and gives examples of everything.

Regards sur le Monde Actuel (1931)

- 5 L’avenir est comme le reste: il n’est plus ce qu’il était.

The future, like everything else, is no longer quite what it used to be.

“Notre Destin et les Lettres” (1937)

- 6 Dieu créa l’homme, et ne le trouvant pas assez seul, il lui donne une compagne pour lui faire mieux sentir sa solitude.

God created man and, finding him not sufficiently alone, gave him a companion to make him feel his solitude more keenly.

Tel Quel 1 “Moralités” (1941)

- 7 Politics is the art of preventing people from taking part in affairs which properly concern them.

Tel Quel 2 “Rhumbs” (1943)

Martin Van Buren

U.S. president, 1782–1862

- 1 I believe . . . that constitutions are the work of time and not the invention of ingenuity; and that to frame a complete system of government, depending on the habits of reverence and experience, was an attempt as absurd as to build a tree or manufacture an opinion.

Remarks at New York State Constitutional Convention, 25 Sept. 1820

Paul J. Vance

U.S. songwriter, 1929–

- 1 It was an itsy bitsy teenie weenie yellow polkadot bikini

That she wore for the first time today.

“Itsy Bitsy Teenie Weenie Yellow Polkadot Bikini” (song) (1960). Cowritten with Lee Pockriss.

Arthur Moeller van den Bruck

German poet and political writer, 1876–1925

- 1 I offer the ideal of the Third Reich. It is an old German concept and a great one. It arose when our First Reich fell; it was accelerated by the thought of a Thousand-Year Reich, but its underlying concept is the dawn of a German age, in which the German people would for the first time fulfill their destiny on earth.

Das Dritte Reich (The Third Reich), preface (1923)

Cornelius Vanderbilt

U.S. financier, 1794–1877

- 1 What do I care about the law? Hain’t I got the power?

Quoted in Matthew Josephson, The Robber Barons (1934)

- 2 [Comment in letter:] Gentlemen, you have undertaken to cheat me. I won’t sue you, for law is too slow. I’ll ruin you.

Attributed in N.Y. Times, 5 Jan. 1877

William H. Vanderbilt

U.S. businessman, 1821–1885

- I [Comment to news reporters:] The public be damned.

Quoted in Chicago Herald, 9 Oct. 1882. In a letter to the New York Times published on 13 Oct. 1882, Vanderbilt denied having said this. The reporters who had interviewed the railroad magnate, however, affirmed that “he certainly did say” the words in question. Earlier, the New York Herald, 25 July 1873, quoted a “guano speculator” as exclaiming “Public be damned!”

Laurens van der Post

South African soldier, explorer, and writer, 1906–1996

- I Human beings are perhaps never more frightening than when they are convinced beyond doubt that they are right.
The Lost World of the Kalahari ch. 3 (1958)

Charles Van Doren

U.S. quiz show contestant and editor, 1926–2019

- I [Acknowledging that he had been involved in fraud as a contestant on the television quiz show Twenty One:] I have deceived my friends, and I had millions of them.
Testimony before House of Representatives Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight, 2 Nov. 1959

Vincent van Gogh

Dutch painter, 1853–1890

- I I cannot help it that my paintings do not sell. The time will come when people will see that they are worth more than the price of the paint.
Letter to Theo van Gogh, 24 Oct. 1888

Ronnie Van Zant

U.S. songwriter, 1948–1977

- I Sweet home Alabama
Where skies are so blue
Sweet home Alabama
Lord, I’m coming home to you.
“Sweet Home Alabama” (song) (1974). Cowritten with Ed King and Gary Rossington.

Bartolomeo Vanzetti

Italian-born U.S. political radical, 1888–1927

- I I . . . found myself compelled to fight back from my eyes the tears, and quench my heart throbbing to my throat to not weep before him—this man called thief and assassin and doomed. But Sacco’s name will live in the hearts of the people and in their gratitude when Katzmann’s and yours bones will be disperse by time, when your name, his [Katzmann’s] name, your laws, institutions, and your false god are but a deem remembering of a cursed past in which man was wolf to the man.
Notes for speech to the court, 9 Apr. 1927
See Plautus 1

- 2 If it had not been for these thing, I might have live out my life talking at street corners to scorning men. I might have die, unmarked, unknown, a failure. Now we are not a failure. This is our career and our triumph. Never in our full life could we hope to do such work for tolerance, for joostice, for man’s onderstanding of man as now we do by accident.

Our words—our lives—our pains—nothing!
The taking of our lives—lives of a good shoemaker and a poor fish-peddler—all! That last moment belongs to us—that agony is our triumph.
Statement after being sentenced to death, Dedham, Mass., 9 Apr. 1927

Mario Vargas Llosa

Peruvian writer and politician, 1936–

- I At what precise moment had Peru fucked itself up?
Conversation in the Cathedral ch. 1 (1969)

Giorgio Vasari

Italian artist and art historian, 1511–1574

- I [Of Michelangelo’s David:] Anyone who sees this statue need not be concerned with seeing any other piece of sculpture done in our times or in any other period by any other artist.
The Lives of the Most Excellent Painters, Sculptors, and Architects “The Life of Michelangelo Buonarroti” (1550) (translation by Julia Conaway Bondanella and Peter Bondanella)

Michel Vaucaire

French songwriter, 1904–1980

- 1 Non, Je ne Regrette rien.
No, I Regret Nothing.
Title of song (1960)

Henry Vaughan

English poet, 1622–1695

- 1 Happy those early days, when I
Shined in my angel-infancy.
Before I understood this place
Appointed for my second race,
Or taught my soul to fancy aught
But a white, celestial thought.
Silex Scintillans “The Retreat” l. 1 (1650–1655)

Louis Vauxcelles

French art critic, 1870–1943

- 1 The purity of this bust comes as a surprise in the midst of the orgy of pure colors: it is Donatello among the wild beasts.
Gil Blas, 17 Oct. 1905. The reference (“Donatello chez les fauves” in the original French) is to a bust by Albert Marquet, exhibited among the works of Matisse and others at the Salon d’Automne, Paris, in 1905; it gave rise to the term fauvism to describe an early-twentieth-century movement in painting.

Thorstein Veblen

U.S. economist and social critic, 1857–1929

- 1 In order to gain and to hold the esteem of men
it is not sufficient merely to possess wealth or power. The wealth or power must be put in evidence, for esteem is awarded only on evidence.
The Theory of the Leisure Class ch. 3 (1899)
- 2 Conspicuous consumption of valuable goods is a means of reputability to the gentleman of leisure.
The Theory of the Leisure Class ch. 4 (1899)
See Rae 1
- 3 From the foregoing survey of the growth of conspicuous leisure and consumption, it appears that the utility of both alike for the purposes of reputability lies in the element of waste that is common to both. In the one case it is a waste of time and effort, in the other it is a waste of goods.
The Theory of the Leisure Class ch. 4 (1899)

- 4 With the exception of the instinct of self-preservation, the propensity for emulation is probably the strongest and most alert and persistent of the economic motives proper.
The Theory of the Leisure Class ch. 5 (1899)

Bill Veeck

U.S. baseball team owner, 1914–1986

- 1 Sometimes the best trades are the ones you don’t make.
Quoted in Daily Ardmoreite (Ardmore, Okla.), 6
Oct. 1948. Paul Dickson notes in Baseball’s Greatest Quotations that Veeck said this “after the 1948 season, when Veeck had refrained from trading manager-shortstop Lou Boudreau and the Indians went on to win the pennant and the World Series.”

Lope de Vega

Spanish playwright and poet, 1562–1635

- 1 Harmony is pure love, for love is complete agreement.
Fuenteovejuna act 1 (ca. 1613) (translation by Angel Flores and Muriel Kittel)
- 2 Except for God, the King’s our only lord and master.

Pierre Vergniaud

French revolutionary, 1753–1793

- 1 Il a été permis de craindre que la Révolution, comme Saturne, dévorât successivement tous ses enfants.

There is reason to fear that the Revolution may, like Saturn, devour each of her children one by one.

Remark at his trial, Oct. 1793

See Büchner 1

Paul Verlaine

French poet, 1844–1896

- 1 *Les sanglots longs
Des violons
De l'automne
Blessent mon coeur
D'une langueur Monotone.*

The drawn-out sobs of autumn's violins wound my heart with a monotonous languor.

"Chanson d'Automne" (1866)

- 2 *Il pleure dans mon coeur
Comme il pleut sur la ville.*
There are tears in my heart
Like the rain falling on the city.
Romances sans Paroles "Ariettes Oubliées" no. 3 (1874)

- 3 Et tout le reste est littérature.
All the rest is literature.
"Art Poétique" (1882)

- 4 De la musique avant toute chose.
Music above all.

And O those children's voices, singing beneath the dome!
"Parsifal" (1886)

Jules Verne

French science fiction writer, 1828–1905

- 1 Science, my lad, has been built upon many errors; but they are errors which it was good to fall into, for they led to the truth.
Journey to the Center of the Earth ch. 31 (1864)

- 2 The sea is everything. It covers seven tenths of the terrestrial globe. Its breath is pure and healthy. It is an immense desert, where man is never lonely, for he feels life stirring on all sides. The sea is only the embodiment of a supernatural and wonderful existence. It is nothing but love and emotion.

Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea pt. 1, ch. 10 (1870)

Vespasian

Roman emperor, 9–79

- 1 [Remark during fatal illness:] Vae, puto deus fio.
Woe is me, I think I am becoming a god.
Quoted in Suetonius, Lives of the Caesars

Amerigo Vespucci

Italian explorer, 1454–1512

- 1 Those new regions which we found and explored with the fleet . . . we may rightly call a New World . . . a continent more densely peopled and abounding in animals than our Europe or Asia or Africa; and, in addition, a climate milder than in any other region known to us.

Mundus Novus (1503) (translation by G. T. Northup)

Giovanni Battista Vico

Italian jurist, philologist, and philosopher, 1668–1744

- 1 But in the night of thick darkness enveloping the earliest antiquity, so remote from ourselves, there shines the eternal and never failing light of a truth beyond all question: that the world of civil society has certainly been made by men.

The New Science bk. 1, par. 331 (1725)

Victoria

British queen, 1819–1901

- 1 The Queen is most anxious to enlist everyone who can speak or write to join in checking this mad, wicked folly of Woman's Rights with all its attendant horrors on which her poor, feeble sex is bent, forgetting every sense of womanly feeling and propriety.

Letter to Theodore Martin, 29 May 1870

2 [Remark upon being shown the line of succession to the throne, 11 Mar. 1830:] I will be good.

Quoted in Theodore Martin, The Prince Consort (1875). Victoria was crowned in 1837.

3 We are not amused.

Quoted in Fitchburg (Mass.) Daily Sentinel, 31 Jan. 1887. This article relates: "Sir Arthur Helps, who was her private secretary, used to tell an amusing anecdote of being snubbed by her for telling a rather funny story down the table, among the ladies-in-waiting to relieve the monotony of a dreary dinner, when the queen remarked: 'What is it? We are not amused.'" "We are not amused" was earlier attributed to an unnamed royal in James Payn, The Talk of the Town (1885).

4 [Remark to Arthur J. Balfour regarding the Boer War, Dec. 1899:] We are not interested in the possibilities of defeat—they do not exist.

Quoted in Gwendolen Cecil, Life of Robert, Marquis of Salisbury (1931)

5 [Of William Gladstone:] He talks to me as if I were a public meeting.

Attributed in Saturday Review, 27 Mar. 1897. Alexis de Tocqueville had written in Democracy in America, vol. 1, ch. 14 (1835): "An American . . . speaks to you as if he was addressing a meeting."

Gore Vidal

U.S. novelist and critic, 1925–2012

1 He will lie even when it is inconvenient, the sign of the true artist.

Two Sisters (1970)

2 [Of Richard Nixon:] He turned being a Big Loser into a perfect triumph by managing to lose the presidency in a way bigger and more original than anyone else had ever lost it before.

Esquire, Dec. 1983

3 As societies grow decadent, the language grows decadent too. Words are used to disguise, not to illuminate, action: You liberate a city by destroying it. Words are used to confuse, so that at election time people will solemnly vote against their own interests.

"The Day the American Empire Ran Out of Gas" (1986)

4 Whenever a friend succeeds, a little something in me dies.

Quoted in Sunday Times Magazine, 16 Sept. 1973

5 I'm all for bringing back the birch, but only between consenting adults.

Quoted in Sunday Times Magazine, 16 Sept. 1973

6 It is not enough to succeed; others must fail.

Quoted in Newport (R.I.) Daily News, 3 Nov. 1978. Although this line is associated with Vidal, Garson O'Toole has found that Iris Murdoch wrote in The Black Prince (1973): "Some clever writer (probably a Frenchman) has said: it is not enough to succeed; others must fail." O'Toole also found that Somerset Maugham was quoted in The Daily Messenger (Canandaigua, N.Y.), 8 July 1959: "Now that I've grown old, I realize that for most of us it is not enough to have achieved personal success. One's best friend must also have failed."

7 [Of Ronald Reagan:] A triumph of the embalmer's art.

Quoted in Observer, 26 Apr. 1981

Peter Viereck

U.S. poet and historian, 1916–2006

1 Catholic-baiting is the anti-Semitism of the liberals.

Minor Poems "Copa" l. 38

- 23 E pluribus unus.

One composed of many.

Minor Poems "Moretum" l. 104. E pluribus unum was used on the title page of the Gentleman's Magazine beginning in 1731 and as the motto on the face of the Great Seal of the United States, adopted in 1782.

Voltaire (François-Marie-Arouet)

French writer and philosopher, 1694–1778

- 1 If there were only one religion in England, there would be danger of tyranny; if there were two, they would cut each other's throats; but there are thirty, and they live happily together in peace.

"On the Presbyterians" (1732)

- 2 Il meglio, è l'inimico del bene.

The best is the enemy of the good.

Letter to Duc de Richelieu, 18 June 1744. Although this saying is now associated with Voltaire, he is obviously quoting an Italian proverb here. The French form, which he used later, is Le mieux est l'ennemi du bien.

- 3 That generous maxim, that it is much more prudence to acquit two persons, though actually guilty, than to pass sentence of condemnation on one that is virtuous and innocent.

Zadig ch. 6 (1749)

See Blackstone 7; Fortescue 1; Benjamin Franklin 37; Maimonides 1

- 4 It is one of the superstitions of mankind to have imagined that virginity could be a virtue. "The Leningrad Notebooks" (ca. 1735–1750)

- 5 Ce Corps qui s'appellait, & qui s'appelle encor, le saint Empire Romain, n'était en aucune manière, ni saint, ni Romain, ni Empire.

This agglomeration which was called and which still calls itself the Holy Roman Empire was neither Holy, nor Roman, nor an empire.

Essay sur l'Histoire Générale et sur les Moeurs et l'Esprit des Nations, new ed., vol. 2, ch. 66 (1761)

- 6 In Westphalie, in Baron Thunder-ten-tronckh's castle, there was a young boy upon whom nature had bestowed the gentlest manners. His soul shined through his face. He had fairly sound judgment, with the simplest spirit; this is why, I believe, they called him Candide.
Candide ch. 1 (1759)
- 7 Ce meilleur des mondes possibles . . . tout est au mieux.
This best of possible worlds . . . all is for the best.
Candide ch. 1 (1759). Usually quoted as "best of all possible worlds."
See Cabell 1; Leibniz 3; Voltaire 8
- 8 If this is the best of all possible worlds, what are the others like?
Candide ch. 6 (1759)
See Cabell 1; Leibniz 3; Voltaire 7
- 9 Dans ce pays-ci il est bon de tuer de temps en temps un amiral pour encourager les autres.
In this country [England] it is useful to kill an admiral from time to time to encourage the others.
Candide ch. 23 (1759). Voltaire refers here to the execution of Admiral Byng for his failure to relieve Minorca, besieged by the French.
- 10 Il faut cultiver notre jardin.
We must cultivate our garden.
Candide ch. 30 (1759)
- 11 In this world we run the risk of having to choose between being either the anvil or the hammer.
Dictionnaire Philosophique "Tyranny" (1764)
- 12 Very learned women are to be found, in the same manner as female warriors; but they are seldom or never inventors.
Dictionnaire Philosophique "Women" (1764)
- 13 Toutes les histoires anciennes, comme le disait un de nos beaux esprits, ne sont que des fables convenues.
Ancient histories, as one of our wits has said, are but fables that have been agreed upon.
Jeannot et Colin (1764). Although this is usually associated with Voltaire, "L'histoire n'est qu'une fable convenue" was attributed to Bernard de Fontenelle in Claude Helvétius, De l'esprit (1758).
See Fontenelle 2
- 14 Le sens commun est fort rare.
Common sense is not so common.
Dictionnaire Philosophique "Common Sense" (1765)
- 15 History is nothing more than a tableau of crimes and misfortunes.
L'Ingénu ch. 10 (1767)
See Gibbon 4
- 16 I have never made but one prayer to God, a very short one: "O Lord, make my enemies ridiculous." And God granted it.
Letter to M. Damilaville, 16 May 1767
- 17 I want my attorney, my tailor, my valets, and even my wife to believe in God, and I fancy that then I'll be robbed and cuckolded less.
"Dialogues Between A, B, and C" (1768)
- 18 Si Deux n'existait pas, il faudrait l'inventer.
If God did not exist, it would be necessary to invent him.

See Ovid 2

Kurt Vonnegut, Jr.

U.S. novelist, 1922–2007

- 1 Every passing hour brings the Solar System forty-three thousand miles closer to Globular Cluster M13 in Hercules—and still there are some misfits who insist that there is no such thing as progress.
The Sirens of Titan epigraph (1959)
- 2 I was the victim of a series of accidents, as are we all.
The Sirens of Titan ch. 10 (1959)
- 3 We Bokonists believe that humanity is organized into teams, teams that do God's Will without ever discovering what they are doing. Such a team is called a karass by Bokonon.
Cat's Cradle ch. 1 (1960)
- 4 A seeming team that was meaningless in terms of the way God gets things done, a textbook example of what Bokonon calls a granfalloon. Other examples of *granfalloon*s are the Communist party, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the General Electric Company, the International Order of Odd Fellows—and any nation, anytime, anywhere.
Cat's Cradle ch. 42 (1960)

5 So it goes.

Slaughterhouse-Five ch. 1 (1969)

6 Billy Pilgrim has come unstuck in time.

Slaughterhouse-Five ch. 2 (1969)

7 We had forgotten that wars were fought by babies. When I saw those freshly shaved faces, it was a shock. "My God, my God—" I said to myself, "it's the Children's Crusade."

Slaughterhouse-Five ch. 5 (1969)

John von Neumann

Hungarian-born U.S. mathematician and computer scientist, 1903–1957

1 Is the sum of all payments received by all players (at the end of the game) always zero.

. . . All games which are actually played for entertainment are of this type. But the economically significant schemes are most essentially not such. There the sum of all payments, the total social product, will in general not be zero. . . . We shall call games of the first mentioned type zero-sum games, and those of the latter type non-zero-sum games.

Theory of Games and Economic Behavior ch. 2 (1944).
Coauthored with Oskar Morgenstern.

2 In mathematics you don't understand things, you just get used to them.

Quoted in Gary Zukav, The Dancing Wu Li Masters (1979)

Don Von Tress

U.S. country songwriter, fl. 1990

1 Achy Breaky Heart.

Title of song (1990)

Johann Heinrich Voss

German poet, 1751–1826

1 Dein redseliges Buch lehrt mancherlei Neues und Wahres: Wäre das Wahre nur neu, wäre das Neue nur wahr.

Your garrulous book teaches many things new and true: If only the true were new, if only the new were true!

Vossicher Musenalmanach (1772)

Andrei Voznesensky

Russian poet, 1933–2010

1 I am Goya

of the bare field, by the enemy's beak gouged till the craters of my eyes gape,

I am grief,

I am the tongue

of war, the embers of cities

on the snows of the year 1941

I am hunger.

"Goya" (1960) (translation by Stanley Kunitz)

Diana Vreeland

U.S. fashion journalist, 1903–1989

1 I love London. It is the most swinging city in the world at the moment.

Quoted in Weekly Telegraph Magazine, 30 Apr. 1965

Bill W. (William Wilson)

U.S. founder of Alcoholics Anonymous, 1895–1971

- 1 We admitted we were powerless over alcohol—that our lives had become unmanageable. We came to believe that a Power greater than ourselves would restore us to sanity.
Alcoholics Anonymous (1939). The first two of the “Twelve Steps” that form the program of Alcoholics Anonymous to combat alcoholism.

John Francis Wade

English hymnwriter, ca. 1710–1786

- 1 O come, all ye faithful, joyful and triumphant,
O come ye, O come ye, to Bethlehem.
Come and behold Him, born the King of angels.
“Adeste Fidelis” (hymn) (ca. 1743) (translation from the original Latin by Frederick Oakeley, 1852)

Richard Wagner

German composer, 1813–1883

- 1 O du mein holder Abendstern.
O thou, my gracious evening star.
Tannhäuser (opera) act 3, sc. 1 (1845)
- 2 Nacht und Nebel niemand gleich.
Night and fog make you no one.
Das Rheingold (opera) (1869). Nacht und Nebel (Night and Fog) was the title of a 1941 decree by Adolf Hitler consigning opponents of German occupation to concentration camps.
- 3 Götterdämmerung.
Twilight of the Gods.
Title of opera (1876)

Tom Waits

U.S. singer and songwriter, 1949–

- 1 I'd rather have a bottle in front of me than a frontal lobotomy.
Fernwoodznight (television show), 1 Aug. 1977. A similar bottle in front/frontal lobotomy saying appeared in Carlton W. Berenda, World Visions and the Image of Man (1965).

Derek Walcott

West Indian poet and playwright, 1930–2017

7 If you are bored and disgusted by politics and don't bother to vote, you are in effect voting for the entrenched Establishments of the two major parties, who please rest assured are not dumb, and who are keenly aware that it is in their interests to keep you disgusted and bored and cynical and to give you every possible reason to stay at home doing one-hitters and watching MTV on primary day. By all means stay home if you want, but don't bullshit yourself that you're not voting. In reality, there is no such thing as not voting: you either vote by voting, or you vote by staying home and tacitly doubling the value of some Diehard's vote.

8 Because here's something else that's weird but true: in the day-to-day trenches of adult life, there is actually no such thing as atheism.

There is no such thing as not worshipping. Everybody worships. The only choice we get is what to worship.

9 The really important kind of freedom involves attention and awareness and discipline, and being able truly to care about other people and to sacrifice for them over and over in myriad petty, unsexy ways every day.

Commencement address at Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio, 21 May 2005

10 The capital-T Truth is about life before death. It is about making it to 30, or maybe 50, without wanting to shoot yourself in the head. It is about simple awareness—awareness of what is so real and essential, so hidden in plain sight all around us, that we have to keep reminding ourselves, over and over: “This is water, this is water.”

English poet, 1606–1687

- 1 Go, lovely rose!
Tell her, that wastes her time and me,
That now she knows,
When I resemble her to thee,
How sweet and fair she seems to be.
"Go, Lovely Rose!" l. 1 (1645)

Robert James Waller

U.S. author, 1939–2017

- 1 In a universe of ambiguity, this kind of certainty comes only once, and never again, no matter how many lifetimes you live.
The Bridges of Madison County (1992)

Thomas "Fats" Waller

U.S. jazz musician and composer, 1904–1943

- 1 One never know, do one?
Stormy Weather (motion picture) (1943). Waller used this phrase as an actor in this film, but it was earlier a catchphrase in his singing performances.
- 2 [When asked to explain jazz:] Lady, if you got to ask, you ain't got it.
Quoted in Wash. Post, 17 July 1947. Often attributed to Louis Armstrong.

Horace Walpole

English writer, 1717–1797

- 1 Serendipity . . . You will understand it better by the derivation than by the definition. I once read a silly fairy tale, called "The Three Princes of Serendip": as their Highnesses traveled, they were always making discoveries, by accidents and sagacity, of things which they were not in quest of.
Letter to Horace Mann, 28 Jan. 1754. Coinage of the word serendipity.
- 2 The next Augustan age will dawn on the other side of the Atlantic. There will, perhaps, be a Thucydides at Boston, a Xenophon at New York, and, in time, a Virgil at Mexico, and a Newton at Peru. At last, some curious traveler from Lima will visit England and give a description of the ruins of St. Paul's, like the editions of Balbec and Palmyra.
Letter to Horace Mann, 24 Nov. 1774
See Thomas Macaulay 9
- 3 I have often said, and oftener think, that this world is a comedy to those that think, a tragedy to those that feel.

Izaak Walton

English writer, 1593–1683

- 1 No man can lose what he never had.
The Compleat Angler pt. 1, ch. 5 (1653)
- 2 We may say of angling as Dr. Boteler said of strawberries: "Doubtless God could have made a better berry, but doubtless God never did."
The Compleat Angler, 2nd ed., pt. 1, ch. 5 (1655). "Dr. Boteler" refers to English physician William Butler.

Sam Walton

U.S. businessman, 1918–1992

- 1 There is only one boss—the customer. And he can fire everybody in the company from the chairman on down, simply by spending his money somewhere else.
Quoted in Telemarketing, Oct. 1994

John Wanamaker

U.S. businessman, 1838–1922

- 1 I am convinced that about one-half the money I spend for advertising is wasted, but I have never been able to decide which half.

Quoted in Bible Conference, Winona Echoes (1919). David Ogilvy, in Confessions of an Advertising Man (1963), asserts that Lord Leverhulme voiced this complaint before Wanamaker.

Aby Warburg

German art historian, 1866–1929

- 1 Der liebe Gott steckt im Detail.

God is in the details.

Notice of seminar at Hamburg University, Hamburg, Germany, 11 Nov. 1925. This is documented in papers at the Warburg Institute at the University of London, described in Dieter Wuttke, Ausgewählte Schriften und Würdigungen (1980).

Artemus Ward (Charles Farrar Browne)

U.S. humorist, 1834–1867

- 1 The hardest case we ever heard of lived in Arkansas. He was only fourteen years old. One night he deliberately murdered his father and mother in cold blood, with a meat-axe. He was tried and found guilty. The judge drew on his black cap, and in a voice choked with emotion asked the young prisoner if he had anything to say before the sentence of the Court was passed on him. . . . “Why, no,” replied the prisoner, “I think I haven’t, though I hope yer Honor will show some consideration FOR THE FEELINGS OF A POOR ORPHAN!”

U.S. artist, 1927–1987

- 1 Making money is art and working is art and good business is the best art.

The Philosophy of Andy Warhol ch. 6 (1975)

- 2 If you want to know all about Andy Warhol, just look at the surface of my paintings and films and me, and there I am. There’s nothing behind it.

Quoted in Free Press (Los Angeles), 17 Mar. 1967

- 3 In the future everybody will be world famous for fifteen minutes.

Quoted in Andy Warhol (exhibition catalogue, Moderna Museet, Stockholm, Sweden) (1968). Usually quoted simply with “famous” rather than “world famous.” Time magazine, 13 Oct. 1967, stated that Warhol had predicted “the day ‘when everyone will be famous for 15 minutes.’”

Quoted in Max Wilk, The Wit and Wisdom of Hollywood (1972)

Mary Warnock

English philosopher, 1924–2019

- 1 But without some element of objectivity, without any criterion for preferring one scheme of values to another, except the criterion of what looks most attractive to oneself, there cannot in fact be any morality at all, and moral theory must consist only in the assertion that there is no morality.
Existential Ethics ch. 5 (1967)

Earl Warren

U.S. judge and politician, 1891–1974

- 1 To separate them [black children] from others of similar age and qualifications solely because of their race generates a feeling of inferiority as to their status in the community that may affect their hearts and minds in a way unlikely ever to be undone. . . . We conclude that in the field of public education the doctrine of “separate but equal” has no place. Separate educational facilities are inherently unequal.
Brown v. Board of Education (1954)
See John M. Harlan (1833–1911) 1; Kerner 1
- 2 The judgments below . . . are accordingly reversed and the cases are remanded to the District Courts to take such proceedings and enter such orders and decrees consistent with this opinion as are necessary and proper to admit to public schools on a racially nondiscriminatory basis with all deliberate speed the parties to these cases.
Brown v. Board of Education (1955). It appears that Felix Frankfurter contributed the crucial phrase “deliberate speed” to Chief Justice Warren’s opinion in the implementing stage of Brown v. Board of Education and, earlier, to the government’s oral argument in a connected case. Frankfurter’s source was Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., who used it in a 1909 letter and a 1911 opinion. Although Holmes in the 1909 letter attributed the phrase to “the language of the English chancery,” the earliest usage that has been found occurred in Thomas Beddoes’s medical book Hygēia (1802).

- 3 Prior to any questioning, the person must be warned that he has a right to remain silent, that any statement he does make may be used as evidence against him, and that he has a right to the presence of an attorney, either retained or appointed.
Miranda v. Arizona (1966)
- 4 I always turn to the sports section first. The sports page records man’s accomplishments; the front page has nothing but man’s failures.
Quoted in Sports Illustrated, 22 July 1968. A similar statement appeared in an article by William Lyon Phelps in Scribner’s Magazine, Nov. 1922.

Edward H. “Bull” Warren

U.S. legal scholar, 1873–1945

- 1 [“Address of Welcome” to incoming students at Harvard Law School:] Look well to the right of you, look well to the left of you, for one of you three won’t be here next year.
Quoted in Harvard Law Review, Oct. 1945. A very similar Harvard Law School admonition appeared, without identification of the speaker, in Life magazine, 1 Nov. 1937.
- 2 On one occasion a student made a curiously inept response to a question from Professor Warren. “The Bull” roared at him, “You will never make a lawyer. You might just as well pack up your books now and leave the school.” The student rose, gathered his notebooks, and started to leave, pausing only to say in full voice, “I accept your suggestion, Sir, but I do not propose to leave without giving myself the pleasure of telling you to go plumb straight to Hell.” “Sit down, Sir, sit down,” said “The Bull.” “Your response makes it clear that my judgment was too hasty.”
Reported in Harvard Law Review, Oct. 1945

Elizabeth Warren

U.S. politician and legal scholar, 1949–

- 1 There is nobody in this country who got rich on his own. Nobody. You built a factory out there—good for you! But I want to be clear. You moved your goods to market on the roads the rest of us paid for. You hired workers the rest of us paid to educate. You were safe in your factory because of police forces and fire forces that the rest of us paid for.

Booker T. Washington

U.S. educator, 1856–1915

- 1 No race can prosper till it learns that there is as much dignity in tilling a field as in writing a poem.
Address at Atlanta International Exposition, Atlanta, Ga., 18 Sept. 1895
- 2 To those of my race who . . . underestimate the importance of cultivating friendly relations with the Southern white man, who is their next-door neighbor, I would say, “Cast down your bucket where you are”—cast it down in making friends in every manly way of the people of all races by whom we are surrounded.
Address at Atlanta International Exposition, Atlanta, Ga., 18 Sept. 1895

- 3 In all things that are purely social we can be as separate as the fingers, yet one as the hand in all things essential to mutual progress.

Address at Atlanta International Exposition, Atlanta, Ga., 18 Sept. 1895

- 4 Ignorance is more costly to the State than education.

George Washington

U.S. president and military leader, 1732–1799

- 1 When we assumed the Soldier, we did not lay aside the Citizen.
Letter to New York Legislature, 26 June 1775
- 2 Few men have virtue to withstand the highest bidder.
Letter to Robert Howe, 17 Aug. 1779
- 3 The preservation of the sacred fire of liberty and the destiny of the republican model of government are justly considered as deeply, perhaps as finally, staked on the experiment entrusted to the hands of the American people.
First Inaugural Address, New York, N.Y., 30 Apr. 1789
- 4 Happily the Government of the United States, which gives to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance requires only that they who live under its protection should demean themselves as good citizens, in giving it on all occasions their effectual support.
Letter to Hebrew congregation of Newport, R.I., 17 Aug. 1790
- 5 The basis of our political Systems is the right of the people to make and to alter their Constitutions of Government. But the Constitution which at any time exists, 'till changed by an explicit and authentic act of the whole People, is sacredly obligatory upon all.
Farewell Address, Philadelphia, Pa., 19 Sept. 1796
- 6 Avoid the necessity of those overgrown Military establishments, which under any form of Government are inauspicious to liberty, and which are to be regarded as particularly hostile to Republican Liberty.
Farewell Address, Philadelphia, Pa., 19 Sept. 1796

7 Observe good faith and justice towards all nations. Cultivate peace and harmony with all.
Farewell Address, Philadelphia, Pa., 19 Sept. 1796

8 The Nation, which indulges towards another an habitual hatred, or an habitual fondness, is in some degree a slave. It is a slave to its animosity or to its affection, either of which is sufficient to lead it astray from its duty and its interest.

Farewell Address, Philadelphia, Pa., 19 Sept. 1796

9 'Tis our true policy to steer clear of permanent Alliances, with any portion of the foreign World.

Farewell Address, Philadelphia, Pa., 19 Sept. 1796

10 It is too probable that no plan we propose will be adopted. Perhaps another dreadful conflict is to be sustained. If to please the people, we offer what we ourselves disapprove, how can we afterwards defend our work? Let us raise a standard to which the wise and the honest can repair. The event is in the hand of God.

Attributed in Gouverneur Morris, oration on death of Washington, New York, N.Y., 31 Dec. 1799. This quotation, said to have been uttered at the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia in 1787, does not appear in any contemporaneous documentation.

11 Government is not reason, it is not eloquence,—it is force! Like fire, it is a dangerous servant, and a fearful master; never for a moment should it be left to irresponsible action.

Attributed in Christian Science Journal, Nov. 1902. The attribution to Washington is undoubtedly apocryphal.

U.S. politician, 1938–

1 If you see anybody from that Cabinet in a restaurant, in a department store, at a gasoline station, you get out and you create a crowd! And you push back on them. And you tell them they're not welcome anymore, anywhere.

Remarks at rally, Los Angeles, Calif., 23 June 2018

2 I like to laugh, I like to have a great time. But I also have a right to my anger, and I don't want anybody telling me I shouldn't be, that it's not nice to be, and that something's wrong with me because I get angry.

Quoted in Brian Lanker, I Dream a World (1989)

Muddy Waters (McKinley Morganfield)

U.S. blues singer and songwriter, 1913–1983

1 Well, my mother told my father
Just before I was born,
"I got a boy child comin', Gonna be a rollin' stone."

John B. Watson

U.S. psychologist, 1878–1958

- 1 Psychology, as the behaviorist views it, is a purely objective, experimental branch of natural science which needs introspection as little as do the sciences of chemistry and physics. . . . The position is taken here that the behavior of man and the behavior of animals must be considered in the same plane.
“Psychology as the Behaviorist Views It” (1913)
- 2 The rule, or measuring rod, which the behaviorist puts in front of him always is: Can I describe this bit of behavior I see in terms of “stimulus and response”?
Behaviorism ch. 1 (1924)
- 3 Give me a dozen healthy infants, well-formed, and my own specified world in which to bring them up in and I’ll guarantee to take any one at random and train him to become any type of specialist I might select—doctor, lawyer, artist, merchant chief, and, yes, even beggarman and thief, regardless of his talents, penchants, tendencies, abilities, vocations, and race of his ancestors.
Behaviorism ch. 5 (1924)
- 4 The universe will change if you bring up your children, not in the freedom of the libertine, but in behavioristic freedom—a freedom which we cannot even picture in words, so little do we know of it.

Behaviorism ch. 12 (1924)

- 5 There are . . . for us no instincts—we no longer need the term in psychology. Everything we have been in the habit of calling an “instinct” today is a result largely of training—belonging to man’s learned behavior.
“What the Nursery Has to Say About Instincts” (1926)
  - 6 At three years of age the child’s whole emotional life plan has been laid down, his emotional disposition set. At that age the parents have already determined for him whether he is to grow into a happy person, wholesome and good-natured, whether he is to be a whining, complaining neurotic, an anger-driven, vindictive, over-bearing slave driver, or one whose every move in life is definitely controlled by fear.
“Are You Giving Your Child a Chance?” (1927)

- Thomas J. Watson, Jr.
U.S. business executive and diplomat, 1914–1993
- 1 I think there is a world market for about five computers.
Attributed in Chris Morgan and David Langford, Facts and Fallacies: A Book of Definitive Mistakes and Misguided Predictions (1981). IBM (of which Watson served as chairman) states that it believes that this statement “is a misunderstanding of remarks made at IBM’s annual stockholders meeting on April 28, 1953. In referring specifically and only to the IBM 701 Electronic Data Processing Machine—which had been introduced the year before as the company’s first production computer designed for scientific calculations—Thomas Watson, Jr., told stockholders that ‘IBM had developed a paper plan for such a machine and took this paper plan across the country to some 20 concerns that we thought could use such a machine. I would like to tell you that the machine rents for between $12,000 and $18,000 a month, so it was not the type of thing that could be sold from place to place. But, as a result of our trip, on which we expected to get orders for five machines, we came home with orders for 18.” Earlier, Sir Charles Darwin (grandson of the great biologist) had written in a 1946 proposal that “it is very possible that . . . one machine would suffice to solve all the problems that are demanded of it from the whole country” (“Automatic Computing Engine [ACE],” National Physical Laboratory, 17 Apr.). American computer pioneer Howard Aiken was cited even earlier as having exactly the same concern: “He could not conceive of there being enough work for more than one such giant” (Popular Science, Oct. 1944). According to Kevin Maney, The Maverick and His Machine, “Aiken revised his forecast while working on the Mark I with IBM, saying 5 or 10 might be built, according to Aiken contemporaries. That prediction by Aiken could have been mistakenly attributed to Watson, or perhaps Watson repeated Aiken’s prediction.”

Thomas J. Watson, Sr.

U.S. businessman, 1874–1956

I THINK.

Corporate motto (1911). According to Kevin Maney, in The Maverick and His Machine: Thomas Watson, Sr. and the Making of IBM (2003), Thomas J. Watson, Sr., when he was managing the sales and advertising departments of the National Cash Register Company, is reported to have said at a sales meeting: “The trouble with every one of us is that we don’t think enough!” Then Watson wrote “THINK” on an easel behind him. This motto proliferated on signs throughout NCR, then followed Watson to IBM’s predecessor company (in 1914) and finally to IBM itself, where it became the main corporate slogan.

Max Weber

German sociologist, 1864–1920

1 The Protestant Ethic and the Spirit of Capitalism.

Title of article, Archiv für Sozialwissenschaft Sozialpolitik (1904–1905)

2 For when asceticism was carried out of monastic cells into everyday life, and began to dominate worldly morality, it did its part in building the tremendous cosmos of the modern economic order. This order is now bound to the technical and economic conditions of machine production which to-day determine the lives of all the individuals who are born into this mechanism, not only those directly concerned with economic acquisition, with irresistible force. Perhaps it will so determine them until the last ton of fossilized coal is burnt.

The Protestant Ethic and the Spirit of Capitalism ch. 5 (1920) (translation by Talcott Parsons)

3 The term “charisma” will be applied to a certain quality of an individual personality by virtue of which he is considered extraordinary and treated as endowed with supernatural, superhuman, or at least specifically exceptional powers or qualities. These are such as are not accessible to the ordinary person, but are regarded as of divine origin or as exemplary, and on the basis of them the individual concerned is treated as a “leader.”

- 3 It is my living sentiment, and by the blessing of God it shall be my dying sentiment—Independence now and Independence forever.
Discourse in Commemoration of Adams and Jefferson, Faneuil Hall, Boston, Mass., 2 Aug. 1826
- 4 I shall enter on no encomium upon Massachusetts; she needs none. There she is. Behold her, and judge for yourselves. There is her history; the world knows it by heart. The past, at least, is secure. There is Boston, and Concord, and Lexington, and Bunker Hill; and there they will remain for ever.
Second Speech on Foote's Resolution, U.S. Senate, 26 Jan. 1830. Often misquoted as "Massachusetts, there she stands."
- 5 It is, Sir, the people's Constitution, the people's government, made for the people, made by the people, and answerable to the people.

- 6 When my eyes shall be turned to behold for the last time the sun in heaven, may I not see him shining on the broken and dishonored fragments of a once glorious Union; on States dissevered, discordant, belligerent; on a land rent with civil feuds, or drenched, it may be, in fraternal blood!
Second Speech on Foote's Resolution, U.S. Senate, 26 Jan. 1830
- 7 Liberty and Union, now and for ever, one and inseparable!
Second Speech on Foote's Resolution, U.S. Senate, 26 Jan. 1830
- 8 There is no refuge from confession but suicide, and suicide is confession.
Summation in murder trial of John Francis Knapp, Salem, Mass., 1830
- 9 He smote the rock of the national resources, and abundant streams of revenue gushed forth. He touched the dead corpse of the Public Credit, and it sprung upon his feet. The fabled birth of Minerva, from the brain of Jove, was hardly more sudden or more perfect than the financial system of the United States, as it burst forth from the conceptions of Alexander Hamilton.
Speech, New York, N.Y., 10 Mar. 1831
- 10 There is no happiness, there is no liberty, there is no enjoyment of life, unless a man can say when he rises in the morning, I shall be subject to the decision of no unjust judge to-day.
Speech, New York, N.Y., 24 Mar. 1831
- 11 Gentlemen, the citizens of this republic cannot sever their fortunes. . . . Let us then stand by the Constitution as it is, and by our country as it is, one, united, and entire: let it be a truth engraven on our hearts, let it be borne on the flag under which we rally, in every exigency, that we have ONE COUNTRY, ONE CONSTITUTION, ONE DESTINY.
Speech at Niblo's Saloon, New York, N.Y., 15 Mar. 1837
- 12 Justice, Sir, is the great interest of man on earth.
Oration on day of Justice Story's funeral, Boston, Mass., 12 Sept. 1845
- 13 I can give it as the condensed history of most, if not all, good lawyers, that they lived well and died poor.
Speech at Charleston Bar Dinner, Charleston, S.C., 10 May 1847

- 14 The Law: It has honored us, may we honor it.
Speech at Charleston Bar Dinner, Charleston, S.C.,

- 15 Liberty exists in proportion to wholesome restraint.
Speech at Charleston Bar Dinner, Charleston, S.C.,
10 May 1847
- 16 I was born an American; I will live an American; I shall die an American.
Speech in Senate on Compromise Bill, 17 July 1850
- 17 [Response to advice not to enter the legal profession because it was too crowded.] There is room enough at the top.
Quoted in Bangor Daily Whig & Courier, 27 Feb. 1866.
Often quoted later as “There is always room at the top.” Webster was quoted with the wording “There is room higher up” in Edward Everett Hale, Christian Duty to Emigrants (1852).

John Webster

English playwright, ca. 1580–ca. 1625

- 1 But keep the wolf far hence that's foe to men,
For with his nails he'll dig them up again.
The White Devil act 5, sc. 4 (1612)
- 2 We think caged birds sing, when indeed they cry.

Mason Locke “Parsons” Weems

U.S. clergyman and biographer, 1759–1825

- 1 [Apocryphal remark of the young George Washington, confessing to having chopped down a cherry tree.] I can't tell a lie, Pa, you know I can't tell a lie, I did cut it with my little hatchet.
The Life of Washington the Great, 5th ed., ch. 2 (1806)

Simone Weil

French philosopher, social activist, and mystic,
1909–1943

- 1 What a country calls its vital economic interests are not the things which enable its citizens to live, but the things which enable it to make war;
petrol is more likely than wheat to be a cause of international conflict.
“The Power of Words” (1937)

- 2 Who were the fools who spread the story that brute force cannot kill ideas? Nothing is easier.
And once they are dead they are no more than corpses.
“Three Letters on History: Thophile de Viau” (written 1938–1939)
- 3 The needs of a human being are sacred. Their satisfaction cannot be subordinated either to reasons of state, or to any consideration of money, nationality, race, or color, or to the moral or other value attributed to the human being in question, or to any consideration whatsoever.
“Draft for a Statement of Human Obligation” (1943)
- 4 All sins are attempts to fill voids.
La Pesanteur et la Grâce “Désirer sans Objet” (1948)
- 5 Every time that I think of the crucifixion of Christ, I commit the sin of envy.
Waiting on God Letter 4 (1950)

Jack Weinberg

U.S. political activist, 1940–

- 1 We have a saying in the movement that you can't trust anybody over 30.
Quoted in S.F. Chronicle, 15 Nov. 1964

Steven Weinberg

U.S. physicist, 1933–

- 1 It is even harder to realize that this present universe has evolved from an unspeakably unfamiliar early condition, and faces a future extinction of endless cold or intolerable heat.
The more the universe seems comprehensible,
the more it also seems pointless.
The First Three Minutes ch. 8 (1977)
- 2 With or without [religion] you would have good people doing good things and evil people doing evil things. But for good people to do evil things, that takes religion.
Address at Conference on Cosmic Design,
Washington, D.C., Apr. 1999

Max Weinreich

Lithuanian-born U.S. linguist, 1893–1969

- 1 A shprakh iz a dialekt mit an army un flot.
A language is a dialect with an army and navy.
Yivo Bleter, Jan.–Feb. 1945. Weinreich was quoting an unnamed student who spoke to him after a lecture at the Yidisher Visnshaftlekher Institut in 1944.

Johnny Weismuller

U.S. actor and swimmer, 1904–1984

- 1 Me Tarzan, you Jane.

Quoted in Photoplay, June 1932. Weismuller's full quotation in this interview was "I didn't have to act in Tarzan, the Ape Man—just said, 'Me Tarzan, you Jane.'" This was a paraphrase of the real film dialogue, which had Tarzan alternately tapping himself and Jane Parker while repeating each of their names.

George David Weiss

U.S. songwriter, 1921–2010

- 1 I see skies of blue, and clouds of white,
The bright blessed day, the dark sacred night
And I think to myself what a wonderful world.
"What a Wonderful World" (song) (1968). Cowritten with Bob Thiele.

Hazel Weiss

U.S. sports executive's wife, fl. 1969

- 1 I married him for better or for worse—but not for lunch.

Quoted in Wash. Post, 27 Apr. 1969. Supposedly said after her husband, George Weiss, retired as general manager of the New York Yankees in 1960. The Dallas Morning News on 5 May 1962 has the following, credited to "the wife of the fired baseball manager": "I married the guy for better or worse. But not for lunch."

The Persecution and Assassination of Jean-Paul Marat: As Performed by the Inmates of the Asylum of Charenton Under the Direction of the Marquis de Sade.
Title of play (1964, translation 1965)

Victor Weisskopf

Austrian-born U.S. physicist, 1908–2002

- 1 It was absolutely marvelous working for [Wolfgang] Pauli. You could ask him anything. There was no worry that he would think a particular question was stupid, since he thought all questions were stupid.
American Journal of Physics, May 1977

Joseph N. Welch

U.S. lawyer, 1890–1960

- 1 Until this moment, Senator, I think I never really gauged your cruelty or your recklessness. . . . Let us not assassinate this lad further, Senator. You have done enough. Have you no sense of decency, sir, at long last? Have you left no sense of decency?

Remark to Senator Joseph McCarthy, 9 June 1954. Welch was counsel for the U.S. Army in a Senate hearing on alleged subversive activities in the army. McCarthy had charged that a lawyer in Welch's firm had once belonged to a Communist front group. Welch's statement was decisive in triggering McCarthy's political downfall.

Fay Weldon (Franklin Birkinshaw)

English writer, 1931–

- 1 The Life and Loves of a She-Devil.
Title of book (1983)

Orson Welles

U.S. director and actor, 1915–1985

- 1 Ladies and gentlemen, I have a grave announcement to make. Incredible as it may seem, strange beings who landed in New Jersey tonight are the vanguard of an invading army from Mars.
Radio broadcast of The War of the Worlds, 31 Oct. 1938
- 2 [Punch line of joke about a scorpion stinging a frog that is carrying him across a river despite the fact that this would result in both their deaths:] I can't help it. It's my nature.
Mr. Arkadin bk. 1 (1956)
- 3 [Of a Hollywood movie studio:] This is the biggest electric train [set] any boy ever had!
Quoted in Leo Rosten, Hollywood (1941)
- 4 I started at the top and worked my way down.
Quoted in Leslie Halliwell, The Filmgoer's Book of Quotes (1973)
- 5 [Response when asked which film directors he most admired:] I like the old masters, by which I mean John Ford, John Ford, and John Ford.
Quoted in Paul F. Boller, Jr., and Ronald L. Davis, Hollywood Anecdotes (1988)

Arthur Wellesley, Duke of Wellington

British military leader and prime minister, 1769–1852

1 Up Guards and at them!

Quoted in John Booth, The Battle of Waterloo (1815). Wellington denied having said this. The attributed comment appears to be the source of the expression “Up and at ‘em!”

2 [Of Napoleon:] I used to say of him that his presence on the field made the difference of forty thousand men.

Quoted in Philip Henry Stanhope, Notes of Conversations with the Duke of Wellington (1888) (entry for 2 Nov. 1831)

3 The only thing I am afraid of is fear.

Quoted in Philip Henry Stanhope, Notes of Conversations with the Duke of Wellington (1888) (entry for 3 Nov. 1831)
See Francis Bacon 7; Montaigne 4; Franklin Roosevelt 6; Thoreau 16

4 [Of the British Army:] Ours is composed of the scum of the earth—the mere scum of the earth.

Quoted in Philip Henry Stanhope, Notes of Conversations with the Duke of Wellington (1888) (entry for 4 Nov. 1831)

5 [Of troops sent to fight the United States in the War of 1812:] They wanted this iron fist to command them.

Quoted in Philip Henry Stanhope, Notes of Conversations with the Duke of Wellington (1888) (entry for 8 Nov. 1840)

6 Write and be damned.

Attributed in Julia Johnstone, Confessions of Julia Johnstone (1825). This exclamation, usually quoted as “Publish and be damned!,” was Wellington’s alleged response in 1824 to a blackmail threat from a publisher about to release the Memoirs of courtesan Harriette Wilson, who had been the duke’s mistress and was ready to “name names.” The words supposedly were written in bright red ink on the blackmailing letter, with the letter then returned to the publisher. However, the letter survives at Apsley House and has no trace of such a reply.

7 [Of the disposition of Napoleon’s ashes:] How they settle the matter I care not one two-penny damn.

Quoted in Thomas Babington Macaulay, Letter to Mr. Ellis, 6 Mar. 1849

8 The Battle of Waterloo was won in the playing fields of Eton.

Attributed in Daily News (London), 2 Mar. 1860. The earliest known trace of this quotation was in Charles de Montalembert, De l’Avenir Politique de l’Angleterre (1856). Montalembert quoted Wellington, supposedly visiting his old school, in French: “C’est ici qu’a été gagnée la bataille de Waterloo.” In fact, Wellington was a notably unenthusiastic alumnus of Eton, and Elizabeth Longford, in Wellington: The Years of the Sword (1969), concludes that “probably he never said or thought anything of the kind.”

H. G. Wells

English novelist, 1866–1946

1 Would you like to see the Time Machine itself?

The Time Machine ch. 1 (1895)

2 Are we not Men?

The Island of Dr. Moreau ch. 12 (1896)

3 The War That Will End War.

Title of book (1914)

4 Nothing could have been more obvious to the people of the earlier twentieth century than the rapidity with which war was becoming impossible. And as certainly they did not see it. They did not see it until the atomic bombs burst in their fumbling hands.

The World Set Free ch. 2 (1914). Earliest use of the term atomic bomb.

5 The catastrophe of the atomic bombs which shook men out of cities and businesses and economic relations, shook them also out of their old-established habits of thought, and out of the lightly held beliefs and prejudices that came down to them from the past.

The World Set Free ch. 4 (1914)

6 The professional military mind is by necessity an inferior and unimaginative mind; no man of high intellectual quality would willingly imprison his gifts in such a calling.

The Outline of History ch. 40 (1920)

7 Human history becomes more and more a race between education and catastrophe.

The Outline of History ch. 41 (1920)

8 The Shape of Things to Come.

Title of book (1933)

9 The brain upon which my experiences have been written is not a particularly good one. If there were brain-shows, as there are cat and dog shows, I doubt if it would get even a third class prize.

Charles Wesley

English clergyman and hymnwriter, 1707–1788

- 1 Hark how all the Welkin rings—
Glory to the Kings of Kings.
Peace on earth and mercy mild,
God and sinners reconciled.
Hymns and Sacred Poems “Hymn for Christmas-Day” (1739). George Whitefield, in A Collection of Hymns for Social Worship (1753), altered Wesley's first two lines to “Hark! The Herald Angels sing / Glory to the new-born King!”

John Wesley

English religious leader, 1703–1791

- 1 I look upon all the world as my parish.
Sermon, 11 May 1739
- 2 Slovenliness is no part of religion; that neither this, nor any text of Scripture, condemns neatness of apparel. Certainly this is a duty, not a sin. “Cleanliness is, indeed, next to godliness.”
Sermons on Several Occasions Sermon 88 (1788). The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs notes, “Next in this proverb means ‘immediately following,’ as in serial order.” The ODP refers to a passage in Francis Bacon, Advancement of Learning (1605), reading, “Cleanness of bodie was euer esteemed to proceed from a due reverence to God.”

Samuel Wesley

English clergyman and poet, 1662–1735

U.S. actress, 1893–1980

Lines West spoke in her motion pictures have been listed under her name here regardless of whether she was credited as a screenwriter for the film in question.

- 1 I always like a man in uniform, and that one fits you grand. Say, why don't you drop in and see me some time? Home every evening you know. . . . Why don't you come up some time?
Diamond Lil act 1 (1928). These lines do not appear in the Library of Congress copy of the play but do appear in a copy at the Shubert Archive in New York. Jill Watts, in Mae West: An Icon in Black and White, notes that West's 1927 play The Drag has the line "Come up sometime and I'll bake you a pan of biscuits." Watts also writes, "Perry Bradford, the African-American songwriter, boasted that the [1922] song 'He May Be Your Man but He Comes to See Me Sometimes,' which he provided to West years before, was the inspiration for Lil's line."

See Mae West 2; Mae West 10

- 2 You know, I always liked a man in uniform. . . . That one fits you perfect. Say, why don't you come up some time. I'm home every evening.
Diamond Lil (1932). The novel version of Diamond Lil (see the comment to the quotation above).
See Mae West 1; Mae West 10
- 3 [Mandie Triplett, played by Mae West, responding to being told, "Goodness, what beautiful diamonds":] Goodness had nothing to do with it, dearie.
Night After Night (motion picture) (1932)
- 4 [Tira, played by Mae West, speaking:] Peel me a grape.
I'm No Angel (motion picture) (1933). Usually quoted as "Beulah, peel me a grape."
- 5 [Tira, played by Mae West, speaking:] It's not the men in my life that counts—it's the life in my men.
I'm No Angel (motion picture) (1933)
- 6 [Tira, played by Mae West, speaking:] When I'm good, I'm very, very good. But when I'm bad, I'm better.
I'm No Angel (motion picture) (1933)
See Longfellow 28

- 7 [Tira, played by Mae West, speaking:] I've been things and seen places.
I'm No Angel (motion picture) (1933)
- 8 [Tira, played by Mae West, speaking:] She's the kind of girl who climbed the ladder of success, wrong by wrong.
I'm No Angel (motion picture) (1933)
- 9 [Tira, played by Mae West, speaking:] Marriage is a great institution—but I'm not ready for an institution.
I'm No Angel (motion picture) (1933). Nigel Rees, in his Quote . . . Unquote Newsletter, has found this joke appearing earlier in the cartoon "Pop" in 1921: "WOMAN: 'You say what you like, Pop! Marriage is a jolly good institution!' POP: 'Yes! But who wants to live in an institution?'"
- 10 [Lady Lou, played by Mae West, speaking:] Why don't you come up sometime and see me?
She Done Him Wrong (motion picture) (1933). Often misquoted as "Come up and see me sometime."
See Mae West 1; Mae West 2
- 11 [Lady Lou, played by Mae West, speaking:] When women go wrong, men go right after them.
She Done Him Wrong (motion picture) (1933)
- 12 [Ruby Carter, played by Mae West, speaking:] It's better to be looked over than overlooked.
Belle of the Nineties (motion picture) (1934)
- 13 [The Frisco Doll, played by Mae West, speaking:] Between two evils, I always pick the one I never tried before.
Klondike Annie (motion picture) (1936)
See Homer 5
- 14 [The Frisco Doll, played by Mae West, speaking:] Give a man a free hand and he'll try to put it all over you.
Klondike Annie (motion picture) (1936)
- 15 [Peaches O'Day, played by Mae West, speaking:] I always say, keep a diary and someday it'll keep you.
Every Day's a Holiday (motion picture) (1937). Margot Asquith was quoted in the Schenectady Gazette, 25 May 1922, as follows: "Keep a diary, my dear, and later on, perhaps, the diary will keep you."
See Proverbs 159
- 16 [Peaches O'Day, played by Mae West, speaking:] It ain't no sin if you crack a few laws now and then, just so long as you don't break any.
Every Day's a Holiday (motion picture) (1937)
- 17 [Flower Belle Lee, played by Mae West, speaking:] Oh, arithmetic. I was always pretty good at figures myself.
My Little Chickadee (motion picture) (1940)
- 18 [Flower Belle Lee, played by Mae West, replying to judge's question, "Are you trying to show contempt for the court?":] No, I'm doing my best to hide it.
My Little Chickadee (motion picture) (1940). Henry Hupfeld, in Encyclopaedia of Wit and Wisdom (1871), includes a joke in which Thaddeus Stevens responds to a similar question from a judge by saying, "Express my contempt for this court! No, sir, I am trying to conceal it, your honor."
- 19 [Flower Belle Lee, played by Mae West, speaking:] I generally avoid temptation unless I can't resist it.

- 22 Too much of a good thing can be wonderful.
Goodness Had Nothing to Do With It ch. 21 (1959)
- 23 I used to be Snow White, but I drifted.
Quoted in Augusta Chronicle, 4 May 1938. Earlier, Phi Gamma Delta, Nov. 1921 (quoting the Yale Record), printed "She was as pure and as white as snow." "Yes, but she drifted."
- 24 Is that a gun in your pocket, or are you just glad to see me?
Quoted in The Wit and Wisdom of Mae West, ed. Joseph Weintraub (1967). Often ascribed to West's film She Done Him Wrong, but the line does not appear in that or any of her other pre-1967 movies. According to Jill Watts, in Mae West: An Icon in Black and White (2001), "Upon [West's] arrival [in Los Angeles in 1936], she coined one of her most famous lines; she greeted an LAPD officer assigned to escort her home with 'Is that a gun in your pocket or are you happy to see me?'"

Nathanael West (Nathan von Wallenstein Weinstein)

U.S. novelist, 1903–1940

- 1 Dear Miss Lonelyhearts . . . I would like to have boy friends like the other girls and go out on Saturday nites, but no boy will take me because I was born without a nose—although I am a good dancer and have a nice shape and my father buys me pretty clothes.
Miss Lonelyhearts ch. 1 (1933)

Rebecca West (Cicily Isabel Fairfield)

English novelist and journalist, 1892–1983

- 1 I myself have never been able to find out precisely what Feminism is: I only know that people call me a Feminist whenever I express sentiments that differentiate me from a doormat or a prostitute.
The Clarion, 14 Nov. 1913
- 2 It was in dealing with the early feminist that the Government acquired the tact and skillfulness with which it is now handling Ireland.
Daily News (London), 7 Aug. 1916
- 3 [Of the James brothers, Henry and William:] One of whom grew up to write fiction as though it were philosophy and the other to write philosophy as though it were fiction.

Richard Bethell, First Baron Westbury

English lawyer, 1800–1873

- 1 [Remark to a solicitor who had said that “he had turned the matter over in his mind”:] Turn it over once more in what you are pleased to call your mind.
Quoted in Thomas A. Nash, The Life of Richard Lord Westbury (1888)

William C. Westmoreland

U.S. military leader, 1914–2005

- 1 Vietnam was the first war ever fought without any censorship. Without censorship, things can get terribly confused in the public mind.
Quoted in Wash. Post, 19 Mar. 1982

Edith Wharton

U.S. writer, 1862–1937

- 1 There are two ways of spreading light; to be The candle or the mirror that reflects it.
I let my wick burn out—there yet remains To spread an answering surface to the flame That others kindle.
“Vesalius in Zante (1564)” st. 12 (1902)
- 2 He seemed a part of the mute melancholy landscape, an incarnation of its frozen woe, with all that was warm and sentient in him fast bound below the surface.
Ethan Frome preface (1911)
- 3 Almost everybody in the neighborhood had “troubles,” frankly localized and specified; but only the chosen had “complications.” To have them was in itself a distinction, though it was also, in most cases, a death warrant. People struggled on for years with “troubles,” but they almost always succumbed to “complications.”

Richard Whately

English philosopher and clergyman, 1787–1863

- 1 It is not that pearls fetch a high price because men have dived for them; but on the contrary, men dive for them because they fetch a high price.
Introductory Lectures on Political Economy, 2nd ed., lecture 9 (1832)

Phillis Wheatley

U.S. poet, ca. 1753–1784

- 1 ’Twas mercy brought me from my Pagan land, Taught my benighted soul to understand
That there’s a God, that there’s a Savior too:
Once I redemption neither sought nor knew.
“On Being Brought from Africa to America” l. 1 (1773)

- 2 Imagination! who can sing thy force?
Or who describe the swiftness of thy course?
Soaring through air to find the bright abode,
Th’ empyreal palace of the thund’ring God,
We on thy pinions can surpass the wind,
And leave the rolling universe behind.

William Whewell

English philosopher and scientist, 1794–1866

- 1 Hence no force however great can stretch a cord however fine into an horizontal line which is accurately straight.
Elementary Treatise on Mechanics ch. 4 (1819). This is an instance of unintentional rhyme and meter. After the passage’s poetical qualities were pointed out to him, Whewell altered it in subsequent editions of the book.
- 2 We need very much a name to describe a cultivator of science in general. I should incline to call him a Scientist.
The Philosophy of the Inductive Sciences vol. 1 (1840). Whewell coined scientist at a meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in the early 1830s.

James McNeill Whistler

U.S. artist, 1834–1903

- 1 I maintain that two and two the mathematician would continue to make four, in spite of the whine of the amateur for three, or the cry of the critic for five. We are told that Mr. Ruskin has devoted his long life to art, and as a result—is “Slade Professor” at Oxford. In the same sentence, we have thus his position and its worth. It suffices not, Messieurs! a life passed among pictures makes not a painter—else the policeman in the National Gallery might assert himself.
“Whistler v. Ruskin: Art and Art Critics” (1878)
- 2 [Response to the question, in cross-examination, “The labor of two days is that for which you ask two hundred guineas?”:] No, I ask it for the knowledge I have gained in the work of a lifetime.
Testimony in Whistler v. Ruskin libel trial, 1878
- 3 The Swiss in their mountains. What more worthy people! . . . yet, the perverse and scornful [goddess, Art] will none of it, and the sons of patriots are left with the clock that turns the mill, and the sudden cuckoo, with difficulty restrained in its box! For this was Tell a hero! For this did Gessler die!

- 4 I am not arguing with you—I am telling you.
The Gentle Art of Making Enemies “A Proposal” (1890)
- 5 [Response to Oscar Wilde’s comment, “I wish I had said that”:] You will, Oscar! You will!
Quoted in Daily Inter Ocean (Chicago), 4 Apr. 1892. An earlier version was printed in the Sunday Herald (Boston), 24 Jan. 1886: “Wilde . . . approved Mr. Whistler’s brightness, and wondered why he had not thought of the witticism himself. ‘You will,’ promptly replied Whistler, ‘you will.’”
- 6 [Comment on his having failed chemistry while a student at the U.S. Military Academy:] Had silicon been a gas, I would have been a major general.
Quoted in Joseph Pennell, The Life of James McNeill Whistler (1908)
- 7 “There are, Mr. Whistler,” said one of his numerous worshippers, “only two painters in the world, yourself and Velasquez.” “Why drag in Velasquez?” said Whistler.
Reported in Derby (England) Mercury, 13 Aug. 1884

Andrew D. White

U.S. educator, 1832–1918

- 1 [Explanation of why, as president of Cornell University, he was prohibiting Cornell from playing the University of Michigan in football, 1873:] I will not permit thirty men to travel 400 miles merely to agitate a bag of wind.
Quoted in N.Y. Times, 7 Nov. 1944

E. B. White

U.S. writer, 1899–1985

- 1 [Mother:] It’s broccoli, dear.
[Child:] I say it’s spinach, and I say the hell with it.
Cartoon caption, New Yorker, 8 Dec. 1928
- 2 Democracy is the recurrent suspicion that more than half of the people are right more than half of the time.
New Yorker, 3 July 1943
- 3 When Mrs. Frederick C. Little’s second son was born, everybody noticed that he was not much bigger than a mouse. The truth of the matter was, the baby looked very much like a mouse in every way. He was only two inches high; and he had a mouse’s sharp nose, a mouse’s tail, a mouse’s whiskers, and the pleasant, shy manner of a mouse. Before he was many days old he was not only looking like a mouse but acting like one, too—wearing a gray hat and carrying a small cane.
Stuart Little ch. 1 (1945)
- 4 The city, for the first time in its long history, is destructible. A single flight of planes no bigger than a wedge of geese can quickly end this island fantasy, burn the towers, crumble the bridges, turn the underground passages into lethal chambers, cremate the millions. The intimation of mortality is part of New York now: in the sound of jets overhead, in the black headlines of the latest edition.
Here Is New York (1949)
- 5 All dwellers in cities must live with the stubborn fact of annihilation . . . of all targets, New York has a certain clear priority. In the mind of whatever perverted dreamer might loose the lightning, New York must hold a steady, irresistible charm.
Here Is New York (1949)

6 “Where’s Papa going with that axe?” said Fern to her mother as they were setting the table for breakfast.

Charlotte’s Web ch. 1 (1952)

7 It was the best place to be, thought Wilbur, this warm delicious cellar, with the garrulous geese, the changing seasons, the heat of the sun, the passage of swallows, the nearness of rats, the sameness of sheep, the love of spiders, the smell of manure, and the glory of everything.

Charlotte’s Web ch. 22 (1952)

8 It is not often that someone comes along who is a true friend and a good writer. Charlotte was both.

Charlotte’s Web ch. 22 (1952)

Edmund White

U.S. writer, 1940–

1 The AIDS epidemic has rolled back a big rotting log and revealed all the squirming life underneath it, since it involves, all at once, the main themes of our existence: sex, death, power, money, love, hate, disease, and panic. No American phenomenon has been so compelling since the Vietnam War.

Patrick White

English-born Australian novelist, 1912–1990

1 So that, in the end, there was no end.

The Tree of Man ch. 26 (1955)

T. H. White

Indian-born English writer, 1906–1964

1 Learn why the world wags and what wags it. That is the only thing which the poor mind can never exhaust, never alienate, never be tortured by, never fear or distrust, and never dream of regretting.

The Sword in the Stone ch. 21 (1939)

Alfred North Whitehead

English mathematician and philosopher, 1861–1947

1 It is a profoundly erroneous truism, repeated by all copy-books and by eminent people when they are making speeches, that we should cultivate the habit of thinking of what we are doing. The precise opposite is the case. Civilization advances by extending the number of important operations which we can perform without thinking about them. Operations of thought are like cavalry charges in a battle—they are strictly limited in number, they require fresh horses, and must only be made at decisive moments.

An Introduction to Mathematics ch. 5 (1911)

2 To come very near to a true theory, and to grasp its precise application, are two very different things, as the history of a science teaches us. Everything of importance has been said before by somebody who did not discover it.

“The Organization of Thought” (1917)

3 Seek simplicity and distrust it.

The Concept of Nature ch. 7 (1920)

4 The science of pure mathematics, in its modern developments, may claim to be the most original creation of the human spirit.

Science and the Modern World ch. 2 (1925)

5 The greatest invention of the nineteenth century was the invention of the method of invention.

Science and the Modern World ch. 6 (1925)

6 The religious vision, and its history of persistent expansion, is our one ground for optimism. Apart from it, human life is a flash of occasional enjoyments lighting up a mass of pain and misery, a bagatelle of transient experience.

Science and the Modern World ch. 12 (1925)

7 The safest general characterization of the European philosophical tradition is that it consists of a series of footnotes to Plato.

Process and Reality pt. 2, ch. 1 (1929)

8 It is more important that a proposition be interesting than that it be true. . . . But of course a true proposition is more apt to be interesting than a false one.

Adventures of Ideas pt. 4, ch. 16 (1933)

9 There are no whole truths; all truths are half-truths. It is trying to treat them as whole truths that plays the devil.

Dialogues prologue (1954)

10 What is morality in any given time or place? It is what the majority then and there happen to like, and immorality is what they dislike.

Dialogues (1954) (entry for 30 Aug. 1941)

11 The ideas of Freud were popularized by people who only imperfectly understood them, who were incapable of the great effort required to grasp them in their relationship to larger truths, and who therefore assigned to them a prominence out of all proportion to their true importance.

Dialogues (1954) (entry for 3 June 1943)

12 Art is the imposing of a pattern on experience, and our aesthetic enjoyment is recognition of the pattern.

Dialogues (1954) (entry for 10 June 1943)

Katharine Whitehorn

English journalist, 1928–2021

1 In our society mothers take the place elsewhere occupied by the Fates, the System, Negroes, Communism, or Reactionary Imperialist Plots; mothers go on getting blamed until they're eighty, but shouldn't take it personally.

Norman Whitfield

U.S. songwriter, 1940–2008

1 I heard it through the grapevine
Not much longer would you be mine.
Oh I heard it through the grapevine.
Oh and I'm just about to lose my mind.
"I Heard It Through the Grapevine" (song) (1968).
Cowritten with Barrett Strong.

George Whiting

U.S. songwriter, 1884–1943

1 When You're All Dressed Up and Have No Place to Go.

Title of song (1912)

Gough Whitlam

Australian prime minister, 1916–2014

1 [Of Governor-General Sir John Kerr, who had just dismissed Whitlam as prime minister:] Well may we say, "God save the Queen," because nothing will save the Governor-General.

Speech, Canberra, Australia, 11 Nov. 1975

Walt Whitman

U.S. poet, 1819–1892

1 I Sing the Body Electric.

Title of poem (1855)

2 The United States themselves are essentially the greatest poem.

Leaves of Grass preface (1855)

3 I celebrate myself, and sing myself,
And what I assume you shall assume,
For every atom belonging to me as good belongs to you.

"Song of Myself" l. 1 (written 1855)

4 Stop this day and night with me and you shall possess the origin of all poems,
You shall possess the good of the earth and sun, (there are millions of suns left.)

You shall no longer take things at second or third hand, nor look through the eyes of the dead, nor feed on the spectres in books,

You shall not look through my eyes either, nor take things from me,

You shall listen to all sides and filter them from your self.

"Song of Myself" l. 33 (written 1855)

5 Walt Whitman, a kosmos, of Manhattan the son,

Turbulent, fleshy, sensual, eating, drinking and breeding,

No sentimentalist, no stander above men and women or apart from them,

No more modest than immodest.

"Song of Myself" l. 497 (written 1855)

6 I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid and self-contain'd,

I stand and look at them long and long.

They do not sweat and whine about their condition,

They do not lie awake in the dark and weep for their sins,

They do not make me sick discussing their duty to God,

Not one is dissatisfied, not one is demented
with the mania of owning things,

Not one kneels to another, nor to his kind that lived thousands of years ago,

Not one is respectable or unhappy over the whole earth.

"Song of Myself" l. 684 (written 1855)

- 7 Behold, I do not give lectures or a little charity,
When I give I give myself.
“Song of Myself” l. 994 (written 1855)
- 8 Do I contradict myself?
Very well then I contradict myself,
(I am large, I contain multitudes.)
“Song of Myself” l. 1324 (written 1855)
- 9 I too am not a bit tamed, I too am untranslatable,
I sound my barbaric yawp over the roofs of the world.
“Song of Myself” l. 1332 (written 1855)
- 10 I hear America singing, the varied carols I hear.
“I Hear America Singing” l. 1 (1867)
- 11 O Captain! my Captain! our fearful trip is done,
The ship has weather’d every rack, the prize we sought is won,
The port is near, the bells I hear, the people all exulting.
“O Captain! My Captain!” l. 1 (1871)
- 12 The ship is anchor’d safe and sound, its voyage closed and done,
From fearful trip the victor ship comes in with object won;
Exult O shores, and ring O bells!
But I with mournful tread,
Walk the deck my Captain lies,
Fallen cold and dead.
“O Captain! My Captain!” l. 19 (1871)
- 13 Passage to India.
Title of poem (1871)
- 14 The untold want by life and land ne’er granted,
Now voyager sail thou forth to seek and find.
“The Untold Want” l. 1 (1871)
- 15 A noiseless patient spider,
I mark’d where on a little promontory it stood isolated,
Mark’d how to explore the vacant vast surrounding,
It launch’d forth filament, filament, filament
out of itself,
Ever unreeling them, ever tirelessly speeding them.
“A Noiseless Patient Spider” l. 1 (1881)
- 16 Out of the cradle endlessly rocking,
Out of the mocking-bird’s throat, the musical shuttle,

- Out of the Ninth-month midnight,
Over the sterile sands and the fields beyond,
where the child leaving his bed wander’d alone, bareheaded, barefoot.
“Out of the Cradle Endlessly Rocking” l. 1 (1881)
- 17 We must march my darlings, we must bear the brunt of danger,
We the youthful sinewy races, all the rest on us
depend,
Pioneers! O pioneers!
“Pioneers! O Pioneers!” l. 6 (1881)
- 18 When lilacs last in the dooryard bloom’d,
And the great star early droop’d in the western sky in the night,
I mourn’d, and yet shall mourn with ever-returning spring.
“When Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloom’d” l. 1
(1881)
- 19 The Real War Will Never Get in the Books. And so good-bye to the war.
Specimen Days “The Real War Will Never Get in the Books” (1882)

Beth Slater Whitson

U.S. songwriter, 1879–1930

- 1 Let me call you Sweetheart
I’m in love with you.
Let me hear you whisper that you love me too.
“Let Me Call You Sweetheart” (song) (1910)

John Greenleaf Whittier

U.S. poet, 1807–1892

- 1 For of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these: “It might have been!”
“Maud Muller” l. 105 (1854)
- 2 Blessings on thee, little man,
Barefoot boy, with cheek of tan!
“The Barefoot Boy” l. 1 (1856)
- 3 “Shoot, if you must, this old gray head,
But spare your country’s flag,” she said.
“Barbara Frietchie” l. 35 (1863)
- 4 “Who touches a hair of yon gray head
Dies like a dog! March on!” he said.
“Barbara Frietchie” l. 41 (1863)

Robert Whittington

English grammarian, ca. 1480–ca. 1553

- 1 [Of Thomas More.] As time requireth, a man of marvellous mirth and pastimes, and sometime of as sad gravity, as who say: a man for all seasons.

Vulgaria pt. 2 (1521)

See Erasmus 3

Benjamin Lee Whorf

U.S. linguist, 1897–1941

- 1 We dissect nature along lines laid down by our native languages. The categories and types that we isolate from the world of phenomena we do not find there because they stare every observer in the face; on the contrary, the world is presented in a kaleidoscopic flux of impressions which has to be organized by our minds—and this means largely by the linguistic systems in our minds. We cut nature up, organize it into concepts, and ascribe significances as we do, largely because we are parties to an agreement to organize it in this way—an agreement that holds throughout our speech community and is codified in the patterns of our language.
“Science and Linguistics” (1946)

William H. Whyte, Jr.

U.S. writer and sociologist, 1917–1999

- 1 The great enemy of communication, we find, is the illusion of it.
Fortune, Sept. 1950. This is frequently paraphrased as “the biggest problem in communication is the illusion that it has taken place.”
- 2 This book is about the organization man. . . . The people I am talking about . . . are not the workers, nor are they the white-collar people in the usual, clerk sense of the word. These people only work for the Organization. The ones I am talking about belong to it as well.
The Organization Man ch. 1 (1956)

Ann Widdecombe

British politician, 1947–

- 1 [Of Michael Howard.] [He has] something of the night in his personality.
Quoted in Observer (London), 11 May 1997

Norbert Wiener

U.S. mathematician, 1894–1964

- 1 We have decided to call the entire field of control and communication theory, whether in the machine or the animal, by the name Cybernetics, which we form from the Greek [for] steersman.
Cybernetics introduction (1948)
- 2 Scientific discovery consists in the interpretation for our own convenience of a system of existence which has been made with no eye to our convenience at all.
The Human Use of Human Beings ch. 7 (1949)
- 3 The automatic machine . . . is the precise economic equivalent of slave labor. . . . It is perfectly clear that this will produce an unemployment situation, in comparison with which . . . the depression of the thirties will seem a pleasant joke.
The Human Use of Human Beings ch. 10 (1950)

Elie Wiesel

Romanian-born U.S. writer, 1928–2016

- 1 Never shall I forget that night, the first night in [a concentration] camp, which has turned my life into one long night, seven times cursed and seven times sealed. . . . Never shall I forget those moments which murdered my God and my soul and turned my dreams to dust. Never shall I forget these things, even if I am condemned to live as long as God Himself. Never.
Night ch. 3 (1960)
- 2 Take sides. Neutrality helps the oppressor, never the victim. Silence encourages the tormentor, never the tormented.
Nobel Peace Prize acceptance speech, Oslo, Norway, 11 Dec. 1986
- 3 The opposite of love is not hate, it's indifference.
Quoted in U.S. News and World Report, 27 Oct. 1986. The same quotation, with “it is” instead of “it's,” appeared in Jess Lair, I Ain't Much Baby—But I'm All I've Got (1969) (quoting an anonymous student).
- 4 God of forgiveness, do not forgive those murderers of Jewish children here [at Auschwitz].
Quoted in Times (London), 27 Jan. 1995

Kate Douglas Wiggin

U.S. children's book writer and educator, 1856–1923

- 1 When Joy and Duty clash
Let Duty go to smash.
Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm ch. 11 (1903)

Richard Wilbur

U.S. poet, 1921–2017

- 1 We milk the cow of the world.
"Epistemology" l. 3 (1950)
- 2 The good grey guardians of art
Patrol the halls on spongy shoes,
Impartially protective, though
Perhaps suspicious of Toulouse.
"Museum Piece" l. 1 (1950)
- 3 Mind in its purest play is like some bat
That beats about in caverns all alone,
Contriving by a kind of senseless wit
Not to conclude against a wall of stone.
"Mind" l. 1 (1956)

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

U.S. poet, 1850–1919

- 1 Laugh and the world laughs with you;
Weep, and you weep alone.
"Solitude" l. 1 (1883)
- 2 No question is ever settled
Until it is settled right.
"Settle the Question Right" l. 7 (1888)
- 3 To sin by silence, when we should protest,
Makes cowards out of men.
"Protest" l. 1 (1914)

Oscar Wilde

Irish playwright and poet, 1854–1900

- 1 The things of nature do not really belong to us; we should leave them to our children as we have received them.
Speech, Ottawa, 12 May 1882
- 2 That he is indeed one of the very greatest masters of painting is my opinion. And I may add that in this opinion Mr. Whistler himself entirely concurs.
"Mr. Whistler's Ten O'Clock," Pall Mall Gazette, Feb. 1885

- 3 Every great man nowadays has his disciples, and it is usually Judas who writes the biography.
"The Butterfly's Boswell" (1887)
- 4 We have really everything in common with America nowadays, except, of course, language.
The Canterville Ghost pt. 1 (1887)
See George Bernard Shaw 58
- 5 Pathology is rapidly becoming the basis of sensational literature, and in art, as in politics, there is a great future for monsters.
Saturday Review, 7 May 1887
- 6 Day by day the old order of things changes, and new modes of thought pass over our world, and it may be that, before many years, talking will have taken the place of literature, and the personal screech silenced the music of impersonal utterance. Something of the dignity of the literary calling will probably be lost, and it is perhaps a dangerous thing for a country to be too eloquent.
"Should Geniuses Meet?" (1887)
- 7 The public is wonderfully tolerant. It forgives everything except genius.
Intentions "The Critic as Artist" pt. 1 (1891)
- 8 [George] Meredith's a prose Browning, and so is Browning. He used poetry as medium for writing in prose.
Intentions "The Critic as Artist" pt. 1 (1891)

- 9 Nothing that is worth knowing can be taught.
Intentions "The Critic as Artist" pt. 1 (1891)
- 10 Anybody can write a three-volumed novel. It merely requires a complete ignorance of both life and literature.
Intentions "The Critic as Artist" pt. 1 (1891)
- 11 More difficult to do a thing than to talk about it? Not at all. That is a gross popular error. It is very much more difficult to talk about a thing than to do it. In the sphere of actual life that is of course obvious. Anybody can make history. Only a great man can write it.
Intentions "The Critic as Artist" pt. 1 (1891)
- 12 The criticism which I have quoted is criticism of the highest kind. It treats the work of art simply as a starting-point for a new creation. It does not confine itself . . . to discovering the real intention of the artist and accepting that as final.
Intentions "The Critic as Artist" pt. 1 (1891)
- 13 All art is immoral. . . . For emotion for the sake of emotion is the aim of art, and emotion for the sake of action is the aim of life, and of that practical organization of life that we call society.
Intentions "The Critic as Artist" pt. 2 (1891)
- 14 Man is least himself when he talks in his own person. Give him a mask, and he will tell you the truth.
Intentions "The Critic as Artist" pt. 2 (1891)
- 15 In matters of religion, it [truth] is simply the opinion that has survived.
Intentions "The Critic as Artist" pt. 2 (1891)
- 16 As long as war is regarded as wicked, it will always have its fascination. When it is looked upon as vulgar, it will cease to be popular.
Intentions "The Critic as Artist" pt. 2 (1891)
- 17 The English mind is always in a rage. The intellect of the race is wasted in the sordid and stupid quarrels of second-rate politicians or third-rate theologians.
Intentions "The Critic as Artist" pt. 2 (1891)
- 18 The proper school to learn art in is not Life but Art.
Intentions "The Decay of Lying" (1891)
- 19 Life imitates Art far more than Art imitates Life.
Intentions "The Decay of Lying" (1891)
- 20 The essay simply represents an artistic standpoint, and in aesthetic criticism attitude is everything. For in art there is no such thing as a universal truth. A Truth in art is that whose contradictory is also true.
Intentions "The Truth of Masks" (1891)
See Bohr 1
- 21 There is no such thing as a moral or an immoral book. Books are well written, or badly written. That is all.
The Picture of Dorian Gray preface (1891)
- 22 There is only one thing in the world worse than being talked about, and that is not being talked about.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 1 (1891)
See Behan 4; Modern Proverbs 70
- 23 Conscience and cowardice are really the same things, Basil. Conscience is the trade-name of the firm. That is all.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 1 (1891)
- 24 I choose my friends for their good looks, my acquaintances for their good characters, and my enemies for their good intellects. A man cannot be too careful in the choice of his enemies.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 1 (1891)
- 25 The only way to get rid of a temptation is to yield to it.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 2 (1891)
See Balzac 1; Clementina Graham 1; Mae West 19; Wilde 53
- 26 The only difference between a caprice and a life-long passion is that the caprice lasts a little longer.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 2 (1891)
- 27 How sad it is! I shall grow old, and horrible, and dreadful. But this picture will remain always young. It will never be older than this particular day of June. . . . If it were only the other way! If it were I who was to be always young, and the picture that was to grow old! For that—for that—I would give everything! Yes, there is nothing in the whole world I would not give! I would give my soul for that!
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 2 (1891)
- 28 I adore simple pleasures. . . . They are the last refuge of the complex.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 2 (1891)

- 29 I wonder who it was defined man as a rational animal. It was the most premature definition ever given. Man is many things, but he is not rational.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 2 (1891)
- 30 [Sir Thomas Burdon:] They say that when good Americans die they go to Paris. . . .
[Lady Agatha:] Really! And where do bad Americans go to when they die? . . .
[Lord Henry:] They go to America.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 3 (1891). Similar dialogue appears in Wilde's A Woman of No Importance (1893) as well.
See Oliver Wendell Holmes 4
- 31 Nowadays most people die of a sort of creeping common sense, and discover when it is too late that the only things one never regrets are one's mistakes.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 3 (1891)
- 32 Nowadays people know the price of everything and the value of nothing.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 4 (1891). In Wilde's play Lady Windermere's Fan, act 3 (1892), Lord Darlington replies to the question "What is a cynic?": "A man who knows the price of everything and the value of nothing."
- 33 Men marry because they are tired; women, because they are curious; both are disappointed.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 4 (1891). Wilde used the same words in A Woman of No Importance (1893).
- 34 When one is in love one always begins by deceiving one's self, and one always ends by deceiving others.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 4 (1891). A very similar statement is found in Wilde's play A Woman of No Importance, act 3 (1893).
- 35 Experience was of no ethical value. It was merely the name men gave to their mistakes.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 4 (1891). A similar quotation occurs in Wilde's play Lady Windermere's Fan, act 3 (1892).
- 36 Children begin by loving their parents; as they grow older they judge them; sometimes they forgive them.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 5 (1891). This passage is repeated in Wilde's play A Woman of No Importance (1893) with the words "rarely, if ever" instead of "sometimes."
- 37 Modern morality consists in accepting the standard of one's age. I consider that for any man of culture to accept the standard of his age is a form of the grossest immorality.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 6 (1891)
- 38 There is a luxury in self-reproach. When we blame ourselves, we feel that no one else has a right to blame us. It is the confession, not the priest, that gives us absolution.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 8 (1891)
- 39 Ernest Harrowden, one of those middle-aged mediocrities so common in London clubs who have no enemies, but are thoroughly disliked by their friends.

See Wilde 104
- 40 Her capacity for family affection is extraordinary. When her third husband died, her hair turned quite gold from grief.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 15 (1891). A similar quotation appears in Wilde's play The Importance of Being Earnest, act 1 (1895).
- 41 When a woman marries again it is because she detested her first husband. When a man marries again, it is because he adored his first wife. Women try their luck; men risk theirs.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 15 (1891)
- 42 Crime belongs exclusively to the lower orders. I don't blame them in the smallest degree. I should fancy that crime was to them what art is to us, simply a method of procuring extraordinary sensations.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 19 (1891)
- 43 To get back my youth I would do anything in the world, except take exercise, get up early, or be respectable.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 19 (1891)
- 44 The books that the world calls immoral are books that show the world its own shame.
The Picture of Dorian Gray ch. 19 (1891)
- 45 The recognition of private property has really harmed Individualism, and obscured it, by confusing a man with what he possesses.
"The Soul of Man Under Socialism" (1891)
- 46 The true perfection of man lies, not in what man has, but in what man is.
"The Soul of Man Under Socialism" (1891)

- 47 To live is the rarest thing in the world. Most people exist, that is all.
"The Soul of Man Under Socialism" (1891)
- 48 All authority is quite degrading. It degrades those who exercise it, and degrades those over whom it is exercised.
"The Soul of Man Under Socialism" (1891)
- 49 The fact is, that civilization requires slaves. The Greeks were quite right there. Unless there are slaves to do the ugly, horrible, uninteresting work, culture and contemplation become almost impossible. Human slavery is wrong, insecure, and demoralizing. On mechanical slavery, on the slavery of the machine, the future of the world depends.
"The Soul of Man Under Socialism" (1891)
- 50 We are dominated by Journalism. In America the President reigns for four years, and Journalism governs for ever and ever.

- 54 Whenever people agree with me, I always feel I must be wrong.
Lady Windermere's Fan act 3 (1892)
- 55 We are all in the gutter, but some of us are looking at the stars.
Lady Windermere's Fan act 3 (1892)
- 56 In this world there are only two tragedies. One is not getting what one wants, and the other is getting it.

See Goethe 15; T. H. Huxley 4; Modern Proverbs 14; George Bernard Shaw 16; Teresa of Ávila 2; Wilde 74
- 57 We [women] have a much better time than they [men] have. There are far more things forbidden to us than are forbidden to them.
A Woman of No Importance act 1 (1893)
- 58 It is perfectly monstrous the way people go about, nowadays, saying things against one behind one's back that are absolutely and entirely true.
A Woman of No Importance act 1 (1893)
- 59 You can't make people good by Act of Parliament.
A Woman of No Importance act 1 (1893)
- 60 One knows so well the popular idea of health. The English country gentleman galloping after a fox—the unspeakable in full pursuit of the uneatable.
A Woman of No Importance act 1 (1893)
- 61 Twenty years of romance make a woman look like a ruin; but twenty years of marriage make her something like a public building.
A Woman of No Importance act 1 (1893)
- 62 Men always want to be a woman's first love. That is their clumsy vanity. We women have a more subtle instinct about things. What we like is to be a man's last romance.
A Woman of No Importance act 2 (1893)
- 63 Study the Peerage. . . . It is the best thing in fiction the English have ever done.
A Woman of No Importance act 3 (1893)
- 64 Moderation is a fatal thing, Lady Hunstanton. Nothing succeeds like excess.
A Woman of No Importance act 3 (1893)
- 65 Wickedness is a myth invented by good people to account for the curious attractiveness of others.

- 68 Ambition is the last refuge of the failure.
"Phrases and Philosophies for the Use of the Young" (1894)

- 69 A truth ceases to be true when more than one person believes in it.
 “Phrases and Philosophies for the Use of the Young” (1894)
- 70 The old believe everything: the middle-aged suspect everything: the young know everything.
 “Phrases and Philosophies for the Use of the Young” (1894)
- 71 To love oneself is the beginning of a life-long romance.
 “Phrases and Philosophies for the Use of the Young” (1894)
- 72 Science can never grapple with the irrational. That is why it has no future before it, in this world.

An Ideal Husband act 2 (1895)
- 76 The truth is rarely pure, and never simple.
The Importance of Being Earnest act 1 (1895)
- 77 I have invented an invaluable permanent invalid called Bunbury, in order that I may be able to go down into the country whenever I choose.
The Importance of Being Earnest act 1 (1895)
- 78 To lose one parent may be regarded as a misfortune; to lose both seems like carelessness.
The Importance of Being Earnest act 1 (1895)
- 79 Relations are simply a tedious pack of people, who haven't got the remotest knowledge of how to live, nor the smallest instinct about when to die.
The Importance of Being Earnest act 1 (1895)
- 80 All women become like their mothers. That is their tragedy. No man does. That's his.
The Importance of Being Earnest act 1 (1895). The same lines appear, as a dialogue between Lord Illingworth and Mrs. Allonby, in A Woman of No Importance, act 2 (1893).
- 81 The good ended happily, and the bad unhappily. That is what fiction means.
The Importance of Being Earnest act 2 (1895)
- 82 The “Love that dare not speak its name” in this century is such a great affection of an elder for a younger man as there was between David and Jonathan, such as Plato made the very basis of his philosophy, and such as you find in the sonnets of Michael Angelo and Shakespeare. Testimony at his first trial, 30 Apr. 1895
 See Alfred Douglas 1; Wilde 83
- 83 On account of it [“the Love that dare not speak its name”] I am placed where I am now. It is beautiful, it is fine, it is the noblest form of affection. There is nothing unnatural about it. It is intellectual, and it repeatedly exists between an elder and a younger man, when the elder man has intellect, and the younger man has all the joy, hope, and glamour of life before him. Testimony at his first trial, 30 Apr. 1895
 See Alfred Douglas 1; Wilde 82
- 84 And I? May I say nothing, my Lord?
 Remark before being led from courtroom after his second trial, 25 May 1895
- 85 Where there is Sorrow there is holy ground.
 Letter to Alfred Douglas, Jan.–Mar. 1897
- 86 I was a man who stood in symbolic relations to the art and culture of my age. . . . The gods had given me almost everything. I had genius, a distinguished name, high social position, brilliancy, intellectual daring; I made art a philosophy, and philosophy an art: I altered the minds of men and the colors of things: there was nothing I said or did that did not make people wonder.
 Letter to Alfred Douglas, Jan.–Mar. 1897
- 87 I treated Art as the supreme reality, and life as a mere mode of fiction: I awoke the imagination of my century so that it created myth and legend around me: I summed up all systems in a phrase, and all existence in an epigram.
 Letter to Alfred Douglas, Jan.–Mar. 1897

- 88 Most people are other people. Their thoughts are someone else's opinions, their lives a mimicry, their passions a quotation.
Letter to Alfred Douglas, Jan.–Mar. 1897
- 89 Just as there are false dawns before the dawn itself, and winter-days so full of sudden sunlight that they will cheat the wise crocus into squandering its gold before its time, and make some foolish bird call to its mate to build on barren boughs, so there were Christians before Christ. . . . The unfortunate thing is that there have been none since.
Letter to Alfred Douglas, Jan.–Mar. 1897
- 90 To recognize that the soul of a man is unknowable is the ultimate achievement of Wisdom. The final mystery is oneself. When one has weighed the sun in a balance, and measured the steps of the moon, and mapped out the seven heavens star by star, there still remains oneself. Who can calculate the orbit of his own soul?
Letter to Alfred Douglas, Jan.–Mar. 1897
- 91 I never saw a man who looked
With such a wistful eye
Upon that little tent of blue
Which prisoners call the sky.
The Ballad of Reading Gaol pt. 1, st. 3 (1898)
- 92 Yet each man kills the thing he loves,
By each let this be heard,
Some do it with a bitter look,
Some with a flattering word.
The coward does it with a kiss,
The brave man with a sword!

- 94 I know not whether Laws be right,
Or whether Laws be wrong;
All that we know who lie in gaol
Is that the wall is strong;
And that each day is like a year,
A year whose days are long.
The Ballad of Reading Gaol pt. 5, st. 1 (1898)
- 95 How else but through a broken heart
May Lord Christ enter in?
The Ballad of Reading Gaol pt. 5, st. 14 (1898)
- 96 Over the piano was printed a notice: Please do not shoot the pianist. He is doing his best.
Impressions of America (1906). The Atchison (Kan.) Globe, 19 Mar. 1883, describes an after-dinner speech made by Wilde in Paris about his experiences in the United States: "The brightest and best of the many stories he related was one to the effect that at a ball in Leadville he saw a notice over the piano which read: 'Please don't shoot the pianist. He is doing his best.'" Barry Popik has found a reference in Harper's Bazaar, 20 Dec. 1879, to a California church sign stating, "It is requested that you will not shoot at the organist. He does his best."
- 97 Every American bride is taken there [Niagara Falls], and the sight of the stupendous waterfall must be one of the earliest, if not the keenest, disappointments in American married life.
Impressions of America (1906). Wilde was earlier quoted by the Daily Patriot (Harrisburg, Pa.), 13 Aug. 1883: "Niagara . . . is the first disappointment in the married life of many Americans who spend their honeymoon there."
- 98 This is one of the compliments that mediocrity pays to those who are not mediocre.
Quoted in N.Y. Daily Tribune, 6 Jan. 1882. Sometimes quoted as "Caricature is the tribute which mediocrity pays to genius." Wilde was referring to Gilbert and Sullivan's satirization of him in their opera Patience.
- 99 Poets, you know, are always ahead of science; all the great discoveries of science have been stated before in poetry.
Quoted in Philadelphia Press, 17 Jan. 1882
- 100 California is an Italy without its art. There are subjects for the artist, but it is universally true that the only scenery which inspires utterance is that which man feels himself the master of. The mountains of California are so gigantic that they are not favorable to art or poetry. There are good poets in England but none in Switzerland. There the mountains are too high. Art cannot add to nature.
Quoted in Denver Tribune, Apr. 1882
- 101 As for borrowing Mr. Whistler's ideas about art, the only thoroughly original ideas I have

- ever heard him express have had reference to his own superiority as a painter over painters greater than himself.
Quoted in Truth, Jan. 1890
- 102 It is indeed a burning shame that there should be one law for men and another law for women. . . . I think that there should be no law for anybody.
Quoted in The Sketch, 9 Jan. 1895
- 103 I have put my genius into my life; I have put only my talent into my works.
Quoted in André Gide, Letter to his mother, 30 Jan. 1895
- 104 [Of George Bernard Shaw:] An excellent man; he has no enemies; and none of his friends like him.
Quoted in George Bernard Shaw, Letter to Ellen Terry, 25 Sept. 1896
See Wilde 39
- 105 I have been correcting the proofs of my poems. In the morning, after hard work, I took a comma out of one sentence. . . . In the afternoon, I put it back again.
Quoted in Robert Sherard, The Life of Oscar Wilde (1906). Wilde was earlier quoted making a similar comma comment, in the Daily Graphic (New York, N.Y.), 8 May 1884.
- 106 [Reply when asked, as an Oxford undergraduate, why he was staring raptly at a pair of vases on his mantelpiece:] Oh, would that I could live up to my blue china!
Quoted in Robert Sherard, The Life of Oscar Wilde (1906). Wilde was earlier quoted in the St. Louis Daily Globe-Democrat, 10 Sept. 1881: "We must try to live up to our blue china."
- 107 There are works which wait, and which one does not understand for a long time; the reason is that they bring answers to questions which have not yet been raised; for the question often arrives a terribly long time after the answer.
Quoted in André Gide, Oscar Wilde: In Memoriam (1910)
- 108 [To a customs official upon arriving in New York in 1882:] I have nothing to declare but my genius.
Quoted in Archibald Henderson, European Dramatists (1913). Arthur Ransome, in Oscar Wilde: A Critical Study (1912), wrote that "Wilde sailed for New York . . . to tell Customs Officials that he had nothing to declare except his genius." No earlier reference to Wilde's alleged statement has been found.
- 109 Work is the curse of the drinking classes of this country.
Quoted in Frank Harris, Oscar Wilde: His Life and Confessions (1916). "Work is the curse of the drinking classes" appeared earlier in the Ottumwa (Iowa) Semi-Weekly Courier, 8 Apr. 1902.
- 110 Prayer must never be answered: if it is, it ceases to be prayer, and becomes a correspondence.
Quoted in Laurence Housman, Écho de Paris (1923)
- 111 One must have a heart of stone to read the death of Little Nell [in Charles Dickens's The Old Curiosity Shop] without laughing.
Quoted in Letters to the Sphinx from Oscar Wilde (1930)
- 112 We Irish are too poetical to be poets; we are a nation of brilliant failures, but we are the greatest talkers since the Greeks.
Quoted in W. B. Yeats, Autobiography (1938)
- 113 I never put off till to-morrow what I can possibly do . . . the day after.
Quoted in Hesketh Pearson, Oscar Wilde, His Life and Wit (1946). Ellipsis in the original. Mark Twain had written, "Never put off till to-morrow what you can do day after to-morrow just as well" (The Galaxy, July 1870).
See Proverbs 248
- 114 It is sad. One half of the world does not believe in God, and the other half does not believe in me.
Quoted in Hesketh Pearson, Oscar Wilde, His Life and Wit (1946). Appeared in French in an article about Wilde in Écho de Paris, 6 Dec. 1891.
- 115 Each class preaches the importance of those virtues it need not exercise. The rich harp on the value of thrift, the idle grow eloquent over the dignity of labor.
Quoted in Hesketh Pearson, Oscar Wilde, His Life and Wit (1946)
- 116 Don't tell me that you have exhausted life. When a man says that one knows that Life has exhausted him.
Quoted in Hesketh Pearson, Oscar Wilde, His Life and Wit (1946)

- 117 Each time one loves is the only time that one has ever loved. Difference of object does not alter singleness of passion. It merely intensifies it.
Quoted in Hesketh Pearson, Oscar Wilde, His Life and Wit (1946)
- 118 [Reply when asked to name the hundred best books of all time:] I fear that would be impossible, because I have only written five.
Quoted in Hesketh Pearson, Oscar Wilde, His Life and Wit (1946)
- 119 To believe is very dull. To doubt is intensely engrossing. To be on the alert is to live, to be lulled into security is to die.
Quoted in Hesketh Pearson, Oscar Wilde, His Life and Wit (1946)
- 120 I am dying, as I have lived, beyond my means.
Quoted in Hesketh Pearson, Oscar Wilde: His Life and Wit (1946). Karl Beckson, in I Can Resist Everything Except Temptation, notes: "On December 14, 1900, Robert Ross wrote to More Adey that Wilde 'said he was "dying above his means,"' though Ross does not say what prompted the remark (Letters, 847); the earliest published version of Wilde's famous remark is apparently that in Robert Sherard's Life of Oscar Wilde (New York, 1906), 421, reporting Wilde's reaction to a 'huge fee' for an operation ('I suppose that I shall have to die beyond my means'); in Harris, ch. 26 (as in Pearson), Wilde responds to the cost of champagne (. . . 'when it was brought [he] declared that he was dying as he had lived, "beyond his means."')
- 121 Consistency is the last refuge of the unimaginative.
Quoted in Hesketh Pearson, Oscar Wilde: His Life and Wit (1946)
- 122 Mr. Whistler always spelt art, and we believe still spells it, with a capital "I."
Quoted in Hesketh Pearson, Oscar Wilde: His Life and Wit (1946)
- 123 Decidedly one of us will have to go.
Quoted in H. Montgomery Hyde, Oscar Wilde (1975). Wilde allegedly made this remark on his deathbed in reference to the wallpaper in his Paris hotel room. A variant of this is quoted in a letter from William Butler Yeats to Lady Gregory, 17 Dec. 1908: "This friend of Oscar Wilde told me a strange heroic thing about Wilde. . . . He was in great poverty, often with not money for food & had declared that it was his wall paper that was killing him. 'One of us had to go' he said."

Billy Wilder

Polish-born U.S. film director and screenwriter, 1906–2002

- 1 [Of Marilyn Monroe:] Marilyn was mean. Terribly mean. The meanest woman I have ever met around this town. I have never met anybody as mean as Marilyn Monroe nor as utterly fabulous on the screen, and that includes Garbo.
Quoted in Earl Wilson, The Show Business Nobody Knows (1971)
- 2 Hindsight is always twenty-twenty.
Quoted in J. R. Colombo, Wit and Wisdom of the Movie-makers (1979). Earlier, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, 28 Nov. 1948, quoted Richard Armour in the Saturday Evening Post: "Most people's hindsight is 20-20."
- 3 You have Van Gogh's ear for music.
Quoted in L.A. Times, 26 Apr. 1964

Laura Ingalls Wilder

U.S. writer, 1867–1957

- 1 [Comment by the author's mother upon serving blackbird pie after blackbirds destroyed the family's crops:] There's no great loss without some small gain.
Little House on the Prairie (1935)

Matthew Wilder (Matthew Weiner)

U.S. musician, 1953–

- 1 Ain't nothin' gonna break my stride
Nobody's gonna slow me down, oh-no
I got to keep on movin'.
"Break My Stride" (song) (1984)

Thornton Wilder

U.S. writer, 1897–1975

- 1 There is a land of the living and a land of the dead and the bridge is love, the only survival, the only meaning.
The Bridge of San Luis Rey pt. 5 (1928)
- 2 The dead don't stay interested in us living people for very long. Gradually, gradually, they let go hold of the earth . . . and the ambitions they had . . . and the pleasures they had . . . and the things they suffered . . . and the people they loved. They get weaned away from earth—that's the way I put it—weaned away.
Our Town act 3 (1938). Ellipses in the original.

3 Oh, earth, you're too wonderful for anyone to realize you. . . . Do any human beings ever realize life while they live it?—every, every minute?

Our Town act 3 (1938)

4 The best part of married life is the fights. The rest is merely so-so.

The Matchmaker act 2 (1954)

Robert Wilensky

U.S. computer scientist, 1951–2013

1 We've all heard that a million monkeys banging on a million typewriters will eventually reproduce the entire works of Shakespeare. Now, thanks to the Internet, we know this is not true.

Quoted in Daily Telegraph (London), 11 Feb. 1997. Responding to a query from the editor of this book, Wilensky said: "I made this comment as part of some remarks I made to the attendees of [the University of California, Berkeley's] 'Industrial Liaison Program,' I believe in March 1996. . . . I believe I heard this from someone else, but that person said it wasn't original with him either, and I was never able to track down an authoritative source." Less elegant versions of this quip were around long before Wilensky. Bill Dietrich posted a message on the net.misc newsgroup, 29 Nov. 1984: "a million monkeys on a million typewriters will immediately produce Usenet." See Borel 1; Eddington 2

Andrew Wiles

English mathematician, 1953–

1 [Concluding the lecture in which he claimed to have proved the Taniyama-Weil Conjecture for a class of examples, including those necessary to prove Fermat's Last Theorem, 23 June 1993] I'll stop here.

Quoted in Simon Singh, Fermat's Enigma: The Quest to Solve the World's Greatest Mathematical Problem (1997)

Wilhelm II

German emperor and Prussian king, 1859–1941

1 We have . . . fought for our place in the sun and have won it. It will be my business to see that we retain this place in the sun unchallenged, so that the rays of that sun may exert a fructifying influence upon our foreign trade and traffic.

Speech, Hamburg, Germany, 18 June 1901
See Bülow 1; Pascal 4

2 But should any one essay to detract from our just rights or to injure us, then up and at him with your mailed fist.

Quoted in Times (London), 17 Dec. 1897

3 It is my Royal and Imperial command that you concentrate your energies, for the immediate present, upon one single purpose, and that is that you address all your skill and all the valor of my soldiers to exterminate first the treacherous English and walk over General French's contemptible little army.

Attributed in British Expeditionary Force Routine Order, 24 Sept. 1914. This supposed order of 19 Aug. 1914 appears to have been a British forgery, probably written by General Frederick Maurice. General French was John French, the BEF commander.

Wilhelmina

Dutch queen, 1880–1962

1 [Response to Kaiser Wilhelm II's boast that his guards stood seven feet high.] Indeed, and when I order my dykes to be thrown open, the water is ten feet deep.

Quoted in Current Opinion, 1 Apr. 1923

John Wilkins

English clergyman and scientist, 1614–1672

1 Yet I doe seriously, and upon good grounds, affirme it possible to make a flying Chariot. In which a man may sit, and give such a motion unto it, as shall convey him through the aire. And this perhaps might bee made large enough to carry divers men at the same time, together with foode for their viaticum, and commodities for traffique. It is not the bignesse of any thing in this kind, that can hinder its motion, if the motive faculty be answerable thereunto. We see a great ship swimmes as well as a small corcke, and an Eagle flies in the aire as well as a little gnat. . . . So that notwithstanding all these seeming impossibilities, tis likely enough, that there may be a meanes invented of journeying to the Moone; And how happy shall they be, that are first successefull in this attempt?

A Discourse Concerning a New World and Another Planet book 1, proposition 14 (1640)

Paul Wilkinson

English political scientist, 1937–2011

- 1 Fighting terrorism is like being a goalkeeper. You can make a hundred brilliant saves but the only shot that people remember is the one that gets past you.

Quoted in Daily Telegraph (London), 1 Sept. 1992

George F. Will

U.S. journalist, 1941–

- 1 The American condition can be summed up in three sentences we're hearing these days:

“Your check is in the mail.”

“I will respect you as much in the morning.”

“I am from the government and I am here to help you.”

Quoted in Frederick (Md.) News, 19 July 1976

- 2 Football combines the two worst features of American life. It is violence punctuated by committee meetings.

Quoted in N.Y. Times Book Review, 1 Apr. 1990. An earlier version appeared in Newsweek, 6 Sept. 1976: “Football . . . is committee meetings, called huddles, separated by outbursts of violence.”

- 3 Americans are conservative. What they want to conserve is the New Deal.

Quoted in Lou Cannon, President Reagan: The Role of a Lifetime (1991)

Emma Willard

U.S. educator, 1787–1870

- 1 Rocked in the cradle of the deep.

“The Cradle of the Deep” l. 1 (1831)

Frances E. Willard

U.S. educator and reformer, 1839–1898

- 1 The capacity of the human mind to resist knowledge is nowhere more painfully illustrated than in the postulate laid down by average minds that home is always to be just what it is now—forgetting that in no two consecutive generations has it remained the same.

Quoted in Anna A. Gordon, What Frances E. Willard Said (1905)

William III

Dutch-born British king, 1650–1702

- 1 There was a sure way never to see [my country] lost, and that was to die in the last ditch.

Quoted in Gilbert Burnet, Bishop Burnet's History of His Own Time (1724)

Alexander S. Williams

Canadian-born U.S. law enforcement official, 1839–1917

- 1 [Remark in 1870s:] There is more law at the end of a nightstick than in all the statute books.

Quoted in N.Y. Times, 23 Mar. 1911

Hank Williams

U.S. country singer and songwriter, 1923–1953

- 1 Hear that lonesome whippoorwill?
He sounds too blue to fly.
The midnight train is whining low,
I'm so lonesome I could cry.
“I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry” (song) (1942)

- 2 Hey, good lookin',
What cha got cookin'?
How about cookin' somethin' up with me?
“Hey, Good Lookin'” (song) (1951)

Harry Williams

English songwriter, 1879–1922

- 1 In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree.
Title of song (1905)
- 2 I'm Afraid to Come Home in the Dark.
Title of song (1907)
See O. Henry 8

Margery Williams (Margery Bianco)

English-born U.S. children's book writer, 1881–1944

- 1 “Real isn't how you are made,” said the Skin Horse. “It's a thing that happens to you. When a child loves you for a long, long time, not just to play with, but REALLY loves you, then you become Real.”

The Velveteen Rabbit (1922)

Robert L. Williams

U.S. psychologist, 1930–2020

- 1 Ebonics may be defined as the linguistic and paralinguistic features which on a concentric continuum represents the communicative competence of the West African, Caribbean, and United States slave descendant of African origin.

Ebonics: The True Language of Black Folks (1975)Robin Williams

U.S. comedian, 1951–2014

- 1 Cocaine is God's way of telling us we make too much money.

Quoted in Winnipeg Free Press, 8 Aug. 1981

- 2 If it's the Psychic Network why do they need a phone number?

Quoted in Manly (Australia) Daily, 30 Mar. 2004Sarah Williams

English poet, 1837–1868

- 1 Though my soul may set in darkness, it will rise in perfect light;

I have loved the stars too truly to be fearful of the night.

"The Old Astronomer" l. 15 (1868)

Tennessee Williams (Thomas Lanier Williams III)

U.S. playwright, 1911–1983

- 1 They told me to take a streetcar named Desire, and transfer to one called Cemeteries, and ride six blocks and get off at—Elysian Fields!

A Streetcar Named Desire sc. 1 (1947)

- 2 Turn that off! I won't be looked at in this merciless glare!

A Streetcar Named Desire sc. 1 (1947)

- 3 STELL-LAHHHHH!

A Streetcar Named Desire sc. 3 (1947)

- 4 I don't want realism. I want magic!

A Streetcar Named Desire sc. 9 (1947)

- 5 I have always depended on the kindness of strangers.

A Streetcar Named Desire sc. 11 (1947)See Maugham 8

- 6 Mrs. Stone found herself thinking that surely such beauty was a world of its own whose anarchy had a sort of godly license.

The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone pt. 1 (1950). The 1961 film of this novel (screenplay by Gavin Lambert) has the line "People who are very beautiful make their own laws."

- 7 Make voyages!—Attempt them!—there's nothing else.

Camino Real block 8 (1953)

- 8 What is the victory of a cat on a hot tin roof?—I wish I knew. . . . Just staying on it, I guess, as long as she can . . .

Cat on a Hot Tin Roof act 1 (1955). Ellipses in the original.

- 9 I'm not living with you. We occupy the same cage.

Cat on a Hot Tin Roof act 1 (1955)

- 10 We're all of us sentenced to solitary confinement inside our own skins, for life!

Orpheus Descending act 2, sc. 1 (1958)Theodore S. "Ted" Williams

U.S. baseball player, 1918–2002

- 1 I think without question the hardest single thing to do in sport is to hit a baseball. A .300 hitter, that rarest of breeds these days, goes through life with the certainty that he will fail at his job seven out of ten times.

My Turn at Bat pt. 4 (1969)

- 2 When I walk down the street I'd like for them to say, There goes Ted Williams, the best hitter in baseball.

Quoted in Nevada State Journal, 6 July 1941. Later, Williams's self-image became more grandiose: "A man has to have goals—for a day, for a lifetime—and that was mine, to have people say, "There goes Ted Williams, the greatest hitter who ever lived" (My Turn at Bat, pt. 1 [1969]). See Malamud 1William Carlos Williams

U.S. poet, 1883–1963

- 1 Who shall say I am not the happy genius of my household? "Danse Russe" l. 18 (1917)

- 2 So much depends upon a red wheel barrow

glazed with rain water

beside the white chickens.

“The Red Wheelbarrow” l. 1 (1923)

- 3 Your thighs are appletrees whose blossoms touch the sky.
Which sky? The sky
Where Watteau hung a lady’s slipper.

“Portrait of a Lady” l. 1 (1934)

- 4 Your knees
are a southern breeze—or a gust of snow. Agh! what sort of man was Fragonard?

“Portrait of a Lady” l. 5 (1934)

- 5 Say it, no ideas but in things.

Paterson bk. 1, sec. 1 (1946)

- 6 It is difficult to get the news from poems yet men die miserably every day for lack of what is found there.

“Asphodel, That Greeny Flower” bk. 1, l. 317 (1955)

Marianne Williamson

U.S. author, 1952–

- 1 Our deepest fear is not that we are inadequate.
Our deepest fear is that we are powerful beyond measure. It is our light, not our darkness, that most frightens us.

A Return to Love ch. 7 (1992). Frequently misattributed to Nelson Mandela.

Roy Williamson

Scottish folk musician, 1937–1990

- 1 O Flower of Scotland,
When will we see
Your like again,
That fought and died for
Your wee bit hill and glen
And stood against him,
Proud Edward’s Army,
And sent him homeward
Tae think again.

“Flower of Scotland” (song) (1968)

Wendell Willkie

U.S. politician and lawyer, 1892–1944

- 1 The Constitution does not provide for first and second class citizens.

An American Program ch. 2 (1944)

Meredith Willson (Robert Meredith

Reiniger)

U.S. composer and playwright, 1902–1984

- 1 Seventy-six trombones led the big parade,
With a hundred and ten cornets close at hand.
They were followed by rows and rows
Of the finest virtuosos,

The cream of ev’ry famous band.

“Seventy-six Trombones” (song) (1957)

- 2 Ya got trouble, folks, right here in River City.
Trouble, with a capital “T” and that rhymes with “P” and that stands for pool!

“Ya Got Trouble” (song) (1957)

Alexander Wilson

Scottish-born U.S. naturalist and poet, 1766– 1813

- 1 The woods are full of them!

American Ornithology preface (1808). Wilson tells the story of a boy who brought flowers to his mother, saying “Look, my dear ma! What beautiful flowers I have found growing in our place! Why, all the woods are full of them!”

August Wilson (Frederick August Kittel)

U.S. playwright, 1945–2005

- 1 White folks don’t understand about the blues.
They hear it come out, but they don’t know how it got there. They don’t understand that’s life’s way of talking. You don’t sing to feel better. You sing ’cause that’s a way of understanding life.

Ma Rainey’s Black Bottom act 2 (1984)

- 2 You line up at the door with your hands out. I give you the lint from my pockets. I give you my sweat and my blood. I ain’t got no tears. I done spent them.

Fences act 1, sc. 3 (1985)

Brian Wilson

U.S. rock musician and songwriter, 1942–

- 1 And she’ll have fun, fun, fun
Till her daddy takes the T-bird away.

“Fun, Fun, Fun” (song) (1964)

- 2 I wish they all could be California girls.

“California Girls” (song) (1965)

Charles E. Wilson

U.S. businessman and government official,
1890–1961

- 1 For years I thought what was good for our country was good for General Motors, and vice versa. The difference did not exist.

Testimony at confirmation hearing, 15 Jan. 1953. Wilson, formerly president of General Motors, was nominated to become secretary of defense. At his confirmation hearing he was asked whether he could make a decision furthering the interests of the U.S. government but adverse to the interests of General Motors or other companies in which he held stock. Wilson’s comment is often misquoted “What’s good for General Motors is good for the country.” Ralph Keyes points out in Nice Guys Finish Seventh (1992) that a precursor of the quotation is “a line from a corrupt banker in the 1939 movie Stagecoach: ‘And remember this: What’s good for the bank is good for the country.’”

Edmund Wilson

U.S. writer, 1895–1972

- 1 [Statement in interview, 1962:] I attribute such success as I have had to the use of the periodic sentence.

Quoted in John Bartlett, Familiar Quotations, 14th ed. (1968)

Harold Wilson

British prime minister, 1916–1995

- 1 All these financiers, all the little gnomes in Zurich.
Speech in House of Commons, 12 Nov. 1956. Earlier in the same year, the Manchester Guardian, 7 Mar. 1956, had referred to “little gnomes sitting over ticker tapes in Zurich.”
- 2 The Britain that is going to be forged in the white heat of this revolution will be no place for restrictive practices or for outdated methods on either side of industry.
Speech at Labor Party Conference, Scarborough, England, 1 Oct. 1963. Often quoted as “white heat of technology” or “white heat of the technological revolution.”

- 3 A week is a long time in politics.

Quoted in N.Y. Times, 24 July 1966. The wording in this 1966 Times article was actually “One of Harold Wilson’s favorite sayings is that a week is a long time in the life of a Prime Minister.” The Dictionary of Modern Proverbs has earlier citations not associated with Wilson, from New York Times Magazine, 3 Dec. 1961 (“a week is a long time in African politics”) and George Wolfskill, Revolt of the Conservatives (1962) (“in politics a week is a long time”).

Harriette Wilson

English courtesan, 1789–1846

- 1 I shall not say why and how I became, at the age of fifteen, the mistress of the Earl of Craven.
Memoirs (1825)
- 2 “Vous me voyez là, madame, honnête homme, de cinq pieds et neuf pouces.”
“Madame est persuadée de vos cinq pieds, mais elle n’est pas si sûre de vos neuf pouces.”
“You see me, madame, an honest man of five feet nine inches.”
“Madame is persuaded of your five feet, but she is not so sure of your nine inches.”
Memoirs (1825)

Harry L. Wilson

U.S. writer, 1867–1939

- 1 I’ll be pushed just so far and no farther.
Ruggles of Red Gap ch. 3 (1915)

James Wilson

U.S. politician and judge, 1742–1798

- 1 “The United States,” instead of the “People of the United States,” is the toast given. This is not politically correct.
Chisholm v. Georgia (1793). Earliest known use of the phrase politically correct.

Robert R. Wilson

U.S. physicist, 1914–2000

- 1 [Of a proposed particle accelerator:] It has nothing to do directly with defending our country, except to make it worth defending.
Testimony before U.S. Congress, Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, 16 Apr. 1969

Sloan Wilson

U.S. novelist, 1920–2003

- 1 The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit.
Title of book (1955)

William Wilson

English author, fl. 1851

- 1 We hope it will not be long before we may have other works of Science-Fiction, as we believe such works likely to fulfil a good purpose, and create an interest, where, unhappily, science alone might fail. . . . Campbell says that "Fiction in Poetry is not the reverse of truth, but her soft and enchanting resemblance." Now this applies especially to Science-Fiction, in which the revealed truths of Science may be given, interwoven with a pleasing story which may itself be poetical and true—thus circulating a knowledge of the Poetry of Science, clothed in a garb of the Poetry of Life.

A Little Earnest Book upon a Great Old Subject ch. 10 (1851). Earliest known usage of the term science fiction. See Gernsback 1

Woodrow Wilson

U.S. president, 1856–1924

- 1 The most conservative persons I ever met are college undergraduates. The radicals are the men past middle life.
Speech to Inter-Church Conference on Federation, New York, N.Y., 19 Nov. 1905
- 2 The wisest thing to do with a fool is to encourage him to hire a hall and discourse to his fellow-citizens. Nothing chills nonsense like exposure to the air.
Constitutional Government in the United States ch. 2 (1908)
- 3 The President is at liberty, both in law and conscience, to be as big a man as he can.
Constitutional Government in the United States ch. 3 (1908)

- 4 If it is reorganization, a new deal, and a change you are seeking, it is Hobson's choice. I am sorry for you, but it is really vote for me or not vote at all.
Address, Camden, N.J., 24 Oct. 1910
See Franklin Roosevelt 4; Twain 40
- 5 A presidential campaign may easily degenerate into a mere personal contest and so lose its real dignity and significance. There is no indispensable man.
Speech accepting Democratic presidential nomination, Seagirt, N.J., 7 Aug. 1912
- 6 When I resist, therefore, when I as a Democrat resist the concentration of power, I am resisting the processes of death, because the concentration of power is what always precedes the destruction of human initiative, and, therefore of human energy.
Address, New York, N.Y., 4 Sept. 1912
- 7 And there will be no greater burden in our generation than to organize the forces of liberty in our time, in order to make conquest of a new freedom for America.
Campaign speech, Indianapolis, Ind., 3 Oct. 1912
- 8 We shall not, I believe, be obliged to alter our policy of watchful waiting. And then, when the end comes, we shall hope to see constitutional order restored in distressed Mexico by the concert and energy of such of her leaders as prefer the liberty of their people to their own ambitions.
State of the Union Address, 2 Dec. 1913
- 9 Our whole duty, for the present, at any rate, is summed up in the motto, "America first."
Speech, New York, N.Y., 20 Apr. 1915
- 10 There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight.
Speech, Philadelphia, Pa., 10 May 1915
- 11 One cool judgment is worth a thousand hasty counsels. The thing to be supplied is light, not heat.
Address on preparedness, Pittsburgh, Pa., 29 Jan. 1916
- 12 Never . . . murder a man who is committing suicide.
Letter to Bernard Baruch, 19 Aug. 1916. According to the American Heritage Dictionary of American

Quotations, "This was Wilson's hands-off strategy for dealing with Charles Evans Hughes, his Republican opponent in the 1916 election. He attributed the precept to 'a friend.'"

- 13 It must be a peace without victory. . . . Only a peace between equals can last. Only a peace the very principle of which is equality and a common participation in a common benefit. Address to Senate on essential terms of peace in Europe, 22 Jan. 1917
- 14 A little group of willful men [eleven senators conducting a filibuster against a bill authorizing the president to arm U.S. merchant ships], representing no opinion but their own, have rendered the great government of the United States helpless and contemptible. Statement to the nation, 4 Mar. 1917
- 15 The world must be made safe for democracy. Address to Joint Session of Congress asking for declaration of war, 2 Apr. 1917
See Thomas Wolfe 1
- 16 It is a fearful thing to lead this great peaceful people into war, into the most terrible and disastrous of all wars, civilization itself seeming to be in the balance. But the right is more precious than peace, and we shall fight for the things which we have always carried nearest our hearts. . . . To such a task we dedicate our lives and our fortunes, everything that we are and everything that we have, with the pride of those who know that the day has come when America is privileged to spend her blood and her might for the principles that gave her birth and happiness and the peace which she has treasured. Address to Joint Session of Congress asking for declaration of war, 2 Apr. 1917
- 17 The program of the world's peace, therefore, is our program; and that program, the only possible program, as we see it, is this: I. Open covenants of peace, openly arrived at, after which there shall be no private understandings of any kind but diplomacy shall proceed always frankly and in the public view. "Fourteen Points" Address to Joint Session of Congress, 8 Jan. 1918
- 18 II. Absolute freedom of navigation upon the seas, outside territorial waters, alike in peace
- and in war, except as the seas may be closed in whole or in part by international action for the enforcement of international covenants. "Fourteen Points" Address to Joint Session of Congress, 8 Jan. 1918
- 19 III. The removal, so far as possible, of all economic barriers and the establishment of an equality of trade conditions among all the nations consenting to the peace and associating themselves for its maintenance. "Fourteen Points" Address to Joint Session of Congress, 8 Jan. 1918
- 20 IV. Adequate guarantees given and taken that national armaments will be reduced to the lowest point consistent with domestic safety. "Fourteen Points" Address to Joint Session of Congress, 8 Jan. 1918
- 21 V. A free, open-minded, and absolutely impartial adjustment of all colonial claims, based upon a strict observance of the principle that in determining all such questions of sovereignty the interests of the populations concerned must have equal weight with the equitable claims of the government whose title is to be determined. "Fourteen Points" Address to Joint Session of Congress, 8 Jan. 1918
- 22 XIV. A general association of nations must be formed under specific covenants for the purpose of affording mutual guarantees of political independence and territorial integrity to great and small states alike. "Fourteen Points" Address to Joint Session of Congress, 8 Jan. 1918
- 23 Sometimes people call me an idealist. Well, that is the way I know I am an American. America, my fellow citizens—I do not say it in disparagement of any other great people—America is the only idealistic nation in the world. Address supporting League of Nations, Sioux Falls, S.D., 8 Sept. 1919
- 24 Once lead this people into war and they'll forget there ever was such a thing as tolerance. Quoted in John Dos Passos, Mr. Wilson's War (1917)
- 25 If it is a ten-minute speech it takes me all of two weeks to prepare it; if it is a half-hour speech it takes me a week; if I can talk as long as I want to it requires no preparation at all. I am ready now.

Quoted in The Operative Miller, Apr. 1918. This citation was discovered by Garson O'Toole, who also found a precursor: "Lincoln once made a most apt suggestion applicable to such cases. When asked to appear upon some important occasion and deliver a five-minute speech, he said that he had no time to prepare five-minute speeches, but that he could go and speak an hour at any time." (First Biennial Message of Governor H. H. Markham to the Legislature of the State of California, 3 Jan. 1893) See Pascal 1; Thoreau 34

- 26 [Alleged comment upon viewing the film Birth of a Nation, 18 Feb. 1915:] It is like writing history with lightning. And my only regret is that it is all so terribly true.

Attributed in Scribner's Magazine, Nov. 1937. This is the earliest documented evidence for this quotation, and it appears unlikely to be authentic. Marjorie Brown King, the last survivor among the people at the 1915 screening, said that Wilson walked out of the room afterwards without comment. However, at least the first part of the quotation may have been associated with Wilson as early as February 1915. According to a 2004 article by Arthur Lennig, the New York American, 28 Feb. 1915, quoted Birth of a Nation director D. W. Griffith commenting that the film "received very high praise from high quarters in Washington. . . . I was gratified when a man we all revere, or ought to, said it teaches history by lightning."

Dale Wimbrow

U.S. writer, 1895–1954

- 1 When you get what you want in your struggle for pelf,
And the world makes you King for a day,
Then go to the mirror and look at yourself,
And see what that guy has to say.
"The Guy in the Glass," l. 1, American Magazine, May 1934
- 2 You can fool the whole world down the pathway of years,
And get pats on the back as you pass,
But your final reward will be heartaches and tears
If you've cheated the guy in the glass.
"The Guy in the Glass" l. 17, American Magazine, May 1934

Duchess of Windsor (Wallis Simpson)

U.S.-born British aristocrat, 1896–1986

- 1 You can't be too rich or too thin.

Quoted in L.A. Times, 17 June 1970. This line is associated with the Duchess of Windsor, but Harper's Bazaar, July 1963, referred to "You can never be too rich or too thin" as a "wise old adage." According to Alec Lewis, The Quotable Quotations Book, Truman Capote claimed to have said "No woman can be too rich or too thin" on the David Susskind Show in 1958.

Amy Winehouse

English singer and songwriter, 1983–2011

- 1 They tried to make me go to Rehab
I said no, no, no
Yes, I've been black, but when I come back
You'll know, know, know!
I ain't got the time
And if my daddy thinks I'm fine
Just try to make me go to rehab
I won't go, go, go.
"Rehab" (song) (2006)

Septimus Winner

U.S. songwriter, 1827–1902

- 1 Listen to the mockingbird, listen to the mockingbird,
Still singing where the weeping willows wave.
"Listen to the Mockingbird" (song) (1855)
- 2 Oh where, oh where ish mine little dog gone;
Oh where, oh where can he be . . .
His ears cut short and his tail cut long:
Oh where, oh where ish he.
"Der Deitcher's Dog" (song) (1864)

Ella Winter

Australian-born English writer, 1898–1980

- 1 [Remark to Thomas Wolfe, who then asked to use the phrase as title for his 1937 book:] Don't you know you can't go home again?
Quoted in Ella Winter, Letter to Elizabeth Nowell, 7 May 1943

Jeanette Winterson

English novelist and critic, 1959–

- 1 [Roger Fry] gave us the term "Post-Impressionist," without realizing that the late twentieth century would soon be entirely fenced in with posts.

Art Objects pt. 1 (1995)

John Winthrop

English-born colonial American governor, 1588–1649

- 1 For we must consider that we shall be as a City upon a hill. The eyes of all people are upon us. Soe that if we shall deal falsely with our God in this work we have undertaken, and so cause him to withdraw his present help from us, we shall be made a story and a byword throughout the world.

“A Modell of Christian Charity” (1630). Winthrop, governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, wrote this in a discourse composed aboard the Arbella during its voyage to Massachusetts.

See Bible 208

Owen Wister

U.S. novelist, 1860–1938

- 1 Fetterman Events, 1885–1886. Card game going on. Big money. Several desperadoes playing. One John Lawrence among others. A player calls him a son-of-a-b——. John Lawrence does not look as if he had heard it. Merely passes his fingers strokingly up and down his pile of chips. When his hand is done, he looks across at the man and says, “You smile when you call me that.”

“Frontier Notes, 1894” (1894). Wister’s “Frontier Notes, 1894” are reprinted in Owen Wister Out West: His Journals and Letters, ed. Fanny Kemble Wister (1958).

- 2 When you call me that, smile!
The Virginian ch. 2 (1902)

Forest E. Witcraft

U.S. Scouting administrator, 1894–1967

- 1 A hundred years from now it will not matter what my bank account was, the sort of house I lived in, or the kind of car I drove. But the world may be different, because I was important in the life of a boy.

“Within My Power,” Scouting, Oct. 1950

Ludwig Wittgenstein

Austrian-born English philosopher, 1889–1951

- 1 Die Welt ist alles, was der Fall ist.
The world is everything that is the case.
Tractatus Logico-Philosophicus Proposition 1 (1922)
- 2 Die Grenzen meiner Sprache bedeuten die Grenzen meiner Welt.
The limits of my language mean the limits of my world.
Tractatus Logico-Philosophicus Proposition 5.6 (1922)
- 3 Wovon man nicht sprechen kann, darüber muss man schweigen.
What we cannot speak about we must pass over in silence.
Tractatus Logico-Philosophicus Proposition 7 (1922)
- 4 What is your aim in philosophy?—To show the fly the way out of the fly-bottle.
Philosophical Investigations pt. 1, sec. 309 (1953)

P. G. Wodehouse

English writer, 1881–1975

- 1 To Herbert Westbrook, without whose never-failing advice, help, and encouragement this book would have been finished in half the time.
A Gentleman of Leisure dedication (1910)
- 2 He spoke with a certain what-is-it in his voice, and I could see that, if not actually disgruntled, he was far from being grunted.
The Code of the Woosters ch. 1 (1938)
- 3 Slice him where you like, a hellhound is always a hellhound.
The Code of the Woosters ch. 1 (1938)
- 4 Ice formed on the butler’s upper slopes.
Pigs Have Wings ch. 5 (1952)
- 5 “I hate you, I hate you!” cried Madeline, a thing I didn’t know anyone ever said except in the second act of a musical comedy.
Stiff Upper Lip, Jeeves ch. 15 (1963)
- 6 It is never difficult to distinguish between a Scotsman with a grievance and a ray of sunshine.
Quoted in Richard Osborne, Wodehouse at Work to the End (1977)

Jim Wohlford

U.S. baseball player, 1951–

- 1 Ninety per cent of this game is half mental.

Quoted in Maryville (Mo.) Daily Forum, 4 Apr. 1974. This or a similar formulation is often attributed to Yogi Berra, but the evidence for Wohlford's having said it predates that for Berra.

Christa Wolf

German writer, 1929–2011

- 1 It is this ability to bear what is unbearable and to go on living, to go on doing what one is used to doing—it is this uncanny ability that the existence of the human species is based on. Medea ch. 10 (1996) (translation by John Cullen)

Naomi Wolf

U.S. writer, 1962–

- 1 We are in the midst of a violent backlash against feminism that uses images of female beauty as a political weapon against women's advancement: the beauty myth. The Beauty Myth: How Images of Beauty Are Used Against Women ch. 1 (1990)
- 2 "Beauty" is a currency system like the gold standard. Like any economy it is determined by politics, and in the modern age in the West it is the last, best belief system that keeps male dominance intact. The Beauty Myth ch. 1 (1990)
- 3 When women breached the power structure in the 1980s, the two economies finally merged. Beauty was no longer just a symbolic form of currency; it literally became money. The Beauty Myth ch. 2 (1990)
- 4 What little girls learn is not the desire for the other, but the desire to be desired. The Beauty Myth ch. 5 (1990)

Humbert Wolfe

Italian-born English poet and government official, 1886–1940

- 1 You cannot hope to bribe or twist, thank God! the British journalist. But, seeing what the man will do unbribed, there's no occasion to.

The Uncelestial City (1930)

James Wolfe

British general, 1727–1759

- 1 The General . . . repeated nearly the whole of Gray's Elegy . . . adding, as he concluded, that he would prefer being the author of that poem to the glory of beating the French to-morrow. Reported in J. Playfair, "Biographical Account of J. Robison," Transactions of the Royal Society of Edinburgh (1815)

Thomas Wolfe

U.S. novelist, 1900–1938

- 1 "Where they got you stationed now, Luke?" . . . ["In Norfolk at the Navy base," Luke answered, "m-m-making the world safe for hypocrisy." Look Homeward, Angel pt. 3, ch. 36 (1929) See Woodrow Wilson 15
- 2 Duh poor guy! . . . Maybe he's found out by now dat he'll neveh live long enough to know duh whole of Brooklyn. It'd take a guy a lifetime to know Brooklyn t'roo an' t'roo. An' even den, yuh wouldn't know it all. "Only the Dead Know Brooklyn" (1935)
- 3 If a man has talent and cannot use it, he has failed. If he has a talent and uses only half of it, he has partly failed. If he has a talent and learns somehow to use the whole of it, he has gloriously succeeded, and won a satisfaction and a triumph few men ever know. The Web and the Rock ch. 29 (1939)

Tom Wolfe

U.S. writer, 1930–2018

- 1 Radical Chic . . . is only radical in Style; in its heart it is part of Society and its tradition—Politics, like Rock, Pop, and Camp, has its uses. New York, 8 June 1970 See Krim 1
- 2 All these years, in short, I had assumed that in art, if nowhere else, seeing is believing. Well—how very shortsighted! . . . I had gotten it backward all along. Not "seeing is believing,"

- you ninny, but “believing is seeing,” for Modern Art has become completely literary: the paintings and other works exist only to illustrate the text.
The Painted Word introduction (1975)
- 3 The “Me” Decade and the Third Great Awakening.
Title of article, New York Magazine, 23 Aug. 1976
- 4 A sect, incidentally, is a religion with no political power.
“The ‘Me’ Decade and the Third Great Awakening” (1976). In later repetitions of this thought, Wolfe used the word cult rather than sect.
See Feibleman 1
- 5 One of the phrases that kept running through their conversation was “pushing the outside of the envelope.” The “envelope” was a flight-test term referring to the limits of a particular aircraft’s performance, how tight a turn it could make at such-and-such a speed, and so on. “Pushing the outside,” probing the outer limits, of the envelope seemed to be the great challenge and satisfaction of flight test.
The Right Stuff ch. 1 (1979)
- 6 The idea was to prove at every foot of the way up that you were one of the elected and anointed ones who had the right stuff and could move higher and higher and even—ultimately, God willing, one day—that you might be able to join that special few at the very top, that elite who had the capacity to bring tears to men’s eyes, the very Brotherhood of the Right Stuff itself.
The Right Stuff ch. 2 (1979)
- 7 The Bonfire of the Vanities.
Title of book (1987). Wolfe derived his title from the 1497 public burning of objects considered sinful by the priest Girolamo Savonarola in Florence, Italy.
- 8 On Wall Street he and a few others—how many?—three hundred, four hundred, five hundred?—had become precisely that . . . Masters of the Universe.
The Bonfire of the Vanities ch. 1 (1987). Ellipsis in the original. Wolfe took the phrase “Masters of the Universe” from a name used in the early 1980s for action figures by the Mattel toy company and in a related television cartoon show.
- 9 A liberal is a conservative who has been arrested.
The Bonfire of the Vanities ch. 24 (1987). An earlier version (“A liberal is a conservative who just got arrested”) was printed in Peter Kreeft, The Unaborted Socrates (1983).
- Raymond Wolfinger
U.S. political scientist, 1931–2015
- 1 The plural of anecdote is data.
Quoted in Issues in Health Care Regulation, ed. Richard S. Gordon (1980). Far more popular is a later counter-proverb, “The plural of anecdote is not data,” first attested in 1982.
- Mary Wollstonecraft
English feminist, 1759–1797
- 1 Nothing, I am sure, calls forth the faculties so much as the being obliged to struggle with the world.
Thoughts on the Education of Daughters “Matrimony” (1787)
- 2 Virtue can only flourish amongst equals.
A Vindication of the Rights of Men (1790)
- 3 She [woman] was created to be the toy of man, his rattle, and it must jingle in his ears whenever, dismissing reason, he chooses to be amused.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 2 (1792)

- 4 Till women are more rationally educated, the progress of human virtue and improvement in knowledge must receive continual checks.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 3 (1792)
- 5 To give a sex to mind was not very consistent with the principles of a man [Jean-Jacques Rousseau] who argued so warmly, and so well, for the immortality of the soul.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 3 (1792)
- 6 Taught from their infancy that beauty is woman's sceptre, the mind shapes itself to the body, and roaming round its gilt cage, only seeks to adorn its prison.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 3 (1792)
- 7 If women be educated for dependence; that is, to act according to the will of another fallible being, and submit, right or wrong, to power, where are we to stop?
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 3 (1792)
- 8 How can a rational being be ennobled by any thing that is not obtained by its own exertions?
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 3 (1792)
- 9 A king is always a king—and a woman always a woman: his authority and her sex, ever stand between them and rational converse.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 4 (1792)
- 10 Women are systematically degraded by receiving the trivial attentions, which men think it manly to pay to the sex, when, in fact, they are insultingly supporting their own superiority.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 4 (1792)
- 11 It would be an endless task to trace the variety of meannesses, cares, and sorrows, into which women are plunged by the prevailing opinion, that they were created rather to feel than reason, and that all the power they obtain, must be obtained by their charms and weakness.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 4 (1792)
- 12 I do not wish them [women] to have power over men; but over themselves.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 4 (1792)
- 13 Women ought to have representatives, instead of being arbitrarily governed without having any direct share allowed them in the deliberations of government.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 9 (1792)
- 14 Till society is very differently constituted, parents, I fear, will still insist on being obeyed, because they will be obeyed, and constantly endeavor to settle that power on a Divine right which will not bear the investigation of reason.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 11 (1792)
- 15 The pure animal spirits, which make both mind and body shoot out, and unfold the tender blossoms of hope, are turned sour, and vented in vain wishes or pert repinings, that contract the faculties and spoil the temper; else they mount to the brain, and sharpening the understanding before it gains proportional strength, produce that pitiful cunning which disgracefully characterizes the female mind—and I fear will characterize it whilst women remain the slaves of power!
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman ch. 12 (1792)
- 16 Executions, far from being useful examples to the survivors, have, I am persuaded, a quite contrary effect, by hardening the heart they ought to terrify. Besides, the fear of an ignominious death, I believe, never deterred anyone from the commission of a crime, because in committing it the mind is roused to activity about present circumstances.
Letters Written During a Short Residence in Sweden, Norway, and Denmark Letter 19 (1796)
- 17 The same energy of character which renders a man a daring villain would have rendered him useful to society, had that society been well organized.
Letters Written During a Short Residence in Sweden, Norway, and Denmark Letter 19 (1796)
- 18 It is the preservation of the species, not of individuals, which appears to be the design of Deity throughout the whole of nature.
Letters Written During a Short Residence in Sweden, Norway, and Denmark Letter 22 (1796)
- 19 Was not the world a vast prison, and women born slaves?
The Wrongs of Woman; or, Maria ch. 1 (1798)

Thomas Wolsey

English cardinal and statesman, ca. 1475–1530

- I If I had served God as diligently as I have done the King, He would not have given me over in my gray hairs.

Quoted in George Cavendish, The Life and Death of Cardinal Wolsey (manuscript at British Museum, 1558)
See Shakespeare 452

Kenneth Wolstenholme

English sportscaster, 1920–2002

- I They think it's all over—it is now.
Television broadcast in final moments of World Cup soccer championship, 30 July 1966

Stevie Wonder (Steveland Judkins Hardaway)

U.S. singer and songwriter, 1950–

- I You are the sunshine of my life
That's why I'll always be around,
You are the apple of my eye,
Forever you'll stay in my heart.
“You Are the Sunshine of My Life” (song) (1972)

Natalie Wood

U.S. actress, 1938–1981

- I The only time a woman really succeeds in changing a man is when he's a baby.
Quoted in Barbara Rowes, The Book of Quotes (1979)

Victoria Clafin Woodhull

U.S. reformer, 1838–1927

- I I have an inalienable constitutional and natural right to love whom I may, to love as long or as short a period as I can, to change that love every day if I please!
Woodhull and Clafin's Weekly, 20 Nov. 1871

Bob Woodward

U.S. journalist, 1943–

- I Democracy dies in darkness.
Quoted in Berkshire Eagle, 10 Dec. 2008. This was adopted as the slogan of the Washington Post in 2017.

C. Vann Woodward

U.S. historian, 1908–1999

- I Southerners have repeated the American rhetoric of self admiration and sung the perfection of American institutions ever since the Declaration of Independence. But for half that time they lived intimately with a great social evil and the other half with its aftermath. . . . The South's preoccupation was with guilt, not with innocence, with the reality of evil, not with the dream of perfection. Its experience . . . was on the whole a thoroughly un-American one.

The Burden of Southern History ch. 1 (1960)

Stanley Woodward

U.S. sportswriter, 1894–1965

- I A proportion of our eastern ivy colleges are meeting little fellows another Saturday before plunging into the strife and the turmoil.
N.Y. Herald Tribune, 14 Oct. 1933. This football reference is the earliest known usage of the term ivy colleges, later Ivy League. Ivy League first appeared (as far as is known) in articles in the Christian Science Monitor and other newspapers, 7 Feb. 1935, antedating the first use of 1939 given by historical dictionaries.

William E. Woodward

U.S. author, 1874–1950

- I De-bunking means simply taking the bunk out of things.
Bunk ch. 1 (1923)

Virginia Woolf (Adeline Virginia Stephen)

English novelist, 1882–1941

- I Each had his past shut in him like the leaves of a book known to him by heart; and his friends could only read the title.
Jacob's Room ch. 5 (1922)
- 2 [Of James Joyce's Ulysses.] Never did I read such tosh. As for the first 2 chapters we will let them pass, but the 3rd 4th 5th 6th—merely the scratching of pimples on the body of the bootboy at Claridges.
Letter to Lytton Strachey, 24 Apr. 1922

- 3 On or about December 1910 human character changed. . . . All human relations have shifted—those between masters and servants, husbands and wives, parents and children. And when human relations change there is at the same time a change in religion, conduct, politics, and literature.

- 12 When, however, one reads of a witch being ducked, of a woman possessed by devils, of a wise woman selling herbs, or even of a very remarkable man who had a mother, then I think we are on the track of a lost novelist, a suppressed poet, of some mute and inglorious Jane Austen, some Emily Brontë who dashed her brains out on the moor or mopped and mowed about the highways crazed with the torture that her gift had put her to. Indeed, I would venture to guess that Anon, who wrote so many poems without signing them, was often a woman.

4 All the things I really like to do are either immoral, illegal, or fattening.

Quoted in Readers Digest, Dec. 1933. Although this quip is usually credited to Woollcott, Garson O'Toole has discovered an article in the Albany Evening News, 16 Sept. 1933, indicating that Woollcott, in a radio broadcast, told a story about a Mr. Frank Rand of St. Louis, in which Rand stated: "It seems as if anything I like is either illegal or immoral or fattening."

John M. Woolsey

U.S. judge, 1877–1945

1 The words which are criticized as dirty [in James Joyce's Ulysses] are old Saxon words known to almost all men and, I venture, to many women, and are such words as would be naturally and habitually used, I believe, by the types of folk whose life, physical and mental, Joyce is seeking to describe. In respect of the recurrent emergence of the theme of sex in the minds of his characters, it must always be remembered that his locale was Celtic and his season spring.

United States v. One Book Called "Ulysses" (1933)

2 I am quite aware that owing to some of its scenes Ulysses is a rather strong draught to ask some sensitive, though normal, persons to take. But my considered opinion, after long reflection, is that, whilst in many places the effect of Ulysses on the reader undoubtedly is somewhat emetic, nowhere does it tend to be an aphrodisiac. Ulysses may, therefore, be admitted into the United States.

Dorothy Wordsworth

English writer, 1771–1855

1 I never saw daffodils so beautiful. They grew among the mossy stones about and about them; some rested their heads upon these stones as on a pillow for weariness; and the rest tossed and reeled and danced, and seemed as if they verily laughed with the wind that blew upon them over the lake.

writer, in proportion as he is great and original, must himself create the taste by which he is to be relished.

Letter to Lady Beaumont, 21 May 1807

- 11 Milton! thou shouldst be living at this hour:
England hath need of thee: she is a fen
Of stagnant waters: altar, sword, and pen,
Fireside, the heroic wealth of hall and bower,
Have forfeited their ancient English dower
Of inward happiness.
"London, 1802" l. 1 (1807)

- 12 My heart leaps up when I behold
A rainbow in the sky:
So was it when my life began;
So is it now I am a man;
So be it when I shall grow old,
Or let me die!
The Child is father of the Man;
And I could wish my days to be Bound each to each by natural piety.
"My Heart Leaps Up When I Behold" l. 1 (1807).
Wordsworth also used the last three lines as the epigraph for his poem "Ode: Intimations of

The Soul that rises with us, our life’s Star,
Hath had elsewhere its setting,
And cometh from afar:
Not in entire forgetfulness,
And not in utter nakedness,
But trailing clouds of glory do we come
From God, who is our home:
Heaven lies about us in our infancy!

- 19 I thought of Chatterton, the marvellous boy,
The sleepless soul that perished in its pride;
Of him who walked in glory and in joy
Behind his plough, upon the mountain side:

We poets in our youth begin in gladness;
But thereof comes in the end despondency and madness.

Winnifred Crane Wygal

U.S. social service organization official, 1884–1972

- 1 Oh, God, give us courage to change what must be altered, serenity to accept what cannot be helped, and insight to know the one from the other.

The Woman’s Press, Mar. 1933. This is the “Serenity Prayer,” the most famous and beloved prayer of modern times. It is most commonly quoted as, “God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, courage to change the things I can, and wisdom to know the difference.” There has been considerable controversy and misinformation about this prayer’s origins, and it has usually been attributed to the great theologian Reinhold Niebuhr. The first edition of the Yale Book of Quotations listed Niebuhr as the author, but a new interpretation by William FitzGerald in a forthcoming book (based on discoveries made by the Yale Book of Quotations editor) argues for Wygal as author. It is not unusual for important quotations by obscure women to be ascribed to prominent men.

The March 1933 sentence above, the beginning of an article by Wygal, is the earliest known occurrence of the Serenity Prayer. The other oldest versions all appeared in contexts related to the Young Women’s Christian Association, of which Wygal was a longtime staff member, and all followed Wygal’s wording very closely. No attributions of the prayer to Niebuhr by others have been found from before 1937, and no one has ever definitively documented any pre-1950 uses by Niebuhr himself. In a book devoted to the Serenity Prayer, Niebuhr’s daughter Elisabeth Sifton repeatedly told a story about his composition of it, with a firmly asserted dating of 1943. Niebuhr believed he was the author, although his statements on the origination were vague. Alcoholics Anonymous, which has made extensive use of the prayer, has credited him for it.

Wygol was an associate of Niebuhr, and in her diary entry for 31 Oct. 1932 she quoted him as follows: "The victorious man in the day of crisis is the man who has the serenity to accept what he cannot help and the courage to change what must be altered." That sentence featured some of the elements of the Serenity Prayer yet lacked the key "insight" or "wisdom" element, and it was not a prayer. Three times in the 1937 to 1943 period, Wygal herself linked the Serenity Prayer to Niebuhr's name. However, Professor FitzGerald suggests that she may have been motivated by her high regard for Niebuhr and by the power of patriarchy. The textual evidence of Wygal's priority, presented by numerous citations, is overwhelming. Although the answer to the issue of provenance is not certain, the demonstrable facts point to Winnifred Wygal as the coiner who combined pieces apparently drawn from Niebuhr with important other pieces of her own devising to create a most memorable prayer.

And kiss her lips and take her hands;
And walk among long dappled grass,
And pluck till time and times are done
The silver apples of the moon,
The golden apples of the sun.
“The Song of Wandering Aengus” l. 19 (1899)

- 7 The friends that have it I do wrong
When ever I remake a song
Should know what issue is at stake,
It is myself that I remake.
Collected Works in Verse and Prose of William Butler Yeats vol. 2, preliminary poem, l. 1 (1908)
- 8 Though leaves are many, the root is one;
Through all the lying days of my youth
I swayed my leaves and flowers in the sun;
Now I may wither into the truth.
"The Coming of Wisdom with Time" l. 1 (1910)
- 9 The fascination of what's difficult
Has dried the sap of my veins, and rent
Spontaneous joy and natural content
Out of my heart.
"The Fascination of What's Difficult" l. 1 (1910)
- 10 A mind
That nobleness made simple as a fire,
With beauty like a tightened bow.
"No Second Troy" l. 6 (1910)
- 11 Why, what could she have done, being what she is?
Was there another Troy for her to burn?
"No Second Troy" l. 11 (1910)
- 12 Where, where but here have Pride and Truth,
That long to give themselves for wage,
To shake their wicked sides at youth
Restraining reckless middle-age?
"On Hearing that the Students of Our New University Have Joined the Agitation Against Immoral Literature" l. 1 (1910)
- 13 I made my song a coat
Covered with embroideries
Out of old mythologies.
"A Coat" l. 1 (1914)
- 14 Song, let them take it,
For there's more enterprise
In walking naked.
"A Coat" l. 8 (1914)
- 15 Now as at all times I can see in my mind's eye,
In their stiff, painted clothes, the pale unsatisfied ones . . .
Hoping to find once more,
Being by Calvary's turbulence unsatisfied,
The uncontrollable mystery on the bestial floor.
"The Magi" l. 1, 6 (1914)
- 16 In dreams begins responsibility.
Responsibilities epigraph (1914). Said to be from an "Old Play."
- 17 Romantic Ireland's dead and gone,
It's with O'Leary in the grave.
"September, 1913" l. 7 (1914)
- 18 Be secret and exult,
Because of all things known
That is most difficult.
"To a Friend Whose Work Has Come to Nothing"
l. 14 (1914)
- 19 Bald heads, forgetful of their sins,
Old, learned, respectable bald heads
Edit and annotate the lines
That young men tossing on their beds,
Rhymed out in love's despair
To flatter beauty's ignorant ear.
"The Scholars" l. 1 (1915)
- 20 And cried, "Before I am old
I shall have written him one
Poem maybe as cold
And passionate as the dawn."
"The Fisherman" l. 37 (1917)
- 21 I know that I shall meet my fate
Somewhere among the clouds above;
Those that I fight I do not hate,
Those that I guard I do not love;
My country is Kiltartan Cross,
My countrymen Kiltartan's poor.
"An Irish Airman Foresees His Death" l. 1 (1919)
- 22 Nor law, nor duty bade me fight,
Nor public men, nor cheering crowds,
A lonely impulse of delight
Drove to this tumult in the clouds;
I balanced all, brought all to mind,
The years to come seemed waste of breath,
A waste of breath the years behind
In balance with this life, this death.
"An Irish Airman Foresees His Death" l. 9 (1919)
- 23 It's certain that fine women eat
A crazy salad with their meat
Whereby the Horn of Plenty is undone.
"A Prayer for my Daughter" l. 30 (1919)
- 24 An intellectual hatred is the worst,
So let her think opinions are accursed.
"A Prayer for my Daughter" l. 57 (1919)

- 25 All think what other people think;
All know the man their neighbor knows.
Lord, what would they say
Did their Catullus walk that way?
"The Scholars" l. 9 (1919)
- 26 I have met them at close of day
Coming with vivid faces
From counter or desk among grey
Eighteenth-century houses.
I have passed with a nod of the head
Or polite meaningless words.
"Easter 1916" l. 1 (1921)
- 27 All changed, changed utterly:
A terrible beauty is born.
"Easter 1916" l. 15 (1921)
- 28 Too long a sacrifice
Can make a stone of the heart.
"Easter 1916" l. 57 (1921)
- 29 Turning and turning in the widening gyre
The falcon cannot hear the falconer;
Things fall apart; the center cannot hold;
Mere anarchy is loosed upon the world,
The blood-dimmed tide is loosed, and everywhere
The ceremony of innocence is drowned;
The best lack all conviction, while the worst
Are full of passionate intensity.
"The Second Coming" l. 1 (1921)
- 30 The darkness drops again; but now I know
That twenty centuries of stony sleep
Were vexed to nightmare by a rocking cradle,
And what rough beast, its hour come round at last,
Slouches towards Bethlehem to be born?
"The Second Coming" l. 18 (1921)
- 31 We make out of the quarrel with others, rhetoric, but of the quarrel with ourselves, poetry.
"Anima Hominis" (1924)
- 32 We are one of the great stocks of Europe. We are the people of Burke; we are the people of Grattan; we are the people of Swift, the people of Emmet, the people of Parnell. We have created most of the modern literature of this country. We have created the best of its political intelligence.
Speech in Seanad on government measure outlawing divorce, 11 June 1925
- 33 I am still of opinion that only two topics can be of the least interest to a serious and studious mind—sex and the dead.
Letter to Olivia Shakespear, Oct. 1927
- 34 The children's eyes
In momentary wonder stare upon
A sixty-year-old smiling public man.
"Among School Children" l. 6 (1928)
- 35 I dream of a Ledaean body, bent
Above a sinking fire.
"Among School Children" l. 9 (1928)
- 36 For even daughters of the swan can share
Something of every paddler's heritage.
"Among School Children" l. 20 (1928)
- 37 And I though never of Ledaean kind
Had pretty plumage once—enough of that,
Better to smile on all that smile, and show
There is a comfortable kind of old scarecrow.
"Among School Children" l. 31 (1928)
- 38 What youthful mother . . .
Would think her son, did she but see that shape
With sixty or more winters on its head,
A compensation for the pang of his birth,
Or the uncertainty of his setting forth?
"Among School Children" l. 33, 37 (1928)
- 39 Both nuns and mothers worship images,
But those the candles light are not as those
That animate a mother's reveries,
But keep a marble or a bronze repose.
"Among School Children" l. 49 (1928)
- 40 Labor is blossoming or dancing where
The body is not bruised to pleasure soul,
Nor beauty born out of its own despair,
Nor blear-eyed wisdom out of midnight oil.
"Among School Children" l. 57 (1928)
See Quarles 1
- 41 O chestnut tree, great-rooted blossomer,
Are you the leaf, the blossom, or the bole?
O body swayed to music, O brightening glance,
How can we know the dancer from the dance?
"Among School Children" l. 61 (1928)
- 42 A sudden blow: the great wings beating still Above the staggering girl.
"Leda and the Swan" l. 1 (1928)

- 43 How can those terrified vague fingers push
The feathered glory from her loosening thighs?
"Leda and the Swan" l. 5 (1928)
- 44 A shudder in the loins engenders there
The broken wall, the burning roof and tower
And Agamemnon dead.
"Leda and the Swan" l. 9 (1928)
- 45 Being so caught up,
So mastered by the brute blood of the air,
Did she put on his knowledge with his power
Before the indifferent beak could let her drop?
"Leda and the Swan" l. 11 (1928)
- 46 That is no country for old men. The young
In one another's arms, birds in the trees
—Those dying generations—at their song.
"Sailing to Byzantium" l. 1 (1928)
- 47 An aged man is but a paltry thing,
A tattered coat upon a stick, unless
Soul clap its hands and sing, and louder sing
For every tatter in its mortal dress.
"Sailing to Byzantium" l. 9 (1928)
- 48 Consume my heart away; sick with desire
And fastened to a dying animal
It knows not what it is; and gather me
Into the artifice of eternity.
"Sailing to Byzantium" l. 21 (1928)
- 49 Once out of nature I shall never take
My bodily form from any natural thing,
But such a form as Grecian goldsmiths make.
"Sailing to Byzantium" l. 25 (1928)
- 50 Set upon a golden bough to sing
To lords and ladies of Byzantium
Of what is past, or passing, or to come.
"Sailing to Byzantium" l. 30 (1928)
- 51 Locke sank into a swoon;
The Garden died;
God took the spinning-jenny
Out of his side.
"Fragments" l. 1 (1931)
- 52 A woman can be proud and stiff
When on love intent;
But Love has pitched his mansion in
The place of excrement;
For nothing can be sole or whole
That has not been rent.
"Crazy Jane Talks with the Bishop" l. 13 (1932)
- 53 The unpurged images of day recede;
The Emperor's drunken soldiery are abed;
Night resonance recedes, night-walkers' song
After great cathedral gong.
"Byzantium" l. 1 (1933)
- 54 A starlit or a moonlit dome disdains
All that man is,
All mere complexities,
The fury and the mire of human veins.
"Byzantium" l. 5 (1933)
- 55 I hail the superhuman;
I call it death-in-life and life-in-death.
"Byzantium" l. 15 (1933)
- 56 An agony of flame that cannot singe a sleeve.
"Byzantium" l. 32 (1933)
- 57 Those images that yet
Fresh images beget,
That dolphin-torn, that gong-tormented sea.
"Byzantium" l. 38 (1933)
- 58 Savage indignation there
Cannot lacerate his breast.
Imitate him if you dare,
World-besotted traveller; he Served human liberty.
"Swift's Epitaph" l. 1 (1933)
See Jonathan Swift 34
- 59 We poets would die of loneliness but for women, & we choose our men friends that we may have somebody to talk about women with.
Letter to Ethel Mannin, 15 Nov. 1936. Incorrectly cited in some other reference works as from a letter to Olivia Shakespear.
- 60 I must lie down where all the ladders start,
In the foul rag-and-bone shop of the heart.
"The Circus Animals' Desertion" l. 39 (1939)
- 61 Irish poets, learn your trade,
Sing whatever is well made.
"Under Ben Bulbin" l. 68 (1939)
- 62 Cast your mind on other days
That we in coming days may be Still the Indomitable Irishry.
"Under Ben Bulbin" l. 81 (1939)
- 63 Under bare Ben Bulbin's head
In Drumcliff churchyard Yeats is laid.
"Under Ben Bulbin" l. 84 (1939)

64 No marble, no conventional phrase;
 On limestone quarried near the spot
 By his command these words are cut:
Cast a cold eye
On life, on death.
Horseman, pass by!

“Under Ben Bulben” l. 89 (1939). The final three lines are in fact inscribed on Yeats’s gravestone.

Jack Yellen

U.S. songwriter, 1892–1991

- 1 Ain’t she sweet?
 See her coming down the street!
 Now I ask you very confidentially,
 Ain’t she sweet?
 “Ain’t She Sweet?” (song) (1927)
- 2 The Last of the Red-Hot Mamas.
 Title of song (1928)
- 3 Happy days are here again!
 The skies above are clear again.
 Let us sing a song of cheer again,
 Happy days are here again!
 “Happy Days Are Here Again” (song) (1929)

Yevgeny Yevtushenko

Russian poet, 1933–2017

- 1 No Jewish blood runs among my blood,
 But I am as bitterly and hardily hated
 By every anti-Semite
 As if I were a Jew. By this
 I am a Russian.
 “Babi Yar” (1961)

Rafael Yglesias

U.S. writer, 1954–

- 1 People don’t so much believe in God as that they choose not to believe in nothing.
Fearless ch. 17 (1993)

Andrew Young

U.S. politician and civil rights leader, 1932–

- 1 Nothing is illegal if one hundred businessmen decide to do it.
 Quoted in Paul Dickson, The Official Explanations
 (1980)

Brigham Young

U.S. religious leader, 1801–1877

- 1 [Remark upon first seeing the Great Salt Lake valley, 24 July 1847:] This is the right place.
 Quoted in Wilford Woodruff, The Utah Pioneers
 (1880)

Edward Young

English poet and playwright, 1683–1765

- 1 Life is the desert, life the solitude;
 Death joins us to the great majority.
The Revenge act 4 (1721)
See Richard Nixon 10; Petronius 2
- 2 Be wise with speed;
 A fool at forty is a fool indeed.
The Love of Fame Satire 2, l. 282 (1725–1728)
- 3 One to destroy, is murder by the law;
 And gibbets keep the lifted hand in awe;
 To murder thousands, takes a specious name,
 “War’s glorious art,” and gives immortal fame.
The Love of Fame Satire 7, l. 55 (1725–1728)
See Porteus 1; Jean Rostand 1
- 4 Procrastination is the thief of time.
Night Thoughts “Night 1” l. 393 (1742–1745)
- 5 Too low they build, who build beneath the stars.
Night Thoughts “Night 8” l. 215 (1742–1745)

Michael Young

English sociologist, 1915–2002

- 1 Today we frankly recognize that democracy can be no more than aspiration, and have rule not so much by the people as by the cleverest people; not an aristocracy of birth, not a plutocracy of wealth, but a true meritocracy of talent.
The Rise of the Meritocracy ch. 1 (1958). Apparent coinage of the word meritocracy.

Neil Young

Canadian singer and songwriter, 1945–

- 1 Look at Mother Nature on the run
 In the nineteen seventies.
 “After the Gold Rush” (song) (1970)

- 2 Tin soldiers and Nixon coming,
We're finally on our own.
This summer I hear the drumming,
Four dead in Ohio.
"Ohio" (song) (1970)
- 3 My my, hey hey
Rock and roll is here to stay
It's better to burn out
Than to fade away.
"My My Hey Hey (Out of the Blue)" (song) (1978).
The last sentence was quoted by singer-songwriter
Kurt Cobain in his suicide note, 8 Apr. 1994.
See Richard Cumberland 1
- 4 Ain't singin' for Pepsi
Ain't singin' for Coke
I don't sing for nobody
Makes me look like a joke
This note's for you.
"This Note's for You" (song) (1988)
- 5 There's a warnin' sign on the road ahead
There's a lot of people sayin' we'd be better off
dead
Don't feel like Satan, but I am to them
So I try to forget it, any way I can.
Keep on rockin' in the free world.
"Rockin' in the Free World" (song) (1989)
- 6 There's one more kid that will never go to school
Never get to fall in love, never get to be cool.
"Rockin' in the Free World" (song) (1989)

Rida Johnson Young

U.S. songwriter, 1869–1926

- 1 Ah, sweet mystery of life
At last I found thee.
"Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life" (song) (1910)

Thomas Young

English physicist, physician, and philologist,
1773–1829

- 1 Radiant light consists in Undulations of the Luminiferous Ether.
"On the Theory of Light and Colors," Philosophical Transactions (1802)

- 2 Another ancient and extensive class of languages, united by a greater number of resemblances than can well be altogether accidental, may be denominated the Indo-european, comprehending the Indian, the West
Asiatic, and almost all the European languages.
"Adelung's Mithridates," Quarterly Review (1813).
Coinage of the term Indo-European for the most extensive family of languages.

Henny Youngman

U.S. comedian, 1906–1998

- 1 Take my wife . . . please.
Quoted in Chicago Daily Tribune, 14 June 1959.
In an interview in Eye, 17 Sept. 1992, Youngman recalled the origins of this, his trademark line: "My wife came in with several women at the last minute," Youngman says from his New York apartment, as he talks about the night he accidentally discovered the joke during an airing of Kate Smith's radio show. "I had got her tickets, and I said to the usher, "Take my wife, please." I meant get her in the audience, you know, and that stuck all these years."
- 2 When I read about the evils of drinking, I gave up reading.
Quoted in Rocky Mountain News, 15 July 1994

Marguerite Yourcenar

Belgian-born French-U.S. writer, 1903–1987

- 1 The true birthplace is that wherein for the first time one looks intelligently upon oneself; my first homelands have been books.
Memoirs of Hadrian (1951)
- 2 There is more than one kind of wisdom, and all are essential in the world; it is not bad that they should alternate.
Memoirs of Hadrian (1951)

Malala Yousafzai

Pakistani education activist, 1997–

- 1 So let us wage a glorious struggle against illiteracy, poverty, and terrorism, let us pick up our books and our pens, they are the most powerful weapons.
Speech to United Nations General Assembly, New York, N.Y., 12 July 2013

Arnold Zack

U.S. lawyer, 1931–

- 1 No one on his deathbed ever said, “I wish I had spent more time on my business.”
Quoted in Paul Tsongas, Heading Home (1984)

Jan Zamojski

Polish general and statesman, 1542–1605

- 1 [Advice to King Sigismund III:] Reign, but do not govern!
Speech to Polish Diet, 1605. In 1830 French politician Adolphe Thiers introduced into French politics the phrase “The king neither administers nor governs, he reigns.”

Israel Zangwill

English playwright and novelist, 1864–1926

- 1 Scratch the Christian and you find the pagan—spoiled.
Children of the Ghetto bk. 2, ch. 6 (1892)
- 2 America is God’s Crucible, the great Melting-Pot where all the races of Europe are melting and reforming!
The Melting-Pot act 1 (1908). This passage popularized the term melting pot in the sense of an amalgamation of peoples (an earlier usage with this meaning occurs in the New York Times, 2 Sept. 1889).
See Baudouin 1; Jimmy Carter 3; Crèvecoeur 1; Ralph Ellison 2; Victoria Hayward 1; Jesse Jackson 1

Frank Zappa

U.S. rock musician and songwriter, 1940–1993

- 1 Valley Girl.
Title of song (1982)

- 2 Rock journalism is people who can’t write interviewing people who can’t talk for people who can’t read.

Quoted in Toronto Star, 24 Sept. 1977

- 3 Politics is the entertainment branch of industry.

Quoted in Keyboard, Feb. 1987

Robert Zemeckis

U.S. film director, 1952–

- 1 Back to the Future.

Title of motion picture (1985). Coauthored with Bob Gale.

Warren Zevon

U.S. singer and songwriter, 1947–2003

- 1 He’s the hairy-handed gent who ran amuck in Kent

Lately he’s been overheard in Mayfair

Better stay away from him

He’ll rip your lungs out, Jim

I’d like to meet his tailor

Werewolves of London.

“Werewolves of London” (song) (1975). Cowritten with Leroy P. Marinell and Robert Wachtel.

- 2 I’ll Sleep When I’m Dead.

Title of song (1976). This has become associated with Zevon but appeared much earlier in Charles Yale Harrison, Clarence Darrow (1931), quoting a ca. 1923 remark by Darrow himself.

- 3 Send lawyers, guns, and money, the shit has hit the fan.

“Lawyers, Guns, and Money” (song) (1978)

- 4 [On his terminal illness:] I might have made a tactical error in not going to a physician for twenty years.

The Late Show with David Letterman (television program), 30 Oct. 2002

Quoted in Boston Globe, 18 Apr. 1973

Émile Zola

French novelist, 1840–1902

1 I am little concerned with beauty or perfection. I don't care for the great centuries. All I care about is life, struggle, intensity. I am at ease in my generation.
My Hates (1866)

2 A work of art is a corner of creation seen through a temperament.
My Hates (1866)

3 La vérité est en marche; rien ne peut plus l'arrêter.
Truth is on the march and nothing can stop it.
Le Figaro, 25 Nov. 1897

4 J'accuse.
I accuse.

Title of open letter to president of French Republic, L'Aurore, 13 Jan. 1898. Georges Clemenceau later asserted that he gave the title to Zola's letter. The letter concerned the "Dreyfus affair."
